FOURTEEN YEAR OLD ARTHUR HUNT DROWNED NEAR WOLFE ST. WHARF

In Presence of Some Three Hundred People Youngster Loses His Life in Otonabee

HIS CHUM RESCUED

By Quick Action of R. A. Castle---Conflicting Stories as to How the Accident Occured.

Arthur Hunt, fourteen years old, of 493 Sherbrooke street, was drowned last night shortly after 8 o'clock in the Otonabee River at Wolfe street wharf, and Harold Saunders, twelve years of age, of 179 Sherbrooke street, was saved from meeting the same fate by quick action on the part of Mr. R .A. Castle, driver for the Geo. Matthews Company, who went to his rescue in a canoe.

The accident occurred in the presence of at least three hundred people as the steamer Lintonia was about to leave the dock for a moonlight excursion under the auspires of the Chosen Friends and the Peterborough Piccolo Band.

There are several different and conflicting stories as to how the sad fatality happened, and it is hard to sift the different accounts in order to arrive at the real manner in which young Hunt lost his life. The boy, who was saved, Harold Saunders, states positively to the Examiner that he and Hunt fell into the river from a wood-scow moored to the dock. He said last night and repeated this morning that when the Steamer Lintonia started to move out they rushed out on the scow to watch the departure of the steamer, and while running along the deck side by side they tripped over a rope and were precipitated into the water.

This statement conflicts with the evidence of eye-witnesses of the affair. Mr. Archie Barbeau, of the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company, was standing on the end of the scow when the accident happened. He stated that he distinctly saw the boys on a raft and saw them falling off. He saw nothing of them on the scow, and it was hardly possible that they could have run across and fallen off either without his seeing them.

Mr. R. A. Castle, who rescued Saunders, and who knows him, told the Examiner this morning that the boys were on a raft made of railway ties. His story is quite clear. He says he saw them on the raft and also saw them washed off by the wave from the stern of the "Lintonia" as the steamer moved along the dock.

An Examiner representative was among the crowd on the dock and was an eye witness of the accident. His story coincides with that of other onlookers in that he says the boys were undoubtedly sailing around on a raft.

The "Lintonia" was hauled up about fifteen feet south of a barge load of wood and directly in front of her was the steamer "Otonabee." The steamer "Stoney Lake" was moored at the south end of the wharf, and between her and the "Otonabee" was the "Monarch." About half an hour before the accident occurred, the Monarch steamed out, and the Otonabee was hauled in close to the wharf.

Spectators Noticed Some Boys.

Sailing around on a raft built of three railway ties, with a few boards placed crosswise and a box on them, according to information given by the parents of Harold Saunders, the rescued boy, they went down to the river about seven o'clock. Of course their parents were ignorant of the fact that they were in danger, and felt

NINETEEN PEOPLE KILLED IN RAILWAY COLLISION

Passenger Train Crashed Into Rear End Of The Chicago-Montreal Grand Trunk Express Cutting Pullman In Two and Imprisoning the Passengers---Horror of Fire Follows the Wreck.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

DURAND, MICH., AUG. 25.—A horrible accident, involving the death of nineteen people, occurred four miles east of here early to-day.

Grand Trunk passenger train, No. 4, going at full speed, crashed into the rear end of the Chicago-Montreal Grand Trunk express. The Pullman, at the rear of the express, was cut in half and its twenty passengers hopelessly entrapped, nineteen losing their lives. The horror of fire followed fast upon the collision. The wreckage caught fire and when dawn broke was burning fiercely. It was not possible to reach all the bodies in the car and portions of the remains, which could not be rescued, could be seen dropping down into the embers, by the horrified survivors, who had to stand idly by and watch the grim work of the flames It was one of the most awful calamities in the history of this district.

Stopped For Repairs.

The Montreal express from Chicago, consisting of nine coaches and running as train 14, stopped at Duffield four miles east to make some repairs to the locomotive. Engineer George Mitchell, was under his engine when the crash came and was seriously injured. His fireman, Geo. Nelson, has been brought here this morning, fatally scalded. Brakeman G. N. Graham, of Detroit, had been sent to the rear of 14 to post danger signals. He says he did so, but will not commit himself as to the rear lights of train. He has been brought here pending the investigation of the wreck.

Was Making Up Time.

Engineer Chas. Spencer, of Passenger No. 4, was running fast to make up a few lost minutes. He declares he put on brakes and reversed as soon as he heard the torpedo placed on the tracks to warn him, but that it was too late. He says No. 14 had no tail lights. His fireman is missing and is thought to be dead. No. 4 ploughed through the rear pullman like a stick through sand, and the passengers had no chance for their lives. It is said here that both crews, excepting the engine crews, were strike-breakers held over by the Grand Trunk.

One of the Survivors.

One survivor here is Clinton A. Davis, 226 Stanley street, Montreal. He was en route from Fargo, N.D. with his mother, who was an invalid and a trained nurse. Davis states that both of these were burned to death in the fire and their bodies could not be recovered. He is burned about the face and cut in several places, but the physicians think he will recover.

J. H. Stedymire, coloured porter on Pullman coach, Nebraska, which was the one that was hit, says he is not sure how many were in the coach. He was in the forward part of the train when the crash came and was uninjured. R. W. Lewis, newspaperman, from Pada, Ky., with four other men, was in the front coach of the wrecked train when the collision came. They were all thrown into a heap. As soon as they were able to get out, they started back to the rear of the train and assisted in removing the injured and bodies that could be recovered, and in fiercely fighting the flames that were quickly making it impossible to ever know the complete cost of wreck in human lives.

Rescuers Burned.

Rescuers blistered their whole bodies taking out the headless body of a man. It was badly burned, but it is thought it can be identified. Also they got out the body of a woman burned to a crisp. It is thought she can never be identified. Those bodies still in the blazing furnace, are thought to have been persons sleeping in upper berths and whose escape was doubly cut off.

As all killed, except the trainmen, were asleep in their berths, their identification is extremely difficult on account of the absence of clothing. It will be days before their identification is fully established, as relatives will probably have to come from all points to make identification.

Twenty-three Dead.

LONDON, ONT., Aug. 25.—The crew of No. 4 passenger, through from Durand, say that the dead total twenty-three, many of whom are burned beyond recognition.

Fire Bug Tries To Wipe Out Lindsay's Business Section

Special to The Examiner.

Lindsay, August 25.—Lindsay people were bady excited and worked up over the attempt of some person or persons to wipe out the business section of the town early this morning by incendiary methods.

That such an attempt has been made is certain. At 12.20 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the rear of Dr. Smith's residence on Russell street, and the brigade responded. While at work fighting this blaze another fire was started about seven yards to the east in a barn at the rear of Dr. Brown's home belonging to St. Mary's church. The firemen had to divide their attention between the two conflagrations. A little later a fire was averted in the sheds belonging to John O'Donoghue on York street, but this was discovered in time. There was a strong smell of coal oil about the premises. The roof of McGahey's livery barn caught fire, but the blaze was extinguished before any damage could be done.

The fire bug had chosen his localities well as the fires had been started in places surrounded by frame buildings which might easily have been the starting point for a conflagration that would have destroyed most of the business portion of the town. There was a very high wind blowing and the sparks were carried a long distance on the gale, making the fires even more dangerous than under ordinary conditions.

There is no doubt in anyone's mind but that some person has made a deliberate attempt to destroy the property in the centre of the town, and there is general indignation among the citizens. There is so far absolutely no clue as to the identity of the guilty party or parties and no suspicions rest on anybody as yet.

Special to The Examiner.

WELLAND, AUG. 25. — Wellandport, a small village, twenty miles west of here, was swept by fire early this morning. Nearly half the place is in ashes and the loss is in the neighbourhood of $40,000 dollars. The blaze is thought to have originated from gas lights in grocery stores.

JUDICIOUS CRITICISM.

It is a good thing for the taxpayer to take an interest in the administration of civic affairs; but that interest should be sympathetic and helpful, not merely antagonistic, and querulous. The letter of "Taymayer" appearing in a local contemporary is an example in some respects, of an interest in civic matters.

That there is reason to complain of the burden of taxation is to be admitted, but any some drastic re-arrangement of our financial affairs is called for will not be denied; but an unlimited and unqualified attack on our Industrial Commissioner is to be deprecated. The Examiner has no brief to defend him from attack, but the principle of fair play would suggest that trial should precede condemnation. He has, it is true, been some months in office, but it must be remembered that no harvest follows at once on the sowing of the seed. The foundation must be laid and the conditions created that will place him in a position, as industrial representative of the city, to present inducements that will attract industries. If after fair opportunity presented he does not bring results, the question of his usefulness becomes a live matter of discussion. There are many factors in the situation which renders Peterborough an attractive location for industries. The chief fatcors are good sites and reasonably cheap power; but low taxation, comfortable condition of finances, good streets, attractive public places, clean, tidy streets and a general air of homefulness and comfort are no insignificant element in attracting population, which is the necessary accompaniment of industrial expansion.

There are, however, many things in relation to our civic affairs that are subject to improvement. The Examiner has frequently pointed out that the lack of application of system to the adminstration of our streets, has been the cause of no little waste, in the form of ineffective results from expenditures made under conditions characterized by hap-hazard methods, and perhaps a little investigation would reveal that lack of system and failure to exercise the most scrupulous supervision might in part account for growing expenditures, whose results do not quite measure up to expectations. The present council, is not to be held exclusively accountable for the outcome of conditions that have prevailed year after year for years. They are largely inheritors of the system or lack of system that has, independently of the personnel of our city councils, almost automatically operated to the general disadvantage of city interests.

QUEBEC POLITICS AND FINANCE.

Canadians outside of Quebec will learn with pleasure, irrespective of party feeling, that the finances of that Province are in a very satisfactory condition. The receipts for the financial year were $6,554,938, and the expenditures totalled $5,509,790. This leaves a surplus of nearly a million dollars on the service of the year.

Ordinarily the existence of a surplus is to be deprecated if it arises from excessive taxation; but the sources of revenue of Quebec, like the sources of the revenue of Ontario, are fixed and then the surplus may mean economy in expenditure. Evidently the government, unlike its old time predecessors, has determined to keep the outlay within the amount of the income. It is a good policy to adopt and to practise.

So long as Sir Lomer Gouin can make such a satisfactory financial showing so long he will be able to keep Mr. Bourassa hovering around him a Peri at the gates of Paradise, unable to get more than a glimpse of administrative office. The transformation that has taken place in Quebec is a very remarkable one. In the old days of Chapleau, Angers, and others of their class, the finances of the Province were chronically disordered, but the men were kept in office by the "Nationalists," which was simply a party supported by the clergy and the heirarchy on religious grounds. Mr. Bourassa is now the Nationalist leader, and he will have to depend on the clergy for support if he is ever to get into power.

The enlargement of the Province of Quebec by the addition to it of the greater part of the Labrador peninsula will probably increase the revenue of the country, but it will also entail increased expenditures of various sorts, especially in connection with the administration of justice. Meanwhile Sir Lomer Gouin and his colleagues have raised Quebec to a high administrative and financial level, and the people of the other Provinces will join in hoping it may always be able to remain on the higher plane.

EARL GREY AND CANADA.

It has been authentically announced that Earl Grey has been asked by the British Government to remain a second year beyond his original five-year term, and that he has consented to do so. The intention is both interesting and important.

The people of Canada have become accustomed to the present Governor-General, and have learned to like him. He has been restlessly and incessantly active in making himself acquainted with the character of the country, with the working of its institutions, with the pursuits and recreations of the people and with their relations of various sorts to our neighbours of the United tSates. A new governor has all these to learn, and some governors never learn them. For that reason they will be pleased to have Earl Grey as long as he cares to stay.

Just now he is engaged in a highly interesting tour to Hudson Bay by way of the Nelson River from Lake Winnipeg. He is preceded on the route by a detachment of mounted police and no country on earth can furnish a more efficient guard. They are capable, respectable, skilful, and alert. They can pitch tents, improvise meals, extemporize appliances, and supplement a larder with the most expert tourists, and they are good companions to travel with.

So far as news of the trip has come out to the front it is clear that Earl Grey will be received everywhere with heartfelt good-will for himself and loyalty to the king he represents. It would be strange to find that subtle feeling of duty to a sovereign so far out in the wilderness were it not for the presence everywhere of the Hudson Bay Company. That wonderful organization exercises an all pervading influence, and its constant lesson, inculcated for more than two hundred years on the Indian tribes, has been that the Company derives its authority from the King of Great Britain. The Indians will be all the better for the break made in the monotony of their lives by Earl Grey's visit.

FOURTEEN YEAR OLD ARTHUR HUNT DROWNED

no anxiety about them, until they learned of the terrible accident.

The excursionists who were going down on the Piccolo Band and Chosen Friends' Moonlight on the Lintonia, were all crowding on to the boat, and when the hour came for her to leave, it proved that she was too small for the number of pleasure-seekers, and rather than leave any behind it was decided that the people should be transferred to the Otonabee. It was at this stage of the proceedings that the accident occurred.

The Examiner reporter, who was present, says that the youngsters were paddling up stream, directly east of the rear of the Lintonia, and only about fifteen feet from the propeller. When the steamer started to move down beside the Otonabee, the waves from her propeller washed the boys into the water.

Saw the Accident.

Mr. Archibald Barbeau, of the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Co., was standing on the end of the scow and saw the accident occur. Some person said they were in bathing, and Mr. Barbeau called to them, but just then he saw one of them go down, and this one never rose to the surface after that.

Mr. R. Castle, who drives for the Geo. Matthews Co., saw what happened and threw a canoe, which was on the wharf, overboard, and jumped into it. He acted very quickly and managed to rescue Harold Saunders. Mr. Castle deserves much credit for his prompt action. No doubt the little fellow would have gone under had it not been for the quick work of Mr. Castle.

There were large numbers of people on the dock, and when they got word of the accident, there was almost a panic. Everybody ran to the edge of the dock and tried to catch a glimpse of the boys in the water, but at that time the boys were out of sight. A large number of the ladies were crying, and the men were all giving orders and wondering why the other fellow didn't do something, and a general mix-up ensued.

The Lintonia, at this time, had drawn up alongside the Otonabee, and the excursionists were climbing through the windows and over the railing, narrowly averting further accidents. A great number of the excursionists got off the boat altogether and refused to go on the trip, they were so frightened over the unfortunate occurrence.

After the people were transferred the Lintonia was backed up into her old position and the Otonabee took the excursionists down the river; it was nearly nine o'clock, however, before they got started.

Saunders' Story.

When a representative of the Examiner called at the home of Harold Saunders, the boy who was rescued, this morning, the little fellow answered the ring himself and told the story of the accident—directly in conflict, as will be noticed, with the accounts of the on-lookers.

"Arthur Hunt was the only boy who went down to the wharf with me," he said. "About a quarter to 8 he called at the house and asked me to go out and have some fun. We started out, and hearing the music down at the wharf, went down to see the boat go out. We were standing on the wharf when the Lintonia started out and we ran out on the scow so we could see better. We fell over a rope and both fell in the water. I saw three boys on a raft just before we fell in."

What Castle Says.

Mr. Castle, the rescuer of Saunders, when seen by an Examiner reporter this morning, related the following story of the drowning accident:

"I intended to go down on the moonlight excursion and that is how I happened along. The Lintonia, from what I understand, was overloaded and the people were being transferred from it to the wharf and then to the Otonabee. As the Lintonia backed water a little the waves from the rudder washed the two lads into choppy waves. When they slipped in I immediately started to take off my coat, but seeing a canoe there I ran it into the water and made for the youngsters. They were at least sixty feet from the shore, and supposing they were excellent swimmers it would have been a marvellous feat for them to gain shore as the dock was lined with boats, some moving. Getting to the spot where they were I caught Saunders by the hair and pulled him up as he was going down for the third time. The other was tugging with the raft. After holding Saunders by the hair I tried to get him to hold the side of the canoe, but his hands were similar to boards, not being the least bit flexible. Putting my hand to the other side of the canoe to balance, I permitted Saunders' body to lower a little and his chin rested on the side. I caught hold of his trousers and put him in the canoe. Though that may appear long, it was transacted in less time than it takes to tell. I curved the canoe a little to get hold of the other poor lad, when he suddenly disappeared beneath the surface. After bringing Saunders to safety, I went to the raft and there I found the boots of the youngster who was drowned. I am not sure of his name.

When asked what kind of a raft it was, Mr. Castle repied that it was made from three cedar ties and that one could see it for themselves, as it was still near the wharf."

As soon as it was known that a drowning had occurred, search parties cimmenced to look for the body and kept at the work until it was finally recovered at 12.30 o'clock last night by Messrs. Frank Frost, Samuel Faye and James Cowie, the latter of whom Hunt boarded. The body was taken to Comstock's undertaking establishment and the funeral will take place from there to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Arthur Hunt, the victim of the fatality, was fourteen years of age, and was born in England. He had no relatives in this country. His mother is dead and his father, who brought him out to Canada, returned to England from Peterborough some time ago, leaving Arthur here. He had been boarding with Mr. Cowie, 493 Sherbrooke street, and was employed at the George Matthews Company.

It was feared for some time that two boys had been drowned. It was thought that there were three on the raft and many people left the scene under the impression that the fatality had been a double one.

THE TRIP OF THE SEASON

The Steamer "Otonabee" will leave Wolfe St. wharf at 8 a. m. on Saturday, August 27th, for Lindsay, arriving there in ample time to connect with the afternoon train for Peterborough. Meals served on board. Return tickets, including Railroad, $1.25. This will probably be the last trip of the season to Lindsay. 4d-44

The regular meeting of the local court will be held to-night.

WHY SLEEP IS NECESSARY

During sleep nature restores the cells and tissues wasted by the activities of life. Without sleep physical bankruptcy is quick and certain. Mrs. J. Derocher, 485 Bethune street, Peterborough, Ont., writes: "I can say for a certainty that Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food is a splendid medicine, for, besides steadying the nerves it built up my system wonderfully and enabled me to sleep and eat well."

Miss Reid of Madoc, who has been visiting Miss Mary Gall, returned home Thursday.

The Village Improvement Society are asking for tenders for the opening up of the drain on the east side of High street, the removal of the old tile and the putting in of large cement tile. It will be a great convenience to the residents on the East side of High street, when the new tile is put in, as the present tile are too small to carry off the surface water in the spring thaw, or in a heavy rain storm, with the consequence that every thaw or rainstorm flooded their cellars.

Master George Read of Peterborough, is the guest of his aunt, Miss Bessie Read.

Mr. Jay Cummings, who has been spending his holidays with relatives in Keene and Peterborough, left for his home in Chicago last week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cameron of Asphodel, spent Sunday in Keene, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Weir of Peterborough, have returned home from visiting friends in Otonabee.

Master Willie Read of Peterborough is the guest of his aunt, Mrs. J. R. McIntyre.

Messrs Michael O'Keefe and F. A. Eason attended Cobourg Horse Show Thursday.

With regard to the misunderstanding that occurred in the Otonabee Agricultural Society's Feld Crop Competition award, Mr. A. Shearer, the secretary of the society, has received the following letter from the Department of Agriculture:

Mr. Andrew Shearer, Secretary Otonabee Agricultural Society, Keene, Ont.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Casselman has forwarded us your letter of August 12, inst. There has been no mistake as far as this department is concerned. According to Mr. Casselman's score card, the list of winners is exactly in accord with those sent you. It is rather remarkable that he should find three fields all scoring exactly the same, but it seems Mr. Casselman found them exactly as stated. The best we can do for you is send you the thirty dollars and your directors can arrange the matter as they think best.

Yours faithfully,
J. LOCKIE WILSON.

It is likely that the Society will divide the total amount of the third fourth and fifth prizes equally among the three contestants that took third place, all three scoring an equal number of points, and that those whose names appeared as winning fourth and fifth places, will receive no prize money.

Mr. Christopher Howson of Keene, was fortunate in winning the first prize in the Peterborough Agricultural Society's field crop competition for a field of oats scoring 91½ points and getting fifteen dollars, prize money.

The Otonabee Agricultural Society have not, as yet, issued their prize-list, but it will likely be received from the press in the course of a few days, when it will be distributed among the members. The fair will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, October 4th and 5th. The financial state of the society, which has improved greatly during the last few years, is enabling them to offer a better list of prizes each year with consequent larger lists of entries, better exhibits and better attendance. So that one who has not attended Keene fair for a few years would be surprised to see the improvement that has been effected in every department.

Messrs. Duncan McGregor and Roland Weir drove to Cobourg last week to attend the horse show.

Mr. Vanstone, who has been acting manager of the local branch of the Bank of Toronto, in Mr. Smith's absence left Thursday for Walkerville.

Mr. Percy Pue's many friends in Keene will be interested to know that he was fortunate in securing a position in the Queen's Own contingent that went to the Old Country and that he is now on his way to England.

Miss Lillie Wedlock has secured a position in Messrs. Anderson and Skinner's store and commenced duties this week.

Nervous Headache
AND MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM DISAPPEARED WHEN THE NERVES WERE RESTORED BY
DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Feeble, wasted, starved nerves often make their condition known by nervous headaches. This was one of the first and most marked symptoms.

If you are at all subject to rheumatism you have noticed how much worse it gets when the system gets run down.

Both nervous headache and muscular rheumatism disappear when Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is used to rebuild and revitalize the wasted and weakened body.

Mr. James Riley, moulder for the Waterous Engine Co., 46 Jarvis St., Brantford, Ont., writes: "I suffered for years with muscular rheumatism and as I also had frequent and severe attacks of nervous headache I concluded that the trouble came from the nerves and began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. As I continued this treatment the rheumatism was gradually driven out of the system, my nerves got stronger and steadier and the headaches disappeared. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food a splendid nerve regulator and health builder."

You cannot possibly make a mistake in using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food when the nervous system gets run down, for, by forming new, rich, blood this great food cure builds up the nerve cells as nothing else can.

When you have made up your mind to test this treatment, go at it in earnest and keep at it regularly until you feel again the joy of health and vigour.

APSLEY ITEMS OF INTEREST

Special to The Examiner.

APSLEY, AUG. 24.—A grand picnic under the auspices of the North Star No. ——, L. T. B. Lodge, was held at Couch's Landing Loon Lake, on Friday and proved to be one of the most successful of its kind. It was a free picnic, every family being supposed to bring their own basket with an ample supply for any strangers from a distance. The ladies of this locality being noted for their good [illegible] all sorts of delicacies filled the tables. Swings were put up for the children and any adults who cared to be swung, gentlemen were always on hand to do the swinging. A saloon and dancing platform was on the grounds. Speeches were delivered by Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P., and the local clergy, Rev. C. Lord, Rev. H. Garbutt, C. Soules.

We were pleased to have the above gentlemen with us and also Mr. G. Bennett, of North Monaghan. The speeches being over races of all kinds were held. The following persons were winners in the respective races:

Old maids' race—1 Mattie Bullied, 2 Dovie Mann, 3 Marion McPherson.

Men's race—1 M. Lean, 2 Jos. Bullied, 3 Harry Masters.

Boys between 12 and 15—1 Arnold Whitmore, 2 Oliver McIlvena.

Married ladies' race—1 Mrs. R. Tanner, 2 Mrs. W. Staples and Mrs. E. Tucker.

Girls between 12 and 15—1 Myrtle Windsor, 2 Edith Tucker, 3 Esther Phillips.

Little girls' race—1 Ruby Hales, 2 Ruby Winslow, 3 Mollie Johnston.

Prizes were given in cash to the winners of the races.

All the local photographers were also on the ground, so that nearly every person had the pleasure of being photographed, which they may hold as a souvenir of the day. The weather being superb many enjoyed a sail on the lake.

The L. T. B. lodge are to be congratulated on the success of the picnic.

Miss Edith Tucker, who has been visiting friends here returned to Warsaw.

Miss McGrath, of Westwood, Miss M. McGuire, of Hastings and Miss Marguerite Walsh, of Peterborough, were guests at "Eelsview Villa."

Miss T. Mann, of Lindsay, who has been visiting friends in Anstruther returned to that place on Monday last.

The Ladies' Aid Society purpose holding a conundrum special at an early date.

Mr. Percy Gilroy has been engaged as teacher in No. 1, Anstruther and took charge of that school on Monday last.

Mr. Bert Lean is visiting friends at Port Hope.

Mr. Duncan Brown and family attended the funeral of the former's father in Peterborough last week. Mr. Brown was one of the early residents of this locality and it is with deep regret that we learn of his demise.

Mr. Harry Masters, of Montreal, is visiting at his home here.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron.

Can you talk small talk?
If you can, be thankful.
If you can't, suppose you learn to.
I don't believe you will regret the effort.

t is splendid to be able to talk well and deep and important subjects, but that ability does not by any means do away with the need of being able to talk lightly and easily on unimportant subjects. And the man or woman who considers that it does and despises small talk, I think makes a great mistake.

Small talk is the small coin of social intercourse, and as such no one can afford to be without it.

It is splendid to have a wallet stuffed full of twenty and fifty dollar bills and big checks, but it is decidedly inconvenient to have no small change.

Yes, of course, one would prefer to have the bills and do without the small change to having things the other way around, but why not have both?

Some years ago a young newspaper man of decided genius, a brilliant conversationalist when talking on some of his favoourite subjects, came to call on me.

I introduced him to my mother, and what do you suppose his first remark after the "Pleased to meet you," was?

"Would you like to know my idea of the universe?"

And forthwith he expounded it to her.

Imagine it.

His idea of the universe was rather original and worth hearing, to be sure, but wasn't his offering it as an opening remark about as absurd as passing your newsboy a hundred dollar check to pay for your morning paper?

Now I certainly wouldn't want that man to lose one bit of his originality and depth of thought, or the least idea of his ability to talk fascinatingly on deep subjects, but I do think it would smooth his future path for him if he could learn to talk small talk on occasions.

To be able to talk witty and sparkling small talk is a fine art—a genius before which I bow in deep admiration.

I listen to people who can do that with the same enjoyment with which I watch a game of tennis between skilful players.

That, however, is a gift. We cannot all possess it.

But by conscientiously forcing ourselves to practice it whenever occasion arises, I think we can learn to talk decently creditable small talk.

And don't you think that's worth while?

DEW'S DAWDLING COST IN NEIGHBORHOOD OF $25000

So Says "Tay Pay" O'Connor in His Weekly-Criticises Sherlock Holmes of Scotland Yard.

SOME SARCASM

M. A. P. (T. P. O'Connor's paper) has this to say of Inspector Dew:

"With Inspector Dew in his private capacity, the public is not concerned. The information recently given to the world that he is domesticated and musical leaves the world still breathing. But Inspector Dew stands for the Criminal Investigation Department, New Scotland Yard, and their methods, and as such he is an absorbing picture, the more so that he has cost the country almost the price of an Old Master.

"Very briefly to recapitulate the facts of the case, Mrs. Crippen disappeared on or about January 31st, 1910. To her friends, her husband told an unconvincing story of her death in America.

"On June 25th these friends communicated their suspicions to Scotland Yard. Scotland Yard apparently were not much impressed. Anyway, the actual conduct of the case was handed over to Inspector Dew, an officer of good record but of no particular distinction.

DEW'S "DAZZLING" DAWDLING

"Acting with almost dazzling rapidity, Inspector Dew calls on Crippen on July 8th—ten days later.

"To an ordinary man the advantage to be gained by putting Crippen on his guard is not quite plain. A sense of fair play is all very well, but to indicate to a man that he is suspected of murder is perhaps carrying our idea of 'giving a man a chance' too far.

"Crippen has a pleasant chat with Dew, tells him another and a more plausible tale to account for Belle Elmore's disappearance, shows him over the house, and even takes him down to the fatal cellar, where the eagle eyes of the sleuth-hound of the law—do sleuth-hounds have eagle eyes?—detect nothing suspicious.

"Crippen promises not to run away, but in a very caddish manner, breaks his word and bolts next day, accompanied by Miss Le Neve.

"Crippen bolted on July 9th; it was not until July 11th that Inspector Dew, by a brilliant piece of detective work, discovered that the bird had flown.

WEEK'S WEARY WAIT

"Apparently the police had a touching faith in Crippen, and expected him to return.

"Then, nearly a week later Crippen had disappeared, the hue and cry was raised.

"Meanwhile, Dew, the indefatigable, was here, there, and everywhere that the wanted couple were not.

"It does not seem to have occurred to the authorities that Brussels, during Exhibition time, would be a likely hiding-place for a fugitive.

"Crippen played the game. He did everything that untrained intelligence might expect him to do. He went to Brussels.

"It is an axiom in criminology that a hunted man usually makes for the scene of his childhood.

"Crippen followed the rule, and tried to return to his native America by way of Canada, and he very nearly succeeded.

"DEW ON DUTY"

"True, he came on board at Antwerp; but a mere layman may be pardoned for thinking that within two days Scotland Yard might have had every port by which Crippen could join a boat bound for North or South America effectively watched. Then the captain of the Montrose sent a message to the effect that Crippen was on board his ship.

"At last Inspector Dew got going.

"Apparently acting under instructions he hurled himself into a train and caught the Laurentic.

"Hundreds of business men do this sort of thing every week; but Scotland Yard detectives are not business men.

"Dew's dash for Liverpool stirred the country.

"The public felt that they were getting their money's worth out of the C. I. D.

"Crippen had hoodwinked Dew; obviously, therefore, Dew was the man to send after him.

"If there be any flaw in this logic, I can't find it—I am not a detective-inspector.

"Sherlock Holmes could hardly have effected the capture in neater fashion.

"The pilot disguise was worthy of the highest moments of Arsene Lupin; but here, again, the credit of it is due, not to Dew, but to Captain Kendall.

"Crippen has now been caught (thanks mainly to his own stupidity), after an expenditure of some $5,000 of public money, all of which could have been saved if Inspector Dew had taken the very ordinary precaution of having Crippen shadowed when hewas first suspected.

"Why such precautions were not taken must be explained, or public faith in the capacity of Scotland Yard will be seriously shaken."

SHOOTS AT BABY THEN ESCAPES OVER ROOFS

David Walsh Believed to be Maniac Chased Through Harlem After Attack.

MISSED THE CHILD

Special to The Examiner.

New York, Aug. 25.—All through Harlem last night the police searched long but in vain for David Walsh, believed to be a maniac with violent homicidal tendencies, while a special guard was stationed about the apartment house, No. 155 East 110th Street. Mrs. Walsh, the young wife of the supposed lunatic, spent the night in terror, fearing her husband might return and repeat the attempt to kill her, in which he failed early in the evening, through defective ammunition for his revolver. After leading the reserves of the East 104th Street station a long chase, Walsh escaped over the roofs of houses near 108th Street and Lexington Avenue.

Because of his violent conduct, which led her to believe that his mind was affected by the death of their infant child a few months ago, Mrs. Walsh separated from her husband, and aided by her mother, Mrs. Mary Connors, has frustrated several attempts by him to gain access to their home. When children were playing in the halls and on the stairs of the apartment building last evening, Walsh ascended to the second floor. He rang the bell of his wife's apartment and she went to the door, unconscious of the identity of her visitor.

"I'm going to kill you" were Walsh's words, according to the story told by Harry Cleary, ten years old, of No. 157 East 110th Street, who was playing almost at Walsh's feet. Walsh prevented his wife from closing the door, the boy said, by putting his foot over the sill and he twice pulled the trigger of a revolver as Mrs. Walsh fled screaming into another room. There were two clicks but no explosion.

Walsh calmly removed the cartridges which had missed fire and replaced them with others. He started down the stairs as the children screamed and ran. The Cleary boy picked up the discarded cartridges and followed him. At the first floor, where it was rather dark, Walsh met Anna Fiora, three years old, and it is supposed he mistook her for the little sister of his wife, who is of the same age.

"Well, I'll get the baby, anyhow," Walsh is reported to have said, and he fired a shot which perforated the baby's clothing under her arm, but left her unscathed. The child tumbled over in fright and Walsh seemed to think he had killed her, for he ran into the street.

Men were shouting, women screaming and every telephone in the neighborhood was in use calling police help. Policemen came running from all sides, and as Walsh reached 108th Street and Lexington Avenue he saw a squad coming from the East 104th Street station. He turned into an apartment house and went to the roof.

Just as a policeman reached the attic ladder in pursuit, Walsh locked the roof trap. Before the police could reach the roof by other means he had disappeared.

YOUTH AND BEAUTY

Women and Men are Anxious to Keep Young.

Nothing so detracts from the attractiveness of woman as dull, faded, lustreless hair.

There is no excuse for this condition nowadays, because notice is hereby given to the readers of the Examiner that Parisian Sage, the quick acting hair restorer, is now on sale in Peterborough at the drug store of Wm. Madill, and sold with a rigid guarantee at 50 cents a large bottle.

Since its introduction into Canada, Parisian Sage has had an immense sale, and here are the reasons:

It is safe and harmless.

It removes dandruff in two weeks, by killing the dandruff germ.

tI stops falling hair.

It promptly stops itching of the scalp.

It makes the hair soft, glossy and luxuriant.

It gives life and beauty to the hair.

It is not sticky or greasy.

It is the daintiest perfumed hair tonic made.

It is the best, the most pleasant and invigorating hair dressing made.

Fight shy of the druggist who offers you a substitute, he is unworthy of your confidence.

Made only in Canada by Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont. The girl with the auburn hair is on every package.

Homesteading In Alberta An Interesting Letter

The following interesting letter has been received from a former Peterborough resident, now living in Alberta. He has already sent a contribution to the Examiner and this second epistle will be read with interest:

"When a homesteader gets off the cars at Castor, if he has a carload of effects he has to unload the car as quickly as possible to save demurrage, and when I came through several people had unloaded their car and taken the things to a farmer's house, about seven miles out on the trail, south of Castor, and left there in his farm yard till they had time to take in the first load, and come back, as many people had five or six loads to take to their homestead, probably a trip of six to ten days for the return journey. A freighter on the trail told me some of the things had been in the yard since early Spring, and there was certainly the greatest assortmen of things possible to find—household furniture of every kind, and farm machinery of every description, all mixed up together, and exposed to the weather, as there was no shelter of any kind for anything. It is quite an experience for a new man on the trail; our outfit had three waggons and ten horses, and made the single trip in five days, camping out at night in a tent, always near water and grass for the teams, if possible. The horses are hobbled, and let run loose, but sometimes wander quite a distance in spite of the hobbler. There are also "stopping-houses" on the trail, where usually a good, plain meal can be got for 25 cents, in some cases 35 cents, or 50 cents, but generally beds also provided at the same price for those who may require them. Water is very scarce along the trail, at present, but this will improve as the land gets settled. The journey is very tiresome after the first day, as the spring seat is left behind on account of the load, and it is either a case of walk or ride on the top of the load, (usually 35 hundred or 2 tons) on a springless waggon, which is no joke on account of the ruts and badger holes in the trail. We passed several teams going in for loads, and were passed by several who were travelling faster than we were. The "word" is always: "Where are you to?" The usual reply is to give the address of the homestead which might be 36-29-9, etc.

"There are all kinds of teams and outfits on the trail, sometimes two horses, sometimes 3 or 4, and very often two oxen, or 3 or 4, as they travel fairly fast and haul as big loads as horses. We saw two or three steam plowing outfits on the way to break up large tracts of land, some going sixty miles, under their own steam."

The next letter will deal with the "Homesteader's Shack."

"T."

Now Fully Convinced That New York Harbour Has A Depth Of Forty Feet

Several days ago a man who had some knowledge of steamships, tried to tel another that the Lusitania when sailing, draws in the neighbourhood of thirty feet of water, but the man who never saw the boat, went a little further and declared that there was not thirty feet of water in New York harbour. Mr. J. J. Turner who heard the argument, thought he would convince the man by proving to him that the harbour contained over thirty-five feet of water and that the ship drew about thirty feet of water. In answer to an inquiry sent by Mr. Turner to the Marine Superintendent of the Cunard Steamship Company, Limited, the following letter was received by Messrs. J J. Turner & Sons:

Dear Sirs,—Re plying to yours of the 19th inst., concerning the draught of our steamers, Lusitania and Mauretania, I beg to state that these vessels leave the port drawing about thirty-five feet of water. By this I mean that the draught may be anything from 34 ft 9 in. to 35 feet. The minimum water in New York harbour is 40 feet at low water. This means, of course, in the main channels of the harbour. I may also mention that it is our aim to have these steamers leave the port drawing the same water fore and aft. It is seldom that we have a difference of more than one inch between the fore and aft draught.

Shall be pleased to reply to any further questions which you may care to ask, and remain.

Yours very truly,
R. J. ROBERTS,
Marine Supt.

It would be well to mention that the argument was indulged in after the men had a good look at the pictures of the ships in Mr. Turner's window.

The Fire Chiefs At Syracuse Chief Howard Is There

Special to The Examiner:

SYRACUSE, N.Y., AUG. 24.—Four hundred fire chiefs from every part of the United States and some from Canada are gathered here for the the thirty-eighth annual convention of fire engineers. Chief Croker of New York, was expected, but will not be here. He was down for one of the topics to be read: "High Pressure Fire Service; its Operation and Efficiency."

Chief Eli Bates, one of the first chiefs of New York's paid fire department, is the veteran of the convention. Assistant Chief Augustus Deering, of Honolulu is here, and for the first time that island is represented in the convention.

Chief Tremblay of Montreal, and Chief W. A. Howard of Peterborough, Ont., are among the prominent men from outside the States. Chief T. P. Purcell, of Dublin, Ireland, was expected, but was unable to secure his passage in time to get here. There is a large exhibition of fire apparatus, including many auto engines, which completely fills the great drill hall in the State armoury. This morning Mayor Edward Schoenck gave the Chiefs welcome, which was responded to by Chief G. W. Horton, of Baltimore, the president. This evening there will be a memorial service for dead members. The convention will be in session until Friday.

First Block Of Pavement In Lindsay Laid By Mayor

(Lindsay Post.)

This morning His Worship Mayor Begg had the honour of laying the first asphalt block on the new William street pavement.

The ceremony was witnessed by a good sized gathering of citizens. The block was handed to His Worship by Mr. R. Bangham, manager of the Ontario Asphalt Block Co., and he placed it in a position near Gregory's corner, declaring it "well and truly laid."

After the interesting ceremony the company's paver got to work, and it was remarkable to see the speed with which he performed his work. A number of small boys were engaged to keep him supplied with brick, and they had to hustle.

Mr. Bangham, sr., informed the Post to-day that a deputation of Peterborough council would visit Lindsay in the course of a few days to inspect the work, and also a delegation would likely be in town from Oshawa with the same objevt in view.

The work of laying the bricks was watched with interest during the day by a large number of citizens.

"THE PILLAR OF LIGHT" EXAMINER'S NEW STORY

The Examiner's new serial story will commence in Saturday's issue, and promises to be one of the most popular in the series of Examiner hits. For the next story Louis Tracy's fascinating "yarn of love and adventure," "The Pillar of Light," has been chosen and no hesitation is felt in offering to the serial-reading public of Peterborough a chance to read this story. There is no author writing to-day who has a wider circle of readers than Louis Tracy. Some of course, like one story better than another, but all agree that Tracy romances have no equal. "The Pillar of Light" shows Tracy at his best. It is better than "The Wings of the Morning," and is big in every way. Read the first few paragraphs of the instalment on Saturday and you will find that it is just the kind of story you have been looking for.

DAUGHTERS OF ERIN MAKE PRESENTATION TO MRS. POTTER

At the close of the prayer meeting of St. Andrew's church last evening a pleasant surprise was given Mrs. (Rev.) J. G. Potter when the Daughters of Erin presented her with a handsome combination silver fruit set. The affair took place at the residence of Mrs. Thomas Richardson, Cedar street, the presentation being made by Mrs. Hugh Waddell, the president of the society.

Mrs. Waddell in expressing the sentiments of her class, referred to their deep sorrow at the prospect of losing such a friend as Mrs. Potter had been in their missionary work. The members felt that they should show their appreciation of her zeal and untiring efforts. She hoped that Mrs. Potter would enjoy the greatest blessings in the future.

Mrs. Potter replied in a few suitable words. She thanked the members for their kind gift, but said such a gift was not necessary to assure her of their good will. She felt that the opportunity and privilege of taking part in church work had always been a sufficient reward. She would accept the gift as a tangible expression of the friendship of the Daughters of Erin and would prize it very much.

Refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour spent.

CHANGED IT'S NAME

"Outdoor Canada's" name changed to "The Athletic World. The August number of "The Athletic World," a new name for "Outdoor Canada" Magazine, has just been received at this office. Since this publication was taken over by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont., each issue has shown a marked improvement over its predecessor. Its change of policy to that of a national athletic periodical is this month carried out both in name and nature. Besides the change of title the size has been increased and the contents augmented. Judging by the August number, full as it is of good, up-to-date reading pertaining to things athletic, a conspicuous place is assured "The Athletic World" among the leading Canadion national publications.

Dr. English said yesterday that hereafterMoir would be treated as the criminal insane are treated in Matteawan, the New York asylum, in which Harry Thaw is incarcerated. This means that the murderer will be placed in o cell and will be virtually a prisoner. He is now locked in such a room, his hands handcuffed in front of him, and the only furniture is the mattress on which he lies when he tires of standing. Since his entry to experts declared at London he had shows no signs of insanity, medical experts declared ot London he had. MR. POTTER HAS BEEN MOST SUCCESSFUL AT PORT ARTHUR Sailors Institute Formed Through His Efforts There Was Formally Opened Last Week.

WELL KNOWN HERE

The Port Arthur Evening Chronicle of Saturday, Aug. 20, says:

In the absence of Mayor Matthews, through indisposition, His Honour Judge McKay presided at the inauguration ceremony of a new institution for Port Arthur last night.

The Upper Canada Tract Society is entirely responsible for running the institution, paying all expenses connected therewith, this was made very clear in an address delivered by Mr. Potter last night.

Mr. Potter said the room on the water front had been rented for four months at $40 a month and the whole of the rent had been met by local subscriptions; a sum of $250 had been expended on cleaning, painting and furnishing the room and this sum must also be defrayed by Port Arthur people The society paid all the working expenses, a missionary in charge, and everything involved in running the institution successfully.

Judge McKay and Dr. Murray delivered addresses in support of such an institution and at the conclusion it was decided that the chairman appoint a committee to see to the collection of the $250.

Messrs. John Ritchie, Frederick Urry and N. C. Lunan were appointed by the chairman and began their duties at once with the result that $46 was collected among the small audience in attendance.

The committee had decided to appeal through the local papers to the citizens to support this institution, and the Chronicle will receive and acknowledge donations to this end.

Mr. Potter reported that he had received promises from citizens of Port Arthur towards a permanent building for the sailors and longshoremen on the water front, amounting to $600, and in addition to this one gentleman in Ottawa had promised $100, and another in Montreal $25, and a third, in Toronto $500, so that there are already promises for such a building of more than $1,200.

Mr. Collins is the missionary in charge of the local work. Mr. Potter is leaving for the east next Tuesday and the heart of this veteran in the work of the sailors should be cheered by knowing that the work started in Port Arthur is free of debt.

As it is des irable that many should be interested in this work the committee appeal for small donations from many people rather than large donations from a few.

Mr. Potter, who is the father of Rev. J. G. Potter, is well known in Peterborough, and his many friends will be glad to learn of the success achieved in Port Arthur.

EYE WITNESS TELLS HOW DAVID THOMPSON LOST HIS LIFE

Attempted to Stop Car and Remove it From the Track—Man Who Accompanied Him Jumped When Train Came in View.

BODY MUTILATED

More extensive particulars concerning the accident, in which David Thompson, a man about forty-five years of age, met his death, near Burketon, was received to-day by the Examiner from a young man who witnessed the results of the accident, and learned the cause. It appears Mr. Thompson, in company with another man, was riding on a small hand car, which is more generally known to railroad men as a "jigger,, when they beheld a train coming towards Burketon Junction. The man who accompanied Mr. Thompson, jumped from the car, but he remained thinking he could stop the car and get it off the track. It was down grade and it was impossible to stop it, so it clashed into the fast moving C. P. R. train which arrived in Peterborough about twenty minutes to twelve. There is a "Y" in the track several feet farther than where the accident occurred, but unfortunately the victim couldn't reach that point in time to use the switch. The body was mutilated, the legs being broken in many places, and the top of the head was completely cut off.

TEMISKAMING IS A GREAT FARMING DISTRICT

From Farm and Dairy.

Englehart, Aug. 10.—Half way from North Bay to Cochrane and 25 miles north of Liskeard is the town of Englehart. Though it is only three years old it has a population of about 1,000 and several good buildings that would do credit to many old Ontario towns.

Good agricultural lands, well-watered and timbered, surround the town. The gardens in and about Englehart are evidence of the fertility of the soil and suitable climate for horticulture and agriculture. Mr. Joseph Woollings, Crown Lands Agent, has several kinds of currant and berry bushes in his garden. He has recently put out some fruit trees and apparently all are growing rapidly. The vegetable gardens are the finest that one could wish to see; potatoes especially do well about here. The soil is a little different from that about Liskeard, being a sandy loam rather than a clay. There is no difference in the fertility except possibly in the case of a few particular vegetables.

GREAT INFLUX OF SETTLERS

The last few weeks have witnessed possibly the greatest influx of settlers into Temiskaming that the district has ever seen. In the Liskeard Crown Lands Agency there are 22 townships, three of which are not on the market. Eleven of the remaining 19 have not a vacant farm within their boundaries and the greater portion of the rest has been located. The agent, when seen by Farm and Dairy, could not give figures to show the number of settlers coming in. "But," he said, "we have three applications now for every one we had a few months ago."

The Englehart agent has received over 50 applications during the past couple of weeks; in two days 23 came to his office. "We have 10 now for every one we had in the spring," he remarked.

Many that are now coming to Temiskaming are buying cleared farms. In the action of the settler we have proof that the land is not difficult to clear, for he invariably goes further back, locates and clears another farm.

ONE OF THE FIRST

Mr. S. Errett, Mayor of Englehart was one of the first settlers in this vicinity. He came from Port Burwell eight years ago. "There was not a tree cut within nine miles of my place when I first located it," he said. "No, I did not spend the winters here, but would come up in the summer and work on the place. Then when the railroad came through I moved my family up." Mr. Errett's sons were among the first storekeepers in Englehart, and to-day do the largest general business in the town. Mrs. Errett is a very enthusiastic friend of Farm and Dairy. "It is a good paper, and I read it from cover to cover," she told me.

Another farmer and member of Englehart Council is Mr. W. A. Skinner, who came up four years ago from Smith Township in Peterboro county. His farm is within the corporation and Mr. Skinner is in the dairy business, supplying milk to the town. He also is a friend of Farm and Dairy. "I have taken Farm and Dairy," he said, "for 20 years, and it is, I think, the best farmers' paper published," was his opinion of it.

The first person I saw on the road to Charlton was Mr. W. Phillips. He has recently purchased 60 acres near Englehart and at present is living in a new house on his farm. The road along here was very wet, but all the land is high and level. It was just another example of the land being frequently entirely under water until it is properly drained. For several miles the country is as level as a floor and nowhere can a stone be found. Mr. D. Phillips and Mr. Lawrence are on this road also. The Phillips boys came from Smith's Falls and are more than satisfied with what they found in the clay belt.

Along this road to Charlton are good farms though there are many unimproved veteran claims. Most of the settlers in the vicinity of Englehart have come to Temiskaming quite recently and naturally have as yet only small clearings. The roads also, though excellent considering the age of the settlement, are not as good as those south of here. The buildings are not as a rule very large, as the farmers are afraid to build costly ones until their clearings are larger and the danger from fire lessened.

CHARLTON DISTRICT

Eight miles from Englehart but connected with it by a branch of the T. and N. O. Railway is Charlton, favorably situated on the shore of Long Lake. Charlton was among the first settlements north of Liskeard and is much older than Englehart. It is surrounded by good farming country and many good buildings and large clearings are to be found in this section. Mr. Ed. Micklum has perhaps the most valuable property in the township. He came in nine years ago and when he reached his farm did not have enough money to post a letter. Now he has good buildings, five horses, 18 head of cattle, five of which are pure bred Herefords. He has a sawmill on his place, and when seen by Farm and Dairy had 450,000 feet of lumber ready for shipment.

Mr. W. Netherton is another successful settler on this road. He came from Toronto and has now 20 acres under crop with good buildings and fences. In front of his house Mr. Netherton has a fine lawn and several rose bushes that give to his house a very cheerful and home-like appearance.

Across the road lives Mr. Geo. Netherton, a brother, and a little farther along the road two sons are farming. All are well satisfied with the country and have great confidence in the future. C. Burnham, R. Derby, John Russell, John McTavish, and E. Lamb are successful farmers in this district. There are many other equally successful ones.

TOMSTOWN DISTRICT

Like the Charlton section this district was settled some years before the railway was completed. It is on the White River, and until recently boats ran regularly between Liskeard and Tomstown, but as the land becomes cleared the water in the river is very low in summer, as is the case with many Old Ontario streams, and this summer navigation is practically impossible on the White River.

The town is named after "Uncle Tom," the first settler on the White River. He came in 11 years ago from west of Schreiber and has 25 acres cleared and under crop. Though now an elderly man, Uncle Tom is still hale and hearty and lives alone on his farm, three-quarters of a mile down the river from the town. His name is U. H. Thomas, but he is known only as "Uncle Tom."

Mr. M. Mackay, the hotel keeper, and therefore one of the first persons I would naturally meet, is also a farmer. He has 40 acres cleared and 10 chopped. "It costs me 40 dollars an acre to clear," he told me, "but the pulp wood more than pays for it." Mr. Mackay came from Renfrew seven years ago.

Mr. W. Nelson, another Tomstown farmer, has been here 10 years. He has a clearing of 20 acres. "I had to work out nearly all the time at first," he told me. "That is what kept me back, but I am through working out now."

Mr. James Payie has 27 acres cleared north of Tomstown. He has been in the country seven years, but like many of the settlers spent the first five prospecting. I asked him if the soil was good. "I am glad to say," was the reply, "that it is the most beautiful soil in Canada."

A PROSPEROUS DISTRICT

This entire district is well settled. All are prosperous and well satisfied with the present conditions and the prospects. I have called on several score of farmers during the past few weeks and have not found a single discontented one nor an unprosperous one. It is surely significant that operators, store-keepers, watchmakers, machinists—men who have absolutely no previous knowledge of farming—should be successful in Temiskaming.

The explanation lies in the fact that the soil is so fertile and produces so abundantly that to raise large and profitable crops does not require expert farming. During the past week samples of oats nearly six feet tall and yielding 162 grains in one head have been brought into the town. The possibilities of agriculture in Temiskaming are indeed unlimited.—COLIN W. LEES.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Secretary of Social and Moral Reform Committee Becomes Western Superintendent, and He Is Succeeded by Rev. T. Albert Moore of Lord's Day Alliance—Rev. Mr. Shore Secretary of Foreign Missions

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 25. Rev. Dr. Carman has again been elected general superintendent of the Methodist General Conference, and associated with him in office will be Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown of Toronto, who will take charge of the west. Dr. Carman has been elected for a term of eight years, while Dr. Chown will fill his office for four years.

Rev. Dr. Chown is succeeded as secretary of the conference and moral reform department by the appointment of Rev. T. Albert Moore of Toronto, the energetic secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, while, as foreshadowed, Rev. T. E. E. Shore becomes secretary for foreign missions, succeeding the late Dr. Sutherland.

Officials of the conference elected yesterday were as follows:

Secretary of home missions—Dr. J. Allen of Toronto.

Secretary of foreign missions—Rev. T. E. E. Shore of Toronto.

Secretary of education—Rev. J. W. Graham, D.D., of Toronto.

Secretary of temperance, prohibition and moral reform—Rev. T. A. Moore, D.D., of Toronto.

Book steward for the central section—Rev. Dr. Briggs, Toronto.

Book steward for eastern section—F. W. Masher, Nova Scotia.

Editor of Christian Guardian—Rev. W. S. Creighton, D.D., Toronto.

Editor of Wesleyan—Rev. D. W. Johnson, D.D., California.

Secretary of Sunday schools and Epworth League—Rev. S. T. Bartlett, Toronto.

Dr. Carman was elected general superintendent on the first ballot, the vote being: Dr. Carman, 173; Dr. Chown, 65; and Dr. S. P. Rose of Toronto, 19.

A second ballot resulted in the election of Dr. Chown as assistant general superintendent, he receiving 217 votes out of a total of 288.

No Clue to Murderer.

Kingston, N.Y., Aug. 25.—No trace had been found last night of the kidnapper and murderer of Peter Fabian, four years old, son of Frank Fabian, an Italian. The boy's body was found yesterday in an outhouse in the rear of his home, cut and strangled. He had been dead but a short time, although missing since last Friday.

Detectives were interested in the coincidence that an Italian clairvoyant, whom Fabian consulted in New York City on Tuesday, when he first became gravely alarmed, foretold that the boy would be found near his home.

There is great indignation among Italians in general, but no violence is feared.

Osler to Investigate.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Dr. William Osler, the famous scientist of Baltimore and Oxford, was in Washington yesterday for the purpose, it is said, of investigating the cause of infantile paralysis, which is epidemic here, and in Ontario, Canada, particularly in Hamilton.

The Medical Association here has undertaken an extensive study of the infantile malady, which so far has baffled physicians of this country. The medical fraternity is divided on the elementary questions as to whether infantile paralysis is contagious or infectious.

Infants Has Paralysis.

St. Catharines, Aug. 25.—That dreaded disease, infantile paralysis, has made its appearance in St. Catharines. A three-year-old child of a farm laborer living in the city was taken to the hospital Tuesday afternoon, suffering from the disease.

The parents were immigrants, who arrived from England two months ago. Another case has developed in a family who arrived in the spring from Scotland.

Yesterday morning the little daughter of a local druggist and an ex-alderman, showed symptoms of the ailment.

Not Much Smuggling.

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—Dr. J. A. Smith, collector of customs at Windsor, is in the city on business with the Customs Department. He states that last year over four million people crossed from Detroit to Windsor. Questioned as to reports of smuggling, they were exaggerated. "Some of it may be going on which escapes detection," he said, "but it is of a petty character. In whatever there is, Canada gets the better of it."

Will Spread Tons of Flowers.

GRENADIERS WON TROPHY

Replying to Critics, Col. Sam Hughes Says It Certainly Is—Sir Frederick Borden Also Hits Back at Writer of the Criticism and Says That While Appropriation Is Not Extravagant, It Does Good.

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—At the luncheon given by Col. Sam Hughes, president of the Dominion Rifle Association, yesterday, several speakers devoted considerable time to criticisms of a recent editorial article published here, which had contended "that the training at the ranges, while good in many ways, is not as practical and does not reach as many as it should."

Col. Hughes presided. At his right sat Hon. Col. Gibson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario and Lord Lanesborough, representing His Excellency the Governor-General; and to the left were Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, and Hon. Charles Murphy, Secretary of State. Among the sixty present were: Mayor Hopewell, Gen. McDonald, Col. Rutherford, Col. Brown, Col. Labelle, Col. Wilson, Col. McKay and many others.

Col. Hughes referring to the editorial hinted that, according to that article, the association had ceased to be useful. He emphatically denied this. As to an allegation there had been as to there being fads in connection with some rifle shooting matters, there had been fads in other directions. The war office had fads; everyone knew that it had always been addicted to fads. (Laughter.) Col. Hughes also hinted that perhaps the artillery branch of the service also had some.

Sir Frederick Borden also directed his guns on the writer of "the editorial in question," and devoted a quarter of an hour to him.

"It has been my desire to try and do something for the militia of Canada," Said Sir Frederick, "and much of any success that may have been attached has been due to my friend the president, and other men who have refused to let the bane of party politics enter into our militia system."

Sir Frederick said that, while the Governments spends annually around $150,000 for artillery practice, its annual vote for rifle practice for the D.R.A. is only $15,000, and $5,000 of that is used for sending the Canadian team to Bisley. He did not consider that extravagance.

The events yesterday at the Rockliffe ranges were the Walker and Dominion matches, in both of which there were over 500 entries, and competitions for several team cups. The first six in the Walker match are tied. They will shoot off probably to-day. This is a very unusual occurrence and indicates the closeness of this year's shooting at the D.R.A. The team cup contests resulted:

Healthy Happy Children

As everyday food for growing children, good bread and butter is much more wholesome than meat. It is lighter in the stomach, more easy to digest and furnishes every element of health and strength necessary for the growing child, provided the flour is rich in that fine quality of high grade gluten which distinguishes Ogilvie's

Royal Household Flour.

It is this rich nourishing element which makes children grow fat and happy when given plenty of bread made from this finest of all flours. Children thrive on it. It puts flesh on their bones and brings the rosy flush of health to their cheeks.

This is not so with bread made from inferior flours. It falls very far short of being whole food and fails to build up strong, vigorous growth. For the children's sake buy the best flour—Ogilvie's Royal Household. It counts for health and happiness. Best and most nutritious for pastry as well as for bread.

"Ogilvie's Book for a Cook," with 125 pages of recipes that have been tried and tested, will be sent free if you will send us your address and mention the name of your dealer.

FIRE TOLL IS HEAVY

Wife of Rancher Is Only Known Female Victim In the Disastrous Fires In the U. S, Rockies—Forester Weigel Gives His Death List as 111, and Safety of 74 Others Is Feared For — Still Raging.

Wallace, Idaho, Aug. 25.—Forest fires have slain more than 200 persons, nearly all fire-fighters, in Idaho, according to figures compiled last night from latest reports.

Supt. Weigel of the Cour d'Alene National Forest, after receiving many reports of disaster from various parties of his 600 employes, posted a bulletin last night in his office at Wallace, announcing the death of 111 of the men. He also expressed grave concern for the safety of Ranger J. B. Palm and 74 men, who were surrounded by fire Saturday night in the forest on the Big Fork of the Cour d'Alene River, near where another party lost 18 men.

Palm was for four years the best football and baseball played of the Washington State College at Pullman.

The charred bodies of 20 fire-fighters were found Tuesday on Setzer Creek, in the St. Joe country.

Two severely scorched Japanese dragged themselves to Avery, Idaho, Tuesday night, and told of the death of ten of their companions. The 12 men, employes of the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound Railroad had gone out to fight fires. They were surrounded by flames and only two escaped.

The number of deaths in Washington was yesterday reduced to three, all in the Pend d'Oreille Valley, near Newport. One of these victims, Mrs. Ernest Reinhardt, wife of a rancher, is the only woman known to have been burned to death in any of the fires.

The names of many of the dead will never be known. The rangers employed all the men whom they could press into the service. When the groups of fire-fighters were overwhelmed the camps were also destroyed, the clothes were burned off the bodies of the men and the bodies were so greatly charred that searchers stepped over them, thinking they were burned logs.

Knights Visit the Pope.

Rome, Aug. 25.—Fifty Knights of Columbus were yesterday received by the Pope in the hall of the consistory. More than 100 other Americans were granted an audience at the same time. Rev. M. J. McGivney, of Middletown, Conn., national chaplain of the knights, led the delegation.

Elevator Man Killed.

Port Arthur, Aug. 25.—William Smith, foreman of the annex at King's elevator, was killed yesterday as the result of his overalls being caught in the machinery. No one saw the accident. Smith was 35 years old and leaves a widow and two children.

The Batsmen Do Not Fear Curve Balls Nowadays

DETROIT, AUG. 24.—"I notice they are printing stories about Jack Coombs and how he didn't know how to pitch until this year," remarked Malachi Kittridge, Detroit scout. Kit caught for years and years and is a close observer of baseball, particularly pitching. That is why his comment on Coombs is of more than ordinary weight.

"Coombs has started to pitch great ball, because he has mastered the greatest of all pitching assets, the drop ball that does not break from the right-handed batters. I don't mean one of those out-drops, but a ball that comes up to the plate squarely in the centre and falls from one to two feet without changing its lateral direction.

"Amos Rusie had that ball and he threw it with tremendous speed. Rusie pitched that drop thing and mixed it up with a fast one in close and the batter who could meet it with any regularity never lived. They tell me that Ramsey and other oldtimers depended on it extensively."

Coombs certainly did give a fine exhibition of pitching on his recent appearance in Detroit. Batters like Sam Crawford, who usually hit the ball hard, swung and missed with great frequency. Time after time Crawford hit on top of the drop and nobody seemed able to do much with it.

The regulation out drop is much easier and is rather dangerous because a batter sometimes catches it far on the outside and a long drive over the outfield results.

George Mullin has spent a lot of time working on a drop that does not break away and has mastered it so well that it is one of the best puzzles. When Mullin comes up on his toes with an overhead swing and a quick jerk of the wrist as the ball leaves, that's the drop. He couples it with a lot of speed and you know how effective he has been year in and year out.

The day of the curve ball pitcher seems to be on the decline. All the effective hurlers are depending almost completely on quick-breaking efforts, which shoot out of a direct line rather than curve. The deliberate curves are effective only against certain clubs, and the batters who fall for them are so few comparatively that they do not count.

Walter Johnson, credited with being as good as anybody in the American league, at least, has a curve ball that breaks so slightly you can hardly call it a curve. He depends on a fast ball that shoots, command and a slow ball which is thrown with the same motion as the fast shoot.

Cobb More Reviled Than Any Other Player To-day

NEW YORK, AUG. 23.—Ty Cobb has been reviled more than any other player. He is called chesty, a swelled head, a grand stand player, a murdering base runner, and many other names enough for a stranger of the game of baseball to think the greatest ball player who ever lived to be a dyed-in-the-wool ruffian of the worst stripe.

Now, Cobb is chesty, cocky and fresh, but those are the qualities that make the best ball players. Cobb was the freshest kid who ever broke into big league class, is what every Detroit player says who was with the Tigers when Cobb first joined them. But it was that chestiness and nothing else that enabled him to climb to the top of his profession, where he stands pre-eminent now, and there will be no one to push him off that high pinnacle until he himself says so.

And what is chestiness but the feeling one has that one is just as good if not better than any one else in the line of business one follows?

Cobb felt it in his youthful bones that he was as good a player as any one on the Detroit team, and made good the feeling imbued in him that caused the expansion of chest he is accused of. Chestiness is one of the most promising traits a youngster can show, and he does not want to lose it either as he gets older.

Ty Cobb never wore a number four cap, I will warrant. There is only one player that I remember of who ever did, and was a good ball player —and that was Jack Glasscock.

Cobb's brain expands with his chest and for the same reason. He knew at the start, and knows now, that he is as good as they make 'em, and, therefore, why wouldn't he expand, mentally and physically?

All this knocking of Cobb, too, comes from nothing else than pure and unadulterated jealousy. It is a case of sour grapes every time. I never knew of a crackerjack ball player who was not pounded and roasted from Heliopolis to breakfast, anyhow. There was Mike Kelly, one of the best players who ever lived, who got just what Cobb is getting now.

Give me those "chesty," "cocky" youngsters every time, and I will gamble they will make good. There was Arlie Latham, for instance, who, when he broke into the big league, was in danger of getting mobbed by his fellow-players of the Buffalo club in 1880, when he turned flipflaps from third base to the home plate, after he made the winning hit and tally in a 1 to 0 game against the Worcesters.

Fresh! Latham was the freshest kid I ever saw, but in two years he was a big league star, and for ten years after that.

The Cobbs and Lathams make ball players, and they are of the chesty kind that should be encouraged.

C. G. E. Team Are Drawn Against The Thistles

The draw was made in the competition for the People's Shield, in which the Canadian General Electric team, soccer champions of the Midland League, play, last night in Toronto, and a despatch says:

The trustees of the People's Challenge Shield met last night, when entries for the coming great contest were declared closed. Following is the complete list of teams entered: Regina Victorias, Fort William Britannias, Cobalt, Montreal, Ottawa, Peterborough, Galt, Hamilton Westinghouse, Toronto Thistles.

The result of the draw for the shield was: Peterborough vs. Thistles, Westinghouse vs. Regina, Ottawa vs. qualifying team, Galt vs. Fort William, Montreal vs. Cobalt.

The games will be played at Scarboro Beach Sept. 3 to Sept. 10, the first round being played from Sept. 3 to 5.

There was a number of other applications made, and it was decided to play off a qualifying round, the winner to enter the competition.

THE EXCURSION TO LINDSAY WILL BE WELL PATRONIZED

The West End Baseball Club excursion to Lindsay on Saturday afternoon promises to be an enjoyable outing and will undoubtedly take a large crowd out of Peterborough, as many have already signified their intention of going. The game between the West Ends and Lindsay promises to be well worth going that far to see and Lindsay has other advantages to offer to the amusement seeker. A special G. T .R. train will carry the excursionists.

PETERBOROUGH WILL HAVE JUNIOR O. R. F. U. TEAM

Although there is little in the murky, lurid atmosphere, we are at present trying to breathe to indicate that autumn is near, local rugby enthusiasts are already discussing the prospects for the coming season. Peterborough will have a senior O.R.F.U. team this season; that much is certain. However, there will be a junior O.R.F.U. team and from present indications a team will be placed in the field that will take a lot of beating. There is all kinds of material here and the youngsters are enthusiastic, so that it is certain that Peterborough will be on the rugby map this fall as usual. The season is almost here and practice will commence in a short time.

THE BATTING AVERAGES

Magee, of Philadelphia, is again making a hard fight to capture the leading honours of the National Baseball League. The big left fielder has been clouting the ball steadily lately, and now has an average of .326 for 15 games. Snodgrass, of New York, fell off a few points last week, but is hitting for a mark of .377. He has played in only 69 games, however, and will probably be back a few more points if he is kept in the game every day. The five men following Magee have played in only a few games but Hans Wagner, of Pittsburg, manages to hold on to a place in the select class with an average of .302.

Several of the Phillies boosted their averages during the last series on the home ground. Luderus, who has played in only 36 games this season as a member of the Cubs and Phillies, is batting .293. Eddie Grant increased his average to .276 ,and Mike Dolan is batting .275. The latter made the biggest gain of any of the Phillies, and is hitting better than he has done for a long time. Bates is about holding his own. The averages of the leading batters of the National League to date are:

The .300 list of batsmen in the American League is dwindling each week. In the season's batting averages there are eight players in the American with averages of .300 or better, including Strunk, of the Athletics, who has a mark of 406 for 10 games.

Ty Cobb continues his heavy stick-work and is leading the American League with an average of .370 for 106 games. Lajoie, of Cleveland, is only 10 points behind the Tigers' star slugger, and ranks as the second best hitter in the league. Meloan, the youngster, now with the Chicago White Sox is clubbing the ball hard, and has gathered an average of .364 for 25 games.

Oldring, Collins and Murphy, of the Athletics, are having a great contest for batting honours among the Connie Mack clan. Oldring is leading the trio with an average of .324, but Eddie Collins made a great gain on the last Western trip and boosted his average up to .321. Murphy is back among the .300 class again this week with a mark of .301.

Following are the batting averages of the best batters to date in the American League:

BIG ROUND UP

Ernest Lowes, who has been convicted on many charges, and Walter Wright, a man who dropped off from the Haag's circus troupe were arrested on a charge of stealing a gold watch and fob from a local young man. It appears the three were drinking during the evening, and the last the young man remembers was awakening and finding that his watch was gone. The watch has been obtained by Chief Thompson from one of the men arrested.

A man named Mullens will spend a time in the jail on a charge of trespassing on the property of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He received his penalty from Magistrate Matheson of Havelock.

A coloured man who in some unknown way travelled to Havelock from Sunny Florida, received thirty days in Castle Nesbitt, where the colour of the walls will correspond with his complexion.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Rev. Ian Campbell, Bishop of Glasgow and Walloway, will attend the bicentenary of the Canadian church at Halifax.

The plant of the Huntsville Engine Works Co. was partly destroyed by a fire which originated in the moulding department.

A memorial tablet has been placed in St. Andrew's Church to the late John Bell, K.C., who died in Belleville in June, 1906. He was general counsel for the G.T.R., and for many years was an elder and trustee.

Representatives of the daily newspapers of the Maritime Provinces are meeting in Truro to consider the question of better telegraphic news service, and to move toward united action with the central and western associations of Canada.

The Petit Parisien's Rome correspondent says that the Duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins have been engaged unofficially for more than two years with the approval of King Victor Emmanuel, who stipulated that the official announcement should not be made until the duke had attained the rank of rear admiral at the end of this year.

Gives Up Milk Charity.

New York, Aug. 25.—A cable message, received in New York last night, from Nathan Strauss, the millionaire philanthropist, announces that next year he will abandon his distribution of pasteurized milk in New York City because of opposition in certain quarters.

Mr. Strauss is now in Boston, where he recently opened a milk depot similar to those in New York. He has maintained 17 stations in New York City, selling pasteurized milk by the glass at one cent, besides giving free bottle milk for needy babies.

Scientists are divided on the value of the pasteurized product, and Mr. Strauss has met with much opposition from the more radical of those who do not share his views.

Trade With South Africa.

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—J. A. Chesley, Canadian trade commissioner to South Africa, reports that an examination of the trade returns for the year shows a gratifying advance in the importation of Canadian products, especially of the staple commodities of the country, in which Canadian exporters and manufacturers are principally concerned.

Canadian Navy Impostor.

Portsmouth, N.H., Aug. 25.—Portsmouth and Boston navy yard men are alleged to have lent considerable sums of money this week for car fare to the nearest naval station, "and return," to a man who claimed to be a Canadian naval officer.

The return trip in each case was not made. The man, who gave the name of Lieut. Gill, announced that he was the advance representative of a Canadian commission, which was to inspect American navy yards.

Enquiries at Montreal brought the information by wire yesterday that the man was believed to be an imposter, and that there was no such commission as he claimed. The present whereabouts of the lieutenant is not known here.

Painter Electrocuted.

Cobalt, Aug. 25.—Albert Lefebvre, 38, a painter, was electrocuted while painting the transformer house at the Tretheway Mine about eight o'clock yesterday morning. The man was filling in a spare moment by painting the shed over the two big transformers which cut the voltage of the current from 11,000 to 550 volts. Although he had been warned that death lurked in the wires, he did not seem to realize his danger.

Death was instantaneous. The corpse was awfully burned and roasted when it finally dropped to the ground. Lefebvre leaves a widow and six children, the oldest of whom is fifteen.

A.O.H. Officers.

Kingston, Aug. 25.—At the closing sessions of the provincial board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Hamilton was selected for next year's convention.

Officers were elected as follows:

President, C. J. Foy, Perth; vice-president, John Nellingan, Hamilton; secretary, Allan J. Tobin, Ottawa; treasurer, N. J. Kennedy, Toronto; medical supervisor, A. W. Dwyer, Perth; solicitor, N. J. Gleason, Ottawa; chaplain, Rt. Rev. M. F. Fallon, London.

Ziegfield to Fly High.

New York, Aug. 25.—Florenz Ziegfeld, jr., the theatrical manager, has joined the ranks of amateur aviators. When he returned here on board the Kronprinz Wilhelm of the North German Lloyd line, from a trip to Paris, he announced that he had purchased an Antoinette monoplane, selected for him by Hubert Latham, and that it would arrive here early next month on board a French line steamship.

Brookins' Latest Stunt.

New York, Aug. 25.—It took Walter Brookins just five and a half seconds to negotiate the smallest circle that man has ever traveled in midair at Ashbury Park. So abrupt was the swing around an imaginary pivot that other aviators who were on the field said that if anyone except Brookins attempted to make such turns it would probably cost him his life.

To Have Auto Ambulances.

New York, Aug. 25.—Three new electric automobiles have been put in use by the Presbyterian Hospital for ambulance service to replace the combination horse and automobile service the hospital has been using. The hospital authorities have come to the conclusion that automobiles are more reliable and economical than horse and wagon outfits.

Railway Commission's Record.

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—Figures showing the work done by the Railway Commission during the last fiscal year have been issued. Applications totalled 6,125, orders issued 3,810, filing received 33,337. The applications increased by 2,646 and orders by 1,061 over the previous year.

Pittsburg Defaulter Arrested.

Windsor, Aug. 25.—Monzio Pacella, an Italian steamship agent and private banker of Pittsburg, who is charged with embezzling between $25,000 and $40,000, was arrested in the Windsor postoffice yesterday morning by local officers under the guidance of Fred A. Morgan.

READY FOR THE FRAY.

Theodore Roosevelt Goes to Convention Looking For a Fight.

Herkimer, N.Y., Aug. 25.—"Fight? All right, I like a fight."

That was the reply made by Col. Roosevelt yesterday when his attention was called to the statement made in New York Tuesday night by William Barnes, jr., leader of the "old guard" in the state, that he and his associates would welcome a fight at the state convention.

"So long as it is a fight that they expect," continued Roosevelt, "they'll have all the fight they want.

"I am only going to the New York State Convention because I feel that the public interest and the interest of the people of New York demand that the Republican party should be given a chance to stand squarely and uncompromisingly for clean, decent and honorable politics.

"I'm going to that convention to make a speech exactly as I originally planned it, and while I hope that there will be enough good honest men in attendance as delegates to prevent the overthrow of the principles for which I shall stand, yet, if a certain element does oppose them, then it is their own affair, and so far as I am concerned the issue shall be absolutely clear cut."

Oil Engines on Warships.

London, Aug. 25.—The report that the Admiralty is contemplating experiments with warships fitted with internal combustion engines has excited great interest in the naval world.

No official confirmation of the report is obtainable, however, and all experts in naval construction who have been consulted agree that the development of such engines has not yet reached a stage that would justify their use for battleships, though both the British and German Governments are known to have been for a long time experimenting with the application of Diesel oil engines to small vessels, and the Hamburg-American Steamship Co. is having Blohm & Voss build a 9,000-ton cargo boat fitted with Diesel engines.

In the best informed quarters in Portsmouth it is stated that the Admiralty is trying to evolve an internal combustion engine of 10,000 horsepower, which, if successful, will be first tried on an unarmored cruiser.

Engine Collides With Freight.

Orangeville, Aug. 25.—An Owen Sound freight train collided with a yard engine and two cars in the yards here about four o'clock yesterday morning. The yard engine was standing just about a switch from which she had come into the main track. The down freight got a little beyond the control of her crew, owing to the steep grade at this point, and could not be brought to a stop, although her speed was very much decreased. The engines telescoped, but the crews escaped injury by jumping. Three cars were completely derailed and one partially. The West Toronto auxiliary arrived about six o'clock.

Will Take Care of Themselves.

Montreal, Aug. 25.—The six orphans left without friends when their father John O'Keefe, killed their mother and then put a bullet into his own head a week ago, have started the battle of life alone.

The offer of Archbishop Bruchesi to take charge of them was refused, as Winnifred, 15 years of age, the eldest had made arrangements for the care of her brothers and sisters before the offer came. She is going to work and will support the youngest herself. Three others were taken in by neighbors, who will give them a home, and one has gone to a Quebec farm.

Big Hats Again.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—According to the National Association of Retail Milliners, which is holding its annual convention here, big hats are to be bigger and small hats smaller than ever before. There are to be no medium sized hats. Also, the more brilliant the coloring the more nearly to the ideal effect will the new hat conform.

New shades will include magnolia, a shade of orange; danaik, a coral red; pompeiian, a dead rose; herue, a light mahogany, and a cajou, a raisin color.

Calling Off Long Strike.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 25.—President P. J. McArdle of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, announces that the strike against the U. S. Steel Corporation will be ended Saturday. The strike has been on for 19 months and 17,000 men are affected. Plants in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Indiana have been shut down because of the strike.

Wins Stenography Record.

Denver, Col., Aug. 25.—Clyde H. Marshall of Kingston, N.Y., with an average of 268 words a minute, yesterday won the national shorthand reporting championship and cup. W. B. Bottome or New York, holder of the title and ineligible for the cup again, broke the world's record with an average of 289 words.

Car Ferries for Sale.

Windsor, Aug. 25.—Four big powerful car ferries, approximating $1,000,000 in value, for which the M.C.R. will have no further use in two months, when the tubes connecting Detroit and Windsor will be in use, are being offered for sale to railroads that ferry cars across the river.

HEAD ON COLLISION BETWEEN TWO FAST FREIGHTS NEAR KINGSTON TO-DAY

Wreck Caused Indirectly by an East Bound Train Becoming Stalled for Water Members of Crew Were Injured.

KINGSTON, ONT., AUG. 26. — A head-on collision between two fast freights on the Grand Trunk Railway, occurred at Collins' Bay, the first station west of Kingston, about 3 o'clock this morning. Two or three of the crews were slightly injured, the most severely hurt being Harry Ansell, of Montreal. The collision was the indirect result of an east-bound freight becoming stalled at Cataraqui for lack of water. Other east bound trains were given orders to take the west-bound track as far as Kingston and the west-bound train that figured in the collision, not knowing that the east bound train was on her right of way, crashed into it.

MAN ARRESTED HERE ON POCKET-PICKING CHARGE IS IN TROUBLE IN NEW YORK

Harry Lewis Who With Bradford Goldfarb and Phelps Was Nabbed by P. C. Newhall on June 25th, 1907, Now in Gaol in Gotham. "Glad to be Back" He Says.

Harry Lewis, who was arrested by P. C. Newhall here on June 25, 1907, in company with three other men, Phelps, Goldfarb and Bradford, on a charge of pocket picking, and who was allowed to go on account of insufficient evidence, while his companions were sentenced, has been getting into trouble again according to the following despatch from New York, special to the Examiner:

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—"Dee-lighted!" exclaimed a well-built young man, as Detective Fitzsimmons and L'Heureux removed the steel bracelets from his wrists and turned him over to Deputy Warden Hanley in the Tombs yesterday.

"Glad to be back again," he continued. "Now, if Mr. Hanley will be kind enough to assign me to a nice cool room with bath I shall be overjoyed. I prefer a large room, you know, because I am going to take a long rest. I shall be at home to all the friends who call."

The new boarder in the Toombs is Harry Lewis, by profession a forger, pickpocket and all around "con" man. He has already served two terms in prison, after graduating from the Elmira Reformatory. He is charged with grand larceny.

Lewis was arrested in Salem, Ore. The police thought they recognized him and notified the New York police who sent detectives to bring him back. They got here yesterday.

While he was the manager of a Turkish bath in this city he advertized for a clerk. A young man responded and Lewis made him put up $500 as a bond. Lewis, with the $500, then disappeared. That was two years ago. Ever since the police have been looking for him.

"Let me tell you," declared Lewis, "I have found out that there is nothing in trying to beat the ponies. When I got the $500 I went to the racetrack and started to bet. I was lucky and my roll increased to $10,000. But then came a day when the tide turned

"I had a narrow escape in Butte, Mont. The New York police had sent circulars broadcast containing my picture and description. I had a mole between my shoulder blades and that was a good mark of identification. The Butte Chief of Police said to me: 'If you are my man you must have that mole.'

"'Chief,' I said to him, 'I'll bet you my $7,000 in my pockets against a lead nickel. The money is yours if you find the mole.' They looked but no mole could they see. Then they let me go. You know I had that mole removed by electricity," concluded Lewis, smilingly.

Lewis will be arraigned before Judge O'Sullivan in General Sessions to-morrow.

MR. R. R. HALL TELLS OF THE CROP CONDITION IN WEST

Has Just Returned From a Business Trip Through the West Provinces and Tells the Examiner of the Wheat Outlook.

DROUGHT DID DAMAGE

The Examiner had an interesting interview this morning with Mr. R. R. Hall, ex-M.P., who returned last night from a two months' business trip to the North West, during which he visited Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Edmonton, Arrowhead, B.C., Revelstoke, B.C., Vancouver, Victoria, and Seattle. He left Peterborough June 23rd.

"How did you find the crop conditions?" asked the reporter.

"During the latter end of June and the greater part of July," replied Mr. Hall, "the whole of the North West provinces, but more particularly southern Alberta and southern Manitoba suffered verey severely from prolonged drought and hot winds, with the result that the crop, in some places, was practically a total failure. A singular thing, however, even in the districts that were most severely affected by drought, was the fact that crops could be found that would give a yield of about sixty per cent. The spotted condition in the dry belt shows the difference between good farming and inferior farming. "As a man sows, so shall he also reap" is well illustrated. The man who sowed on stubble this year is reaping stubble; on the other hand, the man who sowed on well cultivated soil and fairly deep, is reaping a good crop."

The people of the West are either pessimists or optimists. When the dry weather was on, the pessimists couldn't see more than sixty million bushels of wheat in the three provinces. The optimist hoped for rain; and it came. It is now conceded that the crop will produce at least one hundred million bushels, which, at prevailing high prices, will give a very satisfactory average return, but a return at least 50 million bushels short of what was at first anticipated.

MR. R. R. HALL, ex-M.P., Who Has Returned to the City After a Two Months' Western Trip.

The Premier's Reception.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier received a splendid reception during his tour through the four western provinces. I was at his Calgary meeting, which was held in a splendidly equipped, commodious rink, which accomodated upwards of six hundred people. Sir Wilfrid said that he had not visited Calgary in sixteen years, and that the population of Calgary on the occasion of his first visit could have been comfortably seated in half the capacity of the rink. The present population is close upon 40,000 people.

The Lumber Industry.

The value of the standing timber of British Columbia is very substantially increasing in price. The people are beginning to realize that the amount of timber in British Columbia is going to fall far short of the amount required in the north west provinces, which are being settled at an unprecedented rate."

Change Ex-Sultan's Abode Because Of Constant Plotting

CONSTANTINOPLE, AUG. 26. — Ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid is reported to have been smuggled from Villa Allatini at Salonika and shut up in some place known only to a few high government officials. Reason for supposed transfer of former Sultan to another prison is found in constant plotting of reactionaries for Abdul's release and in conspiracies against the young Turkish government.

Don't forget the trip to the Thousand Islands to-morrow. Special leaves G. T. R. station 6 a.m., returning same day. Fare $2.10 return. Tickets on train.

Durand Catastrophe is Being Looked Into by State, County and G.T.R.

Special to The Examiner.

DURAND, MICH., AUG. 26.—The Grand Trunk, State and County are making independent wreck investigations. Chairman of State Railroad Commission says the road will be prosecuted if it is found to have used incompetent men since the edict was issued during the strike, against incompetent strike breakers.

NOT COMPLETE

It is Thought There May Have been More Than Six Victims in Durand Tragedy.

Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, AUG. 26.—While the official report of the result of the wreck near Durand now gives six killed and eight injured, three probably fatally, the list may be incomplete. Georgie J. Jeffries, of Washington, D. C., was on the wrecked car. She was coming to Toronto to visit her sister, but nothing has been heard of her since the wreck. If she has been cremated in the wreck, others may have perished.

GENERAL FRENCH'S REPORT.

General French's report upon the Canadian militia is a disappointment to the political critics of the Government. It was expected, and predicted, not to say, desired, by the enemies of the Minister of Militia that the report would be a severe and galling bombardment of the Canadian militia. It comes to pass, however, otherwise. A despatch from London, gives the information that the report is entirely favourable. In it General French gives unqualified praise to the spirit with which the voluntary forces meet the demands made upon them. As was to be expected, General French, being a cavalry man, recommends that, so far as the west is concerned, greater attention should be paid to cavalry and mounted infantry. Perhaps his observation of the Mounted Police force has suggested to him that there is something in the wide air of the Northwest that makes the best mounted soldiers in the world a sort of indigenous product. It would be something quite unexpected, that General French should not pretty sharply criticise a volunteer militia force. Accustomed all his life to the smartness, strict discipline and efficiency of regular forces, "the finest" in the world, the comparative gaucherie and looseness of a volunteer force, might be expected to strike him unfavourably. But the mind makes the man and the spirit the soldier. The more enlightened spirit of the Canadian volunteer, his greater intelligence and his prompter grasp of the details of drill and the requirements of a soldier's duty are so palpable that a man with the shrewdness and insight of General French, would have little difficulty in seeing below the surface and discovering the merit of our militia.

THE LESSON OF THE ESCAPES.

The conduct of Moir and Taggart, especially that of Moir, in connection of their escape from the Hamilton asylum, throws a great deal of doubt upon the genuineness of their insanity, which was made the excuse of freeing them from the extreme and justly merited penalty of atrocious murders. The escape of these criminals from loosely exercised surveillance in a hospital for the insane, the atendant circumstances, and inevitable deduction serve a double purpose. They cast discredit upon the too prevalent disposition to make insanity a plea—in fact a practical justification—for condoning crime and emphasize the impropriety—to speak mildly, of confining vicious criminals with murderous instincts among unfortunates. A third effect is to call attention to the loose, inefficient and culpable mismanagement of our public institutions. A decided lack of sense of responsibility is shown in permitting conditions that make easy the escape of and the turning loose upon the community, of men of homicidal idiosyncracy. And, by the way, a further evidence of lack of a sense of responsibility upon th part of the Provincial Secretary and the Whitney Government is shown in the appointment of a layman to a position in the Orillia Asylum, which demands special capacity, as well as sound judgment and large humanity. Such positions should not be made the reward of political service, no matter how good a politician, faithful party servitor, or clever journalist the beneficiary may be. A rather poor doctor would be a more suitable incumbent of an office requiring medical skill than the most distinguished statesman. Political pull and party service are weak substitutes for medical training and practice, and, presumably, proper qualification.

RECIPROCITY WITH THE UNITED STATTS.

The present situation of political parties in the United States should make it clear to any thoughtful observer that this is not a good time for Canada to be troubling herself about a reciprocity treaty with that country. The most recent announcement from President Taft is that though in his opinion the Aldrich-Payne customs tariff is the best the country has ever had, it might be improved in some if its details. This announcement may be regarded as official, for it was formulated in order to be inserted in a Republican campaign document to be used in the coming congressional elections.

The President indicates in the same document his desire to have the revision of the tariff conducted by a Commission that would go carefully into the cost of production at home and abroad, only a fair margin of profit being allowed to the American producer. He thinks it high time to put an end to extortionate and unreasonable profits.

It is to be noted in this connection that this announcement of a tariff reform policy is more definite than was the one upon which Mr. Taft was elected two years ago. The intimation then was that there should be a revision of the tariff, but the omission of the word "downward" left the essential matter often to dispute, and it is still an open question whether the revision that did take place was not upward.

It may be assumed that the President's appeal to the people, whether it is effective for party purposes or not is a pledge of downward revision. There is no mistake as to the language used, and there need be no doubt as to Mr. Taft's downright honesty. He and his immediate advisers have been driven to take this action by the "insurgent" movement within the Republican party, nit merely in the middle west, where it first showed itself, but also in New England, where it has cost the Republican party several important bye elections.

This is a good time for Canada to do a little waiting and watching. When things settle down among our neighbours it will be time enough for us to see which way they are tending. If it is downward then we may be certain that the reduction will go on before long through another stage. To tie our hands by a treaty now might do us irreparable injury by preventing us frim profiting by the voluntary and unpurchased lowering of United States duties.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In Nova Scotia there is a movement to bring church and state in closer relationship. A minister of the Gospel at Shelburne has been selected, or has offered himself, as a candidate for the Legislature in the Conservative interest. He very wisely surrendered the divinity implied in his ordination, possibly on the ground that there was a certain incompatibility between Conservative politics and divinity. When we are in extremis we send for the parson. Is it to be inferred that the political state of Mr. Borden and his party suggests the calling in of his political spiritual adviser?

ANOTHER EXCURSION

Big Crowd From Campbellford in the City To-day.

The excursion from Campbellford to this city to-day was well patronized. It was under the auspices of the Campbellford Methodist Sunday School. The steamer "Otonabee" was chartered to carry the excursionists up the lakes, but owing to the coolness of the morning a large number of the pleasure seekers preferred remaining in the city.

The excursion train was composed of about twelve coaches, all of which were well filled. The excursionists who remained in the city were apparently well pleased with the welcome they received here.

Infantile Paralysis Said Not To Be A New Disease

In view of the fact that cases of infantile paralysis, (fortunately not fatal), have occurred in Peterborough the following from the Globe will be read with interest:

That infantile paralysis is not a new disease in Canada was stated by Dr. R. W. Bell of the Provincial Board of Health yesterday. "There has not, however, been very much of it in this country hitherto," he said. Some four years ago he came across some cases in the eastern part of the Province.

The disease, which is technically known as poliomyelitis, is not listed in the quarantine table. But there is a regulation providing for the isolation of a patient suffering from epidemic cerebro-spinal meningitis or epidemic anterior poliomyelitis.

This provision, said Dr. Bell, no doubt justified the Hamilton Board of Health in deciding to quarantine for this disease.

The Collier Electric Company Have Exhibit At Toronto

The Collier Electric Company is another Peterborough firm which will be represented at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. The firm has already arranged an attractive display in the Process building and is ready for the opening. Messrs. H. B. Collier and Norman Brand will be in charge of the exhibit and leave for Toronto to-morrow. The Collier Company will have on exhibition electric irons, electric toasters and the other useful household devices for the manufacture of which they are becoming famous. The Company has been represented at the Exhibition for three years, and their showing is a splendid advertisement for Peterborough; in fact in the West they speak of the Collier electric iron as the "Peterborough" iron, and it will soon occupy a place alongside the Peterborough canoe.

Cold Storage For Cheese At The Ottawa Exhibition

One of the most notable improvements in the Central Canada Fair buildings, for the coming exhibition from Sept. 9 to 17, is the cold storage provided for cheese exhibits. A considerable sum has been spent on the Dairy building, equipping it with up-to-date refrigeration facilities, so that manufacturers of cheese will have every accommodation in showing their products to the best advantage. The Dairy building has a floor space 74 by 100 feet, and with the improvements added since last Fair, leaves nothing to be desired.

In past years cheese manufacturers suffered some loss from deterioration in their exhibits during the Fair. This loss will be impossible under the new conditions. In fact, the cheese will improve, for, unlike other perishable products, cheese gains in flavour and texture for a few months after it leaves the factory, if kept in warehouses of proper temperature. At the end of the Exhibition owners of cheese will be able to get as much for their exhibits as if they sold them at the beginning. Prize goods will, of course, command fancy prices.

Another advantage will be that persons testing the cheese during the Fair will be more favourably impressed with the taste of samples, when taken from cold storage.

There should be many entries for the coming Fair between now and the date for closing entries, September 7. All creamery butter and cheese sent to the Exhibition becomes the property of the Exhibition Association, and will be sold at their expense on the second last day of the Fair, the proceeds going direct to the exhibitors.

Weather Man Does A Few Things With The Temperature

How do you like the change in the weather?

It's peculiar, but the very people who were going around yesterday complaining that it was too hot to live were grumbling this morning because it was cold.

The weather man came along with a sudden drop, indeed. It was stifling hot when Peterborough went to bed last night, although the rain and wind storm presaged a drop.

This morning found a chilly breeze and a totally different atmosphere. The shirt-waist that seemed a burden yesterday, was supplemented by a heavy coat this morning, and the straw-hat brigade looked as if they had been nipped by the frost. Many of the Campbellford excursionists who were bound for Stony Lake, got chilled extremities when they thought of facing the lake breezes and concluded to remain in Peterborough, where they would have a chance to thaw out. And, evidently, some of them thawed, all right.

OBITUARY

JEREMIAH McCARTHY.

Mr. Jeremiah McCarthy passed away at his residence, 295 Lake street, at 1.30 this morning, at the age of 68.

He was a native of Cork County, Ireland and came out to Cobourg when he was 12 years old. He came to Peterborough 42 years ago and has resided here ever since.

He had been suffering from a lingering illness for some time, but only took to his bed about one week ago.

Mr. McCarthy was well known here and was highly respected by all who knew him. He had eight children, four sons and four daughters. The sons are: Thomas, Portage la Prairie; John, 193 Reid street; Joseph and Frank at home. The girls are: Mrs. Brown at home; Mrs. Galvin, Port Arthur; Mrs. Florence McAuliffe, Passaic, N.Y.; Mrs. Crawford, Toronto.

The late Mr. McCarthy was a Roman Catholic in religion and a Liberal in politics. No funeral arrangements have as yet been made.

SISTER BEATA (MARY WALSH)

The death occurred last night, at St. Joseph's Hospital, St. Paul, Minn. of Sister Beata, of the Sisterhood of St. Joseph, formerly Mary Walsh of Douro. Miss Walsh joined the Order twelve years ago, part of which time she nursed in the hospital. For a year Sister Beata has been ailing, and she gradually sank till her death occurred. Besides her father and mother she leaves five brothers and three sisters to mourn her loss. The sisters are: Loretto, of Douro; Lena, of Kenora, and Mrs. R. H. Greer of Toronto; while the brothers are Frederick, James and Michael, of Douro; Thomas, Kenora; and Richard, Matheson, New Ontario.

The funeral will be held in St. Paul.

ALTA JANE MILLER.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller 186 George street, will extend to them their deepest sympathy, in this their hour of affliction. On Wednesday, Alta Jane, their infant daughter, passed away, the funeral taking place the same day. Another baby, a twin, is dangerously ill and not expected to survive the day.

WEDDING BELLS

HILFORD—JOHNSTON.

A very pretty wedding took place yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Johnston, 19 Dennison avenue, when Miss Grace Johnston was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. R. Hilford, New York city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Fee, pastor of Bethany Tabernacle.

The bridesmaid was Miss Daisy M. Billings, city, while the groom was assisted by Mr. W. J. Bremner, Orangeville, Ont.

Miss Quinnie Johnston, sister of the bride, was flower girl.

The bride entered the room leaning on her father's arm, while Miss Carol Johnston played the wedding march.

The drawing room was very elaborately decorated with flowers, while the stars and stripes and the Union Jack hung together, amidst floral wreaths in one corner. After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served. Between twenty and thirty guests were present. The only guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stephen, of Chicago. The absent friends were represented by many beautiful presents.

The happy young couple left by 11.45 G. T. R. train for Benelon Falls, where they will spend a week, and thence to Muskoka, where they intend staying a few days, after which they will reside at Hopeville, Western Ontario.

SUFFERED THREE YEARS

Till Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cured his Kidney Trouble

There are few diseases that cause more acute suffering than Kidney Trouble, and Mr. F. A. Thomas, of Sudbury Ont., is one of those who know it. He writes: "For over three years I suffered from kidney disease. First I thought I had sprained my back, for suddenly the pain would catch the small of my back and it would be impossible for me to straighten myself up for several minutes. A dull ache across the kidneys was always present, my urine was thick and cloudy, and passing it caused a burning, scalding pain. Tried medicines, but they failed. I was advised to try Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, as they had cured my wife years before. A few boxes affected a complete cure. I now enjoy the blessings of good health, which is due to this remedy."

Don't neglect kidney trouble—it's too dangerous as well as too painful. That old, reliable family remedy, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, has cured thousands and will cure you. It is equally effective in curing constipation and its attendant evils, biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches, and in purifing the blood. 25c a box at your druggist's. 10

SYRACUSE PAPER PAYS A TRIBUTE TO CHIEF HOWARD

Journal Has Some Nice Things to Say of the Head of Peterboro's Fire Department.

IS AT CONVENTION

The Examiner is indebted to Mr. Frederick R. Zachau, of Syracuse, N. Y., for a copy of the Syracuse Journal, containing a reference to Chief Howard, who is attending the Fire Chief's Convention in that city. Mr. Zachau's letter is as follows:

Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 24, '10.

Editor, Peterborough Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I send herewith a copy of one of our papers, containing news which might stand reprinting in your paper, being of local interest. I have marked it and being interested in your city, I send it to you. I have two uncles in Peterborough, Messrs. W. E. and K. G. Leek, and am well acquainted there, being an ardent admirer of the only Stony Lake and Victoria House.

Cordially yours,

FREDERICK R. ZACHAU.

The Journal says Canada is represented by over 30 delegates, chiefs and visiting officials. Among them is one of the most prominent young fire fighters of the Dominion, Chief W. A. Howard, of Peterborough. Chief Howard is secretary of the Provincial Association of Fire Chiefs of Canada, and is one of the best known and popular members of the association.

Besides its splendid fire department, Peterborough is noted for its famous hydraulic lift lock, the largest in the world. By this boats are raised in an instant, instead of the slow progress of letting the water run in.

Chief Howard is among the close personal friends of Chief Quigley and although he is identified with the success of the Canadian Association, he takes an active interest in the International and says that neither he nor any of the Canadian Association will ever break away from the International Association.

An excellent cut of Chief Howard appears with the reference.

FOUR LEFT IN THE RUNNING FOR THE TENNIS HONOURS

Messrs Kerr, Hall, Landry and Meyers will Fight it out For the Singles Championship.

INTER CLUB CONTEST

In the singles championship of the Peterborough Lawn Tennis Association, the tournament has progressed nicely, leaving the number of the possible winners very small indeed. The silver trophy dangles before the eyes of but four men to-day, Messrs. Hall, Kerr, Landry and Meyers.

Some very excellent matches have been witnessed during the course of the tournament, not only among the seasoned players but among the young aspirants for honours. The young war horse Landry has marched triumphantly along through the various rounds, defeating without much trouble, apparently, Messrs. W. Coleman, H. D. Burnett and H. B. Collier. After Messrs Kerr and Hall meet, Mr. Landry will play the survivor and the winner will then be called upon to play Mr. Homer Meyers, the winner of "B" tournament.

In the Inter-Club matches the schedule has been carried out until now there remain but four sets between the Y. M. C. A. and the Golf Club. By the defeat of the St. John's team this week by the Y., the silver mug will remain for another year at Central Park. The Y. M. C. A. have undisputed possession in any case.

The standing of the various clubs is as follows:

MANY CASES HEARD AT COURT DOG BYLAW CAME INTO ACTION

Canine Was Ordered to Be Destroyed Within Twenty Four Hours—Stealing of Beer From Snowden House was Dealt with—Five Dollar Case Concluded.

WATCH STEALING ENLARGED

After a considerable amount of dust hich had accumulated since the caretaker went on his vacation, had been cleared away this morning at the police court, his Worship proceeded with a case in which a dog was the outstanding character.

A young man by the name of Carter, who was the complainant, stated that he went in the back lane leading to Renzetti's home with an order of beer, and while doing his duty he was attacked by a vicious canine. Above his left knee his trousers were torn and his leg cut by the dog's teeth. He asked the owner of the dog to settle for the trousers, but he only offered fifty cents to defray the expenses, while the intrinsic value was $1.95, though they were worn for some time. Mr. Renzetti, knowing the nature of a court, had two witnesses in readiness to testify to the good behaviour of the household pet. Henry Faux, who has delivered meat to the home of Renzetti for the past six months, claimed that the dog never bit him. Also Ross Phillips, a boarder at the defendant's house, stated that the dog never gave any trouble before.

His Worship, Magistrate Dumble, after considering the evidence, ordered the dog to be destroyed within 24 hours.

J. W. Mullen, with a "don't-be-hard-on-me" look, faced the court on a charge of having been drunk in a public place, and was given a fine of two dollars, to be paid forthwith. He is free.

Michael Murphy, a blacklister, was fined ten dollars, to be paid in ten days. Michael pleaded guilty at another stage of the game and didn't appear this morning, as his employer required his services.

R. Schivier pleaded guilty to having stolen a watch and chain, worth $45.00 from a local young man.

Ernest Lowes, committed the same indictable offence on another young man, but in this case the watch was valued at twenty-five dollars.

Both were remanded till September 1st.

A case which was followed by many with keenest interest was that of a man who was alleged to have stolen five ollars from another. It appears that three young men were playing in a pool room and when it came time to pay for the rent of the table, the man who lost the money took from a small watch pocket a five dollar bill. He does not know which one of the two men tore the bill, but at any rate, in some peculiar manner the bill was separated into two pieces. The accused, who was arrested several days ago, offered to take the bill and get it glued together. The owner willingly gave the money, but did not get it back that night, being told by the prisoner that it wouldn't be ready for half an hour. On the following night the brother of the accused paid the man his five dollars.

The information was laid by a policeman.

His Worship allowed the prisoner to go after a stimulant, in the way of a warning has been given.

The three boys who helped to extract two cases of beer from the Snowden House were the next to come forth. Their records were produced by the Crown Attorney. Exhibit "A" had been out on suspended sentence, having been implicated in the stealing of two cases of brandy from a local hotel, several years ago. Exhibit "B" had served two months in the county jail, while exhibit "C" was allowed on suspended sentence on September 25, 1908.

His Worship enlarged the case for one week, during which time if the boys made good the entire costs, amounting to $12.80 it will be taken into consideration.

Ordered to Hospital

FOR OPERATION FOR ACUTE INDIGESTION—DID NOT GO AND WAS CURED BY

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

A medicine that will save one from a surgical operation must be worth while.

The doctors seem to have made the common mistake of dosing the stomach when the real source of trouble was with the liver and kidneys. Anyway Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills made a complete cure and here is the record:

Mrs. F. O. Bacon, Baldwin's Mills, Que., writes: "I was very sick and the doctors said I must go to the hospital for a surgical operation. I had acute indigestion and the liver and kidneys did not act. I did not want to undergo an operation so I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills and have used them ever since.

"I am feeling well now and doing my own work for a family of seven. I think there is no equal for acute indigestion and liver and kidney troubles such as I had and they and nothing else made me well again. There is no medicine I like half so well, for this did wonders for me."

The real serious cases of indigestion almost always have their location in the bowels and can only be reached by making the liver and kidneys active. No medicine regulates the liver, kidneys and bowels so nicely and so promptly as do Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers; or Edmanson Bates & Co., Toronto. Do not be satisfied with a substitute or you will be disappointed.

BAILEYISMS

A WRONG AGAINST HUMANITY.

A question of the utmost seriousness is raised in connection with the appointment of Mr. J. P. Downey, ex-M.P.P., to be Superintendent of the Asylum for the Feeble-minded at Orillia.

The Growth of Lunacy.

One of the most disquieting signs of the times is the steady growth of lunacy in various civilized countries, including England. The great lunatic asylum has become more and more a feature of the landscape in some of the most beautiful parts around London. Epsom, for example, has, I believe, reached the stage where there are more lunatics than sane folk, owing to the presence of immense colonies of the London insane planted there. In the most beautiful corner of Tooting Bec Common you notice an outstanding site of lofty red-brick buildings—State homes for imbeciles. Rapidly as the number of London asylums has grown during the past few years, the authorities still tell us that there are not enough and demand more. The report of the Commissioners for Lunacy just issued shows that there are to-day 130,553 certified lunatics under care in England and Wales, not far short of 2,000 more than the year before. In eleven years the number of lunatics kept in asylums has gone up over 25,000, or nearly one-fifth. These are figures that give rise to very serious thought. The enormous expense of these asylums is the very least part of the difficulty, serious though it would be if it stood alone. Most of us do not think, and dare not think, of the pitiful tragedy of the half-sane folk—sane enough to feel and understand, and yet not sane enough to be granted their liberty—who form the major part of the asylum patients. Is there no other way of dealing with them than this? Is there no other way of preventing and treating lunacy than has yet been devised. We have a tremendous price to pay for the strain the hurry, the emotions, and the mad whirl of much of our twentieth century life.

We have given up our liberty, and have no thought but of playing ball and the latest song: 2 to 1 bar one. All the winners. Latest betting. The greatest and most brutal conspiracy in the history of the world. All fraud and humbug.

PITY THE BABIES.

All babies whose mothers do not know about Dr. Chase's Ointment are truly to be pitied. They are sure to have skin troubles of one kind or another, such as chafing, skin irritation, scald head, milk rash or baby eczema and nothing can bring them comfort so quickly as Dr. Chase's Ointment. It stops itching promptly and heals the skin beautifully.

Would You Enjoy Vigorous Old Age?

Then use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It brings health and strength to every one along life's pathway. It aids digestion, stimulates and enriches the blood, invigorates the brain, builds nerve tissue, tones up the heart, fortifies the system against disease germs, makes the old feel young and prolongs life.

Thousands of men and women who have reached the four score mark tell the same story about what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done towards renewing their youth and keeping them vigorous, hale and hearty and in possession of all their faculties.

Mr. A. H. Jordan of Cuba, N.Y., has lived a strenuous life, but he is strong, vigorous and active at 84 years of age. Recently he wrote:—

"I use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, and think there is no better medicine for old people in their declining age. A few months ago there was published a little history of my early life as the oldest man now living in the town of Cuba, N. Y. I have lived a strenuous life, in earlier days following the river on lumber to Pittsburg and Cincinnati, and hunting all over the northern part of Pennsylvania."

If in need of advice, write Medical Department, The Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, New York, stating your case fully. Our doctors will send you advice free, together with a valuable illustrated medical booklet, containing rare common sense rules for health which you cannot afford to be without, and some of the many thousands of gratifying letters from men and women in all walks of life, both old and young, who have been cured and benefited by the use of this great medicine and who continue to enjoy good health. Sold IN SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by druggists, grocers and dealers everywhere, or shipped direct for $1.25 per large bottle.

DISCIPLINE IS EASED

Methodists' Guide to Conduct Is Now an Admonition Rather Than a Legal Code—Rev. Dr. Stephenson Is Secretary of Missions—Premier Refused to Break the Sabbath Says Prince Rupert Despatch

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 26.—The superannuation committee of the Methodist Conference yesterday morning sustained the constitution of the church, in that widows of ministers must remain members of the church in Canada. The conference endorsed the proposition of an endowment fund for superannuation.

Rev. F. C. Stephenson was elected mission secretary and Rev. J. Woodworth senior superintendent of missions.

A telegram from Prince Rupert was read, saying that Premier Laurier had declined a Sunday outing in order to keep the laws and to give proper example.

The election of fraternal delegates to British Wesleyan, Irish Wesleyan and other British Methodist churches resulted in Rev. Dr. Burwash of Victoria College and N. W. Rowell, K.C., being chosen, while the delegates to the M. E. Church of the United States are W. H. Heartz and James Aikins, K.C., of Winnipeg.

The commission on conference boundaries had a skirmish at the Methodist General Conference over the recommendation to disband the Bay of Quinte Conference and form another, including a part of the City of Toronto, to be called the Toronto East Conference. The Toronto men protested against this decision, and other delegates sympathized, as they thought the Bay of Quinte district was too circumscribed in its run of good circuits.

Several changes are to take place in the superannuation fund constitution, and some new provisions are that no minister's widow will have to receive an annuity of less than $125, and that a superannuated minister will receive an annuity for life.

Yesterday afternoon specific restrictions in the church discipline were swept away and in their place a general admonition as to good conduct consistent with Christian life was substituted. This ends the famous footnote controversy.

Rev. Dr. J. S. C. Speer of Toronto made an amendment, seconded by Rev. Dr. Hincks, that it should not be assumed that the rules were set forth as a legal enactment to bind the people of the church in bondage, but as a guidance to spiritual life. Rev. J. Pitcher of Gananoque, Ont., also made amendment, holding the rules themselves were sufficient, and the footnote unnecessary. He was supported in this by Rev. G. W. Henderson of Peterboro, Ont.

Horse's Strange Death.

Belleville, Aug. 26.—Walter H. Reeves died Wednesday. His father owned a horse which the dead boy used to drive. Yesterday morning a brother hitched up the horse and drove it to the front of his father's house, where the body was lying. The horse whinnied a few times, looked around as though for someone, and dropped dead.

Bought Sweetheart With Beer.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 26—"Why, no, he let me have her for a quart of beer," Isadore Heinrich, German brewery worker, told Judge Piper, when asked if he had not stolen Joseph Siebold's sweetheart, Lena Webber. Isadore wanted to swear out a warrant charging Siebold with assault, but the julge placated him.

Dies From Blood Poisoning.

St. Catharines, Aug. 26.—George Bowman, the 14-year-old son of Jos. H. Bowman, has died here from blood poisoning. The boy cut his foot slightly ten days ago, and he opened the wound to let the matter out, with a needle. Very soon symptoms of blood poisoning appeared.

THE TRIP OF THE SEASON

The Steamer "Otonabee" will leave Wolfe St. wharf at 8 a. m. on Saturday, August 27th, for Lindsay, arriving there in ample time to connect with the afternoon train for Peterborough. Meals served on board. Return tickets, including Railroad, $1.25. This will probably be the last trip of the season to Lindsay. 4d-44

Carried Off Safe.

Winnipeg, Aug. 26.—Burglars visited five places of business at Brandon Wednesday night, but the prizes were small, except on the McLean Piano Co.'s premises where, unable to break open the safe, they removed it bodily, having a wagon handy, apparently. The safe, which weighed about a quarter of a ton, only contained about $70. The only clue is the wagon.

Roosevelt After Grafters.

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 26.—Theodore Roosevelt pledged himself to the men of Buffalo yesterday to help them and all sincere citizens to fight crookedness wherever it was found.

"I'll help you just as I did in the past," he said, speaking to the Ellicott Club, whose guest he was at breakfast an hour after sunrise.

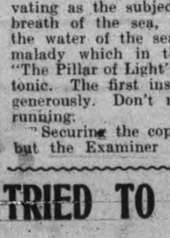
THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron.

A FEW LEAVES FROM THE DARY OF A STOMACH.

10 A. M. Oh, dear, another hot day. Wonder if I'll be abused as I was yesterday. If I am, I'm going to strike. Just disposed of a half-chewed breakfast. We ran for the train, which meant that I was jo jiggled about and so tired that it took me twice as long to do my work. Hope she gives me an hour or two of complete rest before anything more comes my way.

10.30 A. M. Two glasses of ice water have just arrived. It will take all the energy I can pump up in the next hour to warm me up to normal again.



10.50 A. M. Half-chewed breakfast didn't satisfy her and she has bought some peanuts and started eating them.

12 M. Peanuts have dribbled along steadily ever since last entry. Think she has finished them, though.

12.30. Decided she wasn't very hungry, and instead of a good solid dinner sent me down a cold egg nog, heavy with chocolate. Could have managed it all right if it hadn't been so cold, but that makes it terribly hard to deal with.

1.10 P. M. More ice water!

1.40 P. M. Was mistaken about the peanuts. She found another handful in the bottom of the bag, and now I have them to attend to.

3.10 P. M. She has been lifting some heavy books, and as usual, used my muscles instead of her arm muscles, as she should have done. Tired me more than digesting a six-course dinner.

3.20 P. M. Some one has brought us a box of caramels and she has started on that.

4.30. Have received something like half a pound of caramels since last entry. She just said, "Oh, dear, I don't feel a bit well. I know the milk in that egg nogg must have gone sour."

4.50 P. M. We were invited out to have a soda before going home. Had a lemon phosphate and then ran for the train.

6.30 P. M. We played a sort of tennis before dinner, and here I am all tired out and a dinner to handle.

7 P. M. Fried potatoes, green corn, veal and blueberries. What do you know about that!!!

7.45. We are going down town for a chocolate walnut college ice!!!

8.20. Got home and found some one had made some lemonade. She drank two glasses. That on top of the college ice settles it. I strike.

8.30. Have sent back the college ice and lemonade.

8.40. Returned the blueberries.

8.50. And the veal.

9.10 P. M. She has sent for the doctor. Says that college ice must have had something the matter with it. Her mother says it is probably the weak stomach she inherited from her father.

9.30 P. M. Doctor says it's just a little upset, due to the hot weather. Good-night!!!!

"THE PILLAR OF LIGHT" COMMENCES TO-MORROW

"The Pillar of Light" commences in the Examiner to-morrow and the Examiner has no apologies to offer in presenting this vividly exciting story as a serial. If you read popular fiction at all you have learned to know Louis Tracy and admire his work. His style is as fresh and enervating as the subjects he writes upon; his language as freshening as the breath of the sea, which emanates from his pages and as a sparkling as the water of the sea itself. His stories are a sure cure for attacks of that malady which in the vernacular is termed "The Blues." A dose of "The Pillar of Light" in the Examiner each night will prove as good as a tonic. The first instalment appears to-morrow; the story will be dealt out generously. Don't miss a single copy of the Examiner while the story is running.

Securing the copyright of such novels involves considerable expense, but the Examiner believes the best is none too good for its readers.

TRIED TO CUT HIS THROAT FIRE HOSE STOPS HIM

Stream of Eighty Pounds Pressure Centred on Chest Knocks Would be Suicide Over.

RAZOR TAKEN AWAY

Special to The Examiner:

CLAREMONT, N. H., AUG. 26.—As a suicide preventive the Fire Department proved itself a great success today. Despondent as the result of a long continued illness, Dwight H. Johnson, a retired manufacturer, obtained a razor and entered a small shed in the rear of a store with the intention of ending his life. He was seen by several persons and within a short time a large crowd assembled.

J. H. Ober, the Chief of Police, and his officers attempted to reach Johnson, but every time any one approached he raised the razor to his throat. Finally, while the Chief kept him engaged in conversation a policeman went after a hose company. Quietly the firemen stretched four hundred feet of hose from the nearest hydrant, and when the connection was made a stream with an eighty pound pressure was directed at Johnson's chest.

The stream upset him among several dozen vinegar bottles stored in the shed, and for the next two minutes there was a mixup of Johnson, policemen, and hosemen. Johnson managed to gash his throat and one hand, but he was overpowered before he was seriously hurt.

FIRM BELIEVER IN THE VALUE OF ADVERTISING IN THE NEWSPAPER

W. B. Duffy Founder of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey Relates His Experience With Advertising.

A PERSISTENT ADVERTISER

One of the most remarkable cases of advertising success during the past decade or more is that of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. While this medicinal whiskey has been before the American people since 1860, vigorous advertising was only begun eleven years ago, and during these eleven years this Company has paid to the daily newspapers of the United States about $4,000,000 for advertising.

In an interview with Mr. W. B. Duffy, founder of the business, to whose knowledge and business sagacity the company owes its present high standing, in answer to the question, "To what do you owe your greatest success?" he said: "First of all, to an article of merit, skilfully and vigorously advertised. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, made to comply with the test requirements of the U. S. Pharmacopeia, is an article of purity and worth, as attested by cians and chemists. It is made from scores of testimonials from physi-carefully selected materials and is as pure and clean a food-medicine as science and skill can produce.

"I always felt that with a meritorious article, if one could have the courage to use the daily press liberally, so as to acquaint the reader with the real worth of the article advertised, he would inevitably meet with success.

"Being a great believer in the power of the daily newspapers to convey to the public a knowledge of a needed article, I am convinced they are worth all other mediums combined.

"Of course, I know there are people who think they can advertise anything and make the people buy, without any regard to the merits of the article. In my fifty years' experience I have seen many advertisers start and make failures; but this is not the fault of the newspapers, the fault lay with the inferior article and the advertiser's wrong conception of the judgment and intelligence of the American people.

Advertising is a science requiring knowledge and skill. Your copy must be convincing so as to attract the attention of the consumers, the rest depends on the standard of the goods advertised.

"In our experience, results from advertising in the daily newspapers have been quick and satisfactory and as long as we continue to sell Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, an article as good as represented, the Public Press will be the means of informing the public of the fact.

"I have always refrained from giving interviews to the newspapers, but in view of the benefit we have derived from their powerful influence I feel justified in the present statement.

"While many are complaining of dullness of business, ours, during the past year, has been very satisfactory, due, no doubt, to the extra advertising we have been doing.

"For the coming year, beginning September, we propose to spend more money in advertising than was ever spent in any one year in the history of our business, and, from experience, we believe the returns will warrant the outlay."

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk, but avoid substitutes.

CUTS NOSE OFF

Rejected Suitor Uses Razor to Mutilate Woman

ZANESVILLE, O., AUG. 26.—Mrs. Sarah McGee, twenty years old, a divorced woman, was attacked to-day with a razor by Charles Johnson, 21 years old, whom she had refused to marry. Johnson cut off the woman's nose and slashed her cheeks. In trying to defend herself she was badly cut about the hands and wrists. Johnson was captured. He had been trying to force his attentions on the woman for some time, it is said, and she had refused his offer of marriage. While on her way to work she passed through a church yard, where Johnson lay in wait.

THE MIDWAY

Amusement Section of Big Toronto Fair Will be Even Better Than Ever

The Midway comes but once a year, but when it comes it brings good cheer.

In 1893 the management of the World's Fair at Chicago, who have set the pace for all other world's fairs since that time, devised as a chief attraction a Midway Plaisance. It embraced all the amusements of the world in tabloid form in the mile over which its course extended. And it added a new word to the English language on this continent. When the word "Midway" is used it signifies fun, a resort of rollicking pleasure. The Canadian National Exhibition has adopted the idea and every year provides a Midway that is a hummer yet clean, interesting and well regulated. While the purpose of the Canadian National Exhibition is primarily educative it would miss much of its colour and atmosphere without its Midway which is a necessary adjunct to any modern Exposition.

CHARLIE THORPE IS BACK FROM A TRIP TO ENGLAND

Had a Most Enjoyable Visit—Came Back on Same Boat as the British Grenadiers Band.

WON RACE ON BOARD

Charlie Thorpe, the well known middle distance runner, who has been a prominent figure in local athletics for some time through his connection with the Y.M.C.A. and Victoria Harriers and by his showing in the last three Examiner road races, returned to Peterborough this morning after a five weeks' visit to his home in Brighton, England.

Mr. Thorpe had been employed in Toronto for some months after leaving Peterborough and crossed the Atlantic on the monster excursion under the auspices of the Sons of England. He had a most enjoyable trip across the pond. On the voyage to England athletic sports were held on board and Charlie succeeded in carrying off the mile event, winning a handsome book case.

He sailed for Canada a week ago last night on the Canadian Northern Liner, "Royal George," which reached Quebec Wednesday night. An unusual treat was afforded the passengers on the British Grenadiers' Band en route for the Canadian National Exhibition was on board and played three concerts during the voyage.

CHARLIE THORPE,
Well-Known Runner, Who Has Returned to Peterborough After a Visit to England.

Mr. Thorpe may become a resident of Peterborough again, although his plans at present are uncertain. He regrets that he is not in shape to enter some of the events in the Penman games on Labour Day.

HER BROTHER HAD A MARVELLOUS ESCAPE

Mrs. T. D. Mullholland's Brother, Mr. Robert Pack of Tornoto Was in Michigan Smash up and Owes His Escape to His Changing His Berth.

A brother of Mrs. T. D. Mullholland, 483 Homewood Avenue, was a passenger on the Grand Trunk Chicago to Montreal express which was wrecked in a collision near Durand, Mich., yesterday, in the person of Mr. Robert F. Pack, secretary of the Toronto Electric Light Company, who owes his escape from death to his politeness in changing his berth at the request of a lady. The latter was killed. A Toronto despatch says:

TORONTO, AUG. 26.—Mr. Robert F. Pack, secretary of the Toronto Electric Light Co., had what was nothing short of miraculous luck. He had purchased lower berth No. 12 in the Nebraska, but at the request of a lady passengor who desired to have a berth next another lady friend, Mr. Pack exchanged berths. This placed Mr. Pack at the other end of the car, farthest from the rear. The lady with whom he exchanged berths was killed and Mr. Pack escaped.

Mr. Pack was averse to talking about the disaster at all, and would only say he was very thankful for his own escape from a horrible death. Those in the disaster and who escaped would never forget it.

C. P. R. INSTALLS NEW ELECTRIC SIGNAL SYSTEM

In Operation To-night For First Time at Mark and Maria Sts. East City---Latest Safety Device Invented for use of Railways.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company are installing new electric automatic signals on Mark and Maria street crossings, East City.

The signalling machine is manufactured by the General Electric Company, of Canada, Ottawa, and is known as "The Whyte Railway Crossing Signal."

The batteries for the signal are placed about 350 yards each side of the crossings. They are the same as regular telegraph batteries, and are placed in a steel pipe, which is sunk in the ground. A wire passes from this to the track and at each joint, two short steel wires are hooked through little holes drilled in the rail, to connect the current.

The signal itself is placed about fifteen feet from the crossing and is on the road. At night it shows a red electric light. It is composed of a steel, upright cylinder shaped bar, through the centre of which pass the wires, and at the top on each side of the cylinder is placed an electric light similar to that of a locomotive only a red light. Between the lights, the electric bells are placed, and when the train reaches the point where the batteries are installed the bell rings and continues ringing until the train passes the battery on the other side.

About the centre of the signal frame is a sign on which the words "Railway Crossing" and "Danger" are placed, in prominent letters.

The signal should be a very welcome addition to the railway's already up-to-date equipment, as these crossings were rather dangerous places on the line, especially at night.

TORONTO FORGER SUPPOSED TO HAVE OPERATED HERE

A man giving his name as John Bagley, the daring forger, was arrested last night in Toronto, about three hours before he was to take his leave from the city. He gives his home as Boise, Idaho. He was arrested on a Bathurst street car, while in company with a woman, who is supposed to be his wife, and a young child. The arrest was made by Detective Tipton.

As soon as the man was taken into the detective department he was at once recognized as a man against whom they had received complaint just a short time previously from Boston. There he was wanted for passing a bogus certified cheque on a steamship agent. The way he was connected with the Boston affair was as follows. He went into the ticket office of J. E. Suckling, King and Yonge streets, yesterday with three steamship tickets which he said he had been told to hand over by a woman who had postponed her trip to Europe on account of the death of a relative. Mr. Suckling was just in need of three tickets for some friends of his and wired about them to Boston. Back came the answer to hold the man who had them as he had bought them and given a bogus cheque. Bagley admitted that he was the man wanted.

Then came from Peekskill, N.Y., a request from the police to hold for passing a $500 bogus cheque a man who in practically every detail answered to the description of Bagley. He would not say anything about that whatever. He was also accused of being implicated with doing a number of stores in Peterborough some time ago out of hundreds of dollars' worth of goods, but he laughed at the accusation in a way that would indicate that stealing clothes was beneath him.

OFFICERS' MEETING.

An important meeting of the officers of the 57th Regiment will be held to-night at 8.30 o'clock in the armouries for the purpose of considering the taking of the men to Omemee on Labour Day to make use of the rifle ranges. A full attendance of officers is expected.

"THE PILLAR OF LIGHT."

The Examiner's new serial story, "The Pillar of Light," by Louis Tracy, begins to-morrow. You may have read it; if so you know how good it is and may want to go over it again. It is worth reading more than once. Anyway, tell your friends about it.

ST. ANDREW'S YOUNG PEOPLE ENTERTAINED

A very pleasant time was enjoyed by the members of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's church yesterday afternoon at the camp of Mr. and Mrs. A. Patterson, Crawford's Grove. The launch "Awawegaug" did good service in giving the party the trip on the river, and at 6.30 supper was served. The night was spent in games and songs around the camp fire, and after hearty cheers for the host and hostess the party were conveyed home, having enjoyed a splendid time.

STOP DREDGING

It is Announced That Work Will Be Stopped at Once.

AID FAREWELL

Dorcas Society Regret Loss of Mrs. Rankin Who Has Done Great Work Among the Poor of the City.

The ladies of the "Dorcas Society" met on Wednesday afternoon to bid farewell to their much esteemed president, Mrs. W. G. Rankin, at her home, 596 Gilmour street.

For the past two winters Mrs. Rankin has pioneered a good work among the poor and needy of the city, opening up her home to receive clothing and provisions of all sorts and to any amount, and then sallied forth to investigate the needs of many a poor and destitute home. There are many in the city to-day who have ample cause to remember Mrs. Rankin's cheery face as she went in and out among them.

Great regret is felt by the members of the society at the loss of Mrs. Rankin, but were earnestly admonished by her over the tea table on Wednesday to carry on the good work in the coming winter, if the need arose, which the ladies willingly agreed to do.

Mr. Rankin has bought a beautiful home in North Bay, having secured a substantial position with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. The best wishes of all their friends follow them to their new home.

CANADIAN CLUB

Will Have Outing Down the River Next Friday.

The Canadian Club has arranged an outing down the river for its members to take place on Friday afternoon next, Sept. 2. The fast steamer "Empress" of the Stoney Lake Navigation Company's fleet, has been chartered for the occasion, and will take the club to Idyl Wyld, where supper will be partaken of. It promises to be one of the most enjoyable outings of the season.

IS DIFFERENT.

"The Pillar of Light," Louis Tracy's fascinating romance which begins to-morrow, is different from "The House of the Whispering Pines" and "The Sky-Man," the Examiner's last two story hits, but is even better. If you enjoyed them, you will like the new offering.

AT THE OVAL

St. John's Tennis Club Will Spend the Afternoon There.

FIRE IS A MYSTERY

English Lad, Employed on Farm, Is Suspected of Knowing Something of the Origin of Thirty Thousand Dollar Blaze—He Was Last Seen Driving West With Horse and Rig Belonging to Employer.

Welland, Aug. 26.—The village of Wellandport suffered a bad fire early yesterday morning, whereby all of the northern half of the business section was wiped out, with a loss of $30,000, one-third covered by insurance.

The origin is a mystery. It broke out in Goring's general store about 3.30. There were no lights or fires about the place and everything was in good shape when Goring had locked up at 11 p.m.

Suspicion exists that Arthur Powell, an English lad, aged 16, employed by Emerson Jamieson, a farmer, knows something about the affair. Powell disappeared from the Jamieson home about midnight, taking one of Jamieson's horses and a buggy. Yesterday morning at nine o'clock he was seen driving west at Smithville. A warrant has been issued.

Manager Urquhart of the Sterling Bank was awakened at 3.30 by breaking glass, and found the front of the Goring store ablaze. In half an hour the flames were being fought by two or three hundred villagers. Being without regular appliances there was nothing for it but to form a bucket brigade. In two hours the fire had burned itself out, for the buildings were all frame. The south side was saved largely by reason of the wind, though Walter Misener's house, the Empire store, Flatt's house, and a store owned by Sutherland, caught at different times.

Losses are: J. R. Goring, postoffice and residence, value $1,800, insurance $1,200; W. E. Ricker, house and barn, value $1,500, insurance $1,000; R. J. Goring, store building, general stock, value $15,000, insurance $4,500; J. Huber, barn and dwelling, value $1,000, insurance $650; W. T. Sutherland, shop and contents, harness and implements, house and contents, value $5,000, insurance $1,500; Walter Abel, residence (J. A. Ross, M.P.P., owner), value $900, insurance $500; F. Flatt, barn (H. B. Brooks, owner), value $1,500, no insurance; Bell Telephone Co., office and fixtures, $1,000.

The Gore Mutual of Galt carried most of the insurance. R. J. Goring announces that he will not rebuild, but James A. Ross, M.P.P., has decided to at once begin the construction of a brick block for stores and offices.

Adam Beamer, a farmer four miles north of Wellandport, brought into town a number of charred shingles that had dropped on his farm.

In 1882 almost the entire village was destroyed. J. R. Goring is the only one who suffered in both fires.

Conflagration Due to Poor Water.

Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 26.—In a paper read before the International Association of Fire Engineers yesterday, Chief Edward F. Croker of New York declared that the most disastrous fires that have visited this country have been due to inadequate water facilities, and that mains, ordinarily good, fail in great conflagrations, and that to this is due the failure to cope with them.

Chief Croker said the fire departments should not hesitate to ask for all needed improvements for fire fighting and that cities should grant appropriations for such.

In a discussion of telephone alarms, the chiefs declared preference for box alarms, as telephones caused trouble and was often indefinite. They were good as auxiliary alarms only, they held.

Chief John Thompson of Toronto, Ont., will be elected president. The only contest is for the second vice-presidency, between Chief Thomas W. Haney of Jacksonville, Fla., and Chief H. F. Magee of Dallas, Texas.

There is said to be no opposition to Milwaukee as the next convention city.

General French's Report.

London, Aug. 26.—The Canadian Associated Press learns that a copy of the report of Gen. Sir John French upon the military organization of the defences of the Dominion has been forwarded to Ottawa. The conclusion arrived at by Gen. French is understood to be entirely favorable. He accords unqualified praise to the spirit in which the voluntary forces meet the demands made upon them. He strongly recommended as far as the western provinces are concerned, that much more attention should be paid to cavalry and mounted infantry training, and that additions as specified in the report should be made to artillery.

Hardy Under Arrest.

Toronto, Aug. 27.—Charles Hardy, alias "Cockney Charlie," wanted since May for the murder of Thomas Horder proprietor of the Saranac Hotel, Queen and Soho streets, was arrested yesterday at Fort Frances, Ont. Detective Sockett will bring him back.

Horder was struck by this man on the night of May 17 last and died a week later of a fractured skull.

HALF DOZEN ARE DEAD

Railroad Men Say That Disastrous Rear-End Collision Where Pullman Car Was Destroyed Was Caused by Inexperience of Train Crew—Dead Are All Americans—Three Canadians Are Hurt.

Durand, Mich., Aug. 26.—Superintendent Sharke of the Grand Trunk Railway gave out a statement last night that six passengers were killed, five were injured and eight escaped without injury from the telescoped Pullman car in the Grand Trunk rear-end collision, three miles east of here, late Wednesday night, when the Pullman car Nebraska, in eastbound train No. 14, was demolished and set on fire by the locomotive passenger train No. 4.

The forward section of No. 14 had stopped because of an accident to the airbrakes and Engineer Mitchell had crawled under his engine to locate the trouble, and was still there when the crash came.

The locomotive of the section following, No. 2, plowed half way through the sleeper Nebraska, and the locomotive's firebox set fire to the car.

The passengers in the rear berths had not the slightest chance to escape and those not killed by the crashing timbers as the locomotive forged through the sleeper were burned to death in the fire that followed.

The cause of the wreck is veiled in mystery and an inquest will be held by Coroner Patchell. The State Railway Commission will also likely conduct an enquiry, as it is stated that former strikebreakers figured largely in the crews of both trains.

"If the Grand Trunk had been a little more prompt in fulfilling its promises to its former employes the wreck would probably not have occurred," said R. M. Branton, president of one of the brotherhoods of railroad trainmen locals. "The crew of the wrecked passenger train was evidently inexperienced."

The dead are:
James McBean, Chicago.
Mrs. Alma Woodward, en route Belfields, N.D., to Port Huron, Mich.
Nurse accompaning Mrs. Woodward from St. John's Hospital, Halifax.
Mrs. Squires, residence unknown.
— Squires, 10 years old.
Mrs. E. M. Gilpin, Chicago.
The injured one:
Mrs. Leslie Dochlar, Tavistock.
Albert B. Watts, Edmonton, Alta.
Mrs. F. H. McBean, Chicago, mother of James McBean, who was killed.
Mrs. S. A. Sheltez, Chicago.
Clinton A. Davis, Montreal, son of Mrs. Woodward, who was killed.
George Nelson, fireman of the second train, probably fatally scalded.
Burt Mitchell, engineer of the forward train; crushed; may die.

Passengers who escaped the wreck at Durand, Mich., reached Toronto at noon yesterday, and gave vivid accounts of the catastrophe.

D. F. Gillespie, of Elgin, Ill., was in the telescoped car, about the middle. He was nearly burned in the debris, and nearly suffocated by steam, gas and heat. Breaking through a window he escaped with a few clothes. Ten were killed in the car.

Wm. Johnston of Edmonton, on his way to visit his brothers at Islington, says the collision came immediately after the torpedoes exploded, while F. J. Crofton said the wreck occurred 20 minutes after the train had been stalled. He was in a day coach, and was knocked out for a while.

"The engineer of our train was under his engine when the crash came. He was pulled out from the centre of the first coach, so far had the crash pushed the train. His scalp was completely torn off," said one of the Pullman porters.

According to Miss Kate Moxley of Auburn, N.Y., who was in the coach next to the one wrecked, the collision was not very violent, for she imagined that another car was being coupled on.

"Presently a man came into the car and told us we were quite safe, but we had better get dressed and get out on the track as the car behind was on fire," said Miss Moxley.

"The most singular thing about the whole affair was that not a groan was heard, everything was as quiet as if nothing had happened, there were no agonizing groans heard at all.

"The hero of the hour appeared to me to be a man who got off the train at West Toronto. He was in the ill-fated car and escaped in his pyjamas, but not waiting to dress, he ran into the wrecked car and succeeded in saving three women. I think he is J. E. Dade of Little Forks, Minn."

"There was a nurse, a Miss Harriet Harby, the superintendent of St. Barnabas Hospital, Indiana, who deserved great credit, too. She at once went to work with the wounded engineer and fireman. The latter was so badly injured about the head that his brain was visible, and Miss Harby was most courageous and useful.

"There were no groans heard at all after the first few minutes."

Dr. C. S. Dunham of Frankville, Ont., was another of the passengers on the train.

Arthur B. Watts, who is reported to have had his face and hands burned, is editor of The Edmonton Daily Capital and Saturday News, and was formerly editor of The Woodstock Sentinel-Review. He is a son of the late Sheriff Watt of Brantford, and is a graduate of Toronto University.

R. F. Park, secretary of the Toronto Electric Light Co., was one of the passengers on No. 14, and while he escaped injury, he received a severe shock to his nerves.

Company's Statement.

Montreal, Aug. 26.—An official statement regarding the accident at Durand, Mich., Wednesday night, says:

As a result of preliminary investigation, it is shown that the flagman went back a little over half a mile and gave proper signals to stop the New York train. It was a clear night, and the lights and switch lights in and round the station at Durand could be seen plainly from where the Montreal train stood. The flagman gave stop signals with his red lamp continuously until the New York train exploded the torpedo which he had put on the track, and the flagman had to get off the track to keep from being run over.

Further investigation is being made as to why the New York train did not respond to the signals. The markers on the rear of the Montreal train were properly displayed, and after the accident occurred the one on the left-hand side was found on the ground sitting upright and the light still burning brightly.

The conductor, who was standing at the rear of the Montreal train heard the torpedo explode and saw his flagman giving the stop signals. There were also passengers on the Montreal train who were standing on the ground and heard the torpedo explode and saw the stop signals given.

Football Injuries Fatal.

Brantford, Aug. 26.—Ernest Savage, son of George Savage, farmer of Hatchley, is dead from injuries received while playing football in a game between Harley and Hatchley teams at Morris Woods on Friday last. The game was very rough. Savage made a check on Charles Radford, a Harley player, who had the ball, and it is thought he received Radford's knee in the stomach, causing internal injuries. A young man named Robinson was also badly injured, but will recover.

Duke of Norfolk Will Not Attend.

Montreal, Aug. 26.—The announcement made last night on behalf of Archbishop Bruchesi, that information had been received from England stating that the Duke of Norfolk could not attend the Eucharistic Congress, has caused keen regret among Roman Catholics.

German Gets Busy.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 26.—William Manley German, Liberal member for Welland, is in Ottawa, holding a conference with Deputy Postmaster-General Coulter regarding free mail delivery for this city.

S.O.E. Trippers Return.

Montreal, Aug. 26.—The 150 members of the Sons of England, who have been visiting England, arrived last night on the steamship Royal George.

One man induced 25 of his old chums to come to Canada and settle at Brampton, Ont.

Peerless Peninsular

—the right range for your kitchen

When we say that the "Peerless Peninsular" is the right range for your kitchen, we mean right in every respect. There is no range on the market which combines so many good points in efficiency, convenience and economy as the "Peerless".

It is the best type of cast-iron range. And a cast-iron range will last longer than any other kind. At the same time, it includes all the advantages of the best steel ranges in its construction, having a steel oven, steel drop oven door, and a larger oven than any other range in proportion to size.

All "Peerless" Ovens are 20 inches deep. And this is 20 inches actual depth of oven floor, no account being taken of the projection of the oven door. When opened, the oven door drops down level with the oven floor, forming a shelf on which the largest baking dishes or roasting pans can be drawn and basting done without holding the pan.

"Peerless Peninsular" has a damper that lets you regulate the heat just as you want it. You know the ordinary damper — either wide open or shut tight — which means no heat or too much heat. This adjustable damper may be set for quick baking at full draft or anything between, and regulated to ¼ inch. The oven door being made of 2 sheets of steel with air-space between, keeps the heat in the oven and saves fuel.

PATTERNS OF ALL PARTS ARE KEPT FOR 20 YEARS.

If accidents should happen, and any part of your range get broken, you can always duplicate Grate Bars, Fire Backs, Legs, Doors, etc., at any time. We keep patterns of all parts for 20 years —so that your order through your dealer can be filled quickly and exactly. This is only one of the satisfactory features in connection with buying ranges made by an old and reliable Canadian Foundry.

Harmony Peninsular is similar in essential features but more elaborately decorated.

Constant Peninsular is different from the other mainly in plainer design and finish.

Adanac Peninsular—plain in design with swing door for those who prefer it.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has a uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

of Toronto West End Y.M.C.A., Canadian Half-mile Champion 1908. Time, 1.58 2-5. Parks was not in condition last year and did not defend his title at Winnipeg, but is back in his old-time form and will be one of the West End standbys for the Penman trophy. Parks is also a member of West End Canadian champion relay team, who, with Tait, Sebert, Brock, will be here for the relay race, as well as several other events.

The Britishers Lose Again
Were Beaten In Toronto
Alexandras Up 7 Shots

The Toronto Star says:

The British Bowlers played their first game in Toronto to-day, and fell before the prowess of the Alexandras. The game, which was played on the lawns of the Alexandras this morning, was exciting in spots, and the gallery of ladies and gentlemen, who gathered to honour the visitors, had an ejoyable time. Rink to rink the result was a tie, each club winning two games, but on total points the Britishers were seven points down. The score:

British	Alexandras
B. Thomas	R. Smith
Jas. Walker	T. C. Kent,
John Pillans	Fred Keek
Wm. McColl	Dr. Paul
Skip—11	Skip—21
British	Alexandras
A. Smith	Chas. Hickling
A. W. Stewart	H. E. Taylor
J. A. McLean	Jackson Little
Rev W. Earee	D. McLaren
Skip—22	Skip—14
British	Alexandras
J. Fleming	J. W. Foster
J. S. Allson	S. D. Reid
W. Wilson	J. W. Marks
J. Kirkland	Dr. Hamill
Skip—17	Skip—15
British	Alexandras
E. Pickard	Dr. Hooper
T. Jeffrey	W. C. Brent
P. Scott	L. E. Amsden
J. T. Morrison	A. E. Stovel
Skip—12	Skip—19

Grand total, British, 61; Alexandras 69.

The feature of the game was the seven end Dr. McLaren handed Rev. W. Earee. McLaren lay short in the 15th end, when he ran out his own bowl and left the Britishers seven.

Dr. Hamill and S. Kirkland had a lively game. It was even all 14 to 14 on the fourteenth end, but the visitors pulled away after that.

Johnny Pillans was the life of the game.

"Mind your feet," he shouted as he took a runner. "I dinna want to break a leg," he said. And his advice was good, for the bowls bounded high when he crashed his bowl in the mass. He viewed the last end perched on the back of Fred Kelk, his opponent's vice-skip.

The party was entertained at luncheon at the club and this afternoon are the guests of the Granite Club.

C. G. E. Team Is To Play
St. James' Church Eleven

The Canadian General Electric soccer team which will play for the Peoples Shield, emblematic of the championship of Canada at the Toronto Exhibition are hard at work getting into shape for the near-at-hand contests and confidently hope to make a good showing. The men are eager and determined to do their best and they are leaving no stone unturned in their training in order that they may be in the best of shape. To-morrow they will play a game with the James street Methodist church team at Nicholls Oval, the kick-off being billed for 2.30 o'clock. The St. James' team is a formidable aggregation, being composed for the most part of Old Country players and they are expected to give the Midland League champions a hard argument for the honours to-morrow. Several stars from the tight little isle are included on the Methodists' line-up and it will be a game well worth seeing. It is hoped that there will be a large turnout, as the financial help in making the trip to Toronto would be appreciated b ythe Electricians.

The Canadian General team will have the following line-up:

Goal—Carlton.
Backs—Evans, Brownlee.
Halves—Allen, Pagett, Milburn.
Forwards—Williams, Baird, Miller, Evans, French.
Mr. Arthur will referee.

The C. G. E. team is scheduled to meet the Toronto Thistles in the first round for the Shield in Toronto a week from to-morrow, Saturday, Sept. 3.

Are West Ends To Have A Junior O. H. A. Team?

The Examiner is informed that the West End Athletic Club may be represented in the junior O. H. A. ranks by a team this winter. Just how much truth is in this statement has not been ascertained. However, it will probably depend upon whether or not the Peterborough Hockey Club will place a team in the junior list. If this is decided upon there is no room for the West Ends or any other aggregation. Two teams in a city of Peterborough's size is just one team too many. Fans have not forgotten last season when a royal chance to annex the junior title was thrown away because the best players were divided up between two junior teams. Let all the star youngsters get together this season and they will go some distance. It doesn't matter whether they play under the name of the West End Athletic Club or of the Peterborough Hockey Club but let there be only the one team.

Papke Arranges For Four Bouts In Australia

CHICAGO, AUG. 26.—At a conference between promoter Hugh McIntosh of Australia, and Billy Papke, claimant of the world's middleweight title, an agreement was drawn up, whereby Papke will meet four middleweights in Australia during a period not covering more than 20 weeks. The four men named are Dave Smith, Arthur Cripps, Edward Williams and Lee O'Donnell, all of whom are practically unknown to Americans. It also was agreed that none of these fighters shall weigh more than 165 pounds ringside.

Toronto's Chance For The Eastern League Pennant

Torontos have 34 championship games yet to play, most of them with the other western teams, Montreal, Buffalo and Rochester, and if they can continue their present average of victories should come pretty close to the pennant-winners. The games yet to play:

Jersey City at Stadium Aug. 25, 26, 27.
Providence at Stadium, Sept. 1, 2, 3.
At Rochester Sept. 5, a.m. and p.m., 6, 7.
At Buffalo, Sept. 8, 9, 10, two games.
Montreal at Stadium, Sept. 12, 13, 14, 15.
At Montreal Sept. 16, 17, 18.
Rochester at Stadium, Sept. 19, 20, 21. (Six games).
Buffalo at Stadium, Sept. 22, 23, 24, (five games).

Newark plays away from home for the rest of the season, except for six games, and may not be factors in the race. The sailors have nine games with Baltimore, which will about eliminate them as contenders.

Rochester is the team to beat, and the ten games yet to be played between the Torontos and the Bronchos may decide the championship.

WHY THE DECADENCE OF SPORT IN THIS DISTRICT?

What is the matter with summer sport in the Midland district? Peterborough is not an isolated case. From Lindsay, Port Hope, Cobourg, Belleville and other town comes the same complaint. No lacrosse, very little baseball; absolutely a blank sporting calendar. Why is it?

Years ago lacrosse supplied the inhabitants of the different burgs with enough excitement to carry them through the dogs days without danger of dying from ennui or dry rot. Lacrosse seems to have passed into a legend as far as the district is concerned.

Baseball came along and the Midland League proved a source of amusement until utter disregard for the rules over-strained and finally broke down the organization. Now there is nothing. This city has had a ball league, so has Belleville, but in Lindsay there has not been even that much. And the towns of the district are all noted as good sporting centres. What is the matter?

In the winter every town has a hockey team and sporting fever is at its height. In the summer the chief amusement is watching the trains come in.

For the last time can some one explain it? The Examiner cannot.

STILL COMING TO CANADA.

Grand Trunk Pacific Train No. 1 had four extra cars out of Winnipeg August 18th, with 150 American farmers for different points along the line in the Prairie Provinces. These homeseekers laugh at the fake back to Uncle Sam stories. Many of them have already visited the West and have located their homesteads or bought land. They argue that a new country which has never had a total failure in a quarter of a century is a good gamble.

PARTY FROM BRISTOL COMING TO CANADA.

A party of Bristol merchants and manufacturers sailed from Avonmouth August 18th as a special delegation to Canada for the purpose of looking into the possibilities that are available in the Dominion.

The party will arrive in Quebec on Wednesday, August 24th and a series of entertainments are being arranged for them by the Harbour Commission of Montreal and the Boards of Trade of Quebec, Montreal and other cities.

As the prominent manufacturing towns and cities in Eastern Canada are situated on the Grand Trunk railway the party spend most of their time on this line and Mr. Wm. P. Fitzsimons, Commissioner of Industries, G. T. R'y, Montreal left for Quebec last Saturday to meet the party on their arrival.

This party is a very influential one and their visit will no doubt be of great benefit to Canada.

Don't forget the trip to the Thousand Islands to-morrow. Special leaves G. T. R. station 6 a.m., returning same day. Fare $2.10 return. Tickets on train.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Arthur Hunt, aged 14, an orphan, was drowned at Peterboro.

Buffalo's population is officially announced as 423,715, an increase of 20 per cent.

Contracts have been filed for the building in Warsaw, Wis., of a Government experiment station for testing wood pulp.

The Yarmouth (Eng.) Guardians have been informed that the boys who have emigrated to Canada are doing well, earning two dollars weekly with board. They decided to continue the emigration scheme.

The wind was so strong in Brantford yesterday that it blew $160 in bills of various denomination from the counter of R. J. Montgomery, local retail liquor dealer out into the street. Montgomery recovered only $100.

The Russian Ministry of War has placed an order for artillery amounting to $1,450,000 with the Creusot Works in France. The appropriation was voted with the understanding that it would be expended in Russia.

Niagara Falls Mystery.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 26.—Deep mystery attaches to the receipt of a telegram dated from Niagara Falls, N.Y., relating to the disappearance of Harry Campbell, 17, and Bernard Beach, 18, two country lads from Kalida, Ohio. Raymond Campbell and Charles Beach are here from the Ohio village conducting a search for the missing boys. The boys arrived at the Falls on Tuesday morning on an excursion, intending to stay a few days on the Canadian side, they said, before leaving for home. On Wednesday a telegram to Campbell's father, who is seriously ill, read: "Come quick. Harry." The message caused alarm in the Campbell home and two searchers were sent here to make inquiries. None of the Falls telegraph offices can trace the telegram. The police on both sides never heard anything of the missings boys. The two lads apparently dropped out of existence as completely as though the earth had suddenly swallowed them.

MRS. M'WILLIAMS REMEMBERED

The North End Reading Circle met at Mrs. Boucher's yesterday afternoon for a farewell tea to Mrs. Roland McWilliams. She has been a most valuable and popular member for nine years. The members of the Reading Circle part from her with deep regret. They presented her with a handsome silver entree dish.

BUFFALO PARK, WAINWRIGHT.

Advices received by the Grand Trunk Railway from the Superintendend of the Canadian National Buffalo Park at Wainwright gives the information that there are now 752 buffalo including calves, born this year, in the enclosure. There are about 100 buffalo left on the Pablo ranch in Montana, and the final roundup will be made about October. When these remaining buffalo are added to Buffalo Park it will make the largest herd in the world, and, in fact, the only herd of any consequence in existence. This Park is one of the interesting features of Wainwright on the Grand Trunk Railway.

ENGLAND VS. CANADA.

Old Land Cadets Beat Local Boys In Team Rifle Match.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.—There was a very strong wind at the D.R.A. matches yesterday, so strong that many put as high as 25 degrees of wind on their sights, in the Burland match at 1,000 yards. The wind was very tricky, but in spite of these unfavorable weather conditions, Sergt. Armstrong of the 13th, Hamilton, put on eight bulls, making a possible.

The executive has under consideration the adoption of a uniform sight for next year. As it is now, the sights are so varied that every rifleman can have a pet one of his own.

The grand aggregate match is nearing a close. There is only one more range, with a possible of 35, to shoot over to-day. Lieut. Morris of Bowmanville has a lead of 3 points now. The leaders are: Lieut. Morris, 46th D.C.O.R., 271; Col.-Sergt. Freeborn, 13th, 268; Pte. Bailie, G.G.F.G., 264; Sergt. Carmichael, Alberta, 262; Pte. Clifford, 10th R.G., Toronto, 262; Sergt. Mitchell, 13th, 262; Lieut. Forrester, Canadian Engineers, 262.

In the special team match at 200 and 500 yards (possible 700), ten English cadets defeated ten Canadian cadets by 606 to 569. The Canadian team scores were: W. Luddy, Dundas, 200 yards 30, 500 yards 31; C. Mallette, Dundas, 31 and 31; H. H. Hawkes, Toronto, 30 and 18; R. L. Hughes, Toronto, 26 and 26; J. H. Gould, Toronto, 27 and 31; P. Landrigan, Prince Edward Island, 30 and 27; G. W. Devitt, Toronto, 30 and 31; A. D. Bell Irving, Victoria, 29 and 29; G. Holder, Ottawa, 30 and 31; J. Loggie, Hamilton, 27 and 26.

Teams of six men from any corps, at 600 and 800 yards:

1. Cup and $60: 91st Highlanders, Hamilton, score 527, viz., Team Major McLaren 92, Capt. Millen 90, Staff-Sergt. Garson 87, Sergt. Stoddart 87, Sergt. Neal 83, Pte. Sleeson 88. 2. $48: 6th D.C.O.R., Vancouver, 526. 3. $38: Royal Canadian Regiment, 525. 4. $32: G.G.F.G., Ottawa, 518. 5. $18: 3rd Vics., Montreal, 517.

For teams of four officers, 200 and 600 yards: Winner, 6th D.C.O.R., Vancouver, score 361.

One hundred and fifty-nine prizes value $822, 600 yards, 7 rounds: $17.67 and cup, Lc.-Corpl V. A. Driver, 90th, 35; $17.67, Pte. A. Gordon, 91st, 35; $17.66, Capt. V. R. Spearing, 53rd, 35; $12, A. R. Sergt. J. Moscrop, 6th D.C.O.R., 34.

"MONTREAL OF THE WEST."

This Is What New Westminster Tells Premier It Wants to Be Called.

New Westminster, B.C., Aug. 26.—The royal city gave Sir Wilfrid Laurier a hearty welcome. The visit here was not on the original schedule, and was made possible by the fast trip of the G.T.P. steamship "Prince George" down from Prince Rupert to Vancouver. During the trip Sir Wilfrid passed President Hays and Chairman Smithers of the Grand Trunk Pacific, who were en route to terminal city.

Like Vancouver, this city asked for harbor improvements, which would make New Westminster the "Montreal of the West," and put the Fraser river on an equality with the St. Lawrence. The local Trades and Labor Council asked for the abolition of the bonus to aid immigration, exclusion of all Orientals, an eight-hour day law, public holiday for elections, and abolition of property qualification for candidates for Commons. They described the Lumbermen's Association as an "essential trust," and they condemned the Belcourt Anti-International Union Bill. They also asked for the Dominion co-operative act, and commended the appointment of the Commission of Technical Education.

Sir Wilfrid, regarding bonuses, explained that bonuses were given only for agricultural laborers, and not for artisans. Demands for harbor developments he met by the statement that he was "willing to do every thing that is to be done," but added that these demands "staggered a progressive but economical Government." (Laughter.)

J. D. Taylor, Conservative M.P., took a leaf out of Premier McBride's book and occupied a seat on the platform. J. D. Thornton, M.P., of Ontario, accompanied Mr. Taylor.

MOIR IN THE CENTRAL.

Insane Prisoner Is Removed to Place of Greater Safety.

Toronto, Aug. 26.—It will be a great surprise to many to learn that Moir, the insane murderer, who recently made his escape from the Hamilton Asylum, is again away from that Institution, but this time under supervision of the necessary authorities. On Wednesday afternoon he was brought down from Hamilton on the C.P.R., and is now located in a cell at the Central Prison.

The removal was effected secretly, and it is believed that the Hamilton authorities considered him too dangerous a man to have in an asylum. It is believed that Moir is eventually to be taken to the Kingston Penitentiary, but no details of any further removal could be gained.

It was supposed that the provincial Cabinet would pass an order in council, creating an insane ward in the Central Prison, but at the conclusion of the Cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon Hon. J. J. Foy, acting Premier, refused to say anything about the matter.

Warden Gilmour decline last night to say what special arrangements were being made for looking after Moir.

"The unfortunate man has been given too much notoriety already," he declared.

Earl Grey May Hurry Back.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who will conclude his tour by a speech at Medicine Hat on Wednesday, will at once return east, with a view of reaching Montreal in time for the opening of the Eucharistic Congress.

It is also stated that Earl Grey has his eyes upon the big gathering in Montreal the week after next, and unofficial advices have reached here that His Excellency will cut out his visit to Newfoundland, and will reach Montreal early in September, in lead of on Sept. 15, as originally contemplated.

"THE PILLAR OF LIGHT"

By Louis Tracy. (Copyrighted).

CHAPTER I.

FLOTSAM.

All night long the great bell of the lighthouse, slung to a stout beam projecting seaward beneath the outer platform, had tolled its warning through the fog. The monotonous ticking of the clock work attachment that governed it, the sharp and livilier click of the occulting hood's machinery, were the only sounds which alternated with its deep boom. The tremendous clang sent a thrill through the giant column itself, and pealed away into the murky void with a tremolo of profound diminutions.

Overhead, the magnificent lantern, its eight-ringed circle of flame burning at full pressure, illumined the drifting vapour with an intensity that seemed to be born of the sturdy granite pillar of which it was the fitting diadem. Hard and strong externally as the everlasting rock on which it stood, replete within with burnished steel and polished brass, great cylinders and powerful pumps, the lighthouse thrust its glowing torch beyond the reach of the most daring wave. Cold, dour, defiant it looked. Yet its superhuman eye sought to pierce the very heart of the fog, and the furnace white glare, concentrated ten thousand-fold by the encircling hive of the dioptric lens, flung far into the gloom a silvery cloak of moon-like majesty.

At last an irresistible ally sprang to the assistance of the unconquerable light. About the close of the middle watch a gentle breeze from the Atlantic followed the tide and swept the shivering wraith landward to the northeast, whilst the first beams of a June sun completed the destruction of the routed spectre.

So, once more, as on the dawn of the third day, the waters under the heaven were gathered into one place, and the dry land appeared, and behold, it was good.

On the horizon, the turquoise rim of the sea lay with the sheen of folded silk against the softer canopy of the sky. Towards the west a group of islands, to which drifting banks of mist clung in melting despair, were etched in shadows of dreamy purple. Over the nearer sea-floor the quickly dying vapour spread a hazy pall of opal tints. Across the face of the waters glistening bands of emerald green and serene blue quivered in fairy lights. The slanting rays of the sun threw broadcast a golden mirage and gilded all things with the dumb gladness of an English summer's day.

A man, pacing the narrow gallery beneath the lantern, halted for a moment to flood his soul afresh with a beauty made entrancing by the knowledge that a few brief minutes would resolve it into maturer and more familiar charms.

He was engaged, it is true, in the unromantic action of filling his pipe, —a simple thing, beloved alike of poet and navvies,—yet his eyes drank in the mute glory of the scene, and, captive to the spell of the hour, he murmured aloud:

"Floating on waves of music and of light,
Behold, the chariot of the Fairy Queen!
Celestial coursers paw the unyielding air;
Their filmy pennons at her word they furl,
And stop obedient to the reins of light."

The small door beneath the glass fane was open. The worker within, busily cleaning an eight-inch burner, ceased for an instant and popped his head out.

"Did you hail me?" he inquired.

The matter-of-fact words awoke the dreamer. He turned with a pleasant smile.

"To be exact, Jim, I did hail somebody, but it was Aurora, Spirit of the Dawn, not a hard-bitten sailor-man like you."

"Oh, that's all right, cap'n. I thought I heard you singin' out for a light."

The other man bent his head to shield a match from a puff of wind, thus concealing from his companion the gleam of amusement in his eyes. His mate sniffed the fragrant odour of the tobacco longingly, but the Elder Brethren of the Trinity maintain strict discipline, and he vanished to his task without a thought of broken rules.

He left a piece of good advice behind him.

"If I wos you, cap'n," he said, "I'd turn in. Jones is feelin' At this mornin'. He comes on at eight. You ought to be dead beat after your double spell of the last two days. I'll keep breakfast back until three bells (9.30 a.m.), an' there's fresh eggs an', haddick."

"Just a couple of whiffs, Jim. Then I'll go below."

Both men wore the uniform of assistant-keepers, yet it needed not their manner of speech to reveal that one was a gentleman, born and bred, and the other a bluff, good-natured, horny-handed A.B., to whom new-laid eggs and recently cured fish appealed far more potently than Shelley and a summer dawn at sea.

He who had involuntarily quoted "Queen Mab" turned his gaze seaward again. Each moment the scene was becoming more brilliant yet nearer to earth. The far-off islands sent splashes of gray, brown and green through the purple. The rose flush on the horizon was assuming a yellower tinge and the blue of sky and water was deepening. Twenty miles away to the southwest the smoke of a steamer heralded the advent of an Atlantic liner, and the last shreds of white mist were curling forlornly above the waves.

The presence of the steamship, a tiny dull spot on the glowing picture, peopled the void with life and banished poetry with the thinly sheeted ghosts of the fog. In a little more than an hour she would be abreast of the Gulf Rock Light. The watcher believed—was almost certain, in fact—that she was the Princess Royal, homeward bound from New York to Southampton. From her saloon deck those enthusiasts who had risen early enough to catch a first glimpse of the English coast were already scanning the trimly rugged outlines of the Scilly Isles, and searching with their glasses for the Land's End and the Lizard.

In a few hours they would be in Southampton; that afternoon in London—London, the Mecca of the world, from which, two years ago, he fled with a loathing akin to terror. The big ship out there, panting and straining as if she were beginning, not ending, her ocean race of three thousand miles, was carrying eager hundreds to the pleasures and follies of the great city. Yet he, the man smoking and silently staring at the growing bank of smoke—a young man too; handsome, erect, with the clean, smooth profile of the aristocrat—had turned his back on it all, and sought, and found, peace here in the gaunt pillar on a lonely rock.

Strange, how differently men are constituted. And women! Bah! A hard look came into his eyes. His mouth set in a stern contempt. For a little while his face bore a steely expression which would have amazed the man within the lantern, now singing lustily as he worked.

But as the harp of David caused the evil spirit to depart from Saul, so did the music of the morning chase away the lurking devil of memory which sprang upon the lighthouse keeper with the sight of the vessel.

He smiled again, a trifle bitterly perhaps. Behind him the singer roared genially:

"Soon we'll be in London Town,
Sing, my lads, yeo ho-o,
And see the King in his golden crown,
Sing, my lads, yeo ho."

The man on the platform seemed to be aroused from a painful reverie by the jingle so curiously apropas to his thoughts. He tapped his pipe on the iron railing, and was about to enter the lantern—and so to the region of sleep beneath—when suddenly his glance, trained to an acuteness not dreamed of by folk ashore, rested on some object seemingly distant a mile or less, and drifting slowly nearer with the tide.

At this hour a two-knot current swept to the east around and over the treacherous reef, whose sunken fangs were marked by the lighthouse. In calm weather, such as prevailed just then, it was difficult enough to effect a landing at the base of the rock, but this same smiling water-race became an awful, raging, tearing fury when the waves were lashed into a storm.

He pocketed his pipe and stood with hands clenched on the rail, gazing intently at a white-painted ship's life-boat, with a broken mast and a white-painted ship's life-boat, and a sail trailing over the stern.

It's colour, with the sun shining on it, no less than the vaporous eddies falling down to the surface of the sea, had prevented him from seeing it earlier. Perhaps he would not have noticed it at all were it not for the flashing wings of several sea-birds which accompanied the craft in aerial escort.

Even yet a landsman would have stared insolently in that direction, and declared that there was naught else in sight save the steamer, whose tall masts and two black funnels were now distinctly visible. But the lighthouse keeper knew he was not mistaken. Hree was a boat adrift, forlorn, deserted. Its contour told him that it was no local craft straying adventurously from island or mainland. Its unexpected presence, wafted thus strangely from ocean wilds, the broken spar and tumbled canvas, betokened an accident, perchance a tragedy.

"Jim!" he cried.

His mate, engaged in shrouding the gleaming lenses from the sun's rays, came at the call. He was lame—the result of a wound received in the Egyptian campaign; nevertheless, he was quick on his feet.

"What do you make of that?"

The sailor required no more than a gesture. He shaded his eyes with his right hand, a mere shipboard trick of concerting vision and brain, for the rising sun was almost behind him.

"Ship's boat," he answered, laconically. "Collision, I expect. There's bin no blow to speak of for days. But they're gone. Knocked overboard when she was took aback by a squall. Unless them birds—"

He spoke in a species of verbal shorthand, but his meaning was clear enough, even to the sentence left unfinished. The craft was under no control. She would drift steadily into the Bay until the tide turned, wander in an aimless circle for half an hour thereafter, and then, when the ebb restored direction and force to the current, voyage forth again to the fabled realm of Lyonnesse.

For a little while they stood together in silence. Jim suddenly quitted his companion and came back with a glass. He poised it with the precision of a Bisley marksman, and began to speak again, jerkily:

"Stove in forrard, above the waterline. Wouldn't live two minutes in a sea. Somethin' lyin' in the bows. Can't make it out. And there's a couple of cormorants perched on the gunwale. But she'll pass within two hundred yards on her present course, an' the tide'll hold long enough for that."

The other man looked around. From that elevated perch, one hundred and thirty feet above high-water mark, he could survey a vast area of sea. Excepting the approaching steamer—which would fit past a mile away to the south—and a few distant brown specks which betokened a shoal of Penzance fishing-smacks making the best of the tide eastward—there was not a sail in sight.

"I think we should try and get hold of her," he said.

Jim kept his eye glued to the telescope.

"Taint worth it, cap'n. The salvage'll only be a pound or two, not but what an extra suvrin comes in useful, an' we might tie her up to the buoy on the off chance until the relief comes or we signal a smack. But what's the good o' talkin'? We've got no boat, an' nobody'd be such a fool as to swim to her."

"That is what I had in mind."

Jim lowered the glass.

"That's the fust time I've ever heard you say a d——d silly thing, Stephen Brand."

There was no wavering judgment in his voice now. He was angry, and slightly alarmed.

"Why is it so emphatically silly, Jim?" was the smiling query.

"How d'ye know what's aboard of her? What's them fowl after What's under that sail? What's that lyin' crumpled up forrard? Dead men, mebbe. If they are, she's convoyed by sharks."

"Sharks! This is not the Red Sea. I am not afraid of any odd prowler. Once— Anyhow, I am going to ask Jones."

"Jones won't hear of it."

"That is precisely what he will do, within the next minute. Now, don't be vexed, Jim. Stand by and sing out directions if needful when I am in the water. Have no fear. I am more than equal to Leander in a sea like this."

Jim, who trusted to the head-keeper's veto,—awed, too, by the reference to Leander, whom he hazily associated with Captain Webb,—made no rejoinder.

He focused the telescope again, gave a moment's scrutiny to the steamer, and then re-examined the boat. The stillness of the morning was solemn Beyond the lazy splash of the sea against the Gulf Rock itself, and an occasional heavy surge as the swell revealed and instantly smothered some dark tooth of the reef, he heard no sound save the ring of Stephen Brand's boots on the iron stairs as he descended through the oil-room, the library and office, to the first bedroom in the lower bunk of which lay Mr. Jones, keeper and chief, recovering from a sharp attack of sciatica.

During one fearful night in the March equinox, when the fierce heat of the lamp within and the icy blast of the gale without had temporarily deranged the occulting machinery, Jones experienced an anxious watch. Not for an instant could he forego attendance on the lamp. Owing to the sleet it was necessary to keep the light at full pressure. The surplus oil, driven up from the tanks by weights weighing half a ton, must flow copiously over the brass shaft of the burner, or the metal might yield to the fervent power of the column of flame.

The occulting hood, too, must be helped when the warning click came, or it would jam and fail to fall periodically, thus changing the character of the light, to the bewilderment and grave peril of any unhappy vessel striving against the exterior turmoil of wind and wave.

So Jones passed four hours with his head and shoulders in the temperature of a Turkish bath and the lower part of his body chilled to the bone.

He thought nothing of it at the time. This was duty. But at intervals, throughout the rest of his life, the sciatic nerve would remind him of that lonely watch. This morning he was convalescent after a painful immobility of two days.

Watching the boat, Jim centred her in the telescopic field, and looked anxiously for a sharp arrow-shaped ripple on the surface of the sea. The breeze which had vanquished the fog now kissed the smiling water into dimples, and his keen sight was perplexed by the myriad wavelets.

Each minute the condition of affairs on board became more defined. Beneath some oars ranged along the starboard side he could see several tins, such as contain biscuits and compressed beef. The shapeless mass in the bows puzzled him. It was partly covered with broken planks from the damaged portion of the upper works, and it might be a jib-sail

BEFORE TREATMENT

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

For many years Mrs. Belva Lockwood has devoted herself chiefly to the practice of law and has won a wide reputation as a lawyer. She is a familiar figure before the supreme court of the United States.

Miss Job of Queenstown, Tasmania, is said to be the only woman who has ever sat within the bar at a Wesleyan Methodist conference. When she first took her seat one minister protested that the conference was composed only of ministers and laymen and that they had no power to admit the best lady in the land.

Chauffeur Tips.

When the engine breaks down begin operations by lighting a cigarette. Take your time about it. This impresses the bystanders with your skill and coolness.

Lift the bonnet and peer into engine for a few minutes, whistling meanwhile. Walk round the other side and repeat.

Do the necessary repairs. Don't forget to lie on your back in the road beneath the car. The crowd will expect it.

Should the crowd grow restive offer its most noisy member the opportunity of taking your place.

If he happens to be in the business and accepts your offer let him do the work.

Start the engine, watch it for a minute and then replace bonnet.

Do not drive away at once. That would be inartistic. Maneuver with the clutch until the crowd grows joyous in expectation of another failure and then drive off smartly.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Ban on Patterns.

"There is one kind of correspondence sometimes received by women clerks that makes heads of firms hopping mad," said the pretty stenographer. "That is dress patterns. They don't mind letters and magazines, but if a girl wants to keep on good terms with her employer and maybe keep her job she had better advise pattern companies to send their communications to some other address. I know one employer of about 100 girls who has put up notices in the workroom to the effect that no patterns can be received at that office. Not many men go that far, but all hold the same grudge against patterns. A girl who has a new dress to make up can't help spreading the pattern out the minute she gets it. Then every other woman in the office becomes interested. Nothing is so disorganizing to women clerks as patterns. Nothing takes up more time that belongs to the firm, so you really can't blame the bosses for putting a ban on patterns."—New York Press.

A Beautiful Lake.

Perhaps the most striking instance to be seen in the whole world of the wonderful apparent coloring of bodies of water is the marvelously beautiful Blue lake in Switzerland. Encompassed on all sides by lofty mountains, their lower ranges luxuriantly clothed with verdure down to the edge of the water and adorned with many fine forest trees, while their higher acclivities are garbed in a mantle of eternal snow, the little lake nestling in its deep hollow basin and protected from winds and storms, is quite startling in its singular and strange beauty. The water, although really pure and colorless, appears to be of a most vivid and intense sky blue. And its transparency is so remarkable that a small nickel coin dropped into the water in the center of the lake can be seen gyrating downward until it reaches the bottom, apparently more than a hundred feet beneath.

Japan's National Beverage.

Sake is the national beverage of Japan. It has a peculiar flavor not comparable to any European drink, is made from fermented rice by an intricate process in winter time and contains from 11 to 14 per cent of alcohol. It is a necessary constituent of every ceremonial Japanese dinner, is served in little, ampulla-like jars and drunk with much formality from squat, earless sake cups containing approximately about two ounces. To the European palate it tastes sour at first, but a preference for it is readily acquired. Curiously enough, it has a much more powerful effect on the Japanese than on Europeans. A stronger variety, shochu, contains from 20 to 50 per cent of alcohol. Another form, mirin, is more or less a liqueuer.—London Lancet.

The Peanut.

The common peanut, beloved of the small boy, grows in a way that is distinctly original. The little plant sends up its shoots, with the fruit on the end of a somewhat stiff stalk, and then before it ripens the stem bends over and carefully pushes the fruit underground. As pigs are known to be especially fond of these, it has been suggested that the plant does this to hide its nuts from the porker's too inquisitive investigations.

System Required.

Clerk—May I have a day's leave tomorrow, sir? It is my mother-in-law's funeral. Employer—My dear Huber, this mustn't occur again. Last week your wife died, and now your mother-in-law's going to be buried. You must arrange things better in your family and see that they happen in the holidays.—Lustige Blatter.

First Printed Almanac.

The first printed almanac was the "Pro Pluribus Annis," issued at Vienna in 1457 by an astronomer named Purbach.

Parasite Flowers.

Curious excrescences resembling rude flowers grow on trees in Tierra del Fuego. These are found to be due to a parasitic growth, but the "flowers" consist of the inner wood of the tree which has been forced through the bark and assumes various fanciful shapes, often those of the classical acanthus, seen on Corinthian capitals. The parasite that causes the growth is a relative of the mistletoe.

New Brunswick Forests.

New Brunswick has about 8,000,000 acres of fir, spruce and pine.

Hit Him Coming and Going.

An attorney went to a livery stable and hired a team for two or three hours and at the end of that time, in a state of absentmindedness, left the team at another livery stable, where it remained eight days. At stable No. 1 there was no worry about the team. They knew the attorney was perfectly good for the pay. They knew that if he kept the team a month the bill would be paid promptly on presentation. They presumed that he knew what he was about and concluded it was his business and not theirs. At stable No. 2 there was equal freedom from anxiety. The attorney came there, left the team and went away, saying nothing. They put the horse into a stall and "chalked it down" on the office slate, knowing him to be a business man who paid [illegible] bill came at last, and the lawyer was presented with two bills, one for eight days' hire and the other for eight days' keep. He paid both bills promptly, but it cured him of being absentminded for nearly a whole month.

The Coffee Cup in Persia.

The expression "to give a cup of coffee" has in Persia a somewhat ominous significance. This is due to the fact that the coffee cup is one recognized medium for conveying poison. Some years ago the governor of Aspadana, having long been at daggers drawn with the chief of a powerful mountain tribe, determined in this way to put an end to all trouble. He professed to entertain a great degree of friendship and esteem for the chieftain and invited him to visit him at his palace. The chief unsuspiciously came, accompanied by his two young sons. For a week they were royally entertained. But at last one morning when the chief came into his host's presence he was coldly received, and an attendant soon stepped forward with a single cup of coffee in his hand, which he offered to the guest. The latter could not fail to understand that he was doomed. Preferring, however, steel to poison, he declined the cup and was thereupon, at a signal from his host, stabbed to death.

Salad of the Shoes.

Freshmen have troubles the world over. The "conscrits," as they are called at the famous Ecole Polytechnique in Paris, are subjected to an amusing initiation called the salad of shoes. The freshmen report some days before the upper class men so that they can receive their uniforms and become familiar with the routine of the school. The first morning after their tormentors return the freshmen are aroused by a demand that they throw their shoes out of the windows into the courtyard. The shoes are gathered into a heap, and, kneeling in a big circle around this, the freshmen are obliged to go through some ridiculous gymnastic movements at the command of their superiors. When the study bell rings they have but a minute to appear in the class rooms, and it is a strenuous minute around that pile of shoes.

Growing Bananas.

Bananas are, as a rule, planted out systematically in rows, the "suckers" being placed at an average of ten feet apart. The banana plant bears only one bunch at a time, but it is a quick grower, yielding its fruit in twelve to fourteen months. When the plant is about six months old a second "sucker" or shoot is allowed to spring from the root, a third after the ninth month, and so on, so that after the first year there is a continuous crop being reaped.

George Moriarty of the Detroit Americans hath a dry humor. He complains of being hit by pitched balls oftener than any other player and adds, "Why, some pitchers hit me oftener than I hit them."

Recent Inventions.

An Indiana farmer has patented a potato digger which loads the tubers into the wagon to which it is attached by an endless chain.

A boxlike utensil with crossed knife blades on the top is a new implement with which a potato may be cut into chips by a single pressure of the hand.

Oysters.

Twenty oysters could be bought for 30 cents in the Roman empire A. D. 303.

The annual profits on some of the oyster farms along the coast of Washington state have reached $1,000 an acre.

The large oyster cultivated in Japan is said to be better than the kinds raised on our Pacific coast. Efforts are being made to acclimatize it.

Bank President Sent to Jail.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 19.—Frank W. Waterman, president of the Ramsey County State Bank, was given a sentence of 45 days in the workhouse, without the option of a fine, by Judge Finehout in the Police Court yesterday for speeding his automobile in the city limits.

Mr. Waterman and a companion Wednesday night ran into a buggy containing two men. The buggy was upset and the occupants slightly injured.

Tennyson Disturbed.

This story is told in Robert H. Sherard's book "My Friends the French:"

"A granddaughter of Wordsworth, being full of admiration for the young poet who was to succeed her grandfather in laureate honors, was once taken to see Mr. Tennyson by Mrs. Taylor, the wife of another poet of some distinction. Tennyson received them very badly, showing great irritation at being disturbed, and when Mrs. Taylor rallied him on his manner he said: 'Madam, I am a poor man, and as I can't afford to buy the Times I hire it from the stationer's. He charges me a penny for it, which entitles me to keep it for an hour. Why will people always select just that hour to come and call upon me?' After which he flung out of the room, leaving Mrs. Tennyson to apologize for his brusquerie."

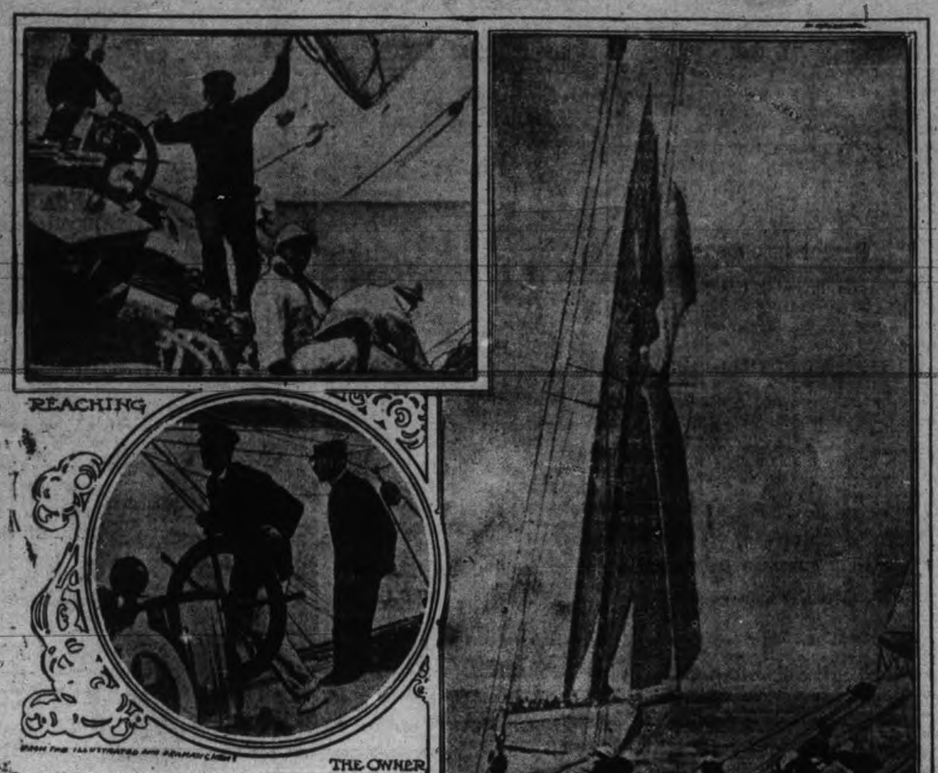
Americans Forsake London and Spend Much Time Cruising Aboard Their Yachts



REACHING

THE OWNER MR. COCKRAN (AT WHEEL), AND CAPTAIN BARR

THE GERMANIA ALMOST FOULS THE WESTWARD IN ROUNDING BOUY.

YACHTING SCENES DURING THE RECENT COWES WEEK.

Some, However, Are Stopping Quietly in Capital or in Country.

MRS. BELMONT HOSTESS

Gives Unique Entertainment at Home of Her Daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

The yachting programme of the Anglo-American section of society has been by no means confined to the regatta week at Cowes. For some weeks before and since many prominent Americans have been spending their time afloat. Cruising seems to be their favorite occupation if grouse shooting has not taken them to the North. Now, however, yachts are scattered here, there and everywhere, and few Americans are to be found in London.

Lady Acheson has not, as many thought, been on board the Caprice. She was mentioned erroneously as being present at Cowes. She is one of the few stopping quietly in London at her residence on Chesham place. Other well known Americans stopping on in town have been Mrs. Anthony Drexel and her daughter, Lady Maidstone, but they are leaving shortly for a long sojourn at Mrs. Drexel's cottage in Surrey.

Takes Country House.

Another American hostess who is spending the summer quietly in the country is Mrs. J. H. Smith, whose town house is still at the mercy of the decorators. It will be some time before the large suite of reception rooms can be finished. Meanwhile she has taken Broughton Castle, Banbury, from Lord and Lady Algernon Gordon-Lennox for the summer. Lady Algernon Gordon-Lennox's health is far from satisfactory and she has been ordered abroad.

Broughton is a peaceful haunt lying at the junction of two valleys, with hills rising above it on every side and shut off from busy Banbury. The castle is not large as castles go, but it is a most interesting old building surrounded by a moat and having only one approach, by a bridge on the north side, defended by an ancient battlemented gatehouse. A historic room at Broughton is the council chamber, where between the sittings of the Short and Long Parliaments the eighth Lord Saye and Sele, one of the Parliamentary leaders against Charles I., constantly held secret conclaves. There are beautiful gardens at Broughton which testify to Lady Algernon Gordon-Lennox's skill as a horticulturist. During Mrs. Smith's stay at Broughton her daughter, the Duchess of Vizev, is to stop with her for a time.

Mrs. Smith's Plans.

When Mrs. Smith's town house is completed it will be one of the most beautiful of London mansions. Departing from the French furnishing and decorations in vogue, many of the rooms will be furnished in the style of the Italian Renaissance. The hall is of white marble, with an alcove which contains a magnificent piece of statuary against a background of ferns and foliage. One of the few rooms yet uncompleted is a gem, filled with beautiful examples of Italian furniture collected in Italy and upholstered with gorgeous old embroideries and tapestries. It also contains several old masters, notably a portrait of Lady Reeves by Hoppner and another by Jean Baptiste Pater.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, the mother of the Duchess of Marlborough, with whom she is stopping in England, has inaugurated a new sort of after dinner entertainment. The Duchess gave a dinner the other evening at which the guests included Lady Katherine Somerset, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Higgins, Lord Rocksavage, the Hon. Miles Ponsonby, Mrs. Joseph Stickney, Mrs. Leeds and Lady Blandford. After dinner Mrs. Belmont delivered an address on woman suffrage. It was a novel kind of entertainment for such an occasion, but everybody seemed to enjoy it, and even those who do not favor votes for women admitted that Mrs. Belmont made out a good case. Such addresses are common at dinners given for the special purpose of introducing a lecturer, be he politician or philanthropist, but at a private society function it is a decided novelty here.

At the recent regatta of the Royal Yacht Squadron at Cowes the Westward, an American schooner yacht, owned by Mr. A. S. Cochran, N.Y.Y.C., carried off several of the most valuable prizes, including the Kaiser's Cup. In this race the Westward defeated the Germania, the Cicely and the Susanna over a course of forty-seven miles.

GOSSIP OF THE LONDON STAGE

Britons Accept the Humor of Mr. R. G. Knowles as the Most Serious Truth.

HEADED FOR NEW YORK

Many Actors and Actresses Have Started or Are About to Hasten in the Direction of Broadway.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

A stir about as big as that created by Mr. Oscar Hammerstein's declaration of his intended invasion of London with a new opera house ran through the mimic world of the metropolis when rumor handed out the report that Mr. R. G. Knowles, the American "comedian lecturer," who is dealing laugh producing language at the Hippodrome, was to assume control of a new playhouse.

There was talk in British managerial circles of things theatrical of demanding that Parliament lay a heavy tariff on Americans setting up theatres in London town. Interviewers besieged the comedian and there was a sigh of relief in the home industry section of the English show world when Mr. Knowles convinced his questioners that the projected theatre is designed for location among the few other temples of drama in New York city.

Mr. Knowles' Humor.

Here are some of the things he enunciated to one local interviewer, who carefully pencilled down every remark in his note book:—

"On what lines do I intend to run this new theatre? Well, now we are talking! I expect this theatre to be one of six that are going to revolutionize the whole theatrical business of America. The audience will be given the greatest stars in the world—headed by yours truly—at lowest summer prices. They are going to have seats like thrones, and there positively will be no draughts in the theatre except those provided by the stairways and passages leading from the vestibule overlooking the weather in the street.

"Any fees? Not likely. Though, of course, the usual charge will be made, as here, for programmes, tickets, opera glasses, use of cloakrooms, use of the telephone and what not. Apart from that it will be a 'no fee' house. Any attendant discovered taking any 'tips' will be instantly led to the manager's office to see how much he has collected for the general pool. Fees? No! I don't believe in fees or 'tips.'

"Salaries? The highest possible salaries for the least possible work.

"It will be a two sided theatre—amusing and instructive, the drama in the shape of comedy and farce, while the vaudeville department will be responsible for many things which have not yet been worked. My theatre will seat 1,200 people, and those who don't believe me can come in every night and see if I'm not right."

And the funny part of it is that many Londoners take all this seriously and have begun to save up their shillings with the hope of some day visiting New York and getting a glimpse of this wonderful temple of art.

Bound for Broadway.

These have been "get away" days to America for many actor folk. Apparently you won't be able to "toss a biscuit in Broadway within a few days without hitting some British representative of the thespian art. Of the forces engaged by Mr. Charles Frohman, a small army already is invading New York. Mr. G. P. Huntley has returned to America to open in that manager's production of "The Sacred Forest," in conjunction with Miss Hattie Williams. This play is an adaptation of "Le Bois Sacre," which was a success of the last Paris season.

The Misses Daisy Le Hay, Hilda Vining, Alice Russon and Daphne Glenne and Messrs. Vernon Davidson and Harold Vicars already are in your midst prepared to appear in "The Dollar Princess" and "The Arcadians."

Mr. Henry W. Savage, too, has just made a big shipment of material. Among those who have gone to appear under his management is Mr. Cyril Keightley, who left the cast of "The Whip" at Drury Lane to play Mr. Charles Hawtrey's part in last season's London success, "The Little Damozel." Mr. Frank Lacy, who was in the English cast, will handle the part of Captain Partington in the same play, the American production of which will be supervised by Mr. Edward Fitzgerald, another voyager.

Alleged Plot to Depose King Manuel, Lisbon Press Charges, Causes Alarm

KING MANUEL II—OF PORTUGAL.

LISBON, Saturday.—According to newspaper reports there is a clerical conspiracy to depose King Manuel of Portugal. Considerable alarm is manifest as a result of the report of the alleged plot. Plans are being perfected for the complete overthrow of the Portuguese government and the establishment of a military dictatorship. Whole regiments, it is said, have joined the movement and arms are ready. The government is greatly alarmed and military and naval forces are under arms night and day.

"BIG BEN" HAS HAD A CLEANING

Westminster Palace Clock Has Hands Fourteen Feet Long and Dials a Score of Feet in Diameter.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

"Big Ben" has had his face—or, rather, faces—washed. And he caused even more trouble than any healthy juvenile whose loyalty to the making of mud pies causes him to exert every effort to evade the maternal scouring designs. Though it gets no holiday itself the big Westminster clock has taken advantage of the Parliamentary recess to get a thorough laundering. For two weeks a number of workmen, looking like midgets against the background of the lofty tower of Parliament's home, have been clambering about swinging cradles and climbing ropes with the agility of sailors in order to give the soap and water treatment to this, one of the most powerful striking and most accurate public clocks in the world.

"Big Ben's" four dials each are twenty-three feet in diameter, while the centres of these faces are exactly 180 feet from the pavement. The figures have a height of two feet, and the minute spaces are one foot square. The music hall artists have taken up the theme, and monologists tickle English auditors by describing how "Big Ben" covered "his face with his hands," and all that stuff. But the cleaning force meant business and, contrary to those punning assertions, they just took off the interfering hands and sent them away to be painted. This was no trifling job, for the minute hands, which are made of copper, are fourteen feet long, weigh about two hundred pounds each, and have the capacity to travel approximately a hundred miles each year. The hour hands are nine feet in length, but even heavier than those which deal with the minute periods of time.

With the exception of this summer cleaning the clock's general health is quite satisfactory. Though fifty-two years of age it keeps perfect time and has not varied a second in weeks. The present day of electricity, however, is to work changes with "Big Ben." Some time ago the gas beacons which illuminated its faces at night were abolished in favor of electric lamps. Now electricity is to put the governmental "clock winders" out of business. They, too, have had their own troubles in keeping "Big Ben" busy on the time circuit. For fifty-two years, as at present, two or three men have climbed 374 steps to the clock room three times weekly and put in from three to four hours of hard work each time in turning the winding cranks. The striking apparatus, which operates the big bell, weighing almost fourteen tons, that gives the clock its name, is capable of running four days, at the expiration of which period weights averaging over a ton each must be lifted up their slides by a windlass contrivance. Now, if present plans are carried out, electricity is to perform all the work, and all the attendants will have to do will be to ply an oil can at intervals.

ARGENTINA TO BUY BATTLE SHIP HERE

Contract for Third 28,000 Ton Fighting Vessel Thought Likely To Be Placed in United States.

(Special Dispatch.)

BUENOS AYRES, via GALVESTON, Texas, Sunday.—A persistent rumor is current in official circles here that the Argentine government intends to purchase her third twenty-eight thousand ton battle ship in the United States, the conditions governing its construction being similar to those governing the two battle ships already contracted for.

When arrangements for these two war ships were made Argentina was given an option on a third and it now appears that the government will take advantage of its option. Inquiry in official circles shows that Señor Saenz Pena, the President-elect; the Minister of Foreign Affairs and other high officials favor the plan to purchase a third ship and that final arrangements are likely to be made before October 12.

The banquet planned to be given by Señor Larreta for the Brazilian Minister has been postponed to Tuesday night. Mr. White and many other Pan-American delegates have been invited.

ART EXPERTS OF LONDON COMBINE

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

One of the most important events of recent years affecting art dealers is the amalgamation of the two big firms of Messrs. R. W. Partridge, of No. 180 Bond street, and Messrs. Lewis & Simmons, of No. 75 Knightsbridge, who have just signed the final deeds of a long partnership.

The main object of the union of these three noted art experts is to extend their connection between London, New York and Paris, and to centralize their London businesses. The new firm will be known in the future as Partridge, Lewis & Simmons, and one of the partners will leave in October for New York with a collection of some of the finest specimens of English furniture ever seen in America, which, heeding the opening of the permanent premises on Fifth avenue, will be on exhibition with other fine works of art at one of the leading hotels in New York.

Americans will now have little reason to come to Europe specially to look out for works of art, since, in addition to the Duveens, Crichton and Knoedler, specializing respectively in fine porcelains and French objects of art, silver and paintings, the new combination will stand chiefly for all that is best in English seventeenth and eighteenth century furniture.

Mr. "Bob" Partridge's noted acquisitions of recent date have been the purchase, for £10,223, of the celebrated Chippendale settee at the Dean sale, and of the Chinese Chippendale bookcase for £19,000; while the early bronze fountain head that formed one of the clous of the Falcke sale fell to his bid at £26,500.

LONDON'S CONCRETE NEW POST OFFICE

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

Out of mud, chalk and gravel, which dredges have scooped up from the bottom of the Thames, has been raised London's new General Post Office, which is now completed and will be open to the public in the course of the next week or two. Its construction, costing £1,750,000, has occupied five years, the foundation stone having been laid by the late King Edward on the site formerly occupied by the "Blue Boys'" school, Christ's Hospital, in 1905. It is the first of the government buildings to be built of ferro-concrete, or, as it is generally called, reinforced concrete—and a remarkable feature of it is that not a single steel joist has been used in the entire construction.

The load of mud, chalk and gravel was landed from barges at Blackfriars and carted to King Edward street, where it passed through a machine which sorted the stones into various sizes, and then another machine turned the whole mixture into liquid concrete. By the use of this ferro-concrete quite 80,000 feet of space has been saved, to say nothing of the economy in cost. For instance, the retaining walls in the basement are only eight inches thick, whereas had they been of brick they would have required a thickness of seven feet.

The buildings themselves consist of two blocks, each of seven stories, and six observation galleries are provided on each floor for the superintendents, so that they have an uninterrupted view of all that is going on. Endless bands, or conveyors, for carrying letters from the mail bags in the yards to sorters at three tables have been installed, and lightning electric stamping machines will frank letters at the rate of several hundred a minute, or from four to five times faster than they could possibly be done by hand.

American Trade Reaps Benefit from Agricultural Exposition in Argentina

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

BUENOS AYRES, July 30, 1910.—Those identified with the Centennial Exposition which opened here on May 25 are already congratulating themselves for the success of their efforts. It is generally felt that the Exposition has been a success for Argentina, for the foreign nations which participated, and above all for the United States, which has made itself known to the Argentine people through the activity of Americans who have come here under the guidance of the State Department.

American activity has held full sway at the principal exhibits, and the ginger and go of the men from the north have somewhat astonished their Latin-American brethren. Even the Argentine populace has learned to know Americans better, and in this case knowing seems to be liking, for when Señor Don Epifanio Portela, the Argentine Minister to Washington, raised his glass at the banquet given at the Sociedad Rural on July 23, "United States Day," and proposed a toast to Secretary Knox for the interest he had taken in the Exposition, even the Argentine waiter and the Argentine photographer vigorously applauded.

All of the American exhibits, the private exhibits and the exhibit brought here by the Department of Agriculture have attracted much attention. There is a latent feeling among the merchants that they have been overlooking some "one-best-bets" by not keeping in closer touch with the United States.

They have seen American business methods at work in getting the exhibits in shape, as was demonstrated when the American Agricultural Exhibition Building, which was begun one month later than the others, was equipped and ready three weeks in advance of any.

Much credit for this is due to Mr. Ernest Henry Wands, United States Commissioner General of the Argentine Agricultural Exhibition. Mr. Wands has been an active newspaper man and he shows it. He knows how to be everywhere at once. He is seen popping up one moment at the Exposition grounds and the next at the Plaza Hotel, like a man collecting bills in a hurry. He attends to all important matters himself and does not seem to care how much work or energy it takes. Professor F. Lamson Schribner and Mr. F. L. Goll, of the Department of Agriculture, have been able assistants.

Beneficial effects to American trade with Argentina are said to be assured. Already one hears stories of progress made in the last decade which may serve as a herald for what is to come. An American concern which a few years ago was selling three and four threshing machines at a cost of $6,500 each is now selling on an average one hundred and fifty machines a year. American ploughs and other agricultural implements are coming in and the trade of the United States along this line shows every sign of growth.

The exhibits here are the fine arts exhibits, agricultural and live stock, railroads and machinery, hygiene, the scientific congress and the congress of students. Those identified with each branch have worked assiduously for their success.

Aside from the exhibitions proper, the centennial to the Argentine mind has been even more important in that it has brought out that nation before her sister nations in a surprising manner and has also shown to the world the real patriotism of the people here.

The brilliance and splendor of the opening, on May 25, will long be remembered. Many of the leading nations of the world honored Argentina by sending special delegates, the Infanta Isabel coming from Spain and General Wood coming here to represent the United States.

Something of the brilliance of the illuminations of the wide Avenue de Mayo, which is the boulevard of Buenos Ayres, can be understood when it is known that there were 200,000 electric lights burning to a square and that the illumination in the streets was costing $9,000 a night.

Buenos Ayres had not had a chance to show its patriotism since the last revolution, up the anarchs, but got an opportunity at the centennial in a novel way. Anarchists decided to use their influence among the workingmen constructing the municipal buildings, inciting them to go on strike and delay the work.

Irish Blame the Cunard S. S. Line

Nothing Short of Queenstown Call of the Biggest Steamers Will Satisfy Ireland.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

The announcement made by the directors of the Cunard line that from September 1 to December 31 all their eastbound steamships excepting the Lusitania and Mauretania will call at Queenstown as well as Fishguard has by no means tended to placate the Irish people who have been agitating for the retention of the Queenstown call in the itinerary of the line. Nothing short of the call of the two big steamships will make them fully satisfied, it is stated.

Moreover, the "trial" of which the latest official announcement makes mention comes at a time when the tourist rush from across the Atlantic has practically ceased, and that from Queenstown's point of view is not a favorable one.

Thus the agitation proceeds. The next step, an outcome of the recent all Ireland meeting of protest, will be a deputation headed by the Lord Mayors of Dublin and Belfast, which will start from Queenstown on September 22 en route to Washington to make arrangements with Mr. Frank H. Hitchcock, Postmaster General, regarding the matter. Mr. Hitchcock is already familiar with the agitation, for he was approached regarding it when on his recent visit to England.

It was on August 30 last that the Mauretania inaugurated Fishguard as a port of call for passengers and mail, and until the end of the year all the mail steamships on the eastward run continued to call at both the South of Ireland and Pembrokeshire ports. Experience, however, showed that the vast majority of the passengers crossing from America desired to reach London or the Continent at the earliest possible moment, and to avoid delay, both of them and the mails, it was announced that, commencing with the first of January, and up to the end of the of the winter season, the Wednesday boats from New York would proceed direct to Fishguard without calling at Queenstown.

GATLIN INSTITUTE OF ONTARIO LIMITED DRINK HABIT CURED IN THREE DAYS

THREE DAYS AT THE GATLIN INSTITUTE is the price of freedom from the most enslaving habit that ever demanded salvation.

A Private Sanitarium Successfully Treating ALCOHOLISM

ALCOHOL IS AN UNNATURAL, SYSTEM-POISONING, brain-wrecking, will-breaking drink, and all powers of resistance fall under its attack.

Story of the Gatlin Treatment

TEN YEARS ago it was announced, for the first time, that drunkenness WAS NOT a disease; that a harmless, simple method of treatment had been discovered that would cure the most seemingly hopeless case of drunkenness in THREE DAYS; that the heroic treatment, covering a period of from 28 to 42 days, with painful hypodermic injections, was a thing of the past as far as necessity for such existed; that craving, desire and physical demand for and inclination to drink intoxicating liquors were but EFFECTS of stored-up alcoholic poison in the system that with the removal of that poison, the CAUSE of confirmed drinking and drunkenness was done away with; that all craving and desire at once disappeared, leaving the drinker in the same mental and physical condition as the day he was born as regards liquor, and with no more inclination to drink it than the day he foolishly took his first drink. The announcement further stated that the Gatlin treatment was the only one in the world which would accomplish this—that all methods of treating drunkenness other than the Gatlin were based on a FALSE DIAGNOSIS of "alcoholism."

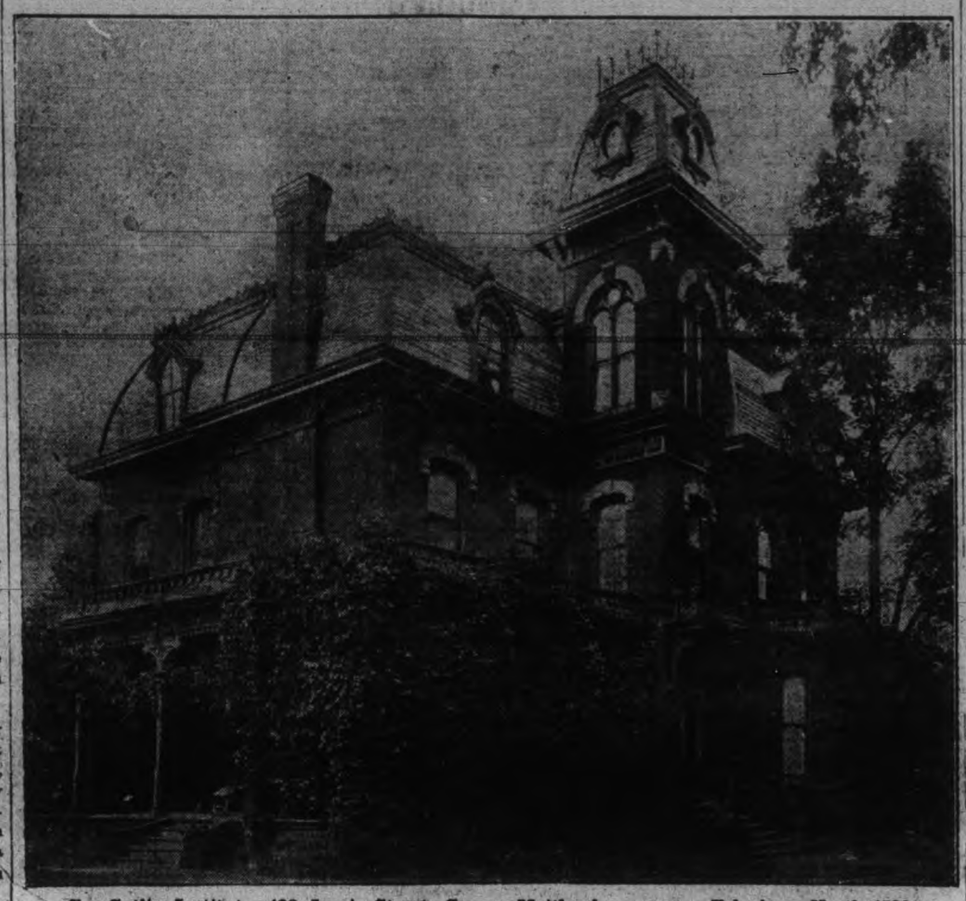
This announcement met with skepticism; but daily, stronger and stronger claims for the Gatlin treatment were made. Legal contracts were offered that any drunkard in any stage of the drink habit could take the Gatlin treatment, and if there was a failure to cure—failure to effect a cure more than satisfactory to the drinker himself and to his family—that if he was dissatisfied in any manner with either the cure, the treatment, the Gatlin Institute, or with any person or anything connected with the Gatlin Institute, all that was necessary was a simple expression of dissatisfaction and the full fee paid would be refunded when he was leaving the institute, and treatment should cost nothing.

That same proposition is still made, and has been constantly and continuously made for TEN YEARS.

The Gatlin treatment CURES—and it cures in THREE DAYS—there is not the slightest possibility of failure.

The Gatlin Institutes began to grow—patients flocked to them by scores—then the cures effected ran into the hundreds—then into the thousands. These cures were of the LASTING KIND which made the Gatlin treatment famous. The Gatlin Institutes couldn't possibly accommodate all those who desired the treatment—other institutions became necessary, and others are opening throughout the continent.

Gatlin Institutes are now in operation at 340 So. Highland ave., East End, Pittsburg, Pa.; 1919 Prairie ave., Chicago, Ill.; 403 Seventh st., So., Minneapolis, Minn.; 1333 Jefferson st., Kansas City, Mo.; 1414 Seventh st., Parkersburg, W. Va.; 1323 High st., Des Moines, Iowa; 27 So. C st., Tacoma, Wash.; 434 Queen Anne ave., Seattle, Wash., and London, Eng., now being opened, with the GATLIN INSTITUTE OF ONTARIO NOW OPEN AND DOING BUSINESS AT 428 JARVIS STREET, TORONTO, ONT.



The Gatlin Institute, 428 Jarvis Street, Corner Maitland. Telephone North 4538

REPRESENTATIVE ONTARIO CITIZENS CONTROL THE GATLIN INSTITUTE

A GATLIN INSTITUTE was needed in Canada—a treatment that would cure quickly and perfectly without the disagreeable features of hypodermic injections, strong drugs, SUBSTITUTE STIMULANTS, and a loss of from 28 to 42 days of time—a treatment with merit enough to convince the public that EIGHTY PER CENT. of its patients did not RELAPSE—had become a public necessity.

A company composed of representative citizens, physicians and business men of Ontario—men of means, of reputation and of extensive interests here—was formed, and the exclusive right to use the Gatlin treatment in Ontario was secured. The cost of this right was not at all small, neither was the opening and fitting up of the splendid Gatlin Institute at No. 8 Howard street done at small cost. Inside of one year these quarters were outgrown by the rapidly increasing business, and it became necessary to seek a larger building for the Institute. The present location, No. 428 Jarvis street, gives ample room, and affords the best-equipped institution in Ontario for the successful treatment of alcoholism. We KNOW what the Gatlin treatment will do—we KNOW that there does not exist a case of drunkenness on earth that it will fail to cure—we KNOW what the demand for the Gatlin treatment will be when we have succeeded in convincing you that there is now a REAL CURE for the liquor habit—an easy, safe, harmless cure, which you can take in the comfortable quarters of our homelike institution or in the privacy of your own home, requiring a period of but THREE DAYS.

If it proves difficult to convince YOU that the Gatlin treatment is all and more than it is claimed to be just think how difficult it must have been to convince US that the Gatlin treatment had merit enough to warrant us in investing many, many thousands of dollars in the Gatlin Institute of Ontario. We know of many quacks who had prostituted their profession for a few paltry dollars; we knew that other liquor habit treatments, in a sense, were failures; we were so well acquainted with the "world" and with the fact that it is easy to make claims and statements, that it took ten times as much proof and argument to reason us into investing OUR money in the Gatlin Institute of Ontario as we will have to use to get YOU to take the Gatlin treatment and STOP DRINKING.

Anyone interested is respectfully invited to call at the Institute, 428 Jarvis street, corner Maitland, Toronto, Ont., or write for books of particulars and copies of contracts to cure. Long distance and local telephone, North 4538. A. Hargrave, Manager.

Liquor Drinking Men of Business

BUSINESS MEN—which includes lawyers, doctors, managers of corporations and higher salaried men, merchants, bankers, brokers—who drink liquor FAIL sooner or later. Each one of them will charge his failure to HARD LUCK. But that charge is false. The loss of executive ability, WEAKENED MENTALITY, impaired judgment, gross neglect—to WHISKEY DOING THE THINKING—are direct EFFECTS of charging the system with the cumulative poison of alcohol, and the CAUSE of their business troubles.

The Gatlin treatment will, in THREE DAYS, remove every trace of alcoholic poison from your system, without any inconvenience whatever to yourself; in THREE DAYS it will take you right back to the condition you were in the first day you ever took a drink of liquor, with no more craving for or desire to drink it than you had on that day. What liquor drinker, who has a vestige of his normal brain left, is there in this world who would not eagerly return to that day? What one, with the experience he has had in liquor drinking, would take that FIRST DRINK if he could but go back to that FIRST DAY?

Come to the Gatlin Institute—take the Gatlin treatment, or send for the Gatlin Home treatment. It will make a new man of you; will return to you your old-time normal brain—your old-time personality that was carrying you along the road to SUCCESS rapidly until you ran up against liquor; it will chase HARD LUCK from your business by driving the accumulated poison from your system and thereby do away with the CAUSE of your appetite and craving for liquor.

You, or your employe, or your friend, will be accepted for treatment at the Gatlin Institute under a plainly-worded, legally executed contract that a CURE shall be effected in THREE DAYS—a cure that will be entirely satisfactory to yourself and to your family—that every claim made for the Gatlin treatment and what it will accomplish in THREE DAYS shall be verified in your case, or at the end of the third day the full fee you pay for treatment shall be refunded and treatment shall cost NOTHING. Any expression of dissatisfaction with either the cure in your case, with the treatment, with the Gatlin Institute, or with its management, when you are leaving the Institute, will mean that the fee paid shall at once be refunded. Remember, the money you pay the Gatlin Institute for a CURE has not changed ownership until you are satisfied that you are cured and that the Gatlin Institute has earned its fee.

Institute located at 428 Jarvis street, corner Maitland. Take Church street car; ask for Maitland street stop. Institute two short blocks east. Call or write for books of particulars, copies of contracts and other information. Book and full particulars mailed, sealed, in plain envelope. Long distance and local telephone, North 4538.

An Unexpected Retort.

Col. Baxter, a leading lawyer of one of the Eastern Provinces, was once conducting a case for a Jew against a lawyer noted as a browbeater, of great dignity, and very fat.

When it came his turn to cross-examine Baxter's client, he arose with great weight and immediately began his bullying tactics. The Hebrew, however, was not to be intimidated, and answered every question in as thunderous a tone as that of his questioner.

Such conduct on the part of a mere witness was not to be endured, and, with a look of offended dignity meant to be terrifying, the lawyer said: "You need not eat me, my good man."

Baxter was on his feet instantly. "My learned friend need not fear," he said with a reassuring smile. "My client is a Jew and never eats pork."

The Inevitable Malady.

Mr. Goldwin Smith was decidedly fond of referring to his advanced age, and seemed to take a kind of melancholy pride in being among "the last of the Victorians." More than a year ago a youthful friend approached him and asked solicitously after his health. Dr. Smith smiled with that gentleness which always characterized him.

"There is nothing the matter with me at all," he said. Then he added thoughtfully: "Nothing except the incurable disease of more than four score years."

Currency In China.

Writing from the interior of China, a traveler says: "Currency is primitive to a degree. Lump silver only is used and copper 'cash.' Coined money is not current. Even in Honan city, which is distant only two days by rail from Pekin, lump silver, the same cumbrous currency that has been used for centuries, is still employed. It is cut into small pieces by hammer and chisel. Every town and village has its own weights and scales, and there is no pretense at uniformity."

The Man and the Parrot.

Exasperated Purchaser—Didn't you guarantee that this parrot would repeat every word he heard?

Bird Dealer—Certainly I did.

"But he doesn't repeat a single word."

"He repeats every word he hears, but he never hears any. He is as deaf as a post."

A Wonderful Rose Tree.

Frenchmen hold that the finest rose tree grows in the marine gardens at Toulon. It is a Banksia, which has been known to bear a thousand blooms at a time. It covers a fifteen foot wall to a width of some eighty feet.

The Red Hat.

The chief insignia of the cardinal's dignity, his red hat, had as its original significance the idea that the wearer was to be at all times ready to shed his blood in martyrdom for the church.

Persian Rugs.

Every district in Persia has its own style and designs of rugs, yet the mere name is no guide to quality, as good and bad rugs are turned out in all districts. The choicest are woven in silk and wool.

Prague English.

For English speaking guests in the Hotel Monopol at Prague is this sign: "To blow out the electric lights, turn the button. Wine lists are a hunging in the ground floor."

A Rub For Tennyson.

When Alfred Tennyson appeared in the Oxford theater to receive his D. C. L. degree it is said that his disheveled hair and generally negligent state provoked the undergraduates into greeting him with the inquiry, "Did your mother call you early, call you early, Alfred, dear?"

Recent Inventions.

A recently patented door closet is made adjustable so that it will close a door completely or return it to any desired open angle.

An all rubber automobile wheel has been patented, rigid at the center and with the hardness lessening gradually until the circumference is reached.

A Scotch inventor has perfected a sledlike machine which when drawn over a road accurately records on a paper covered cylinder all irregularities in the road's surface.

Milk to Let.

English is sadly misused at times on the continent of Europe. One sign in Genoa, Italy, reads, "Dinner—Wine Inclosed," and another "Milk For Sale or to Let."

Lisbon and Fish.

It is estimated that every inhabitant of Lisbon eats half a pound of fish daily. The city has its fishing fleet of forty-six vessels, some of which go as far as the coast of Morocco, sixty miles away.

Salmon Skin Leather.

The inhabitants of the eastern coasts of the middle of Asia clothe themselves with the tanned skins of the salmon. It is asserted that it makes a leather as tough as wash leather.

The Game and the Candle.

Many expressions now in everyday use have originated around the card table, and "the game isn't worth the candle" is one of them. Before artificial lighting had reached its present high stage gamblers won and lost fortunes by candlelight. When play was slow and uninteresting the game, in the opinion of the players, was not worth the cost of the candle whose light made the cards visible.

Ultramarine.

Ultramarine is now furnished by chemistry at half the price of copper, whereas in the form of lapis lazuli in the days of Liebig it was dearer than gold.

Jenkins Was Ignored.

William Pitt's last words are said to have been, "My country, oh, how I love my country!" Pitt's butler afterward said that the statesman's dying words were, "I hope the country will do something for Jenkins." The butler was Jenkins, but nobody accepted his testimony, and the country certainly did nothing for Jenkins.

THE FAMILY HEARTH

THE WEEK-END VISITOR

Why is it that some women are invited out so much during the summer time that they hardly have one week-end at home?

It is because they know the secret of entertaining others. No selfish woman is ever in great demand. You don't make a hit with your hostess by looking out for your own pleasure and comfort all the time by always appropriating the softest cushion and the most shady corner.

The women most in demand in summer cottages are those who know how to perform little services for the hostess, who understand the art of effacing themselves occasionally and not talking all the time. The girl who offers to stay at home with a book when she sees the carriage will be crowded is sure to receive the approbation of the hostess, who will make a mental note of her willingness to oblige and resolve to invite her again.

Instead of telling so many jokes of her own the clever girl will laugh at those of her hostess and say some of the nice little things to the latter which we all think, but most of us are too lazy to say. She will make herself useful around the house and will be careful not to make extra trouble for the servants.

She will not be late for her meals nor have them brought to her room, and she will not give dresses to be pressed, etc., thus disturbing the order of the kitchen.

Above all, no woman who ever wants to be invited again will forget to write promptly her bread and butter note after she reaches home. While the etiquette book may say you have ten days to do it in, the average hostess prefers to hear from you the minute you reach home, while the recollection of your visit is still with you.

It is very easy to be invited around and to be popular if you adopt the right means toward making your company desired.

GOOSEBERRIES AND CREAM

Two pounds of gooseberries, a quarter pound of loaf sugar and a little cream are necessary for this recipe.

Put the gooseberries into a stewing jar, with the sugar and a little water and let them cook without breaking. Serve cold, with cream whipped to a stiff froth, handed separately.

PICKLED MACKEREL

Use two or three mackerel, peppercorns, bay leaf, cloves, blade of mace, vinegar and water.

Clean the fish nicely and lay them in a baking dish with the spices and a little salt. Cover with equal parts of vinegar and water, then tie down with greased paper and bake in a moderate oven for forty minutes.

COLD CABINET PUDDING.

Take one pint of milk, half a pint of breadcrumbs, grated lemon rind and sugar to taste, half an ounce of butter, two eggs, four tablespoonfuls of caster sugar and two tablespoonfuls of raspberry jam.

Pour the boiling milk over the breadcrumbs, sweeten and flavor with grated lemon rind. Beat well with a fork, adding the egg yolks and butter. Pour into a greased pie dish and bake till set. Take the pudding up, spread with jam, beat the whites of eggs to a stiff froth with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Heap this over the pudding and return it to the oven to brown slightly. Serve cold in a dish.

APPLE TAPIOCA PUDDING

Soak four rounding tablespoons of pearl tapioca in three cups cold water one hour; then set it in a double boiler and boil until transparent. Stir occasionally.

Add a teaspoonful salt. In the meantime, pare, core and quarter three medium-sized apples, put in a pudding dish, sprinkle two level tablespoonfuls sugar over them, pour the tapioca over them and bake until the apples are soft.

To be eaten with cream and sugar.

BREAD OMELET.

Let one teacupful of milk come to a boil, pour it over one teacupful of breadcrumbs and let it stand a few minutes. Break six eggs into a bowl, stir (not beat) until well mixed, then add the milk and bread, season with pepper and salt, mix all together and turn into a hot frying pan, containing a large spoonful of butter boiling hot.

Fry the omelet slowly, and when brown on the bottom cut in squares and turn again, fry to a delicate brown and serve.

NICE FOR LUNCHEON

A cheese and rice dish that is nice for luncheon is prepared by cooking rice in equal parts of water and milk and when tender adding some grated cheese. For a cup of rice measured before cooking use about half a cupful of cheese, or enough to give the dish a stronger cheese flavor. To make the dish more substantial the rice and cheese may be spread in a thick mass over the bottom of a platter and poached eggs nicely seasoned with pepper and salt may be placed upon it. Worcestershire sauce is an appetizing accompaniment.

OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER

Thank God some of us have, and others have had, an old-fashioned mother. Not a woman of the period, enamelled and painted, with her great chignon, her curls and bstle; whose white, jewelled hands never have felt the clasp of baby fingers; but a dear old-fashioned, sweet-voiced mother, with eyes in which the love light shone, and brown hair threaded with silver, lying smooth upon her faded cheek. Those dear hands worn with toil, gently guided our tottering steps in childhood, and smoothered our pillows in sickness; even reaching out to us in yearning tenderness, when her sweet spirit was baptized in the pearly spray of the river. Blessed is the memory of an old-fashioned mother. It floats to us now, like the beautiful perfume of some woodland blossoms. The music of other voices may be lost but the entrancing memory of her's will echo in our souls forever. Other places will fade away and be forgotten, but her's will shine on until the light from heaven's portals shall glorify our own.

When in the fitful pauses of busy life our feet wander back to the old homestead, and crossing the well-worn threshold, standing once more in the low, quaint room, as hallowed by her presence, how the feeling of childish innocence and dependence comes over us, and we kneel down in the molten sunshine streaming through the western window—just where, long years ago, we knelt by our mother's knee, lisping "Our Father." How many times when the tempter lured us on has the memory of those sacred hours, that mother's words, her faith and prayers, saved us from sin. Years have filled great drifts over between her and us, but they have not hidden from our sight the glory of her pure, unselfish love.

LOVE OF THE BEAUTIFUL

Place a young girl under the care of kind-hearted women, and she, unconsciously to herself, grows into a graceful lady. Place a boy in the establishment of a thoroughgoing, straightforward business man, and the boy becomes a self-reliant, practical business man. Children are susceptible creatures, and circumstances, scenes and actions always impress. As you influence them, not by arbtrary rules, nor by stern example alone, but a thousand other ways that speak through beautiful forms, pretty pictures, etc., so they will grow. Teach your children, then, to love the beautiful. Give them a corner in the garden for flowers; encourage them to put it in the shape of hanging baskets; show them where they can best view the sunset; rouse them in the morning, not with the stern "time to go to work," but with the enthusiastic "see the beautiful sunrise." Buy them pretty pictures and encourage them to decorate their rooms in his or her childish way. Give them an inch and they will go a mile. Allow them the privilege and they will make your home beautiful.

THE ELDER SISTER

There is no character in the home circle more useful and beautiful than a devoted elder sister who stands side by side with the toiling mother, lightening all her cares and burdens. How beautifully the household machinery moves on with such efficient help! Now she presides at the table in her mother's absence, always so neatly attired that it is with pride the father introduces her to his guest as "our oldest daughter." Now she takes a little troop into the garden with her and amuses them, so mother may not be disturbed in her work or her rest. Now she helps the boys with their hard lessons or reads father's paper aloud to rest his tired eyes. If mother can run away for a few days' recreation she leaves home without any anxiety, for Mary will guide her house wisely and happily in her absence. But in the sick room her presence is an especial blessing. Her hand is next to mother's own in gentleness and skill. Her sweet music can charm any pain and brighten the weariest hours. There are elder sisters whose presence is not such a blessing in the home. Their own selfish ends and aims are the main pursuits in life, and anything that stands in the way of these is regarded with great impatience. Such daughters are no comfort to a mother's heart. Which kind of an elder sister are you in the household?

CULTIVATE GRACEFULNESS

The chief distinction in society between the "attentions" of the thoroughly graceful gentleman, and one who simply knows the rules, is that the former pays them without attracting notice. A lady hardly realizes that anything is done for her—she only knows that the gentleman is agreeable.

Does the young man ask how he shall cultivate this gracefulness? Some men, the reader says, have the gift by nature. True—but with rare exceptions, nature declines to make her gift available without culture and care. There is but one way to cultivate the ease of which we speak. Never willingly allow an opportunity to pay a graceful attention pass without taking advantage of it, say, not even with the sister, or mother, or most intimate cousinly friend. It is a mistake to regard these things as "too formal"—they are formal only when they are awkward. There is not a single polite attention called for in society which is not appropriate at home. If a sister drops a handkerchief, do not give her an opportunity to pick it up herself—unless you wish to be constrained and slightly awkward when you are called upon to pick up a handkerchief in the drawing-room. If a mother is getting into a carriage, offer her a hand, even if it is purely a matter of form.

Nor are these attentions of young men to their near relatives valuable and called for only as matters of practice. Genuine politeness demands them at home as well as in society.

Fall painting means a 5% saving

Just plain, common-sense money saving!

That's precisely what Fall Painting means.

Take your pencil and figure it out in actual dollars and cents.

A poorly protected house will depreciate at least 5% during a severe winter.

If your house is valued at $2,500, and not properly paint-protected, you stand to lose $125 between now and next summer.

Five to ten dollars invested THIS FALL in

ROBERTSON'S PAINT

will save you $100 at least. That's just as plain as words and figures can make any proposition.

There are many reasons why you should insist on Robertson's Pure Prepared Paint.

It endures. It has stood the test of time.

It's specially made in Ontario for our special climatic conditions.

It protects as well as beautifies the home.

JAMES MURTY, Esq.

Peterborough, Ont.

1852

The destruction of the house fly is a public duty. Almost every American State Board of Health is carrying on a crusade against him.

His filthy origin and habits, and the fact that his body is generally laden with disease-producing germs, makes him one of the greatest enemies of the human race.

If the housekeepers of Canada will use persistently, this peril would be tremendously reduced.

WILSON'S FLY PADS

Do You Have Headache

"My first experience with Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills was a sample package handed me. They relieved the pain so promptly that I have never been without them since. I have given them to many friends when they had headache and they never failed to relieve them. I have suffered with neuralgia in my head, and the first one I took relieved me. They have cured me of neuralgia. I would not be without them."

MURDERERS FOR $100

Special to The Examiner.

Wilmington, Del., Saturday.—Burglars last night clubbed to death Robert D. Casey, Jr., a civil war veteran, and his aged wife, as they slept in their home, at Claymont. A safe in Mr. Casey's store was then looted by the slayers, who escaped with $100.

The aged couple were slain with a club twisted from a wild cherry tree. Mr. Casey had kept a grocery store on the Philadelphia Turnpike for forty years, he and his wife living in the store building. The crime was discovered shortly after six o'clock this morning by Wharton D. Neal, driver for a Wilmington baker, who stopped at the store to deliver bread. He found the place closed, and, believing the Caseys overslept themselves, called several times. Receiving no response, Neal climbed through a window and went upstairs, where he found Mr. Casey and his wife with their heads battered in.

Neal ran from the house thoroughly frightened and notified a neighbor. The authorities were then informed of the double tragedy.

The slayers in ransacking the house and store utilized a lantern owned by the Caseys. They took nearly everything in the safe.

James C. H. C. Comb, a wealthy farmer, who lives a mile from the Casey store, saw three suspicious characters crossing his land last night. State detectives are now looking for them.

Casey received a considerable sum of money yesterday from property owners of Brandywine Hundred to turn over to Tax Collector Martin. He spread the money on the counter in his store. While Casey was counting the money a stranger entered and asked for matches and left in a moment or two.

TO CURE A HEADACHE

The experience of Mr. O. Barber, Simcoe, Ont., is of interest to all who suffer from headaches, which came on about once a week with such violence that I could not eat or do any work. Headache powders and quick cures did no good. I then used six boxes of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food and have not been troubled with headache since. That was eight months ago."

JACK and JILL in FAIRYLAND

1.—When Billy the barber shaved his father with the rusty razor——
Jack and Jill
Scared Bill
By yelling over the window sill!

2.—So they raced after Jackie and Jill like mad,
Did Billy the Barber and Billy's dad.

3.—And goodness knows what Jack and Jill would have done if Old Mother Goose's goose hadn't been about. When she saw the razor in Billy's hand she thought he was after her. "I must be Xmas time," said she, and——
Quick as the wink of a winking eye
Started to fly!

4.—Then Jack and Jill took hold with a will,
And away in the sky they flew,
As swift as a train or an aeroplane;
They were lucky, I think—don't you?

5.—Then what do you think happened? The old witch who flew so high to sweep the cobwebs off the sky had seen the whole affair in the barber's shop. She caught up with the goose somewhere in the sky and——
Started her broomstick on Jack and Jill
Like a mad machine in the clouds until——

6—Jack fell down upon his crown
And Jill came tumbling after,
To the great delight of Billy's dad,
And to Billy the Barber's Laughter!

DIARY TELLS FATE OF TWO LOST TRAPPERS

Record Depicting The Tortures Endured—Found in Hut With Their Bodies.

A TALE OF SUFFERING

Examiner Special.

SPOKANE, Aug. 27.—The fate of two trappers, a mystery for months, has been cleared up. Their bodies in the bunks and a few notations in a diary tell the tragedy that came upon Georg. C. Dorman and Clayton Shoecraft, trappers and hunters, in a lone cabin in the heart of the Bitter Root Mountain wilds, in Northern Idaho, about 150 miles southeast of Spokane.

The men went into the Black Lead District, on Cayuse Creek, last fall with traps, equipments and provisions for a stay of nine months. When they failed to come out early this summer a rescue party was organized recently at Lewiston, Idaho, and after a long search the relief crew, headed by L. F. Williams, found the bodies of the men, who succumbed to rheumatism and scurvy.

Dorman's diary, found by his side in the rude bunk, tells its own story in these words, inscribed with a stubby lead pencil:

"Feb. 21—Do not feel well at all.

"March 6—Can hardly get around for rheumatism.

"March 11—I walked some on the bar next to the river, then back to the cabin. My ankles hurt so I could hardly get back. This pain is fierce all over me. Clay (Shoecraft) thinks we have the scurvy.

"March 13—Clay in bed most all day with cramps in his legs and cold chills all over him.

"March 15—Cut some wood. Walked to the river and back. Clay in bed again and I am worse. Can hardly get around. We are certainly it.

"March 17—Clay had to crawl on his hands and knees to table and back again.

"March 18—Pains in my back and legs are fierce. Clay has to crawl. It's fierce !

"March 20—Clay is still crawling. We are both getting worse.

"March 22—We can scarcely move.

"March 23—Clay cannot move.

"March 24—Clay can't get out of bed. I feed him, but it is little he eats. He is worse than I am. Oh, this is awful!

"March 26—I can hardly move.

"March 27—It's awful!

"March 28—I can scarcely move at all.

"March 29—Worse!"

The final entry is believed to have been the closing chapter of the suffering of the two men, isolated in the heart of the Bitter Roots.

Dorman wrote in the diary that his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Dorman, live at Richmond, Kan. Little is known of Shoecraft, though miners in the Black Lead District recall having heard him say he owned a homestead near Sandpoint, Idaho.

Mr. Williams and the officials of Lewiston are making efforts to locate the relatives of the two men, and as soon as instruction sare received the bodies will be brought out and buried in the little cemetery near Lewiston.

Eczema Must Yield To

THE WONDERFUL, SOOTHING, HEALING INFLUENCE OF

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

There is one thing you can depend on Dr. Chase's Ointment to do every time, and that is to cure eczema. There is no more severe test to which an ointment can be put, and because Dr. Chase's Ointment triumphed over eczema it has become the standard Ointment.

When another ointment is praised it is said to be as good as Dr. Chase's. And this illustrates the high position held by this preparation.

Mrs. Oscar Vancott, St. Antoine, Sask., writes: "I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure for eczema and other skin diseases. One son while nursing broke out with running, watery sores all over his head and around the ears. Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered untold agony. He became weak and frail, would not eat and we thought we would lose him.

"Providentially we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment and we hope more people will learn about it so that their poor little ones may be saved from suffering."

Do not be satisfied with the experience of others, but put Dr. Chase's Ointment to the test when occasion arises. Try it for chafing and irritation of the skin, for chapped and cracked hands, for chilblains and frost bites, for sores and burns. It is delightfully soothing and healing. 60c. a box, all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

DOES WONDERS WITH FIGURES

Extraordinary Performance of Michigan Man Who Prefers Quiet Life to a Big Salary.

Special to The Examiner.

Hubbardston, Mich., Saturday.—Squaring the number 17 and squaring its product 17 successive times, without the aid of a paper and pencil, is the unusual stunt performed by Thomas C. O'Neil, a resident of Hubbardston. The villagers took the answer, which occupied a roll of paper 60 feet in length, and locked it up in a safe. Six months later it was removed and O'Neil repeated the list of figures, both forward and backward, from memory.

In every Hubbardston store one may find evidences of O'Neil's phenomenal ability of mental arithmetic. He foots columns thirty-six feet in length as rapidly as he can glance over them. When a farmer wishes to know how many feet of wire fence he will need to inclose a certain area he asks O'Neil, and the latter, without even pausing in his discussion of politics, will give him the answer at once.

O'Neil's one diversion is his love for figures. He does not attempt to account for his queer talent. He only says that the answer is flashed on his brain like a photograph the minute a problem is propounded. He says figures are always before him. He sees them all the time, but they mean nothing unless a problem is propounded and then they arrange themselves before him and he can read them as though they actually were written.

O'Neil's talent came to light thirty-one years ago in one of the Michigan district schools. The teachers asked some one of his class to volunteer to square nineteen. Without a bit of hesitation O'Neil, then a mere lad, jumped to his feet and gave the answer. The teacher was suspicious and the lad was kept after school. Then the boy demonstrated his wonderful powers in mathematics.

TOOK A CHANCE

When Earl Grey on the occasion of his recent visit to England advised British manufacturers to exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto he did a thing which a few short years ago would have gotten him into trouble. The sectional spirit was within the memory of the youngest citizen so strong in Canada that to "boost" the Toronto Fair would have been regarded as an exhibition of favoritism. Efficient management has made such a change in matters that to-day the Canadian National Exhibition is recognized as an institution in whch all Canada takes pride. The best proof of it is that every province from ocean to ocean will send official exhibits illustrative of its resources, to this year's event. The aim of the directors has always been to make it a magnificent demonstration of the resources of this country and the Exhibition of 1910 will be an education to the Canadian and the foreign visitors alike in the possibilities of this Canada of ours.

LEAVES PULPIT FOR THE STAGE

Chicago Pastor Resigns Because His Salary is too Small.

Special to The Examiner.

Chicago, Ill., Saturday.—The Rev. Dudley C. Foster has given up the pastorate of the Ryder Memorial Universalist Church, at Sixty-fourth Street and Woodlawn Avenue, to go on the stage. He will appear for the first time before the footlights tomorrow night as soloist in a touring company of "A Stubborn Cinderella," with rows of chorus girls in glittering costumes, at Racine, Wis.

The only reason given by Mr. Foster for resigning was that his salary was too low. Some of the trustees thought $1,200 was not enough, but the majority decided it was all the church could afford.

Mr. Foster is thirty-five years of age and married. He is accompanied by his wife in the theatrical venture. The erstwhile pastor has the role of a college professor. He will sing to the dancing accompaniment of a vivacious chorus of pretty girls.

WILL USE AEROPLANE FOR HONEYMOON

Chicago, Aug. 20.—A new two passenger aeroplane will carry Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Stevenson, now of Flint, Mich., on their honeymoon.

Mrs. Stevenson, before her sudden marriage in Detroit, was Miss Lenora Pearl Coleman. She is a daughter of Mrs. Ellen Coleman of No. 4458 Lake avenue, Chicago.

"We are going to try the aeroplane on our honeymoon," she says. "It is a two-passenger car, just right for us. Mr. Stevenson, who is an aeronaut, you know, designed it, and helped make it. It is called the Flint Flyer', I am not in the least afraid to travel in it, for Mr. Stevenson is experienced in amateur aeronautics."

The same aeroplane is accountable for the meeting of the couple, which culminated in the wedding twenty hours later.

Miss Coleman skipped away from a dance at the Detroit Country Club to take her important part in the ceremonies. She telegraphed only to her mother and a few intimate friends oNt many had heard of the union until she came from her new residence in Flint, Mich., yesterday to see her mother in Chicago.

Miss Coleman was visiting in Detroit last month and was a guest at a club dance.

Mr. Stevenson had come to Detroit in his motor car to buy a new tent for his aeroplane, and happened to drop in at the club of which he is a member. He told Miss Coleman about his aeroplane. They were married the next day.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson are now on a motor tour through New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. They will try the aeroplane several times while on their honeymoon.

ANOTHER GOOD "HUNTER" YARN THIS TIME ABOUT FROGS

Toronto World Cartoonist Refers to The Danger Threatening The Industry From the Invasion of the Carp and Deals With the Latest Frog Catching Device The Marsh Vacuum Cleaner Which is Deadly at 10 Yards.

The following amusing letter from Sam Hunter, the World cartoonist, is re-printed from the Omemee Mirror:

Some uneasiness has been expressed here at the possible invasion of these lakes by the German Carp. In more southerly waters this "water hog," as he has been aptly named, cleaning out the spawn of Letter fish, but has by his habit of "rooting" destroyed hundreds of acres wild rice and celery, he much prized food of the wild duck. The "water hog" has already made his appearance in Georgian Bay. He has been in the lower lakes fer some time. He is as poor a specimen of a fish as the English sparrow is a bird. An August sucker ranks high when compared with a carp, and the former fish, an old Millbrookite used to declare, could be "made" by mixing a little blue clay with half a pint of buttermilk. The following recipe for cooking and serving carp was given me to-day by one who knows the fish: Clean your fish and let it dry in the sun for two days, then nail on a pine board, cover with salt and allow it to stand two days longer, after which put in an oven and bake for six hours. Then draw nails out, throw carp away, and eat nails and board.

In the adjustment of future awards and punishments there are two men who certainly ought to have "something coming to them"—the "Dutchman" who introduced the carp and the Englishman who brought over the sparrow. "May they git at an unhappy hunting grounds where no bird sings but the cockney sparrow and no fish bites but the carp." Such was the wish of the man who furnished me with the carp receipt. He called at the camp wharf this morning with frogs' legs for sale. He came from the lower waters, he told us, and was quite pessimistic about frog prospects. He had "saw the time," he told us, when he "could a' filled the dugout plum t' th' gunal" with choice "No. 1 hard" frogs in one night's fishing. "It looks t' me," he said, "like th' frog was goin' t' foller th' wild pigeon and th' buffalo—and th' dodo. First it was injuns that never let up fishin' th' ma'shes day and night, and now it's them blank Dutch imitation fish that's cleanin' up the last bite of frog spawn and rootin' out their natur'l shelter." There were a few frogs, he said, still to be found on some of the up north waters but even they had become shy and hard to catch. "You got to use modern improvements now in frog fishin' like everythin' else. A bit of red flannen onto a bass hook don't go no more, and they won't let you near enough to 'em to use a net now. This spring Jim, my second boy, was in town and saw somethin' that give him an idea, and when he came home he fixed up a contrivance for th' punt that he calls "the ma'sh vacuum cleaner." Got a Rina suction pump rigged up in a milk can, and about twelve foot of tin hose with a nozzle onto it like one of them megaphone things. When everything 's ready Jim he lights th' head light in th' punt, stands by th' vacuum cleaner, and I poles th' outfit up into th' weeds. Jim, watchin' th' lily pad like a mink, keeps th' tin hose movin' about from side to side, kinda feelin' as it was, for frogs. All at once Jim holds up a hand and I holds the punt. There's a frog with his head poked out beside a water lily about eight yards ahead. It's up to Jim. Throwin' on the draft in the vacuum dingus, Jim points the nozzle within ten foot of the frog—and snatches him quicker than scat. We have snatched a three pound frog at ten yards on a bet, but we considers it safer as a gener'l thing to give him th' suction at ten foot." "It's a great age," concluded the old gentleman, lifting his bucket of frogs' legs into the dugout and backing out. "It's a great age, and it's goin' to be a greater age in some ways, but there 's somethings worth havin' that th' next generation won't have, and one of 'em's frogs' legs. And neither automobillies nor airships is goin' t' fill the gap."

Radiant And Luxuriant Hair For Every Woman

Any woman can have beautiful and luxuriant hair by using Parisian Sage, the most efficient hair tonic and dandruff cure.

Parisian Sage is the favourite hair dressing of refined people, and since its introduction into America it has met with wonderful success.

If you want beautiful, lustrous hair, that will be the envy of your friends, got to the drug store of Wm. Madill to-day and get a 50 cent bottle of Parisian Sage and use it for a week.

If at the end of a week you are not satisfied that Parisian Sage is the most delightful and refreshing hair invigorator you ever used, take it back and get your money.

Parisian Sage now has an immense sale all over Canada because it is guaranteed to stop falling hair, itching scalp and splitting hair; or money back.

It is without question of a doubt the only preparation that penetrates into the hair bulbs and kills the dandruff germs in a week.

Parisian Sage will not grow hair on bald heads, but it will prevent baldness by strengthening and nourishing the hair roots.

Fifty cents the largest bottle for the money and the best tonic for the money, and bear in mind the girl with auburn hair is on every package.

"I have used various hair tonics and can say that Parisian Sage gave my hair a good, healthy, silky, appearance, rid the head of dandruff, and kept the scalp clean. I recommend Parisian Sage as being fine for the hair and far ahead of any other tonic I ever used."—Miss Emma Foess, 520 Adams Street, Oswego, Mich., December 9, 1908.

FEARS AN EPIDEMIC OF MAN KILLING IN THE SOUTH

Another Alleged Betrayer Slain by Woman in New Orleans, Number of Men Receive Threatening Letters.

Special to The Examiner.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 25.—The police of eNw Orleans are to-day facing a serious situation—the possibility of a man killing epidemic by disappointed girls.

Following closely upon the heels of the acquittal of Mamie McLaughlin for the slaying of Hugh Smith, a wealthy business man, on a plea of the "unwritten law," Katherine Fretsch late last night shot and killed Frank Mischeler, her alleged betrayer. In her cell to-day the young girl said she was confident of acquittal. She is in a delicate condition, and according to the verdict rendered in the case of the McLaughlin girl feels perfectly justified in the slaying of Mischeler.

Information has reached the police that a number of men have letters from young girls who alleged they have been wronged, threatening their betrayers with death. Many of the men thus threatened are reported to have employed bodyguards.

When Mamie McLaughlin killed Smith on the street here three weeks ago the Women's Era Club rallied to her aid, holding the slaying was justified under the "unwritten law", and arranged to raise funds for her defence.

It is said that Smith feared for his life and employed a bodyguard. On the night he was slain, however, he dismissed his guard and met another girl.

Miss Fretsch, now held for murder, is of an old family here. She will be given an immediate trial.

"I FEEL IT MY DUTY

To Give You a Statement In Regard To 'Fruit-a-tives'"

HARDWICKE, MIRAMICHI, N.B., Jan. 17th. 1910.

"I feel it my duty to give to you and the world an unsolicited statement in respect to the wonderful cure I received by taking 'Fruit-a-tives.' Chronic Constipation was the complaint I suffered with for years. My general health was miserable as a result of this disease, and I became depressed and alarmed. I was treated by physicians without the slightest permanent benefit, and I tried all kinds of pills and tablets but nothing did me any good.

Isaw the strong testimonial in favor of 'Fruit-a-tives' by New Brunswick's 'Grand Old Man', the Hon. John Costigan, and I knew that anything he stated was honest and true and given only to help his fellow-men. I tried 'Fruit-a-tives' and the effects were most marvellous, and now I am entirely well from all my Chronic Constipation that I suffered from for so many years. My general health is once more excellent and I cannot say too much to express my thanks for the great benefits derived from taking 'Fruit-a-tives.'"

A. G. WILLISTON.

"Fruit-a-tives" is not gotten up by druggists or expert chemists—who know nothing about disease and the needs of the human body—but is the scientific discovery of a well known physician, and is the only medicine in the world made of fruit juices.

fallen there when the mast broke. The birds were busy and excited. He did not like that.

Nearly half an hour passed. The Princess Royal, a fine vessel of yacht-like proportions, sprinting for the afternoon train, was about eight miles away sou'west by west. According to present indications steamer and derelict would be abreast of the Gulf Rock Light simultaneously, but the big ship, of course, would give a wide berth to a rock-strewn shoal.

At last the lighthouse-keeper heard ascending footsteps. This was not Stephen Brand, but Jones. Jim, whose rare irritated moods found safety in stolid silence, neither spoke nor looked around when his chief joined him, binoculars in hand.

Jones, a man of whitewash, polish, and rigid adherence to framed rules, found the boat instantly, and recapitulated Jim's inventory, eliciting grunts of agreement as each item was ticked off.

A clang of metal beneath caught their ears—the opening of the stout doors, forty feet above high-water mark, from which a series of iron rungs, sunk in the granite wall, led to the rocky base.

"Brand's goin' to swim out. It's hardly worth while signallin' to the Land's End," commented Jones.

No answer. Jim leaned well over and saw their associate, stripped to his underclothing, with a leather belt supporting a sheath-knife slung across his shoulders, climbing down the ladder.

This taciturnity surprised Jones, for Jim was the cheeriest nurse who ever brought a sufferer a plate of soup.

"It's nothing for a good swimmer, is it" was the anxious question.

"No. It's no distance to speak of."

"An' the sea's like a mill-pond?"

"Ay, it's smooth enough."

"Don't you think he ought to try it? Every fine mornin' he has a dip off the rock."

"Wel, if it's all right for him an' you it's all right for me."

Jim had urged his plea to the man whom it chiefly concerned. He was far too sporting a character to obtain the interference of authority, and Jones, whose maritime experiences were confined to the hauling in or paying out of a lightship's cable, had not the slightest suspicion of lurking danger in the blue depths.

A light splash came to them, and, a few seconds later, Brand's head and shoulders swung into view. After a dozen vigorous breast strokes he rolled over on to his side, and waved his left hand to the two men high above him.

With a sweeping side stroke he made rapid progress. Jones, unencumbered by knowledge blew through his lips.

"He's a wonderful chap, is Brand," he said, contentedly. "It licks me what a man like him wants messin' about in the service for. He's eddicated up to the top notch, an' he has money, too. His lodgin's cost the whole of his pay, the missus says, an' that kid of his has a hospital nuss, if you please."

Jones was grateful to his mates for their recent attentions. He was inclined to genial gossip, but Jim was watching the boat curving towards the lighthouse. The high spring tide was at the full. So he only growled:

"You can see with half an eye he has taken on this job for a change. I wish he was in that blessed boat."

Jones was quite certain now that his subordinate harboured some secret fear of danger.

"What's up?" he cried. "He'll board her in two ticks."

On no account would the sailor mention sharks. He might be mistaken, and Jones would guffaw at his "deep-sea" fancies. Anyhow, it was Brand's affair. A friend might advise; he would never tattle.

The head-keeper, vaguely excited, peered through his glass. Both boat swimmer were in the annular field. Brand had resumed the breast stroke. The swing of the tide carried the broken bow towards him. He was not more than the boat's length distant when he dived suddenly and the cormorants flapped aloft. A black fin darted into sight, leaving a sharply divided trail in the smooth patch of water created by the turning of the derelict.

Jones was genuinely startled now.

"My God!" he cried, "what is it?"

"A shark!" yelled Jim. "I knew it. I warned him. Eh, but he's game is the cap'n."

"Why didn't you tell me?" roared Jones. Under reversed conditions he would have behaved exactly as Jim did.

But it was no time for words. The men peered at the sudden tragedy with an intensity which left them gasping for breath. More than two hundred yards away in reality, the magnifying glass brought this horror so close that they could see—they almost thought they could hear—its tensely dramatic action. The rapidly moving black signal reached the small eddy caused by the man's disappearance. Instantly a great sinuous, shining body rose half out of the water, and a powerful tail struck the side of the boat a resounding whack.

Jim's first expletive died in his throat.

"He's done it!" Jones heard him say. "He's ripped him. Oh, bully! May the Lord grant there's only one."

For a single instant they saw the dark hair and face of the man above the surface. The shark whirled about and rushed. Brand sank, and again the giant man-eater writhed in agonized contortions and the sea showed masses of froth and dark blotches. The flutterings of the birds became irregular and alarmed. Their wheeling flights partly obscured events below. The gulls, screeching their fright or it might be interest, kept close to the water, and the cormorants sailed in circles aloof.

Jones was pallid and streaming with perspiration.

"I wouldn't have had it happen for fifty quid," he groaned.

"I wouldn't ha' missed it for a hundred," yelped Jim. "It's a fight to a finish, and the cap'n 'll win. There ain't another sea-lawyer on the job, an' Brand knows how to handle this one."

Their mate's head reappeared and Jim relieved the tension by a mighty shout:

"He'll swim wild now, Brand. Keep out of his track."

Sure enough, the ugly monster began to thrash the water and career around on the surface in frantic convulsions. The second stab of the knife had reached a vital part. Brand, who perhaps had seen a Malay diver handling his life-long enemy, coolly struck out towards the stern of the boat. The shark, churning the sea into a white foam, whirled away in blind pursuit of the death which was rending him. The man, unharmed, but somewhat breathless, clambered over the folds of the sail into the boat.

"Glory be!" quavered Jones, who was a Baptist.

Jim was about to chant his thanks in other terms when his attention was caught by Brand's curious actions.

In stepping across the after thwart he stopped as though something had stung him. His hesitation was momentary. Pressing his left hand to mouth and nose he passed rapidly forward, stooped, caught a limp body by the belt which every sailor wears, and, with a mighty effort, threw it into the sea, where it sank instantly. So the shark, like many a human congener of higher intellect, had only missed his opportunity by being too precipitate, whilst the cormorants and gulls, eyeing him ominously, did not know what they had lost.

Then the man returned to the sail and peered beneath. Neither of the onlookers could distinguish anything of special interest under the heavy canvas sheet. Whatever itwas, Brand apparently resolved to leave it alone for the moment.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

AUGUST 28th, 1910.

(Copyright, 1910, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.)

Jesus Entering Jerusalem. Matt. xxi.; 1-17.

Golden Text—Hosanna to the Son of David; Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest. Matt. xxi.; 9.

Verses 1-2—What did Jesus want of this ass and her colt?

How did Jesus know where these animals were?

Was Jesus limited in his knowledge or did he, when on earth, know all things including future events? (See Luke 2; 52, Mark 13; 32.)

When God speaks to the soul now, concerning the future, may we depend on that happening which we think he has said to us?

Verse 3—Did Jesus have any right to take these animals without the permission of their owners?

Why has God got a right to take anything we have, with or without asking our permission?

Why is there never any need to indulge in regrets at what God takes from us?

Verses 4-5—Did Jesus plan these events to fit this prophecy, or did he act without thinking of it?

See Zec. 9; 9, and say if you think the writer had Jesus, and this event specifically, in mind, or did he write wiser than he knew?

Verses 6-7—What reason is there to believe that if we obey God, we shall always get what we go for?

If Jesus had been rich, would he have put on more style than riding upon a lowly ass?

Is God pleased or displeased when Christians put on style?

Verses 8-11—Did this crowd believe their own shout?

What is the evidence which proves that the shout of a crowd cannot be depended upon?

Why is it a thing hoht natural and to be encouraged, to sing and demonstrate when Jesus is triumphing?

Verses 12-13—What right had Jesus to turn these people out of the temple?

Why did they make no resistance?

Did Jesus turn out these traffickers in an even and quiet manner, or did he manifest anger?

What is the moral or spiritual difference between a bazaar in a church, or anything else of a commercial nature, and these money changers and dove sellers in the temple?

Why can it, or not, be well pleasing to God for our houses of prayer in these days to be turned into places for selling, concerts, lectures, refreshments, etc? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

What is the difference between giving to the church, and buying something in the church to help support it?

Verse 14—Should the church today look after the bodies as well as the souls of the people? Why?

Verses 15-16—Why were the chief priests so much displeased at the wonderful work of Jesus?

Are children, and those with the child-like spirit, better judges of spiritual truth than proud scholarly men?

THE REAL TEST.

Of Herpicide Is In Giving It a Thorough Trial.

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vigours may look nice and smell nice, but the point is—do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair?

No, they do not, but Herpicide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Herpicide stands the "test use."

It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease.

NOTES OF THE FAIR

Peterborough's Industrial Exhibition This Year Promises to be Best in the History of the Association.

BENEFITS DERIVED

The Eighth Peterborough Industrial Exhibition will soon be at hand, when some of the best products of the farm will be offered to the public for criticism. The object of the fair is to promote the interests of the farming industry in Ontario and more particularly in the county of Peterborough and the neighboring counties. The people of this city should assist the industry in its progress, and by doing so it will make the work more attractive and profitable to those engaged in it. The great effort of the people is to educate those connected with farming, and to fulfil this requirement agricultural schools have been established throughout the country. The well deserved attention which is being given to all products of the farm which are shown at our exhibition grounds educates the farmers and gives them chances to obtain better methods for raising crops, thus placing farm education within reach of all.

This year many special prizes are being given in order to allow a person to compete in almost every kind of work, which will interest the public. Stock judging for Peterborough young men, under thirty years, should arouse them and urge them to come forth and show the fruits of their work as raisers of stock. The only laws governing the competition are as follows:

Contestants must be amateurs and those who have won money previously in judging competitions will not be allowed to enter.

The greatest rivalry has existed among cheese makers as to who can put on the market the best quality of cheese, and now the fair gives the rivals an opportunity to settle all disputes. Prizes donated by the Peterborough Cheese Board will be awarded to the factories exhibiting the best cool cured cheese and factory cheese (both for shipping).

Remember that a package of Quaker Toasted Corn Flakes will be given to each competitor in the Quaker Bread contest. Four substantial prizes will be given to those presenting two loaves of home-made bread, made from Quaker flour.

The Peterborough Branch of the Women's Art Association will give a special prize to residents of Peterborough County who show at the fair the following articles: The best group of original drawings (a) Still Life, such as books, etc., in colors; (b) Pencil Sketch from Nature, showing trees, road, etc., and stencil design for rug.

For form of entry see the last page in the book, "Prize List," now on sale at R. Denne's store.

THIRTEEN ON STEM

Unique Growth of Tomatoes on Exhibition at W. A. Oke's Store.

Mr. W. J. Oke has on exhibition at his store, a very large bunch of tomatoes. There are thirteen tomatoes of fairly large size, all growing together on one slender stem, forming one large tomato, weighing seven and one-half pounds. The tomato was grown in the market garden of Mr. M. Succe, North Monaghan, and it may be seen hanging out at the front of Mr. Oke's store.

The tomato is one of the most curious vegetables probably ever exhibited in the city and is worth going to see.

Statistics prove indisputably that the increased use of such a pure and wholesome beverage as Regal Lager ensures a decrease in any community's record of intemperance. That alone suggests the truth that Regal is NOT an intoxicant.

DR. CRIPPEN, ETHEL LENEVE AND THE QUEEN'S OWN RIFLES PROVE A STRONG DRAWING CARD AT LIVERPOOL

Crowds Began to Gather at the Landing Pier at 4 o'clock This Morning to Wait for the Arrival of the Megantic Which did Not Dock Until Noon To-day---Crowd was so Unruly That the Police Had to Erect Barricades.

Examiner Special.

LIVERPOOL, ENG., AUG. 27. — Crowds began arriving at the landing pier here this morning as early as four o'clock awaiting the arrival at noon of the Steamer Megantic with Crippen and Ethel Clare Leneve and the Queen's Own aboard. The crowds were so dense and unruly that they were driven back and barricades erected to prevent interference with bringing the prisoners ashore. Crippen and Miss Leneve will have a preliminary hearing before Judge Sir Albert De Rutzen in Bow street police court at the earliest possible date. They will be arraigned to-morrow and if it is decided, as seems likely, not to prosecute the girl, she will be held only as a witness. It is certain that Crippen will be bound over to the Central Criminal Court, known as "Old Bailey." The trial is hardly likely to begin before the latter part of October. The charges now are likely to be changed to manslaughter, illegally performing criminal operation, cutting, mutilation or maliciously wounding or combination of several of these. The Megantic docked here shortly after noon to-day.

Mr E. N. McWilliams Has Returned After A Business Trip To New York

Mr. E. N. McWilliams, the well-known George Street hatter and fur dealer, has returned home after a visit of ten days in New York, where he devoted the entire time to studying the various styles of furs and hats. Mr. McWilliams' trip to the city of styles was made explicitly in the interests of his business and customers. As is widely known he always has direct connection with the fountain head of American style, which gets its inspiration from Paris. Mr. McWilliams also has connections with the leading English firms. In the hat line Mr. McWilliams has solved many problems, which confront the hatters of this city and various towns and cities. He can now put an American style hat, made from English goods on the market for three dollars, thus putting the hats, which are guaranteed, within reach of everyone. The old saying "If you see it in New York it's alright," will be worked out, giving the people of this city the best and finest quality of goods. Canada can produce the best of furs, but in style it is lacking. Canadians wish to have the New York styles. This desire will be amply met and Mr. McWilliams will furnish a display of furs at moderate prices that will without a doubt please the public.

Though a business trip, Mr. McWilliams had a most enjoyable time, and on his return journey paid a visit to Buffalo and Rochester.

E. N. McWILLIAMS,
Who Has Returned From a Business Trip to New York.

To-days Market Was One Of The Best Of The Season

The market to-day was one of the best of the season. All parts of the district were represented. Nearly in substantial evidence. The prices of a great many products were lower to-day than usual, while others were somewhat higher on account of the small quantity of that particular produce.

Prices were as follows:
Baled hay—80c. per cwt.
Loose hay—$13 per load.
Only one load was on the market.
Potatoes—50c. and 75c. per bush; 20c. per peck.
Harvest apples—15c. per peck.
Blue plums—3 quarts for 25c.
Chickens—70c. per pair.
Eggs—19c. a doz.
Butter—24c. and 25c. per lb.
Only one turkey was on the market; it sold at $1.40.
Geese—65c.
Ducks (live)—50c. Dressed 90c.
Corn (ear)—10c. per doz.
Tomatoes—3 lbs. for 25c.
Onions—3 bunches, 10c.
Cabbages—5c. to 7c. a head.
Cucumbers—10c. doz.
Peas—3 quarts for 10c.
Piglets—$8.00 per pair.

There was almost an inexhaustible supply of butter and eggs on the market to-day. This fact probably accounted for the drop in price. The outlook for hay, while none of the brightest, will probably be better next Saturday.

Small fruits of every description were on the market in abundance, and apples, plums and potatoes also loomed up in large quantities. Some were asking $1.00 per bag for potatoes. Nearly everything in the farm produce line was for sale; even puppies were selling at 50c. each.

Y. M. C. A. Captures Tennis Title For Second Time

The Y. M. C. A. Tennis Club have for the second time won the Peterborough Lawn Tennis Association Club championship, and the handsome "Kerr Cup" will remain in the Y.M.C.A. for another year.

The team which has defended the cup so successfully was composed of Mr. S. Hall, W. Landry, F. Cressman, G. Miller, T. Allen. Congratulations are in order for the above team.

At the Golf Club courts last night Hall and Cressman, Y.M.C.A., defeated Burnett and Henderson, Golf Club, 6-3, 6-1, which gives the "Y" team a lead of seven points for the cup with two sets to play, should these two sets prove to be defeats the cup will be nailed down by five points, and should they be wins, by nine points.

In the city singles the "Y" Club are pinning their faith on Landry to land the singles, but he has a worthy opopnent in Kerr, who has won the title for the last twelve years.

Tre track at the Riverside Park is in superb condition and the owners are doing their best to have one of the best tracks in Canada. The track in its present condition is a credit to them, No finer athletic grounds can be found in this part of the country, and should go a long way toward increasing the interest in field athletics in Peterborough.

AS BAD AS HERE

The Crowd at Minneapolis Band Concert Make as Much Noise as Peterboro People Remarks a Writer to the Examiner.

AN AMUSING LETTER

The following amusing letter is from Mr. A. W. Elson Fawkes, who was resident engineer for the Bishop Construction Company during the building of the new waterworks dam, and who is now in Minneapolis, Minn. Mr. Fawkes, while here was an ardent admirer of the 57th Regimental Band, but was disgusted with the noisy behaviour of the Friday night crowds. He has apparently run into the same conditions across the border, hence this letter:

Minneapolis is a very nice city, and quite easy to find your way about, the fact is I am quite taken up with the place, and should one feel lonely on the Sunday through being away from the bustle of work and the horny-handed sons of toil, why you have the choice of five theatres, burlesque, and about 100 picture shows, also you can lay out the spare dollars that are not working, in all kinds of purchases.

I took a trip to one of the parks the other evening and was greatly reminded of the Peterborough Parks, especially when the band is there. I will try and impart my impressions and experience as follows:

Some one said to me—

"M'sieur le Duc,"

"Well," I answered him.

"You are fond of music?" he asked.

"I am passionately fond of music," I answered him.

"Before leaving the city," said he, you must come and listen to the music in the parks. Minneapolis is famous and proud of the music it furnishes to the people in its parks."

Apprehending then a measure of enjoyment, for I am indeed fond of music, I placed myself at his disposal and soon we arrived at a place in the park where the band was playing. All the seats were occupied. We disposed ourselves on the grass.

I looked around.

As the seats were but few, the great majority of people were like us, disposed on the grass. There was a great confusion of tongues, so that at first I could not heard the band at all.

"They are playing Tannhauser," shouted my friend.

A large youth ran over my feet, shouting and laughing loudly. Seven others of his kind followed him.

"I am very fond of Tannhauser," I shouted back at him.

A querulous old woman approached, bearing a box filled with chewing gum. She was labouring under the delusion that she was possessed of a dry wit and repartee. She importuned for nearly five minutes, and her conversation was, if anything, more annoying than her importunities.

"Next," shouted my friend, "comes the Valse de Concert by Arditi."

A group of children began to play tag around us. One innocent and incoherent child nearly knocked me over forward, but an equally propusive infant restored the equilibrium by nearly knocking me over backwards.

"It is a pleasure," shouted my friend, "is it not, thus to see the people enjoying the music?"

A dog barked in my ear, and when I turned around to see where he was he barked in the other ear.

"It is indeed," I shouted, "a rare treat."

A girl about fifteen was attempting to attract the attention of a group of friends on the other side of the band stand. She jumped up and down, waving her hands and arms and shouting, "An-ne-e-e-e-e, oh, An-ne-e-e-e."

"Yes," he shouted, "and you will notice, too, that the music is of a very high order."

A raucous youth tried to sell us some fruit. A romping child upset his basket and for a time there was great confusion.

"I have already noticed that," I shouted back.

An old man with a foghorn voice approached us. "Peanuts," he bawled "Fresh roasted, double jointed, knock-kneed, hump-backed, California peanuts." The people laughed merrily at his witticism.

"Next," shouted my friend, "comes an overture by Saint-Saens."

A baby began crying just behind me. A rival baby started crying just in front of me. A merry child, who had shyly inflated a paper bag, banged it with her fist and it burst with the report of a cannon. All the women shrieked.

"You are not going?" shouted my friend."

I signified in the affirmative.

"You have had enough??" he shouted.

"I have had enough, and then some," I retorted.

"Perhaps," he said, when we had left the tumult far behind, so that we could speak again, "perhaps Saint-Saens reminds you too poignantly of home."

"Perhaps it did." I answered, "But explain, if you please, a mystery to me. How did you know what the band was playing?"

"I had a programme," said he.

Suddenly the pandemonium behind us ceased. We turned around. The men, the women, the youths, the children, the babies, the vendors, the dogs, all had suddenly become quiet.

"What is the matter with them?" I anxiously enquired.

"They are playing the National Anthem," he replied.

HAS ROUNDED UP THREE ALLEGED WATCH THIEVES DURING PAST WEEK TWO WHO HAVE PREVIOUS RECORDS

Joseph Reynolds is Alleged to Have Stolen Watch Valued at Thirty Dollars on Thursday Last---Out on One Hundred and Thirty Dollars Bail.

A prevailing disease of watch stealing seems to have infested Peterborough, disseminating its germs to many young boys, who, in a very short time, will bloom into manhood. Within the past week two boys were arraigned before Magistrate Dumble, charged with having stolen watches. The watches in these cases were valued at forty-five and twenty dollars, while this morning Joseph Reynolds appeared before his Worship, and is alleged to have stolen a watch worth thirty dollars from John Kelly. Reynolds will appear on Saturday, September 3rd. His Worship demanded one hundred and thirty dollars bail, which was made good by the boy's father.

A young man, with an eye of many colours, laid an information this morning against a local man for assaulting him. Wednesday morning will conclude the performance.

TWO MEN WERE KILLED AT BELLEVILLE TO-DAY

Examiner Special.

BELLEVILLE, ONT., AUG. 27.—Peter Young, engineer and Ed. Brewer, car inspector, were killed at six o'clock this morning at the Grand Trunk station here. An immigrant special carrying foreigners west, ran through an open switch with semaphore up, and struck the yard engine. Young was 32 years old and married, with one child. Brewer was fifty and leaves a grown up family. The passengers were shaken up, but none were hurt.

Strips The Suit Off The Man Who Had Stolen It

Special to The Examiner.

New York, Aug. 25.—There was a thrilling sequel to matinees at Broadway theatres yesterday afternoon when audiences leaving them were treated to a thief chase from Herald Square to Broadway and Thirty-seventh street. One of those who witnessed part of it was Marie Dressler, star of "Tillie's Nightmare," now playing at the Herald Square theatre.

The excitement was started by H. Wilcox, jr., an actor, of No. 12 West One Hundred and Ninth Street, who plays in the role of a newsboy in Miss Dressler's show. He was leaving the theatre when he caught sight of a man at Thirty-fifth street and Broadway dressed in a white suit. Wilcox made a bee line for the man. The man spying Wilcox, ran up Broadway.

"Stop, thief!" Hundreds of people including Mounted Policeman Wrenn joined the chase. At thirty-seventh street Wilcox caught the man by the collar and knocked him down. The other arose and sailed into Wilcox. But the crowd surged about him and stopped the fight.

Wilcox still followed by a crowd, of which Miss Dressler was for a few moments a member, took the man to a saloon at Thirty-fifth street and Seventh avenue. He said that his prisoner told him a hard luck story a week ago, and Wilcox allowed him to spend the night in his apartment. The stranger rose early, Wilcox said, filled a suitcase with his host's choicest belongings and stole away. Wilcox saw no more of him, he said, till he recognized him yesterday clad in one of the stolen suits.

At the saloon Wilcox compelled the man to disrobe. When he had removed the suit Wilcox laid claim to the undergarments. Those came off. Then the actor sent to the theatre for the newsboy costume he uses in the show, made the other don it, and sternly ordered him to depart. According to Wilcox, the man's name is George Wentworth, address unknown.

"It was perfectly sweet of Mr. Wilcox hot to have the man arrested," remarked Miss Dressler after the thing was over.

Col. Hughes Makes Warm Reply To Newspaper Yarn

Lieut.-Col. Sam Hughes, who represents the neighbouring constituency of Victoria and Haliburton, is time and again the subject of newspaper canards. Every once in a while some newspaper comes out with a despatch to the effect that Col. Sam Hughes is about to retire from political life and accept a certain militia appointment. As a rule the member for Victoria and Haliburton pays no attention to the newspaper yarns that originate, apparently in the minds of the newspaper men who write them. However, an item that appeared in the Toronto World last week has drawn forth a fiery reply from the gallant Colonel, and has incidentally brought to light some very interesting political history. The item to which Col. Hughes felt himself bound to reply was to the effect that he was to be appointed Quartermaster General for Canada, a position now held by General Macdonald, and that he would accordingly resign his seat for Victoria and Haliburton. In a letter to the Lindsay Warder last week Col Hughes hits out good and hard and says what he thinks regarding the Montreal Star, with whom he claims this last story originated. He then proceeds to tell of what positions he might have had in the militia of Canada, had he seen fit to accept them, and it may surprise a few to know that the Colonel once refused the portfolio of Minister of Militia. Col. Hughes in his letter to the Warder says:

My attention has been drawn to-day to an item said to be clipped from the Toronto World of recent date mentioning my name for the position of Quartermaster-General for Canada.

This canard first appeared some weeks ago in that organ of unreliability and subserviency, the Montreal Star. It is possible it was inspired by the editor in one of his spiritual attacks. However, as I regard aught condemnatory of me in that paper as complimentary I paid no attention to it.

There is not a little of truth in the statement.

In the first place General Macdonald has proven himself a most capable, efficient, obliging and careful officer. May he long be spared to be Quartermaster-General is my hearty wish!

In the second place, many years ago, when the Conservative party was in power I was offered but refused the offer, the position of both deputy minister of militia and adjutant general, then the two highest military positions in Canada. Again I was offered the portfolio of Minister of Militia, but could not see my way clear to sacrifice my principles for the sake of party or office.

You may rest assured that there is no likelihood of my retiring from the political game, even though such a move might be congenial to political sycophants, until the freemen of Victoria and Haliburton or I personally decide upon such being desirable. Just yet the spirit in that direction has not moved either the said freemen or me.

There are a few questions before the people on which it is my purpose to be heard before any retirement is considered. Indeed, so far in life I have never been much on retirements.

THE WEATHER

This morning was quite cool, and it is already beginning to feel fall-like. The thermometer was down to 40 degrees, and it is probable that there was white frost on low-lying places, as conditions were favorable for such. The month has had more than its average of rainfall—almost double—and everything looks green and fresh in contrast with the usual burnt appearance of vegetation at this season. The rainfall to date is more than 4 inches. Showers have been numerous and some quite heavy.—W. P.

DROPPED INTO SEA

New York Aviator Was Being Carried Away by Strong Wind When His Bi-plane Collapsed Early This Morning.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Special Wire to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, AUG 27.—Carried out to sea by a strong wind, against which the motor was powerless, J. C. Buhr Mars, aviator, was being swept towards Sandy Hook early this morning, when the biplane suddenly collapsed. It dropped like a stone into the water about 300 hundred feet from the club house of the Atlantic Club at Seagate. Mars got free of the machine in its descent and was soon picked up, apparently uninjured, by obat Hustler of Merritt Chapman Company.

WERE THEY AFRAID?

Indian Village Team Sav Chemong Park Outfit Failed to Show Up.

INDIAN VILLAGE, AUG. 27.—The Chemong Park Baseball Club did not appear here yesterday for a game, as promised. It looks as if they were a little afraid, and no wonder, as they have been beaten twice. Our boys were going to do their best, as this was to have been the last game of the season.

The excursion that was to have taken place on September 1st to Lake Simcoe, has been changed to Sept. 8th.

ATTRACTIONS AT THE ROYAL AND PRINCESS

Vaudeville Stars Coming from the Majestic Theatre Toronto

The amusement-loving public of Peterborough are to have the privilege of hearing the best vaudeville talent from the new Majestic Theatre, Toronto. Mr. Pappas has made arrangements with Mr. John Griffith, of the Majestic to supply him with the leading talent from his theatre. Patrons of the Royal will thus enjoy equally as good attractions as they have in the city of Toronto.

At the Princess, as well as at the Royal the Peterborough public will continue to enjoy seeing high-class moving pictures, from films produced by the best makers in Europe and America. None better in the world. The new film at the Princess for Saturday is entitled "The Automobile Races," from Pathe Freres, of Paris.

A GOOD BAND

Campbellford Excursionists Were Well Supplied With Music

The Campbellford excursionists left the city last evening about 7.30, and the station platform was crowded with friends of the visitors. The band rendered some choice pieces at the station before leaving which were much appreciated. On the whole the visitors were apparently well satisfied with the day's outing, and expressed their good opinions of the city.

SUMMER RECORDS OF CHILDREN'S DEATHS

Records show that by far the greatest number of deaths among little ones occur during the hot summer months. The excessive heat, the difficulty in keeping baby's milk sweet, improper food all tend to baby troubles — cholera infantum, wards bringing on those dreaded diarrhoea, dysentry and other stomach and bowel troubles. To guard against these troubles Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent these deadly summer complaints or cure them if they come on suddenly. Mrs. O. Morin, Ste. Tite, Que., says: "My baby suffered from a severe attack of cholera infantum, but after giving him Baby's Own Tablets the trouble disappeared and he regained health splendidly." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MALODOROUS EXPERIMENTATION.

The City Council, especially the Board of Works' portion of it is in decidedly bad odor with residents of Rubidge street, south of Charlotte street. The bad odour rising from the oil placed upon the street, with the object of laying the dust, is the cause of bitter complaint. It was the theory that the nauseating smell of the crude oil placed upon the street would soon disappear, but the residents assert that it is only too permanent Not only does the bad odor offend the sense of smell, but in some cases it actually produces illness. Residents complain that during the recent "spell" of hot ,stifling weather they had to keep their doors and windows shut, preferring suffocation to the smell of the oil. The object of the Board of Works may be most praiseworthy, but those who have had experience of its application on Rubidge street, are quite ready to sympathize with St. Paul's objection to doing evil that good may come. If it comes to a choice betwen dust and stink, the residents of Rubidge street prefer the dust, especially as it can be subdued by the proper application of water.

A LIBERAL VIEW.

Rev. G. W. Henderson, pastor of the Charlotte street Methodist church, is to be commended for the liberality and breadth of view he took in the discussion at the Methodist General Conference of the amendment of the "foot-note" in the Methodist book of discipline. This foot-note, when it was in force, forbade dancing, card playing, theatre-going and other forms of "worldly amusements," held by the stricter sort to be essentially evil; whereas, they, like everything else in this world, only became evil by misuse or abuse. Mr. Henderson took the position that it was inadvisable to catalogue questionable practices, but the attitude of church members towards them should be left to the spiritualized good sense of individuals. This is good reasoning. Any reform in any domain of morals is incomplete that is not founded upon principle. In religious practice, the enlightened conscience, with a sincere desire to submit to its ruling is a pretty safe guide. Human nature rebels against rules and regulations, especially when they interfere with recreations and pleasures and actions that, within excess or abuse are essentially harmless; and laws that forbid lawful things and reduce individual liberty to the plane of childhood and irresponsibility are pretty certain to be more honoured in the breach than in the observance. Unenforced and practically unenforceable laws and rules tend to breed direspect for all law, and it may easily come to pass that the last state will be worse than the first.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

THE LAURIER PARTY A "TORY" SCARECROW.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier cannot be blamed for the phenomenal and unprecedented success of his Western tour. He made it successful, but he did so by means perfectly legitimate; he showed the real Laurier to the people, not the Laurier his opponents have been holding up, cartooning, and belaboring.

His speeches were elegant and optimistic. He was always bright, alert, cheeerful, sympathetic and witty. He was courtly and grave when occasion called for seriousness, but mostly his natural manner was as spontaneous as that of a boy out of school for his summer vacation, determined to make the most of the time and opportunity.

Why should he have been otherwise? Everywhere he was made to feel that the people are on his side, and he accepted the tacit or explicit assurance witrout affectation, and with becoming good faith. There will be little talk hereafter about capturing the West from the Premier at the next election. But what about the rest of the Dominion?

It is impossible for a Premier to hold the West without being thereby strengthened in the East and centre. His Western tour has made Sir Wilfrid stronger everywhere else in the Dominion, even in Quebec where he is already quite strong enough. The people of the West have many friends and relatives in the East, and the impression he created in them will be reflected back to their old homes in a variety of ways. It will colour letters and conversations, and it will long affect newspaper utterances. The situation can never again be as it would have been, but for the tour.

But, most important of all, Sir Wilfrid will have in the House of Commons an advantage over his critics he could not have had without seeing things for himself as he has done. He has met all sorts of prominent and influential people. He has mixed with foreigners who are honestly and successfully trying to be Canadians. He has heard over and over again the petition of the farmers. He has studied the problem of immigration on the spot. He has seen the need for at least two new public works, and has given the assurance that they will be constructed immediately.

No single member of the Opposition knows the whole West as the Premier, the Minister of the Interior, and the Minister of Railways know it. The debates of next session and the discussions of the next election campaign will be one-sided in this respect, but that cannot be helped. When the Conservatives come into power they can make up for lost time and lack of knowledge.

THE CANADIAN NAVY.

Under the authority of the Dominion Parliament two warships have been purchased by the Canadian Naval Department from the British Admiralty—the Rainbow and the Niobe. These are to be the nucleus of the coming Canadian navy, and the Rainbow has already sailed from Portsmouth for Esquimalt by way of Cape Horn. The Niobe is undergoing some changes that will letter fit her for the work assigned to her on the Atlantic Ocean, her station being at Halifax.

These vessels are not by any means of a high class, but they can give a good account of themselves in the matter of both speed and armament. They are, of course, up-to-date in respect of devices for signalling, marksmanship, wireless telegraphy, and steering. The intention is that under the dry-dock subsidy system already adopted by the Dominion Parliament the remaining vessels will in due time be constructed in Canada.

The Rainbow has on board a full complement of men furnished from the British naval service, including the reserves. The seamen will be replaced by Canadian recruits; the officers will be retained for training purposes.

A good deal of pardonable, as well as some unpardonable, chaffing has been indulged in by two classes of Canadian critics at the expense of these vessels. One class is made up of "Tory" politicians and jingoes, who think Canada is not doing enough in the way of naval provision; the other is made up of those who think Canada is doing too much, and who would prefer that she should do just nothing at all.

Eventually the former sort of criticism will exhaust itself, because it will be found by those who practise it that public opinion is decidedly against spending money on any navy that is not essentially Canadian. Besides, it is not to be forgotten that by building the future ships of a Canadian navy in Canada yards will be necessarily of a capacity beyond our medest requirements in warships, and thus we shall have provided facilities for building the yearly increase ships of the Canadian merchant and passenger marine.

How long the pacific counsels will continue depends on the programme made by the great peace propaganda that is making itself felt in all civilized countries. Eventually peace will be assured, and long before taht happy time arrives Canada, like other nations, will be making propositions to convert her costly armaments to industrial uses. Meanwhile we live in a fighting world, not an entirely pacific one.

In the publicity campaign, supposed to be in progress in this city, the object is assumed to be to bring Peterborough "into the limelight"; to give its good features prominence in the eyes of the public. To be effective and to bring good results this prominence should be creditable; and the good, not the bad, features of the city exploited. In the process of publicity we attract attention and it should be our aim that this attention should have only good objects to feed upon. But, unfortunately, this is not always the case; and our neglect of what, in a strictly utilitarian sense, might be called small matters, tends to bring Peterborough into disrepute. At the meeting of the Canadian Horticultural Association, held in Toronto on August 10, Professor H. L. Hutt of the Ontario Agricultural College, gave an address on civic beauty, dealing with measures to improve the beauty of city streets. His address was illustrated with views of well-kept streets and vice versa. It is not comforting to our amour propre that the streets of Peterborough were held up and pictured as "horrible examples" of what streets should not be. Pictures were shown of some of the streets of Peterborough, with slatternly boulevards, ornamented with rank growth of weeds on the sides of the driving surface, the edges of boulevards gouged out by wheels, and presenting a ragged and untidy appearance. Per contra pictures were given of the street of Edmonton and other cities of the West, and of Ontario, where the city puts in curbs on streets, whose walks are inside, what is called, the tree line, built at the same time and on the same plan of payment as the pavements. It is not much consolation that Peterborough was not the only place pictured as possessing neglected and unbeautiful streets. That other Ontario towns and cities are upon the black list, is little comfort for Peterborough being put into the rogues' gallery of portraits of frowsy, untidy streets. What adds, or should add, to the humiliation of the citizens, and especially of the civic custodians of our streets, is the fact that the conditions so discreditably pictured are easily preventible. If our civic authorities took ever so little though, took ever so little interest in the beauty and tidiness of our streets; if they did ever so little in the direction of improving them and keeping them in a shape that would save them from public caricature and the holding up of them to public reprobation, different results would follow. With even so little care we could have beautifully appearing streets; the cost would be trifling—a good deal of thought and very little money. If the Board of Works showed the slightest interest in keeping the streets clean and tidy, and free from weeds, the citizens would cooperate with them, and each, stimulated by the example of the civic authorities, would, in turn, do most of the work of keeping the streets tidy—each keeping his own street-front swept and garnished. We don't want much of the kind of advertizing we got at the recent meeting of the Canadian Horticultural Society. We can't blame anybody but ourselves. The duty and desirability of making and keeping our streets tidy and attractive, as can easily be done, has been urged upon the civic authorities time after time in these columns and elsewhere. That this duty is one that cannot be neglected with impunity, we have had luminating proof. We have also proof that others—our rivals—have a sense of the beautiful in streets as a factor in making a city attractive and desirable as a place of residence.

THE LAST OF THE BAILEYISMS
Sir,—The Review pretends, with its usual duplicity, that it does not publish the remarks I was asked by one of its readers, to write, because it wants a guarantee of good faith. I signed my initials and it is unfair to publish extracts from my communications. Good faith! in Peterborough! Whew! Neither do I like your heading of my postcard contributions, "Baileyism," and as I see from your remarks "The Lesson of the Escapes" that you are not for progressive humanity. I shall give up writing to you. It is no use.

EDSON
ALBERTA
The Coming City of Western Canada

And one of the most important divisional points on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. The coming Railway, Manufacturing, Mining, Agricultural, Coal and Commercial Centre of Western Canada.

A few facts why Edson is a very important divisional point on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. All railway lines are divided into divisions. The C.P.R. has among many others, its Central Division, Prairie Division, Mountain Division and Pacific Division and has created such cities as Fort William and Winnipeg, Calgary, Revelstoke and Vancouver. The prairie division of the C.P.R. begins at Winnipeg and ends at Calgary. The prairie division of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway begins at Winnipeg and ends at Edson. Calgary to-day is a large and prosperous city of some forty thousand (40,000) population. Ten years ago Calgary was rarely heard of. Edson being equally situated on the railway lines to Calgary, is destined to be as great a city as Calgary. ¶ Unequalled Farm Lands north of Edson is situated grand "prairie country" on the Peace River, which is known far and wide as the last available stretch of unbroken prairie farm lands. The railroad will be built in to this country from Edson at an early date, this alone will necessitate Edson becoming one of the important manufacturing and distributing points of the west and will add untold thousands to property values. Extensive Coal Fields near Edson—south of Edson about thirty miles are situated very valuable and extensive coal deposits. Mining corporations are investing large sums in developing this wonderful district and the railroad will be built from Edson to the mines if possible this year. The Yellowhead Coal Company are investing large sums just south of the city in developing their mines, who hold contracts from the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway for their general supply of coal for that district.

Wonderful Timber Belt—west and northwest of Edson are to be found vast timber acres and as the facilities for transportation and power are unexcelled, Edson will become the chief lumbering city of that part of the west. A sawmill is now being built just north of the city. Edson has great assets which will make it one of the greatest cities in western Canada. The Grand Trunk Pacific Railways are now building round house shops, etc., at Edson, and besides being a western terminus of the prairie division, it is also the eastern terminns of the mountain division and eventually will be as great if not a greater divisional point than Calgary. ¶ Business Houses, Banks, Manufacturers, etc., have locations already purchased and considerable building is now going on. Capitalists are evidencing keen interest in this new coming western city of Edson. ¶ Edson's Rapid Growth—We predict that Edson with its many natural resources and advantages will become a city of thousands within a very short time, and that lots bought to-day in Edson will be selling at several times the present price in a short time. The time to buy lots in Edson is now. Ten years ago business and residential lots could be bought in Calgary at prices ranging from $50 to $200, the self same lots have sold since for $5000 and up to $20000. Now, if Edson's location is equal to that of Calgary, what better assurance would you want for a safe investment of your money? A few years will see Edson property values equal to those of Calgary. What does this mean to you? It means nothing unless you participate in the profits, and you can do this only by buying Real Estate in this young and vigorous western Canadian city. The time to buy is when the new city has passed through a seasoning stage where it is in a performative period with its natural resources and strategical position assure the building of a big city.

These few facts are sufficient to convince the most sceptical of the immense possibilities of the great future growth of Edson, and it will only be a matter of a few weeks until the choice lots and locations will be bought up by the men who not only thought but acted quickly, ¶ Our lots are nicely located adjoining the business section and are all high dry level, and the city is rapidly growing towards this direction. The present prices for a limited time are—For Lots in industrial Edson $60 to $125, on monthly payments, or 5% discount for cash. These prices are for a Short Time. A few dollars invested in this coming city will make you independent in the future. Do not miss your opportunity—you should know about the last great west. Information and full particulars sent on receipt of a card—Phone number 819. Brewer Bartels Dead.

Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 27.—Word was received here yesterday of the death of Herman Bartels, of this city at Saratoga. Mr. Bartels was 57 years old. Two months ago he was hurt in a trolley wreck.

Mr. Bartels was a brewer and amassed a fortune which was lost in litigation. He was indicted at Auburn for arson in the third degree on the charge that he had induced men to fire the Lake Shore malt house. He was convicted and on May 2, 1905, when he was to appear for sentence, jumped his bail bond and came to Canada. He was extradited and on July 4, 1907, he eluded the officers who had him in custody, while his case was being argued at Osgoode Hall. A week later his hiding place was a Mutual street boarding-house, was revealed to the police, and he was returned to the States, where he served a year in prison.

Portugal Fears Trouble.

Lisbon, via the frontier, Aug. 27.—Serious apprehensions of disorder during the election for the Cortes, which occur throughout Poraugal Aug. 28, are entertained here.

The Government has recalled to the colors every officer, soldier and sailor on leave. The warships have been distributed among the various ports to assist the authorities if disturbances break out.

Found Ship Sinking.

Bremen, Aug. 27.—A despatch from Fayal, Azores Islands, reports that the steamer Koenigin Luise encountered on Aug. 25 the ship Harvest Queen of Windsor, N.S., which sailed from Dalhousie, N.S., Aug. 10, for Buenos Ayres, in a sinking condition. The ship was left burning in midocean.

Searched All Cabins.

New York, Aug. 27.—A customs innovation was put into effect late on Thursday night when the big Cunarder Mauretania docked. Every first cabin state-room on the vessel was searched by custom inspectors.

The customs officials contend that some passengers deliberately leave small luggage and articles of value in their staterooms and give orders to the stewards to send them ashore.

Lord Northcliffe, Ex-Mayor Seth Low, Maude Adams, Paul Morton, and Kyrie Bellew were among the arrivals.

Express Companies Merge.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 27.—The Maritime Express Co. has been absorbed by the Dominion Express Co. The former operates between St. John and Digby, and Yarmouth and Boston by boat, and between Yarmouth, Digby and Halifax by rail. The change, which will take place Sept. 1, will give the Dominion Express entry to Boston.

Cucumbers Destroyed.

Providence, R.I., Aug. 27.—Market gardeners throughout this state have met losses amounting to more than $150,000, through damages to their cucumber crop by a new disease. The crop has been reduced 85 per cent.

$6,000,000 Bushels Estimate.

Winnipeg, Aug. 27.—Manager Black of the Ogilvie Milling Co., estimates the western wheat crop at 66,000,000 bushels. "a surprisingly good showing under the trying conditions which have prevailed."

The oat and barley crops, however, have suffered, he says, to a very much greater extent than the wheat.

Cholera In Vienna.

Vienna, Aug. 27.—Cholera, it is officially announced, has broken out in this city.

Exit the Hero.

The old fashioned hero, they tell us, has passed.
In all the late fiction he's badly outclassed.

(Copr. 1909 by, Bradley-Garretson Co. Ltd.)

...If he be not in love with some woman, there is no believing old signs; he brushes his hat o' mornings:—what should that bode?
Much Ado About Nothing, Act III., ... Sc. c. .. ..

Shakespeare's lovers are legion. The poet, despite the views the critics have given of his probably unhappy life with Anne Hathaway, was never so happy as when creating lovers and depicting love scenes. He familiarly calls love "a lunacy" and "a madness." Love is "a familiar," "a devil," "an evil angel"; lovers are "madmen" and "lunatics"—but all his love scenes are buoyant and bright. Even his most ridiculous ones give pleasure to his audience. There is no folly committed by the lovers that has not, to a greater or lesser degree, animated their own lives. With Rosalind of "As You Like It" they may feel that lovers deserve "a dark house and a whip as madmen do," but they are tolerant of their folly as they themselves either are, have been or will be in a similar state.

The condition of a lover with its petty follies is after all beneficent. If it did nothing more than make a careless, slovenly youth take to brushing his hat and shining his boots it would have served a good purpose. The brushing his o' mornings shows that he is solicitous about his person, and is a pretty good sign that he wishes to appear well in the eyes of some woman. Gloucester, afterwards Richard III., cynically remarked:

"I'll deck my body in rich ornaments
And witch sweet ladies with my words and looks."

To have and to hold even a Gloucester felt could best be done by the help of a tailor and hair-dresser.

Anyone who has observed boys coisely will recognize the fitness of Shakespeare's remark. When a lad has his heart stirred for the first time by the winning glances of some laughing schoolgirl, it is a supreme moment in his life. From a child he becomes a man, with a man's desires and ambitions. The first sign he showed of his heart's condition is the care he takes of his person. From a little savage he often develops into a young gentleman.

Woman is indeed the greater civilizer. In regions such as mining camps and lumber camps where women are unknown or but rare visitors, the men take on a masculine uncouthness—beards are allowed to grow, collars are discarded, there is a rude carelessness about the dress. Men slowly revert to coarseness and savagery if left to themselves. It is only necessary for a woman, a good woman, to enter the wildest western mining camp to rescue the miners from savagery. In her presence the roughest men take on a polish. If any of them lose their hearts to the visitor the "old signs" are seen in exaggerated form.

It is, however, unnecessary to go to the exceptional situation of a mining or lumber camp to see the "old signs." They are evident everywhere. The love of man for woman has made this world worth living in. But for its glorifying influence earth would still be a place of caves and huts. The beautiful homes that abound in all countries are the result of love. When a man loves, his first thought is to shine in the eyes of the one he would win; when he has won, his first thought is to prepare a nest worthy of the object of his love. The fine homes, the well-kept lawns, the artistic furniture, the paintings and carvings and sculpture are "old signs" that man is first of all a lover. As a respect for woman has grown she has been almost deified. She is an object of worship; temples are built to her, jewels are heaped upon her as upon the Hindu gods of old. She is often, it is true, an idol with feet of clay. The rose-embowered cottage and the stately mansion are "old signs" that at some time some man had been in love with some woman. The object of this adoration is too often totally unworthy of the worship bestowed on her. A fetich is, however, better than no god: it is at least a recognition of divinity.

Love unrequited is apted to cause a revulsion into a barbarous state. Rosalind of "As You Like It" has it that the marks of a lover are: "A lean cheek—a blue eye and sunken—an unquestionable spirit—a beard neglected. Then your hose should be ungartered, your bonnet unbanded, your sleeve unbuttoned, your shoe untied, and everything about you demonstrating a careless desolation." But this is the unsuccessful wooer or the one who has loved and lost. While there is hope there is brushing of hats o' mornings.

Without love this world would be a wretched place. It is love that glorifies existence. It makes the young old and the old young. Great careers have been made by love; great fortunes have been built up through its influence; great deeds have been performed by its inspiration. The poet's song has been made sweeter, the artist's hand more skilful, the financier's brain more acute, the soldier's courage more steadfast by love. Love crushes out selfishness and ennobles life. The first sure sign that a man has this sweet madness is increased self-respect. His brushing of his hat o' mornings bodes much to the wise.

The Country Home Of Mr. William Mackenzie

One of the pleasing features of modern times on the American continent is the desire and tendency of people who have been successful in commercial enterprises to secure a farm and establish a country home, where, relieved from the restraints and conventionalities of the city, they may enjoy the freedom of country life and the fruits of the land, and products of the dairy, fresh and at first hand. Prominent among those whose tastes have turned in this direction are Mr. William Mackenzie, of Toronto, president of the Canadian Northern Railway, and his estimable wife, the early years of whose lives were spent on the farm in the neighbourhood of Kirkfield, in Victoria county. This quiet and pretty village is a station on the Coboconk branch of the Grand Trunk, and ten miles from Beaverton, or Gamebridge, on the Canadian Northern. Here, in a modest and unostentatious manner, is conducted a combination of farm and ranch, comprising something over 1,200 acres of land, about one-third of which is arable and fertile, the balance being somewhat rough, and on rocky foundation, but most suitable for permanent pasturage, through which runs the Trent Valley Canal and on which cattle and sheep thrive and grow fat, the whole being capably conducted by Mr. W. J. Mitchell, the efficient superintendent. The principal features of the farm proper are the dairy and the splendid herd of imported and home-bred Jersey cattle, which are the particular interest of Mrs. Mackenzie, and which, though founded, but recently, have already acquired a widespread reputation for superiority of character and quality winning honours at principal Ontario exhibitions. The dairy, a handsome and commodious structure, besides being furnished with a complete creamery outfit, comprising steam heating, pasteurizing, refrigerator, separator, butter working and cream-cheese making apparatus, under the efficient superintendency of Miss Cresse, graduate of a British dairy school, is also fitted out with the unusual accompaniment of living rooms, including kitchen, dining room, parlour (with open fireplace), sleeping compartments, and a capacious verandah on the sunny side. Here the milk product of the herd of some sixty head of Jerseys is converted into first quality goods, and is shipped to the city home and to special customers in neat and attractive packages. The poultry section is liberally provided for in extensive buildings with roomy yards and runs, and up-to-date fixings, while the fine flocks of White Wyandotte and Buff Orpington fowl have all the appearances of health and thriftiness.

The Jersey herd, which is high class in breeding and uniformity of approved type, is headed by the splendid imported bull, "Pearl," of Kirkfield," a prominent prize winner in connection with the aristocracy of the breed at the Royal Show of England, and the first and grand championship as best bull of the breed, any age, at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto in 1907 and 1908, as also at the London and Ottawa exhibitions recently. Bred by the Marquis of Winchester, and sired by the noted Distinction's Fox, Pearl of Kirkfield, is a "prince of the blood" in breeding, style and quality, and is universally conceded to be the model representative of the ideal modern type of the butter breed as found on its Island home. And his prepotency as a superior sire is amply attested by the quality and character of his progeny in the herd, among which are several typical young bulls, the produce of deep-milking dams, which will make high-class herd headers, and should find ready purchasers, if quality counts, as it should. The matured matrons of the herd are businesslike as well as beautiful, carrying large and shapely udders, and showing superior style and correct conformation, together with sufficient substance and capacity for the cardinal purpose of dairy work of the highest order; while the heifers in milk gave abundant promise of matching their mothers in all respects with added age. The cattle stabling is ideal, in regard to comfort, convenience, light, ventilation and cleanliness, the length of the stalls being gauged by movable mangers to suit the varying length of the animals, so that they are always kept clean, which counts for much in the wholesomeness of the product of a milking herd. The entire herd is kept in fine healthy and thrifty condition by the competent and careful herdsman, James Young.

Kirkfield House, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie and their family, is beautiful, and built on a generous scale, while the grounds are spacious, tastefully laid out, and set with a fine variety of trees, shrubbery and perennial flowering plants, while close by are generous golf links, on a hundred acre area of beautifully undulating ground, fringed on three sides by a second growth of wide-spreading pines, where the family and their friends and neighbours enjoy this wholesome recreation in the summer and autumn months; while only six miles distant from the village are the family's cottages, by the shore of the beautiful Balsam lake, where bathing and boating are privileges free as the fresh air. Among other evidences of the sympathetic interest taken by the Mackenzies in the neighbourhood of their childhod home is the gift of a handsome and commodious church and a beautiful public school building, the latter, probably the best and most costly rural school in the province, set in a six-acre playground and finished and furnished in first class style, with two large class rooms, cement-floored basement the full size, marble lavatory fixings, hot water heating, lunch room, and everything complete, the borders of the grounds being planted with shrubbery and evergreens—a thoughtful and kindly generosity which is worthy of commendation, and which we duly believe is appreciated by the people.—Farmer's Advocate.

The Value Of Personality In Business Success

(From Geyner's Stationer.)

A retail business without the element of personality in it is in danger from a variety of different directions. The "chain of stores" idea, for instance, is based on the assumption that the average man and woman care little about the personality of the merchant from whom they buy their goods, but rely entirely on price and the appearance of the store in the choice of the place where purchases are made. If a "syndicate store" is put up next door to a long established business dealing in the same class of goods, price cutting is the weapon usually used to get the old trade turned into the new channel, and, if there is no strong personality back of it, the process of winning it away is usually successful.

Just take this example from a manufacturer's experience as an illustration of what is meant. James H. Collins, that very able writer on business subjects, tells the story in the Saturday Evening Post. "Some years ago an Eastern wholesale house took one of its salesmen from territory he had covered eight years and sent him down south to establish new connections. Within three months the purchases of several important customers in the old territory showed a marked falling off. The sales manager spent a week looking into the matter, and found that these customers missed the former salesman as a friend. He was a man with a good deal of sentiment and tenderness in his nature. He had a wife, three children and a comfortable home. After looking at samples all morning, he and one of the customers would go to lunch and compare families. He had new snapshots of his wife and youngsters. He would recall that only two weeks before, when he left the cozy little home, the birds were singing, the grass was green, the sky blue. He would look forward to the first week of the next month, when he could go home again, and to the day in the future when he could retire. He pulled the domestic stop way out, and that, apart from prices, goods and the character of his house, was the only advantage he had over other salesmen. Yet these customers had long been interested in his family, and they missed him as a friend and confidant when he was sent to other territory. The young salesman who took his place had no wife, no youngsters, no home. For all he ever said about it, the grass might be blue and the sky green. So he had to take his chances as an outsider with competitors' salesmen."

Mr. Collins sums up his idea thus: "Skilful personal interest in a customer's grandmother has probably sold more staple goods than all the special discounts and prices ever whispered."

Another direction in which this matter of personality touches the retailer is in meeting department store competition. The best means for the small dealer to use in holding his trade against his bigger rival is not to try to meet the prices, but it is to put into his smaller business a whole lot of strong individuality—add to it the personal element—and to make the people in his community trade with him rather than with the department store because they like the spirit of the place better, because they like the element of sympathy and mutual understanding which is entirely lacking in the department store method of retailing.

Still another point where it affects the interests of the smaller retailer is in the relation which he bears to the great mail order houses, which continue to make tremendous strides in the sale of their goods in the rural communities and smaller cities and towns. Here again, price is not the best basis on which to compete. The element of service, plus personality, is the important thing. Every retailer in this country could get out into the middle of the street in front of his store and shout himself hoarse telling the people what a great curse the mail order houses are, but it wouldn't do much good. The thing which handicaps the mail order houses—and their owners realize the fact—is their inability to come into personal contact with their customers. They have to speak through the printed page, they have to sell through arguments in type, and the person who buys from them misses the confidence which he can place in the goods when he buys from John Brown, or some other local storekeeper — a man who shows him the article before he makes the purchase, and who will stand back of it after it is sold. Of course, if the local store entirely backs these combined factors of personality and a high quality of service in customers, the advantage is lost, and the mail order house rushes ammunition to that spot and reaps the harvest.

Do you know that mail order houses pick out sections where there are no decent retail stores, kept by able merchants, and flood those particular sections with catalogues and other so-called 'literature' realizing that their strength lies where the retailer is weak through his failure to press the advantage which he has?

If you are a retailer, suppose that your stock was nothing but a big printed book—a very poorly printed one at that—and a desk where postal money orders could be filled out. Your customers would have to do all the work—turn over the pages of the catalogue, pick out the goods they want, fill out the orders and mail them—then wait a week or two for goods of uncertain value to arrive. How long do you think you would stay in that business if, right next door to you, there was a neat modern store, with a smiling, good-natured fellow that everybody liked behind the counter—and perhaps a wife and two or three sunny little "kids" in the rooms above in whom everybody was interested? Do you suppose that lower prices alone would keep you going? Look at the mail order propositions from that point of view. Study your own strength, and then press the advantage which you have, and which the mail order merchant knows that you have, but hopes that you won't learn how to use.

Just as there are two sides to every question, there is another important phase of this proposition which ought not to be neglected. With a retail business which depends for its trade entirely on the personality of the man who runs it, and nothing in addition to that, there is always the possibility of something happening to that one man and the business going to pieces in consequence. There are a number of ways to prepare for that emergency, and one of them has to do with the idea that a business can be given a personality which reflects the personality of the owner, but which does not depend entirely upon him. In the appearance of the store, in the way the clerks treat customers, in the store's advertising, in the reliability of the goods which are handled, in fair dealing in the fixing of prices, in the promptness with which all agreements with customers are kept, in the care exercised in packing and delivering goods, in the endeavour to do all that is necessary and then a little bit more for upon him. In the appearance of the uniform courtesy, kindliness and personal interest in every transaction between purchaser and dealer—all these things, if properly attended to, give a store a personality, and make it the friend of its customers. A retail business which is run this way advertises itself, tells its own story to the public, and it presents the biggest problem that the price cutter, the mail order man, and the syndicate store promoter has to contend with in his endeavour to strengthen his foothold. Trade won by these methods has permanent value.

Are Re-united After Many Years Of Separation

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—J. Schmidt and his wife, Emma Schmidt, at No. 522 Temple street, have been reunited after each had given the other up for dead.

It had been months since Mrs. Schmidt heard from her husband. One year ago he gave up his work as a landscape gardener and left Los Angeles to seek a fortune in the gold fields. Luck played against him, and Mrs. Schmidt was compelled to find occupation as a laundress and send him a share of her earnings. Three months ago the letters ceased to come from him, and after a few weeks the wife gave up all hope of ever seeing him again.

Schmidt says that three months ago discouraged by his ill luck, he determined to make a desperate effort to explore an untried field, to reach which would mean all imaginable kinds of hazardous trials. His eyes were turned to the Talkeetna range. He wrote to his wife that she need not expect to hear from him for a long time.

That letter, which would have explained so much to Mrs. Schmidt, never reached her. Then Schmidt gathered provisions and started for the land which he was confident would yield him untold quantities of gold.

He reached the land, found ore in remarkable quantities and staked six claims. But he wanted more, and he decided to make further explorations. He stored his finding at a trading post and started on a trip down the Talkettno River.

At a point about fifty miles from Mount McKinley has boat was drawn into an ice jam and crushed, with its fine months' provisions. Schmidt jumped for a log, watching his food sink into the muddy water of the river. The log floated to a bar, and Schmidt thought that at least he should not meet death by drowning. But the bar proved to be composed of quicksand. The log was stuck and there was no way of moving in any direction.

Schmidt had a revolver and he thought of shooting himself. Then he happened to remember that when the ice broke the steamer Ellis would make its trip up the river. Not knowing how long he would have to wait, he determined to fight until death claimed him through starvation. He had a piece of an oar. Upon the end of it he tied a piece of his shirt and waited.

From Sunday night, May 21, until Saturday, May 27, he clung to the log. On Saturday morning he was rescued by the Ellis. Among the passengers on the boat was Prof. Parker of Columbia University, with his party of eight men, on their way to Mount McKinley. The steamer carried Schmidt to the trading post at Talkeetna.

After his accident he decided to come to Los Angeles to see his wife. He arrived at San Pedro on the Admiral Sampson. Until yesterday morning he was unable to find his wife, and had almost concluded that she was dead or had left the city, when he head that she had heard that he was here and that she was looking for him.

Schmidt is an interesting talker. He is a university man and his father was for twenty-five years in the signal service of the German army. Schmidt is a student of astrology and astronomy, in a Government examination in landscape gardening he made a mark of 99 per cent.

What Are You Thinking About

THE NEW SUIT FOR FALL?

ALMOST every woman in Peterborough is unconsciously on the qui vive when down town, for her New Fall and Winter Suit. Perhaps it's the Ready-to-wear Outfit which she is most interested in or perhaps she is going to have her Suit made to order —no matter which, she is watching all the new things (even if she hasn't made up her mind to have one at all) for something nice.

We do not claim to have everything that is nice, for our Store is not large enough. We do not claim to have the only nice Suits in the city—they're all nice if you like them. Your own taste is your best judge in the case of wearables. We do claim however, that for correct style, for real smart Gar ments and good value, our stock of Women's Suits cannot be beaten anywhere, and our assortment is second to none. Watch our windows for the New Suits.

Landsdowne Lodge Hears Report Of Grand Lodge

Bro. C. F. Kitney who was a Delegate This year Gives a Splendid Summary of Proccedings

BUSINESS TAKEN UP

The members of Lansdowne Lodge, S.O.E., have been showing commendable activity during recent months, and this has shown itself especially in the number of new candidates secured by the members, no less than thirteen for the month of August, three of whom were initiated at the last meeting of the Society.

At this meeting the members had the pleasure of listening to a report of the meetings of the Supreme Lodge by Bro. C. F. Kitney. The Supreme Lodge of the Sons of England meets once every two years, and this year the choice fell upon Ottawa as the place of meeting. Bro. Kitney, who went as the delegate from Lansdowne Lodge, gave a very full and interesting report of the business transacted by the Lodge, while in session, and also spoke very highly of the hospitality shown them by the citizens of Ottawa. Bro Kitney's report, in part, was as follows:

The 1910 Supreme Lodge of the S. O. E., held in the beautiful City of Ottawa, was the largest and most harmonious ever held in the history of the Society. From start to finish the business was conducted with promptness and smoothness, and reflected very great credit on the officers of the Order. At the outset the following resolution was sent to H. M. King George:

To His Most Excellent Majesty George, by Divine Permission of Great Britain and Ireland, and the over-sea Dominions, King, Emperor of India, Defendor of the Faith, etc., etc.

May it please your Majesty:—We, the Sons of England Benefit Society, representing men of British birth or parentage in your Dominion of Canada, Newfoundland, South Africa, and elsewhere, seize the earliest moment in this biennial session of our Supreme Lodge to approach the Throne with assurances of our affectionate and devoted loyalty.

That mysterious dispensation of an all-wise Providence, which removed from our head the greatest of Kings, and one of the most beloved and revered of men, has reminded us that the Divine Power, which made England great, has more than one way of leading and blessing the nation. In depriving us of that ripe understanding and always ready wisdom upon which this Empire had learned to rely with implicit confidence, our faith will not permit us to doubt that the Omniscient One meant to reveal even further proof of his loving kindness towards us.

We venture to express the hope that a long, useful, happy and glorious reign as our well beloved King and Emperor, may be part of the blessedness the God of our fathers has in store for this world-wide Empire. And we beg to assure your Most Gracious Majesty that you may ever confide in the loyalty of the Sons of England, who hold it as an article of faith, that it is their duty as Englishmen, to surround your throne with a rampart of strong hearts and hands, devoted to the extension and maintenance in its integrity of the Great British Empire.—God Save The King.

To Her Most Gracious Majesty, the Queen, we humbly present the assurance of unbounded fealty and respect. May her gracious life be prolonged and increasingly happy.

We also beg leave most respectfully to offer to Her Majesty, Queen Alexandra, who has reigned in the hearts of Englishmen for many years, our prayers that she, lately chief mourner in a world of mourners, may be greatly blessed and comforted, and permitted to exhibit for long to come, the queenly benignity and true womanly grace which has been an inspiration to the nation ever since she was given to us.

Recommended by the Committee of General Purposes for adoption, as the first order of business in the thirtieth session of the Supreme Lodge, held at Ottawa, the capital city of your Dominion of Canada, this ninth day of August, A.D., 1910, and that it be forwarded over the seal of the Supreme Lodge to Your Majesty's royal hand.

The report was unanimously adopted.

Attest:

T. A. SMITH,
Supreme President.
JOHN W. CARTER,
Supreme Secretary.

The Supreme Secretary's report showed a most satisfactory increase, both in membership and finance, both the Beneficiary department and the general fund showing increased business.

Much of the time of the Lodge was spent in routine business. A considerable number of amendments to the constitution were discussed, and were either embodied in it or dropped.

The most important matter on the agenda paper was the question of establishing Provincial Grand Lodges. This, after considerable discussion over the necessary financial adjustment between them and the Supreme Lodge, was at last brought to a satisfactory solution. It is expected that Manitoba will be the first province to take advantage of this opportunity, and before the next meeting of the Supreme Lodge there will be a Grand Lodge of Manitoba.

This will mean a great deal to the future of the Society, especially in our great West, where so many Englishmen are taking up land or finding some other way of making a home for themselves and their children.

British Columbia was well represented at Supreme Lodge. Among the delegates was Bro. J. Fowler, of Vancouver, a man nearly 70 years of age, but who, in enthusiasm and activity, could give points to men thirty years his junior. Bro. Fowler claimed that next to England, British Columbia is the home of Englishmen, and urged the Lodge to hold its next session in Vancouver.

The delegates to the Supreme Lodge were all delighted with the entertainment given to them by the brethren in Ottawa, and wherever they went they were given the freedom of the city and the best of welcome from the Ottawa people.

The membership of the Order now numbers over thirty thousand, scattered all over the broad Dominion, from Halifax to Vancouver, and in every city there is at least one Lodge of the Sons of England.

The 1912 Supreme Lodge will be held at Niagara Falls, Ontario.

The officers for the ensuing two years are as follows:

Bro. T. Ferguson, Supreme President, Toronto.

Bro. A. E. Miller, Supreme Vice-President, Aylmer.

Bro. J. W. Carter, Supreme Secretary, Toronto.

Bro. B. Hinchcliffe, Supreme Treasurer, Toronto.

At the close of the meeting a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Bro. Kitney for the splendid report he had brought back.

BAD EXPLOSION

West Twenty-sixth street in the nighborhood of Eighth avenue was quiet except for the rattle of dinner dishes in the many tenements until shortly before 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, then there wasa loud "bang" that shook the buildings at Nos. 243, 245 and 247 and from No. 245 two men were catapulted through the doors to the street. One landed in the seat of a delivery waggon and the other struck the pavement.

From the neighboring houses the families came pouring out with yells of terror. In a few moments there were four fire engines, four tenders, two hook and ladder companies and two battalion chiefs on the scene.

The explosion was in No. 245, which is occupied by the Eagle Dyeing and Cleaning Works. Eight gallons of gasoline in a tank in the rear of the building caught fire, hurling Samuel Roth, eighteen, of No. 279 Houston street, and Michael Galber, twenty-two, of No. 106 Willow avenue, who were standing inside the building near the two doors, to the street.

Roth landed in the delivery wagon; he was painfully burned, but refused to go to a hospital. Galber was badly shaken up. The fire was soon put out. The damage was estimated at $800.

"RIVERVIEW PARK" THE NEW SUMMER RESORT

Mr. H. P. Kennedy has Divided Cold Springs Farm Into Building Lots Which are Being Placed on the Market---Magnificent Location With View of River and surrounding Country Side.

In another place in this issue will be found the advertisement of Mr. H. P. Kennedy, announcing the advantages of "Riverview Park," as a site for very desirable summer homes and the sale of the sites into which it has been sub-divided.

Mr. Kennedy is known, not only in Peterborough, as an enterprising and successful man of business, but has a Dominion reputation as one of our largest live stock merchants. He is the fortunate possessor of the Coldsprings Farm in Otonabee, near the Locks, and abutting on the River Otonabee.

The very name "Cold Springs" has an alluring summer sound, and this fact conjoined with the beautiful site of the property, its bold slope from the rear, towards the water, which washes the foot of the slope for a distance of about half a mile, has attracted attention to the extreme desirability of the site for summer homes.

Mr. Kennedy has had frequent applications for individual sites for residences, from Toronto and other persons; but he has had more ambitious ideas, more in keeping with a desire to give his home city the advantages of a comprehensive utilization of an ideally beautiful site for a summer home suburb of Peterborough.

He has employed one of Toronto's best landscape surveyors to plot the proposed park, to provide drives, terraces and avenues, with a view to their most advantageous relation to the purposes of building lots.

As will be seen by reference to the plan, the park is in the form of a triangle, its base resting upon the river opposite the southern terminus of the street railway. The site has a beautiful elevation, the landward part being seventy six feet above the river. The slope towards the river permits of decided advantages of view. The lots are laid out with a double front, facing on two streets, so that those facing away from the river can have a beautiful view from the rear balconies, over other residences in front of them.

Speaking of the view, the fine elevation of the park, presents a splendid panoramic view down the river, and across the city to the wooded hills that hem it in, and the busy scene of steamers, yachts, launches, canoes in the river front in summer gives a stirring picture of life, near enough to be enjoyable, and distant enough not to be annoying.

The park is well wooded, including fine evergreens, which will be supplemented with others this year. The abundant living springs of clear, pure sparkling water, which gives the farm its name, are one of the chief commendations of the site. These are at such an elevation that they can be conveyed by pipes to the residences, and it will be seen by the plan that the triangular part within the park, marked "Block D," provides a place for an artificial lake, to be fed by water from the springs. The residents at the park can always be assured of an abundant supply of cold, and absolutely pure water.

Other advantages consist in the park being a delightful slice of rus in urbe—it is close to Peterborough, within easy reach of the city, of the railway station, and with the radial railway at its doors.

The situation permits of the period summer residence being extended from two or three weeks to those of four months. The children of residents are within reach of the schools, and business men within daily reach of their business.

In a short space the numerous and self evident advantages of Riverside Park, as a site for summer homes cannot be detailed, but enough is known to show that Mr. Kennedy is making splendid use of the natural advantages the park presents.

Work has already begun in putting the park into habitable shape—laying out and grading avenues, creating the artificial lake, improving the beautiful river-front terrace, and preparing sites for trees to be planted.

Mr. Kennedy's well-known business ability and enterprise are an assurance that the complete plans will be energetically and promptly carried out.

To meet the expense of these improvements and to prepare the park for next season's occupation, a few choice river-front lots are offered to Peterborough citizens at prices and on terms that cannot be repeated once the work of improvement is completed, and building sites open to public competition; so that prompt purchasers will have all the advantages of these improvements, without the cost that later purchasers at a later time will naturally be expected to have considered in the purchase price.

To Investigate Youth's Death.

Brantford, Aug. 27.—The county authorities will open an investigation into the death of Ernest Savage, who succumbed to injuries sustained in a recent football game between Harley and Hatchley. Three residents of Hatchley yesterday signed a statement in which it was stated that Savage, Robinson and Curtis, Hatchley players, all received injuries from the same player on the Harley team, who did not check legitimately. The player in question, the statement says, charged Savage in the abdomen with the left knee, after knicking the ball with the right. Savage's only antemortem statement was "I played fair." Thee game was under the auspices of the Harley Anglican Church at a "harvest home."

UNION WAS DISCUSSED

Dr. W. F. Hillard Opposes the Plan Because He Says the Paragraph Concerning the Nature of Christ Is Defective and Would Lead to the Introduction of Unitarianism —Other Views Presented.

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 27.—The debate on church union was continued at yesterday morning's session of the General Methodist Conference, Rev. Dr. Antliff taking up the discussion. He declared the move towards union was not due to lack of loyalty, but because of a desire to attain greater things. Three churches together could accomplish more work for God.

Rev. Dr. Griffin opposed union. He did not feel that he could approve any movement that deprived aged servants of their just rights. With the union in existence, the superannuation fund would not be adequately provided for. He would defy any man to show wherein the Presbyterians had surrendered anything in the doctrinal basis.

Rev. J. W. Cooley, secretary of the committee, answered Dr. Griffin's objections by saying that he guaranteed that under the proposed union the fund would not be inadequate.

He was followed by Dr. W. F. Hillard, who opposed the union. He was the first layman speaker on the subject. His first complaint was that the paragraph in the basis of union describing the nature of Christ was defective and would become a breeding ground for all kinds of Unitarian preaching.

"If we let the bars down, the ministers and college professors will take advantage of it, not the laymen," he said. He was opposed in the second place because it destroyed the itinerant system of the churches. On the basis of union, the settlement committee, which appoints the ministers, could meet annually, or at the call of the chair. He thought that meant only when there were quarrels on in the church.

Rev. Dr. Stewart of Winnipeg was the next speaker. He thought that the doctrines and basis provided amply for the experience of sanctification, either gradual or immediate. Never were there such opportunities for the introduction of Christianity into the world as at the present time.

Justice MacLaren of Toronto, the next speaker, had been chairman of the committee of polity, and said he had weighed very carefully the whole situation. He was satisfied they had drawn up the best scheme of polity possible, "but," said he, "I have come to the conclusion that it is not such a one as I can vote for, nor recommend anyone else to vote for."

He was followed by N. W. Rowell, K.C., of Toronto, who had been chairman of the committee on law. He went into the matter in a masterly manner, and could see no cause for alarm from a legal standpoint. Before the union could be consummated, there must be an act of Parliament sanctioning it. Here was where the trouble in Scotland, which had been referred to, arose.

At this point Dr. Patten asked if it was organic union or interdenominational comity they referred to. Mr. Rowell answered that it was comity, because that was the nearest approach to what they wanted, but their ideal was organic union. Mr. Rowell quoted in conclusion John Wesley's views of the value of the opinions and the necessity for cultivating a spirit of charity towards all.

Hon. E. J. Davis of Newmarket, Ont., also spoke in favor of union.

Insane Man Runs Amuck.

Ellis, Kansas, Aug. 27.—Harry Pugh of Niagara Falls, N.Y., became insane on the Pullman car of a Union Pacific train near here early yesterday and fatally shot the porter, named Young, and a passenger named Temple of Kansas City.

Pugh had acted queerly in the evening, but talked agreeably with other passengers in the car. In the night he shot through the end of his berth into the smoking-room. The car porter ran toward Pugh's berth and was shot twice through the body. Temple, who was en route from Denver with his wife and child, sprang into the aisle, and Pugh shot him twice through the abdomen.

Tow Barge Sophia Safe.

Owen Sound, Aug. 27.—Fears for the safety of the tow-barge Sophia, observed in distress off Cape Rich by passengers on the Germanic during the severe storm of Thursday night, were dissipated last night. It was found that the barge, which is valued at about $5,000, was safely anchored about five miles off the cape.

The Sophia, which had left a load of coal at Wiarton, was bound light for Little Current with several men on board.

I.O.F. Elects Officers.

Toronto, Aug. 27.—Election of high court officers of the I.O.F. for Eastern Ontario for the ensuing year was proceeded with, with results as follows: High chief ranger, Dr. A. L. Smith; high vice chief ranger, George M. Farrington; high secretary, G. L. Dickinson; high treasurer, J. S. R. McCann; high physician, Dr. Simmons; high counsellor, Horace Pratt; high auditors, T. Lamber and J. W. McElroy.

Crushed Under Engine.

Brampton, Aug. 27.—A young man named Joseph Breadner, son of Mr. Isaac Breadner, a farmer living near Brampton, was instantly killed on Thursday night. Breadner was a thresher, and was moving his machinery about midnight. The engine stopped and in getting it going he slipped under the wheels.

Fell Over River Bank.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 27.—After falling over the river bank, a distance of nearly a hundred feet, John Kelly, a marine engineer of Halifax, was picked up on the lower bank without a bone broken. He was badly shaken up and may be suffering from internal injuries. Kelly is on his vacation.

THREE ARE MISSING YET

Queer Discovery at Durand Gives Color to Belief That Miss Bella Scott, Mrs. Jeffers and Miss Jogeman, All on Their Way to Toronto, Lost Their Lives In Wreck and Deaths Were Not Reported.

Durand, Mich., Aug. 27.—To add to the difficulty of identification of the charred bones of the victims of Wednesday night's Grand Trunk wreck near here bones said to represent two additional bodies were found in the morgue last night in a sack that had been overlooked in Thursday's excitement. This brings the number of dead to eight.

Repeated enquiries from relatives to passengers thought to have been on the ill-fated Pullman sleeper Nebraska, led Dr. Fair, surgeon for the Grand Trunk, to remark to Undertaker Mapes in charge of the dead, that there must have been more bodies in the wreck than were recovered. This recalled to Mapes' mind a sack that some one unknown to him had brought to the morgue Thursday morning.

H. I. Jeffers of Washington last night almost positively identified as his wife the body that was yesterday identified as Mrs. Lewis Squires of Chicago.

Those believed to be missing are:
Miss Bella Scott, Schomberg, Ont.
Mrs. H. J. Jeffers, of Washington, D.C.
Miss Jogeman, Chicago.

Toronto, Aug. 27.—That the last of the victims of the Grand Trunk Railway wreck at Durand, Mich., includes three women, who were en route to Toronto, and who have not been heard from since the catastrophe, is now certain, the fears of relatives of yesterday being confirmed last night, when the remains of two more persons were found in the wreckage.

There is no doubt in the opinion of Mrs. Wm. Lowrie, 236 Seaton street, that Miss Bella Scott, school teacher of Schomberg, perished. Miss Scott was to have visited the Seaton street house Thursday, according to letters received from her by Mrs. Lowrie, who has been an intimate friend of the young woman for many years.

Several telegrams have come to Mrs. Lowrie from Miss Scott's brother, J. C. Scott, solicitor for the Rock Island Road, Chicago, asking if she had arrived in Toronto. Miss Scott, with her brother and his wife, had just returned from a visit to another brother, George, in Vancouver, who wired Mrs. Lowrie last night asking if his sister had reached Toronto.

Mrs. Jeffers was expected at 19 Ross street yesterday. It was reported from Durand that a charred body previously identified as that of Mrs. Squires, widow, of Chicago, had been found to have a woollen bag with an inscription attached to some clothing reading Mrs. Jeffers, Fort Worth, Ark., and Washington, D.C., and containing $10. The body is now held for further identification, which the two sisters of Mrs. Squires, from Chicago, may be asked to give.

George Jogeman, 1,906 West Fulton street, Chicago, is at Durand searching for trace of his daughter Lera, aged 22, who was on her way to Toronto to work as a demonstrator at the exhibition. She has not been heard from.

Three Railway Accidents.

North Bay, Aug. 27.—John Penny, aged 21, C.P.R. yard switchman, was instantly killed Thursday night by stepping from a switch engine directly in front of an incoming express. The severe wind storm prevented him from hearing the approaching train. He had been employed by the railway only ten days, and leaves a widowed mother.

Harry Miller, a young C.P.R. brakeman, fell from an eastbound express Thursday night near Pembroke during the wind storm and has a fractured leg and broken nose.

The C.P.R. Imperial Limited, eastbound, was ditched near Cartier early yesterday morning by a misplaced switch, and delayed six hours. Passengers received a severe shaking up.

Favors I.C.R. Extension.

Ottawa, Aug. 27—"I have always been in favor of the extension of the Intercolonial Railway system through Ontario," stated Mr. E. Tiffin, traffic superintendent of the Intercolonial board of management, who is here to-day.

"What route would be taken from Montreal?" he was asked.

"Paralleling the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific," stated Mr. Tiffin. "It is the through traffic particularly that we would be after."

Roosevelt Only Mouthpiece.

London, Aug. 27.—The Daily News yesterday publishes a communication that the origin of Theodore Roosevelt's suggestion for a European peace league, made at Christiania during his recent tour of Europe, was a memorandum prepared by the King of Italy, who asked Roosevelt to convey it to Emperor William of Germany.

O.O.R. Due To-day.

Liverpool, Aug. 27.—The Megantic, with the Queen's Own Rifles, is expected here at noon to-day.

It is stated that King George will inspect the regiment at Buckingham Palace.

Operator Killed.

Lyndon Junction, Aug. 27.—Night Operator Taylor was instantly killed by being struck by the Ontario Limited train on the G.T.R. at 10.40 yesterday morning just east of Brantford.

Drowned While Bathing.

Port Colborne, Aug. 27.—Harry Mackie of this place, about sixteen years of age, with a surveying party, working near Graybill's Point, was drowned while bathing.

In Canada Next.

Stockholm, Aug. 27.—The International Geographical Congress concluded its meeting here. The next meeting will be in Canada in 1913.

KAISER IS AT IT AGAIN

In a Speech at Koenigsburg He Says He Holds His Crown From One Above Parliaments and People—Monarchist Press Regrets a Disturbance During Present Crisis In Germany's Affairs.

Berlin, Aug. 26.—The speech delivered Thursday night by Emperor William at the provincial banquet at Koenigsburg, in which he reiterated and emphasized his belief in the divine mandate by which he rules, referred to the Prussian crown as bestowed by God's grace and not by Parliaments or people's assemblies, and laid a lance against the present movement for woman suffrage, is the political sensation of the hour.

The leading organs of the German press devote extended comments to it, generally criticizing the Emperor's utterances, and there are indications that the discourse will have a deep political effect upon the country, nearly all the Berlin papers discussing the subject in connection with the political crisis of November, 1908, when the publication by The London Daily Telegraph of an interview with the Emperor raised a storm against the uncontrolled public speaking of the Emperor.

The serious Vessische Zeitung, The Tageblatt, The Post and other papers point out the constitutional character of the Kingdom of Prussia in the Empire and enquire whether Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg was privy to the Emperor's purpose of delivering such a speech.

They predict that it will lead to a renewed discussion of the Emperor's constitutional position when the Reichstag reassembles in November.

The strongly monarchist Taegliche Bandschau, the favorite journal of army officers, says: "This speech means a storm. Never before has Emperor William set into such clear relief his romantic, medieval idea of his non-responsibility to man's judgment, of his not being bound by the constitution and of ruling by God's grace, against all these convictions and feelings which to-day determine our existence of a state.

"Why," asks The Taegliche Bundschau, "should the Emperor choose this moment to emphasize his ruling by God's grace and his own right when it will nourish an anti-monarchical agitation and good monarchists be thrown into a condition of tragic disruption?"

The organ of the landed nobility, The Deutsche Tageszeitung, thoroughly approves of the declarations of the Emperor.

The Lokal Anzeiger lays stress upon the desire of the Emperor that the people co-operate with him, and points out that the Emperor delivered the speech in the castle where the Prussian Kings were formerly crowned. He said in the hall in May, 1890: "We Hohenzellerns take our crown from heaven alone," and in the same place on Sept. 6, 1894, he quoted the words of his grandfather, William I., about ruling by divine right and added: "So, too, do I take my kingdom by God's grace."

The Tageblatt affirms that although prices did not fall on the exchange, trading was slack and brokers apprehended an unfavorable influence from the speech upon markets at home and abroad.

Collision Near Kingston.

Kingston, Aug. 27.—When Harry Ansell, Montreal, an express messenger injured in a collision at Collins Bay, on the G.T.R., yesterday, was found by Dr. Anglin, the company's physician, he had been buried under egg cases, but was sitting on the safe, guarding $500,000. His back was injured, and he is badly bruised. The car was badly smashed, and his escape was miraculous. A special express freight, loaded with fruit for the coast, and an empty freight express, figured in the smash. The engines came together with considerable force, as the westbound was running 40 miles an hour, while the eastbound was slowing up to cross the westbound train.

Fire Chiefs' Officers.

Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 27.—The election of officers concluded the 38th annual convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers, resulting: President, Chief John Thompson, Toronto; first vice-president, Chief Wm. H. Loller, Youngstown, Ohio; second vice-president, chief H. F. Mageen, Dallas, Texas; secretary, Chief James McFall, Roanoke, Va., treasurer, Chief D. O. Larkin, Dayton, Ohio.

Milwaukee got the next convention.

Stole into Canada.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 27.—Chas. Newman, brought here from Toronto, charged by the Immigration Department with illegally entering Canada. He was remanded for a week. It is claimed Newman was refused admission to the Dominion at the upper bridge here July 17, and came in without permission at old Niagara, July 18.

Spanish Generals Balk.

Madrid, Aug. 27.—Gen. Aldan was yesterday appointed captain-general of the Spanish troops at Melilla, Morocco, and Gen. Sancheb Gomez was named chief of the military household of the King. According to reports both generals have refused to accept the appointments.

Throat Cut In Card Game.

Montreal, Aug. 27.—As the result of a quarrel over a game of cards Thursday night one Italian is in Notre Dame Hospital with his throat cut, and his assailant is being pursued by detectives. Belardi Minole is the victim, and there is slight hope of his recovery.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Baseball As Seen By An Englishman

Sporting Editor, Peterborough Examiner.

Sir,—It is quite the fashion to have a good laugh at the Englishman and his games, particularly cricket. To illustrate the line, that we are all very funny—to the other fellow—and to emphasize the fact that the sense of the ridiculous is not the monopoly of this, the new world, would you care to publish the enclosed, which fell into my hands by—what shall we say?—aeroplaneogram.

You will confer a favor on,

Yours respectfully,

A. WHYTE-TYGHE.

Peterborough, Ont., 27 August, 1910.

(Intercepted letter from the Hon. Claude Fitzelegant to his brother Adolphus.)

Dear Old Dolly:

I am in for a ripping time, old man—I am, by jove! Not a bad country at all; pretty fair on the whole—that is, in patches. When the guvnor sent me off he said: "Keep your eyes open," and, by jove! I have done so. I find in my peregrinations that there are two games of sport here—lacrosse, which is a Canadian game, and a ripper, too, and another, an imported one, I believe, called baseball. From what I can gather from the johnnies here, the only thing Canadian about baseball is the money taken at the gate. The rest, I understand from careful enquiries, is brought under special cover from the United States. I met an awfully decent Canadian chap at the hotel, and he insisted upon my seeing what he styled "the ball game." So we went. But for heaven's sake, Dolly, don't tell the matter, because it was on a Sunday afternoon. I cannot really tell you what it was all about, but I know that after three hours' play there was only one run scored. I was told that the Royals had won, and, consequently as a matter of sequence, the "Skeeters" (awful name, isn't it?) had lost. I do not know if I can make you understand, for, as a matter of fact, I don't understand it myself, but I will try. There are nine men on each side, all dressed like little boys, in short trousers. They have peak caps, something like a jockey's. There are two referees, but I see by the newspapers they are called "umps." The wicket-keeper covers his face with iron bars (awfully funny, isn't it?); so does the referee. The wicket-keeper also puts something on his chest, just like the man that carries a big drum. Only one man goes to the wickets at a time—you see, they only play at one end. As a game begins the spectators start to howl. Now, Dolly, as you know, I have shot big game in Africa, and have listened to the gentle Afghan dancing his "tom-tom," but I never heard such howling in my life. From the time that the bowler—or, to be correct, the thrower—sends down the first over to the batsman, behind whom sits the gentleman with the lion's cage on his face and boxing gloves on his hands, the howling begins, and pandemonium reigns supreme. I will try, as far as my memory serves me, to write down some of the remarkable savings of the crowd and the players. "You've got 'em goin', Freddie." "Easy money, boy, easy money." "Watch him, watch him" (just like we used to say to poor old Towser). Then, after the bowler, who had been trying to blow the brains out of the batsman, hit the latter on the elbow, a person near me jumped up and shouted, "You big stiff." I don't know what on earth he meant, but it was not a compliment. I am quite sure of that. When three men were out, the other side went in (awfully silly, isn't it?). As the game was being played, the players danced. I think it must have been the "war hoop." By jove, the rummiest thing I have ever seen. Listen to this, Dolly: "Get the hook." "Give him the lemon." Mind you, they were eating nuts at the time, and the place looked like a monkey house; it did, upon my honor. You remember that old saying, "An Englishman takes his pleasures sadly." That may be so, Dolly; it is as others see us, you know. But these baseball fans (yes, that's the word I have been trying to think of)—a fan is called a rooter (not rotter, Dolly, though he is sometimes). But as I was saying, the baseball fan reminds one of of a bull fight crowd at Madrid. Personally, I think they have taken the fashion from the Indians, who emit similar sounds when on the war path. Cricket is styled here as something like a serial story—to be continued in our next. But that is because the people understand as much about it as I do baseball. But as baseball gives one the impression of sitting in a barrel of gunpowder surrounded by firecrackers, give me the serial story as an aid to sportsmanship qualities and long life. My Canadian friend, as we returned, asked me how I liked it. I answered, "Sliced!"

Yours till the next handshake,

CLAUDE.

Catches A Ball From The Top Of High Monument Duplicates Street's Feat

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Catcher Billy Sullivan of the Chicago Americans to-day duplicated the feat of Catcher Charles Street of the Washington team last year in catching a baseball thrown from the window at the top of the Washington Monument, a perpendicular drop of 542 feet.

The ball was tossed from the top of the monument by Pitcher Ed. Walsh of the Chicago team. It was only after twenty-three attempts that Sullivan finally caught the ball, although he succeeded several times in gauging the sphere as to get it in his mitt. The speed of the falling ball was so terrific, however, that he was unable to hold it. It is estimated that the ball was travelling at the rate of 101 feet a second when caught. Sullivan caught two more balls thrown from the monument window.

After observing Sullivan's first attempts and ultimate success "Doc" White suggested that the balls should be thrown farther. He ascended the monument, and standing well back within the window, hurled ball after ball as far out as he could.

Sullivan caught the first one and to show that it was no accident he also caught the fifth. Of ten balls thrown by White the catcher could get under only one other, but he was unable to hold that one.

BRITISH WIN

TORONTO, AUG. 27.—The touring British bowlers found themselves yesterday, and are now evidently in their stride. Their day's engagement was at the Royal Canadian Yacht Club's beautiful island quarters, and the visit had a large social as well as sporting aspect. The visitors were delighted with the beautiful surroundings of the yachtsmen bowlers. The day's proceedings were closed in pleasant fashion by a dinner at the club, which brought together a large and merry party. At President Copping's Island house the ladies had a pleasant afternoon.

On the lawn the tourists did their duty handsomely, and though they met a strong quartette of rinks, they went through flying, winning on every rink. Scores:

LOSE AGAIN

TORONTO, AUG. 27.—The Leafs have walloped Rochester to the King's taste this season, at last, and before the fans had done gloating over the three-in-four defeat of the Newark Indians toiling behind the twirling efforts of no less personages than Wyatt Lee, "Iron Man" McGinnity and 'Rube' Waddell this week the buzzing Skeeter pests came to town and took the opener in eleven innings. Yesterday the tail-enders annexed the second engagement of the series by 6 to 3. The Leafs have trimmed Baltimore, the other first division aggregation, in a majority of the games in which they have met this season, only to smart under the second division lash of Jersey City, Providence and Montreal. Its passing strange, anyway.

Yesterday Manager Jack Ryan started Camnitz against the Krew, mindful, no doubt, of the fact that the gentleman made a mess of the Leafs on the occasion of the last visit of the Skeeters to the Island Stadium. He did it again and was accorded the able assistance of his co-workers with their bats. Richard Rudolph, Esq., who has been regarded as the leading twirler of the Kelleys, was subjected to an inglorious bumping, and when last seen was streaking it for the clubhouse like a little boy who had been naughty at school. It is seldom that any Eastern League team can make the hurling heap untenable for Dick, but Jim McGinley had to come to the rescue in the sixth. Mac had little more success than Rudy for the Skeeters got almost as many runs and hits from him as they did from the youngster.

WANTS NEW RAILWAY.

Kamloops Wants Laurier to Tap the Northern B. C. Country.

Kamloops, B.C., Aug. 27.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier was given a hearty non-political reception here Thursday night. Martin Burrill, Conservative member of Parliament, took a seat on the platform, and spoke in welcome of the Premier. A large body of Indians and an escort of British Columbia Mounted Rifles gave the reception a picturesque character, which was heightened by a choir of young ladies, gowned in white, with red and blue sashes, who sang "The Maple Leaf," from an arch over Main street, as Sir Wilfrid motored under.

Two requests were presented to the Premier in the civic address. The first was for the construction of a branch of the G.T.P., connecting Kamloops with the north country; and second, was for a new postoffice.

Sir Wilfrid gave hope that both requests might be granted in the near future. In regard to the railway, he reminded them that the Grand Trunk Pacific must be completed before the Government could undertake another large task. He suggested as an alternative that Kamloops might be given connection with the north country by the improvement of the Thompson River.

A meeting was held at Vernon last night.

Won't Bombard For Rain.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 27.—Estimating the cost of the experiment at about $100,000, the War Department officials yesterday declined requests to order a bombardment of the skies by all its guns on Puget Sound and at the mouth of the Columbia River in an effort to bring on rain in the burning forest district of the northwest.

In addition to the objection of cost, the army officials regard the experiment as certain to prove futile.

Besides the cost, it was stated at the War Department that the army was not equipped with projectiles with time fuses for the guns and hence the only atmospheric disturbance created would be by the formation of gases on the ground at the time of the discharge of the guns and by the passage of the projectiles through the air.

The disturbance caused by the flight of the projectiles, it was said, would be comparatively negligible in creating a violent confusion among the currents.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

Ratepayers and the Council.

If one were to attempt to enumerate all the grievances that city taxpayers and city dwellers in general profess to have against the City Council, he would have a very busy time ahead of him. No body of men that ever lived who attempted to do their duty honestly but had their detractors, and it is not surprising, perhaps, that in our good city of Peterborough there are to be found quite a few sane and well-ordered beings who animadvert in more or less severe terms on certain acts of our city fathers. Extravagance is, of course, the keynote of the arraignment and the objects specially marked out for attack at the present time are the appointment of an industrial commissioner, the new library, and the paving scheme. Now, it is one thing to look at these matters from the point of view of the taxpayer, and another thing from that of the happy being who pays his rent, and leaves his landlord to attend to the tax bills, but, however diverse the views from these two standpoints may be, there is a principle involved, which, at any rate is, or should be, the common pride of both to possess. That principle is the welfare and prosperity of the city. So far as the Industrial Commissioner is concerned, there is no man working harder for the interests of Peterborough to-day than Mr. Duggan. The amount of data that he has already acquired is amazing, and, with these to help him in his quest, if he is instrumental in bringing one substantial industry to Peterborough in two, or even three, years' time, his appointment will be amply justified.

In regard to the new library, the objection has been made that Peterborough is an industrial town, and that there are not enough readers in the city to warrant the erection and upkeep of such an institution. To this objection, there is but one answer: If the present generation of wage-earners does not possess the time to indulge in reading, the children of the coming generation should be given the opportunity. A library is not meant to be merely a medium for the diffusion of light literature. Looked at in a proper light it is to secular education what the Bible is to Christianity in general—a place of reference, whence helpful hints and wise counsel may be had for the seeking.

Against the paving scheme, probably the strongest feeling has been manifested. Into its merits or demerits it would perhaps be wise not to enter. Looked at cursorily, however, one thing is certainly apparent. The city need never expect to get a name for goaheadativeness, unless it is prepared to make a certain measure of selfsacrifice. In that self sacrifice everyone, landlord and tenant alike, should be prepared to take their share.

It is to be hoped that the day will never dawn for Peterborough, when such an argument as Sir Boyle Roche's in the Irish Parliament will be made an effective weapon in civic questions: "Mr. Speaker, why all this talk of doing things for posterity? What has posterity done for us?"

Influence of Politics and Religion on the Hair.

The latest intimation from China that the pigtail, the time-honoured joy and pride of the Celestial, is likely to fall a victim to the juggernaut car of advancing civilization, brings to mind a whole train of interesting facts concerning the hirsute appendages of mortals. The famous declaration of St. Paul that long hair was a shame unto a man has been made the pretext for many singular civil and ecclesiastical enactments. The fashion of the hair and the cut of the beard were in fact state questions in France and England until the 15th century.

But even so far back as the time of Alexander the Great, men were not permitted to do what they liked with their own hair. That despotic being ordered that the whole army should be closely shaven as he considered that beards gave too convenient a handle for the enemy to take advantage of in a close encounter with swords.

Certain tribes of North American Indians on the contrary, hold it a point of honour to let one lock grow on the head to give the victor a hold when engaged in the gentle act of scalping. Long hair was at one time the symbol of sovereignty in Europe and it was the exclusive privilege of the royal family to wear their hair long and curled. But the nobles, and then the whole kingdom followed suit and thus the mark of royalty was utterly obliterated.

Clergy Hostile to Long Hair.

The mediaeval clergy were bitterly opposed to the custom of wearing long hair, so much so that at the end of the 11th century, a long haired man stood in imminent danger of being excommunicated.

Anselm, Archbishop of Canterbury in the reign of Henry I was most hostile to the fashion of wearing long ringlets, and he and his sovereign had more than one acrimonious dispute on the matter. It is on record that the king, who had once allowed his chaplain to cut his hair under the influence of a sermon in which that divine depicted the torments awaiting the unshorn, remained firm under the threats of the Archbishop. The church was never so great an enemy to the beard as to the hair. It generally allowed fashion to take its own course with regard to the chin and the upper lip. Peter the Great was the last monarch to make an arbitrary enactment, and to ordain that his countrymen should follow the example of the rest of England and have their hair cut short. It was a courageous enactment, as the whole nation was opposed to such an innovation, but as the monarch's easy-going ideas in the matter of cutting off people's heads was well known, his subjects prudently adopted the fashion.

He Had $25000 But He Died Alone In A Hut

Special to The Examiner.

New York, Aug. 25.—That Daniel Creeden, an aged recluse, who lived alone in a hut at Woodside, Queens, left more than $25,000 when he died became known yesterday when Surrogate Noble appointed Public Administrator John P. Robinson, executor of the estate.

While it was generally believed the old man had money it was not thought that he had so much.

Creeden apparently never visited anyone, nor did he have any visitors. He became ill and was taken to Flushing Hospital. After a few days he went back to his home and died.

The public administrator found that Creeden owned real property valued at $15,000, and that he had $9,300 in savings banks.

Mr. Robinson has many letters from persons who assert they are Creeden's relatives. The official has learned that he had three grandchildren in Ireland. Their names are Ellen O'Connor, Nellie Downing, and Michael Downing. They will be communicated with and given a chance to prove their right to the fortune.

STAMPS BY MACHINE.

Slot Device Will Supersede the Uncivil Lady In Canada.

Ottawa, Aug. 29.—The lowering of the charges to two cents a letter from all parts of Canada, the United States and the British Empire, and to one cent a letter where the letter is delivered in the same place in which it is posted have added tremendously to the amount of mail matter handled by the Canadian Postoffice Department. To such an extent is this the case that the Department is sometimes overetaxed to handle business as expeditiously as it requires, and it has had to look about for devices to assist it in its work. The selling of its postage stamps to meet the exacting demands of a public who are peremptory in regard to its postal service has for some time been a vexing problem. But it is believed the solution has been found.

For some years past, experiments have been made in stamp-vending machines, which would deliver stamps automatically when the proper amount was paid. Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Postmaster-General, has been following these experiments with interest, but until recently the results have not been such as would warrant the postoffice in embarking on a scheme of this kind. Now, however, a machine has been perfected, which has been submitted to exhaustive tests, with results so good as to give the Postmaster-General reason to believe that what he has been looking for has been accomplished.

A HERESY TRIBUNAL

Toronto Laymen Ask That His Sort of Teaching Be Eliminated From the Colleges and Dr. Cleaver Quotes Jackson's Book as One of the Present Day Evils — Court of Five Will Try Professors.

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 29.—The Methodist general conference Saturday night reached the clause in the educational committee report relating to theological teaching in colleges and how to deal with teaching not in harmony with the church standards.

A charge laid against any professor, lecturer or teacher must first be signed by five members or ministers of the Methodist Church, and laid before the officer in the college. He must call the board together within two months, and if they decide that the complaint is well made they forward it to the board of education; if they decide otherwise, the charge is dismissed. Here the complainants have right of appeal. The board of education, in turn, shall select five ministers of good repute and learning, who shall render decision on the case. This, the substance of the report, went through.

A number of memorials were lumped together and disposed of as follows: "In regard to the other memorials, we recommend that the control of theological teaching is sufficiently secured by the recommendations already passed, and that no further legislation is required."

A memorial from the Toronto Laymen's Association made the distinct request "to eliminate from our colleges such teaching concerning the Holy Scriptures, and the fallibility of Christ, as it is contained in Rev. Geo. Jackson's recent book, 'Studies in the Old Testament'."

Rev. Dr. Cleaver, Toronto, also put forward an amendment expressing by preamble regret that orally and by publication unsettling and injurious doctrines had been propagated through our colleges, and asking that this conference condemn such teaching, which he further specified by quoting from Jackson's book.

Rules of order followed confusedly for some time. Finally Dr. Cleaver's amendment was ruled out of order, as not being properly an amendment to the report, which was a piece of legislation. The report of the committee was adopted as a whole by almost unanimous vote.

In order that every opportunity be given for investigation, conference moved that Dr. Cleaver be heard Monday morning.

Barred State Commission.

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 29.—The grounds that the company's investigation of the Grand Trunk wreck near Durand was being held wholly to inform the management of the railroad as to who was responsible for the loss of seven lives, officials of the Grand Trunk refused to admit to the hearing the members of the State Railroad Commission, who came here to listen to the testimony of the trainmen. The crews of both trains involved in the wreck, in which eight passengers are now believed to have been killed, gave evidence behind closed doors.

This testimony, it was said, will be forwarded to headquarters, where the decision of the Grand Trunk officials will be announced.

France After Speculators.

Paris, Aug. 29.—The increased cost of living, especially for the working classes, has induced the Government to take an exceptional decision. At a conference held at the Ministry of the Interior, M. Briand, Premier and Minister of the Interior, presiding, it was resolved to institute proceedings where proof is obtainable of unlawful speculation tending to artificially increase the prices of the necessities of life.

It was further decided to take action on any conduct which while not legally punishable may result in interfering with the ordinary course of supply and demand.

A Leap For Life.

Hanover, Prussia, Aug. 29.—Aviator Schlueter had a narrow escape from death while making a flight in a Veisin machine at Celle, 23 miles northwest of this city. The wires of the steering gear became entangled, and seeing that he was in imminent danger, Schlueter jumped to the earth, about 30 feet below. He escaped with a broken leg. The machine was demolished.

Wireless From Aeroplane.

New York, Aug. 29.—A mile away and 300 feet up, Aviator J. D. McCurdy sent a wireless message to an operator on the roof of the Sheepshead Bay race track grand stand, reading: "Horton: Another chapter in aerial achievement is recorded in the sending of a wireless message from an aeroplane. McCurdy."

Dangers of Aviation.

Arnhem, Netherlands, Aug. 29.—While the Dutch aviator, Van Maasdyke, was attempting a cross-country flight near this city, the motor of his aeroplane suddenly stopped and the machine plunged to the ground. The aviator was instantly killed.

Skull Fractured.

Havre, Aug. 29.—M. Legagneux, the French aviator, was seriously injured while competing for the total distance prize. His aeroplane struck a post and the machine fell to the ground, burying the aviator beneath it. Legagneux's skull was fractured.

COMMISSION IS BACK

Four Hundred Witnesses Are Examined In Maritime Province Centres and Thorough Inspection of Conditions Made — Ontario Trip Starts To-morrow and Will Last Until Last Week in October.

Toronto, Aug. 29.—That the Royal Commission on Technical Education is having no holiday excursion is the testimony of Thomas Bengough, the secretary and official reporter of the commission, who has returned to the city from the Maritime Provinces with several members of the commission, prior to an Ontario tour.

"In thirty-three days we visited thirty-three different cities and towns, notwithstanding the fact that we gave three days each to Halifax and St. John, and two days each to Truro and Moncton," he said yesterday. "How did we do it? By dividing the commission into two sections, by holding evening sessions until nearly midnight, then traveling during the night to the next point. The industries were inspected, in some cases more thoroughly than by the official factory inspectors; the agricultural possibilities were seen by long tours into the country districts; conditions—educationally, industrially and socially—were discovered by examination of nearly 400 witnesses on oath, and by the procuring of printed and other documents, photographs, specimens, etc."

The commission will be the guests of the Industrial Exhibition Association during their stay in Toronto, and on Thursday, Sept. 1 (Manufacturers' Day), will be entertained at the directors' luncheon, when several of the commissioners will speak on the work accomplished and proposed.

To-day the Ontario tour will begin, the commissions being divided into two sections, in order to cover the ground within the time limit set by the Minister of Labor, under whose auspices the work of the commission is being done.

The following places will be visited by the sections:—

Western section — Rev. Dr. Bryce, chairman: St. Catharines, Aug. 30; Paris, Aug. 31; Collingwood, Sept. 6; Woodstock, Sept. 12; Goderich, Sept. 13; Listowel, Sept. 14; Owen Sound, Sept. 15.

Eastern section—Hon. J. N. Armstrong, chairman: Barrie, Sept. 9; Orillia, Sept. 10; Lindsay, Sept. 12; Oshawa, Sept. 13; Cobourg, Sept. 14; Cornwall, Sept. 15; Smith's Falls, Sept. 16.

The commission will then unite and visit Montreal, Sept. 19 and 21; Macdonald College, St. Anne de Bellevue, Sept. 20; Quebec City, Sept. 22-23.

The Ontario tour will then be resumed, the entire commission visiting Ottawa, Sept. 26 and 17; Brockville, Sept. 28; Kingston, Sept. 29-30; Belleville, Oct. 1; Peterboro, Oct. 3; Toronto, Oct. 4-5; Hamilton, Oct. 6-7; Niagara Falls, Oct. 8; Brantford, Oct. 10; Galt, Oct. 11; Guelph, Oct. 12-13; Berlin, Oct. 14; Stratford, Oct. 15; London, Oct. 17-18; St. Thomas, Oct. 19; Chatham, Oct. 20; Windsor and Walkerville, Oct. 21-22.

Woman Smuggler Caught.

New York, Aug. 29.—According to customs officials, Mrs. I. Reynolds Adriance, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., social, prominent and wealthy, will be summoned to appear at the customs house to-day on a charge of smuggling. Arriving yesterday, she failed to mention in her declaration of dutiable goods a $6,000 pearl necklace, found after a search, hidden in her hat.

A woman inspector found a gold mesh purse which Mrs. Adriance insisted she had bought in this country, until Miss Helen Adriance, her daughter, exclaimed: "Oh, mother, why don't you tell them we got it in Lucerne. I wanted you to do that at first."

She is liable to a fine of $5,000 and to obtain possession of the jewels she must pay a penalty of twice their value, $6,000, plus a duty of 60 per cent.

Queen's Own Rifles Arrive.

Aldershot, Aug. 29.—Thirty thousand people and eight bands turned out to welcome the battalion of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, which arrived here Saturday evening from Liverpool. It was a great reception. The streets were gaily decorated, and the British people were enthusiastic in their welcome of the fine-looking, well-drilled body of militiamen from the great Dominion. There was more excitement in the town and camp on the Bagshot Sands when the Canadians detrained than there was when the troops returned from South Africa.

Lower Express Rates.

Springfield, Ills., Aug. 29.—The big express companies of the country were dealt the most severe blow of their existence Saturday when the Illinois Railroad and Warehouse Commission promulgated an order cutting in half many of the rates now charged by the companies and making sweeping reductions all along the line. The state commission orders that the schedule of rates fixed by it shall become effective on Oct. 15.

Whirlpool Incline Railway Burns.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 30.—The Whirlpool Rapids Incline Railway on the American side, with the buildings at the top of the bank and at the base at the waters' edge, were totally destroyed by fire at 12.20 this morning, also the Suspension Bridge grist mill, just north of the elevator building. The total loss will reach $70,000.

WOUNDED IN BRAWL

Rocco di Sabbato, Charged With Having Stabbed Guiseppe Rizzio After a Sunday Afternoon of Beer Drinking, Has Made His Escape and Police Cannot Locate Him—Scene Well-Known to Crime.

Toronto, Aug. 29.—With a dangerous gash in his abdomen, Guiseppe Rizzia, Italian laborer, living at 100 Claremont street, is at the point of death in Grace Hospital, and the police are scouring the city for Rocco di Sabbato, 208 Claremont street, his assailant. The stabbing occurred at the home of the injured man at 5.30 last night in the presence of a dozen other Italians, who refuse to talk of the affray.

A dozen Italians had been drinking in the kitchen all yesterday. Three kegs of beer had been consumed. Rocco, who had just come in from the front of the house, became engaged in heated discussion with Rizzio. He reached into a coat pocket and produced a red razor case. There was a vicious upward movement of his hand and he and Rizzio fell to the floor. Rocco got up and went quietly out and was seen to walk slowly south on Claremont street. Rizzio did not rise and a stream of blood flowed from a long rent in his clothing. It was some time before medical aid was summoned, and then Dr. D. W. McPherson, 556 Bathurst street, was called. He found the man lying on the floor, a cut an inch long on the left side of his abdomen, and the intestines protruding. He had the man removed in Matthews' private ambulance to Grace Hospital, where surgeons worked over him for an hour and a half.

The police were notified by 'phone to the Esther street station at 6.20, and Sergt. Umbach hurried to the scene, picking up Detective Cronin on the way. Cronin picked up a razor case in the hallway, which bystanders said was that from which the razor had been taken, but the weapon could not be found. A search was also made at 208 Claremont street, where Rocco boarded, but there, too, the officers were met with the same shrugs and professed ignorance.

Rocco's trunk was searched, and a letter found addressed to him at 34 Carr street, but readdressed to the Claremont street house. A picture postcard showing the man wanted was also found. The Carr street house was found to be vacant, and at an address in St. Clarens's avenue, to which the former occupants had moved, they learned nothing of Rocco's whereabouts.

Rocco is said to be 22 years of age and single. He was short and thick set. He is said to have worked on cement pavements for the city, but to have quit his job on Saturday. Rizzio is 39 years old with a wife and children in Italy. He had been in this country two years.

Inspector Dickson and Detectives Twigg, Archibald and Jarvis kept up a search all through the night throughout the Italian settlements in the city.

It was in this same locality that Pasquale Ventricini committed the murder for which he was hanged in June, and less than a year ago an Italian was arrested in this very house for a serious stabbing.

Motor Exploded.

Paris, Aug. 29.—Aviator Ressemann was making trial flights here within the aerodrome when the motor exploded. The aeroplane fell to the ground from a height of 65 feet and was smashed.

Killed by Three-Foot Fall.

New York, Aug. 29.—John Roach, a laborer, fell three feet last night from an operating table on which he had been laid to dress a minor wound and broke his neck. He was dead when picked up.

A ROMANCE.

The Story as It Was Told by Picture Postals.

By AGNES G. BROGAN,

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

"Mike" was not his true name. It had been bestowed by the clerks at "Station D" because of the never failing good humor and ready wit which characterized the stout, red haired, postman, who had been in the service of the United States government as long as the men could remember, and so generally was the name adopted that Mike himself had almost forgotten the proper one.

The picture postals which found their way into his bag were a source of unfailing delight, and often Mike could folow the travels of some favorite by merely reading the cards as they were sent home.

As he neared the stone house with the white rosebush growing beside the veranda the postman unconsciously quickened his steps and searched eagerly among the letters, for he never liked to disapoint Miss Isabel. She was one of the few who had not changed entirely in the process of growing up. Mike ascended the steps, looking admiringly at the picture of a very blue lake surrounded by very green trees. Upon the opposite side of the card he read:

"I GUESS IT'S FOR THE NURSE."

Dear Mother—Cousin Robert and his friend met me at the station. I am having a fine time. ISABEL.

"So she's away," Mike mused, a little disappointedly. "Well, she'll have the good time all right." And so it seemed, judging from the many gala postals interspersed with thick letters which were received daily at the stone house.

Miss Isabel wrote constantly of pleasure trips with "Cousin Robert and his friend," who later came to be designated as "Robert's friend Billy," and then when the long summer was drawing to an end the obliging Cousin Robert's company seemed to be dispensed with, for the postals read simply, "Billy and I were here today."

Mike chuckled as he handed one of these cards to the maid. "She won't be coming home in a hurry," he said confidentially. But in this he was mistaken, for she came smilingly to meet him a few days afterward.

"I suppose I will have a bundle of letters for you soon," he remarked.

"I hope so," she answered gayly.

He searched expectantly through his pack next morning, and, sure enough, there it was, "I will write you tonight—yours, Billy," while a printed verse stated the fact that "absence makes the heart grow fonder."

They came thick and fast after that—letters, cards, a photograph or two and bulging little packages, all addressed in the same free, bold hand which Mike learned to recognize instantly. Isabel was always there as he came down the street, apparently absorbed in sewing or hovering about the rosebush with a great pretense of examining its leaves. When Mike presented his offering she would receive it with the open delight of a child.

"It's from Billy," he would say and go away laughing at her confusion. The old postman was vastly interested in the unfolding love story, but there came a time when the girl waited in vain, and he dreaded to meet her questioning eyes, for Billy's letters had ceased abruptly.

Mike pondered deeply. The shrewd eyes could read more than postal cards, and he was sure that she had been too fond of this Billy to send him away. Had the mother interfered or—his face darkened savagely—was the fellow himself to blame?

One morning as Mike was preparing to start out upon his rounds the familiar bold handwriting flashed into view as though in answer to his troubled thoughts. The freckled hand trembled as he held the postal up to the light. It was the picture of a great ocean steamer, and the message upon the addressed side danced dizzily for a moment before his eyes. "Have engaged passage for Oct. 5," he read. "Goodby forever, little Isabel Drew. Billy."

And the old postman fought with the greatest temptation of his life—to destroy a part of Uncle Sam's mail. When he saw the little white lady leaning back wearily in her chair upon the veranda Mike was certain that he would have preferred to pay the full penalty due such a crime than to have been the bearer of this cruel missive. He avoided her eyes as he turned away, but there was a tremulous little catch in the voice which thanked him.

To his great relief, Isabel no longer awaited his coming, and when he next left a letter for her mother it was a white capped nurse who responded to his ring.

"Young lady sick?" Mike asked in a tone which was supposed to express only polite interest, and the nurse answered gravely:

"Yes; she is very sick indeed."

He stopped to inquire every day after that and then pursued his way gloomily. "Mike is getting peevish," the clerks at the office said in surprise. An air of intense anxiety seemed to pervade the atmosphere of the stone house, and the bell was muffled, for the patient had reached the crisis when Mike again appeared at the door. He was awkwardly holding a parcel wrapped in tissue paper.

"She used to like white roses," he said to the nurse. "Put these in her room."

At length news came that Isabel was really getting better. The air of depression vanished. Once more Mike's whistle sounded cheerily. Then he became puzzled over a letter which unmistakably bore Billy's handwriting and yet was not directed to the girl he had treated so cruelly. Mike finally came to the conclusion that the fellow had written to the nurse desiring information concerning Isabel's condition, and he fervently hoped that she "wouldn't make it up with him."

He fingered the letter guiltily as he approached the house and saw Isabel herself standing upon the veranda. A sudden moisture filled the sympathetic postman's eye, for she was such a small, white Isabel. Her dark hair had been cut, and the short curls seemed to change her back again into the little girl who had raced to meet him upon her way from school.

"I am glad you are better," he said heartily, and she smiled.

"Thank you," she answered softly. "You have been very kind. Any letters today?"

Mike drew a long breath. "There's one here," he said hesitatingly. "I guess it's for the nurse—addressed to Mrs. William D. Rhodes."

Isabel extended an eager hand. "Why, Mike," she said, laughing happily, "don't you know—that I am Mrs. William Rhodes?"

He stared at her unbelievingly. "You," he repeated dully—"you Mrs. Rhodes, and it wasn't the Billy fellow after all?"

"Oh, but it was," she said rather confusingly, "for Billy is William Rhodes."

The old postman still looked bewildered. "You married to him all the while," he said slowly, "and me thinking when the letters stopped and he went away bidding you 'goodby forever' on a postal card that it was all over with."

She laughed merrily at his unblushing confession to reading her mail. "I understand now," she said, "your disappointment at having no letters to deliver, but you see when we became engaged Billy managed to be transferred to the company's office here, so there was no further need of correspondence. We were married quietly the very day before I was taken desperately ill with typhoid fever, which had been threatening me for so long. Billy has been with me through it all, and now that I am strong enough"—the girl's eyes shone—"we are going upon our long postponed wedding trip to Europe. The card you spoke of," she explained kindly, "was sent from New York, where Billy had gone to engage our passage, and, knowing that I was to be married the next day, he bade goodby forever to Isabel Drew."

Mike replaced his cap and sorted out another handful of letters. The infectious smile appeared upon his face, and the Irish blue eyes twinkled. "You can't always take it from the postals," he said.

At the foot of the stair he doffed his cap again. "I wish you much happiness, Mrs. Rhodes," he added ceremoniously, and the girl watched him far down the street.

"Never was wish more sincere," she murmured softly. The days followed each other uneventfully. No girlish face bent over the rosebushes or smiled from the window, and then one morning Mike discovered among his letters one bearing a European postmark and addressed in a small, neat hand—which he well remembered—to Mrs. James Drew.

It would naturally be supposed that such a bulky letter could convey all the news necessary, but with it, also directed to Mrs. Drew, came a picture postal, the same white boat which had at one time aroused Mike's anger, and beneath the boat was penned:

You will be glad to know that Billy and I have arrived safely and are well and happy. ISABEL RHODES.

The postman ascended the steps of the stone house. "There's a letter for Mrs. Drew," he informed the maid who opened the door, "and a postal card for me."

"You!" the girl exclaimed scornfully. "Why, it's for her too."

"I am not so sure of that," Mike answered knowingly. "But you may let her have it."

The door closed with a bang, for the maid had long since ceased trying to understand Mike and his ways, and the whistled tune, "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" floated riotously down the street.

The Bridegroom Cometh.

Who is this?
This is a man.
Where is he?
He is in church.
Why is he in church?
This is the day he weds. That is why he is in church.
Who else is there?
The bride is there.
Does the bride blush, and is she shy?
Oh, no! The bride does not blush, and she is not shy. She is calm and cool. Trust her for that.
Does no one blush, then, and is no one shy?
Oh, dear, yes! Look at the bridegroom. He is all that. His knees shake as well. If some one does not watch him he will lose the ring. His tie is out of place, and when he tries to speak the words will not come. He feels faint, too, but no one looks at him.
Why does no one look at him?
He is the bridegroom. That is why. All eyes are on the bride. The bridegroom—pooh! No one looks at him or cares about his woes.
Oh! Has he had woes then?
Not yet.—New York Evening Sun.

After La Grippe

"I had suffered several weeks with LaGrippe. Had pains in my head and eyes. It felt as though there was a heavy weight on the top of my head, until it seemed that my brain would burst. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. When I dozed off I would awake with a sudden jerking of my whole body. Dr. Miles' Nervine, Heart Remedy and Nerve and Liver Pills cured me. A number of friends have since realized the same benefits."

MRS. ALVIN H. LOCKS,
Seabrook, N. H.

The after effects of LaGrippe are often more serious than the disease, as it leaves the system in a weakened condition that invites more serious troubles, such as pneumonia, etc.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine should be taken for some time to thoroughly restore nerve strength.

Price $1.00 at your druggist. He should supply you. If he does not, send price to us, we forward prepaid.

WILL MARRY ANGLESEY

PRINCESS PATRICIA'S LONG DENIED WISH COMES TRUE.

"Pat" of Connaught, Daughter of Canada's Next Governor-General Has Loved the Marquis of Anglesey For Several Years, But Has Been Kept From Wedding Him—Wanted Her to Marry a Prince.

The romance of the moment in royal circles is that of Princess Patricia of Connaught, who, after rejecting several kingly suitors, is at last to be allowed to marry the man of her choice, who is only a marquis. The love story of Princess "Pat" is the topic on all tongues in England just now, and it is of special interest to Canadians, for the reason that the father of the Princess—the Duke of Connaught—will probably be our next Governor-General.

King Edward was determined that his niece should marry a monarch, but Princess Patricia loved Charles Henry Alexander Paget, Marquis of Anglesey, a fine-looking young man of about her own age, and was determined to marry no one else. As the youngest and most beautiful daughter of King Edward's brother, when Princess "Pat" decided to escape a throne she had her work cut out for her. Attractive royal princesses were none too numerous. When English, particularly, they are not lightly to be wasted on mere peers. They are tremendous political assets, and King Edward was not noted for missing any political advantage, least of all one that favorably affected the fortunes of members of his own family.

Ever since Princess Patricia budded into womanhood until very recently she has been the beautiful focus of royal matrimonial negotiations. The first and most advantageous of the alliances planned for her was with Alfonso, King of Spain. Edward, it is said, was set on this affair, probably all the more so because he realized that Patricia's opposition was due to her fancy for the young Marquis of Anglesey.

The British King is pretty nearly absolute monarch in his own family, and probably but for one thing poor Patricia would have had to yield. This was the fact, learned later, that Alfonso was strongly inclined to another English princess—Victoria of Battenberg, who in marrying the King of Spain would solve the political part of the problem equally well, while suitably filling the career of another royal eligible.

The comparatively recent effort to marry Patricia to Manuel, the young King of Portugal, was less strenuous because Portugal is one of those countries which cut a comparatively small figure on the political map of Europe. Still, Manuel was a full-fledged king, and the son of a king, who was one of Edward's most particular friends. He was sent on a visiting tour of most of the European courts with the admitted object of picking out his bride.

Along with the other eligibles, poor Patricia had to meet the young King with an aspect of expectant amiability. But Princess Patricia held her ground.

In 1906 the princess had a very bad quarter-year owing to her royal uncle's desire to cement the new and friendly relations between Great Britain and Russia by marrying her to the Grand Duke Michael, only brother of the Czar. At one time there were unofficial reports of a betrothal. Undoubtedly this time the princess was saved by a change in the diplomatic situation.

A year and a half ago, when Princess Patricia visited Italy with her father, the Duke of Connaught, there was a revival of an old story that the Count of Turin, brother of the Duke of the Abruzzi, and in the line of succession to the Italian throne, was really the royal prince picked out for her husband. This was at about the time that the courtship between the Duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins came to an unmistakable end.

All this time, however, the princess' love for the Marquis of Anglesey was more and more in evidence. Then a change of tactics was decided upon. Princess "Pat" should be provided with a means of forgetting her "Charlie." The Englishman who wants to forget anything—especially a love affair—always rushes off to Africa after big game. By rushing Princess "Pat" off this way it was confidently hoped to remove the Anglesey image from her brain and heart as a practical preliminary to substituting there the image of the next royal bachelor in the market.

But the African experiment had the opposite effect, and an effect so pronounced that King Edward being no more, and George V. indifferent about the matter, further efforts to coerce the princess were abandoned, and the lovers will at last marry with the royal sanction.

Princess "Pat's" preference for the Marquis of Anglesey from the first was quite apparent to her family. She never made any effort to conceal it. At the time attempts to coerce her into regarding King Alfonso favorably reached a crisis, she threw herself on a sofa weeping and declaring that no power could compel her to marry him. She would have Anglesey or none.

For any girl except a royal princess the Marquis of Anglesey is an admitted "catch." He is a handsome young Welsh peer of most engaging manners, and his income will be enormous in a few years when the estates recover from the debts contracted by his predecessor.

Dearth of Domestics.

So great is the dearth of domestic servants in New Zealand, that the Prime Minister, has yielded to the arguments of a deputation of housekeepers. He has promised to substantially reduce the fare of young women coming from Great Britain to take up domestic service in the Dominion.

THE ENGLISH SUNDAY.

Very Few Londoners Now Go to the Church Services.

Time was when the London Sunday was traditionally a day of depression. The staid and respectable British subject attended church services and elsewhile shut himself in his castle and banged down the portcullis. Nor friend nor foe might enter there. Hospitality could cheer the rest of the week. But that one day was consecrated to gloom. Now, it appears, all this is changed. Church attendance in the great metropolis has declined. Rev. Dr. R. E. Horton, speaking in a chapel at Hampstead, declared that "unless God arrests the habit of our people" the congregations may continue to decrease. One lamentable result is a statistical decrease, by comparison between a Sunday in 1903 and a recent Sunday, in church collections in London from $250,000 to $200,000, a fall of 20 per cent.

But, after all, this financial aspect of the case is not so serious as that statement would seem to indicate. The prosperous who choose to seek physical and mental recreation in the open country do not forget that the greatest of these is charity. On a recent Sunday collectors with their boxes were assigned to the various stations of the Metropolitan and District railways, and of the "tubes," and reaped a plentiful harvest of silver and copper from thousands of travelers. Appeals for extra contributions to hospital funds, outside the churches, have also met with generous response.

It appears that there is no need in all this for evangelical gloom. Even if, as is estimated, not more than one-thirteenth of the population of London attend church that fraction may be a saving remnant. Moreover, not all of those who seize the opportunity to seek suburban joys on that day are thereby lacking in reverence. They may find in woodland and moor those primeval temples that inspire refreshment for both body and soul. It may be that those hours afield find their reflection in a thousand ways that may be called Christian throughout the secular day of the week. But it is more than a coincidence that this phenomenon that so disturbs some preachers in London has received similar, although not so despairing, attention in the larger cities of the United States. Even some of the orthodox or conservative show an inclination to adopt, with more or less modification, the method much practiced in Latin countries of attending church service at an early hour and devoting the rest of the day to rational and innocent recreation. But that is a spirit not dissonant with sympathy with active work in the churches.

Buckingham Palace.

"I have come," said Queen Victoria to a great lady once, "from my house to your palace." It is indeed a pointed instance of the British way of doing things that the sovereign of the greatest empire in the world should be lodged worse than sundry subjects. Buckingham Palace, in its squat and gloomy ugliness, is an eyesore to Londoners and a laughing stock of foreign visitors to the capital. To approach this dingy barn of a "palace" from the Mall is to come upon an anticlimax which would be ludicrous if it were not so hurtful to our pride. The memorial to Queen Victoria is approaching completion; and its dignified grace and beauty will throw the palace into unenviable relief. It is long years since Thackeray's burlesque ballad as to "the Prince's pavilion in swate Pimlico" was written; London is visibly improving and prinking herself day by day — our sovereigns are still accommodated in the least imposing royal residence in Europe, to put it mildly. Meanwhile the L.C.C. are raising for themselves a lordly dwelling place at the other side of the Park. Surely the head of the British Empire is worthy of better lodgment. Sir Aston Webb and others have from time to time made various suggestions for the "improvement" of Buckingham Palace. We are strongly of opinion that the Palace, with its hideous allegorical figures, more suitable for a circus than for a royal residence, is incapable of improvement—in the bad sense of the word.—London Globe.

Some English Country Names.

Sussex can produce queer names in plenty—for example, Replenished Pryor, a damsel who dwelt at Heathfield; Mr. Stand-fast-on-high Stringer, Mr. Ales Cressel and Master Perfomthy-vows Seers. The county archives also yield unusual family names, such as Pitchfork, Devil, Leper, Juglery, Beatup, Breathing, Whiskey, Wildgoose and Lies.

Dorset can hold her own tolerably well with villages named Ryme Intrinseca and Toller Porcorum; rivers called Wriggle River and Devil's Brook, commons christened Giddy Green and God's Blessing Green and heights called Hungry Down, Mount Ararat, Grammars Hill and Dancing Hill. A prospective tenant might well hesitate before signing the lease of Wooden Cabbage Farm, Labor in Vain Farm, Poor Lot Farm and Charity Bottom, even though he should hail from Kent, which owns two Starvecrow farms within a ride of each other. —London Chronicle.

"HOW DID YOU GET YOUR FIRST JOB?"

MEN Who Have Big Jobs Now Tell of the Modest Ones with Which They Began the Big Battle

BY GARNET WARREN.

(Copyright, 1910, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.)

NEW YORK, Saturday.

IT would be quite unpardonable to refer once again to America as the land of opportunity were it not so very startlingly the land of opportunity. Opportunity, indeed, is our very chiefest asset. It lurks about dark places seeking to waylay us. It lingers about corners with every kidnapping intent. It raises agitated arms and beckons.

It asks a few qualities, doubtless, solid but undecorative—courage, perseverance, and it is exhilarated at the least suggestion of intelligence.

It pursues its silent work in the paths of finance and the professions, in the fields of construction or of education, where minds or houses are built. Its trail leads to the theatre, which is a law unto itself.

Indeed the first "job" of the most successful men in all the things which men do were invariably small jobs. They were usually jobs which in other countries would have been dooms. They were the crudest kinds of jobs. They were jobs usually pursued through handicaps.

As an instance consider the career of Max Steuer. Some one has said of Mr. Max Steuer that in the last five years he has appeared in more cases than any other attorney in the world. There is, perhaps, no law court day in the year which does not find Mr Max Steuer a pleader in the law courts. As a cross examiner he is reputed to be brilliant. Yet it would be difficult for many a romance to match the contrasts of Mr. Steuer's career.

Max Steuer's Career.

He was born in Homono, in Austria. His family—in the fashion of many immigrant families—arrived here in fragments. The father came first. He sent for the sister. Both sent for the balance of the family, among the humble body of which came young Max Steuer in the steerage. This was in '77. They lived in the most crowded section of the east side. Their bedroom was more than a bedroom for the family. It was also a dining and cooking and sleeping apartment. Max Steuer's father worked in a tailor's sweatshop, to which present young Steuer went, after school hours. From nine to three he went to school, and from three to nine he worked at the sweatshop—an unmatched equilibrium of hours.

His particular activity was to pull stitches from partially made coats. His pay ranged from a dollar and a half to a munificent three dollars a week. But he supplemented this by bringing frankfurters and other democratic food to the sweatshop workers and receiving tips—which were a fashion even in those early days. In his vacation he developed into a very rapid "basting puller," and as there were three or four sweatshops in the building he did the "basting" for all. The sweatshops were prudent places and divided his salary among them, so that he then averaged three dollars a week. He was about seven years old at that time. Shortly afterward Kleinert fortuitously invented dress shields. Steuer's father, with a fine commercial instinct, saw the possibility of dress shields and purchased ten gross of them.

"Now, Grand street in those days," said Mr. Steuer, when I was gathering these details from him, "was the most wonderful thoroughfare I have ever seen. New York has no street now which can compare with it in point of business. It was thronged with thousands of intending buyers. Well, my father and I went through Grand street peddling dress shields. We made 1½ cents on each pair, and could easily sell two or three hundred pairs apiece on a Saturday night. This, too, was at about the time the stamp was taken off the matches. Matches were previously sold at twenty-five cents a pack.

Steuer heard a man calling matches at twelve cents. He inquired the reason and found that the stamp had been taken off. He calculated, and found the tremendous possibilities of profit. He and his father forthwith walked into the Diamond match factory and purchased 100 cases. They put every cent of money they had saved or could borrow into the matches. They sold and delivered them all within two days.

"This was the first real money that ever came into the family," Mr. Steuer related, smilingly.

They made so much on this transaction that it culminated in a resolution to send young Steuer to college. Then he passed the civil service examination and got a job in the foreign mail department. In the meantime, however, the family became poor again. Max Steuer's job was a night one, and he went to the university in the day. He was working eighteen hours then out of the twenty-four. Finally he matriculated, was admitted to the Bar and announced his intention of following law.

His First Case.

But it is one thing to follow the law and another thing to get an opportunity of practising at it. Steuer looked for a position as law clerk. But the market was drugged with law clerks—a habit it has not yet overcome. Young Steuer was just commencing to get discouraged when he called at the office of an acquaintance.

"Look here," said the acquaintance, "can you raise one hundred dollars?"

Steuer thought and imagined that perhaps he could.

"You can get a little desk space here, then," said the acquaintance. "You can let some of the rest of it out. It won't cost you much. And perhaps there are some small matters here that I'll get the firm to turn over to you."

So Steuer engaged his small room for $20 a month. He sublet it for $10. Which seems to indicate that Homono, in Austria, was able to develop some commercial instinct. However, still Steuer waited for clients, but they would not come.

From Three to Nine He Worked at the Sweatshop.

At half-past twelve he would walk out on the streets for an hour or so to pretend that he had been out to luncheon. He was beginning to think of looking for a job—any job. Then one fine morning a man walked into his room. He said he had been recommended. Who recommended him Steuer does not know to this day. The man said that he had come to give him a case. The man had purchased foreign stocks and had received a fraudulent certificate. The man asked him what his fee would be. Steuer considered with great trepidation and asked if $25 would be too much. The man produced $25 and Steuer set to work. He recovered the man's $3,300. When he paid his client the money the man asked what it was he owed him. "You paid me my fee," said Steuer. "I only asked $25."

The man took $500 from the $3,300 which Steuer had just returned to him. "Will this satisfy you?" he said. "Amply," said young Steuer, who thought that law might be a pretty good thing after all. That was the turning of the tide. From that day Steuer did not think of hunting jobs any more. Clients got into the habit of pursuing him. They are still at it.

Oscar Hammerstein's First Job.

The picturesque Oscar Hammerstein is another brilliantly successful man with what one might term a past. He was born in Berlin in 1841. He came here also in that popular means of transportation, the steerage. He needed work with a peculiar need; he needed it very badly. But his training had been peculiar. His father had intended him to be a professor, and had accordingly taught him languages, which is, of course, the very foundation of professorship. He also taught him music, without the knowledge that he was afterward to apply it in the direction of making a million out of grand opera.

When Oscar Hammerstein arrived in New York, however, he found that there was no universal demand for professors. Indeed, he found no single person who wanted one. He stopped at an exceedingly cheap boarding house on the east side till his money was exhausted, and then, with trepidation, waited upon his landlady. He will tell you that it was the one more nervous moment than that which even preceded the engagement of Mme. Melba as his first prima donna. He represented that he had no more money, but a very certain appetite and much ability to work. He asked that something be done to match the three things up.

"Can't I work for my board some way?" he suggested.

Now, the landlady was kindly and she thought she wanted coal carried and fires made and odd, mysterious things to be done about the kitchen. "If you want to do that for your board you can," said she. So Hammerstein carried the coal. Afterward he heaped them, burning, upon the heads of opera stars who attempted to "hold him up." But the carrying was his very first job. Then one day he saw an advertisement, "Wanted—A boy to learn the tobacco trade," it read. He preferred the promise of the tobacco trade to carrying coal. He felt that it offered a greater future. So he presented himself and the man hired him. He was put to cleaning the crude tobacco leaf and afterward to rolling it. He worked at the back of a little murky store for twelve hours a day. At the end of a week his back felt very tired and his fingers very sore. Then the man handed to him $2, which was his wages.

"That was the hardest money I ever earned," said Mr Hammerstein recently. "It was also the best."

After that he commenced to invent. He also became the editor of a trade paper, at which point, of course, his career became kaleidoscopic and prosperous and passes away from the province of this article.

Theodore Starrett's Start.

Theodore Starrett, the great constructor and contractor, is also a man who made very small beginnings. At eighteen he was attending college at Lake Forest, near Chicago, when it became necessary for him to leave. His father was conducting a magazine in the days before magazines had the largest circulations of all circulating things, and the fact reacted on young Starrett.

Mr. Starrett, Sr., could not afford to send the boy through college, and it became necessary for that boy to make up his mind to do something. This something he intended should be architecture. One day his mother met Mr. Boyington, the Chicago architect, on a train, and broached the subject of her son's ambitions. "Send him round," said Mr. Boyington. So round young Starrett went, at the age of eighteen, and became a copier of letters, a runner of errands and a tracer of drawings at a salary of—nothing. No money had been mentioned by any party to Starrett's job. So for two months he worked, and then one bright, unforgettable day he was handed $20.

Now that $20 puzzled young Starrett. He didn't know whether it was two months' salary or two weeks. He didn't dare to ask.

"My heart was in my mouth while I waited for the beginning of next month," said Mr. Starret recently, laughing over the reminiscence. "I was waiting to see if my salary was $10 a week, or $5, or $2.50. I could hardly wait till I opened that envelope. I went away by myself to do this thing, I remember. I tore open the envelope and there was $10. Two and a half a week was my salary."

At nineteen he went to Burnham & Root, architects, of Chicago, where he stayed till he was twenty-five. Then he proudly set forth in business for himself. His first job was from a neighbor—a physician. It was to design a porch for his house.

"When the posts went up," said Mr. Starrett, "I was afraid that I had made a mistake. I was scared to death. The physician came around and said, 'Look here, Theodore, these posts look as if they were made for a cathedral. They look about the size of a town.' Well, I went around to look at them. I was scared to death—it was my first job, you know. My professional reputation with the neighbors depended on those first posts. Well, they did look big, but the roof wasn't on yet. 'Wait till they get the roof on,' I said, 'then it will be all right.' Well, the roof altered the whole complexion of the porch. That porch was the joy and pride of that physician. He used to go around after that recommending all his neighbors to have porches. I got $15 from that first contract of mine. I think it was the crispest money I ever felt."

Charles Thorley's Venture.

Charles Thorley, florist to the whole aristocratic world of America and its wife, has had a life of varied experiences, perhaps the most interesting of which was when he made a beginning after having been very thoroughly and creditably cleaned out by that fine old institution, Wall street. He was only twenty-two at the time. He previously had made a success in Fourteenth street, but great successes don't count when Wall street is working the other way. Young Thorley owed the respectable sum of $120,000, which seems convincing even for the period of 1880, and incontinently left Fourteenth street. He not unnaturally wanted a clean leaf to start upon. That morning he walked Broadway without a dollar—with less than a dollar—and he thought, thought of what he could do.

"Then, all on a sudden, a sign seemed to flash out upon me," he said. "'Store to let,' it was. It seemed to detach itself from its surroundings. Well, I thought and thought, and went down next morning. There was that sign still. It directed me to the Gilsey estate, which was a little further along the way. I went in and a very gruff man told me that neither of the Mr. Gilseys was in, so I waited and waited and finally went in again. A very harsh looking man met me—my, but he was a sour looking man! 'You've got a store to let,' I said. 'What do you want that store for?' he asked. 'Flowers,' said I. 'There was a florist in there just before and he made a failure of it,' he said. 'That's all right,' I said. Well, then he commenced to ask me questions. What was my name? Was the place big enough? Was I sure I could handle it? I said 'Yes' to everything. Then he half closed his eyes and sat looking. After a while he said, 'You can have the place.' I said 'All right,' slowly, wondering where I was going to get the money from."

Well, then the old Mr. Gilsey (for it was he) looked at Mr. Thorley and said, "But you haven't even asked the price." That was all right, that was all right, said Mr. Thorley. If he wanted the store the price wasn't an object. "Well, it's $2,500 a year," said the older Gilsey, "and our terms are three months in advance."

A Clean Sweep.

Charles Thorley murmured the familiar "all right" once more. And they went to see the place. It was small and bare, and the paper was torn off. The unsuccessful florist had made a clean sweep before he had gone.

Now, Mr. Thorley had a gem in his pocket. He had held to it for sentimental reasons, and it was the only thing which he possessed. After viewing the little room he walked down the street looking for a pawnshop. He found one and said to the man:—"How much will you give me for that? Give me as much as you can; I want every cent you can give me on it." "One hundred and twenty-five dollars," said the pawnbroker. Mr. Thorley took the $125 and went to look at that little room again. The optician next door, scenting a neighbor, came out. "Going to take the store?" said he. "Yes," said Mr. Thorley. "You've got a bad landlord," said the optician. "He's a wolf."

Well, Mr. Thorley, thinking, thinking, went back to the Gilsey office. "I'm going to take that place," said he to Mr. Gilsey, "but they say you're a wolf. I'm going to give you $50 on account of one month's rent. It's all I've got."

Mr. Gilsey looked at Mr. Thorley, then looked again. There was a twinkle about the furthest edges of his eyes. "To show you how much of a wolf I am," he said, "your rent will be $2,000 instead of $2,500, and I won't take your $50 on account till the month's up."

Well, Mr. Thorley went to the place where the Marlborough Hotel now stands, where there was a second hand lumber yard. Near there he made his purchases—two chairs, a counter, a mirror, a chandelier. Then he repapered the store. He stocked it. When finished he had sixty cents. It was on Friday and he would not open that day. He stood at his door shuffling the sixty cents in his hands. Old Mr. Gilsey came up and chatted with him. There was an old theatrical boarding house across the street. Suddenly Mr. Thorley took his sixty cents and threw it with all his force over the roof of the boarding house. Mr. Gilsey stared and said, "What are you doing?" "That's the last sixty cents I have," said Mr. Thorley. "If I haven't got more than that by to-morrow night you are going to have a bad tenant."

By the next evening he had taken in $100. In five years he had paid every cent of the $120,000 he had owed, with interest. Everything he touched turned into gold. In seven years he owned his store and property adjoining. He owned the house over which he had thrown the money. Mr. Gilsey consulted him about everything. The first cranky looking old man in the Gilsey offices was his private accountant for fifteen years.

Also Charles Thorley climbed up to the roof of that old theatrical boarding house which he had owned and he searched for the sixty cents, but he never found it.

Henry Siegel's Success.

Henry Siegel, whose name is so associated with the development of the department store as we know it to-day, came originally from Tübingen, in Germany. He was only fifteen when he came here, and his first job was that of errand boy in Washington. Here he stayed four years, running errands and keeping his eyes open. He had definitely decided that $3 a week was capable of improvement, so at nineteen he went to a little town in Pennsylvania and started a store. It was a very little store, for young Henry Siegel wasn't a millionnaire at that time, but the habit of keeping his eyes open commenced to be useful.

"I did things in that little place," he said recently, "as I had noticed them doing in Washington. If possible, I would think out some little improvement. It is a good rule in business to adopt a good idea and improve upon it. Don't let anybody tell you not to copy. Copy—and better; that's the successful rule in business."

It proved so at all events in young Henry Siegel's case. In a few years he had a large store, which he sold out. From there he went to Chicago, where his sensational success is a matter of record; and when he left, in 1896, he was one of the biggest merchants in the city. His experiences in New York and Boston have been but a duplication of this. "I ascribe all my success," he says, "to the habits I formed when an office boy. I have never forgotten them, and find them equally good now."

Frederic Thompson's Janitorship.

Frederic Thompson started at twelve. He became delivery boy in a grocery store at that popular sum of $3 a week. He delivered groceries with great success. In these days he delivers theatrical goods. The most vital time in his career, however, arrived at the time of the Chicago Exposition. This found him with just sufficient money to go to Chicago, where he presented himself at the offices of Manning, Maxwell & Moore, who were one of the largest exhibitors.

"There's a janitor's job open," said the person in charge.

So Frederic Thompson accepted the janitor's job. He was expected to sweep out, a job at which his young blood rebelled. So he hired another man to do this and proceeded to make himself useful among the exhibits. So much so indeed that at the end of the week he sent in a bill for the man he had hired—and it was paid. A few weeks after Mr. Moore, one of the partners, came to the place of exhibit, and thinking Mr. Thompson the company's representative, commenced to suggest changes. Mr. Thompson entered enthusiastically into that discussion. He didn't hire any one to do that. However, when everything was concluded he announced his official position. "I'm janitor here," he said. Two weeks later he was manager. His career after that was a phantasmagoria of expositions and Luna Parks and Hippodromes and theatrical productions, one of which you are usually certain of seeing somewhere near Broadway.

"I get everything I have by hard work," he says. "A rule? Work as if there was never a clock in the office."

Theodore P. Shonts Explodes a Tale.

"It is a matter of some regret," says Theodore P. Shonts, "that in telling how I procured my first job I am obliged to explode the old story which I have seen in print, that I worked my way up from the position of 'water tender,' for that sounds romantic, whereas my first work was anything but fanciful.

"When I was graduated from Monmouth College, in 1876, I owed my brother-in-law, D. C. Campbell, $100, which I had borrowed to complete my education. He owned a bank at Centreville, Iowa, where I lived, and it happened that just then he needed a man of all work around the establishment. The job paid $30 a month. There was no better position open in the little town, so I applied for the place and got it. Sweeping out a bank was not quite up to what my college course had fitted me for, and some of my friends thought it did not fit in well with the degrees of B. A., which I had studied hard for, but I did not mind that. I was anxious to get to work and pay off my indebtedness.

"I never have taken quite so much satisfaction in any money I have earned since then as I did in my first month's pay. The amount was not large, even as salaries went in those days, but it represented the result of my own efforts. It gave me an entirely new sense of independence and self-reliance—qualities which every boy should cultivate. I made up my mind that if my untrained hands could earn that much my trained mind could earn more, and I redoubled my efforts to master the business I was in, for I considered myself a part of the concern. I was around early in the morning and had the bank cleaned out and ready for business well before the opening hour. During the day I helped and watched my brother-in-law, who did practically all of the banking work, as it was a small institution. Gradually I familiarized myself with the details of the business and in a short time I was virtually running the bank, while Mr. Campbell gave his attention to other matters. But I still continued to sweep out in the morning and close up at night. It was hard work, but I felt that I was accomplishing something and advancing, and that satisfaction more than compensated for the effort.

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

Immortal Worms and Unquenchable Fire

"Where their worm dieth not and their fire is not quenched" (Mark ix, 44).

Aug. 28.—These words from the lips of our Master, the Great Teacher, have been grievously misunderstood. The teaching of our Protestant childhood was to the effect that only the saintly elect would go to heaven and that others would not only lose heaven, but gain an eternal life in torment. Thus our text was understood to portray what practically the whole world of mankind would be compelled to endure. This hell was pictured to our childhood minds from outside the Bible as heated to a white heat. If we expressed wonder or surprise that any human creature could endure such conditions so long the answer was that God would exercise his omnipotent power to make us fire-proof and pain-sensitive. Some theologians of the Thomas a Kempis school of thought went so far as to picture the poor creatures in their sufferings and to show that the heat would form a kind of an asbestos covering which would shield them from a measure of its intensity. But those deluded theologians proceeded to explain that these outer coverings would crack and shell off every little while, leaving the poor victim freshly tender that his suffering might be the most intense.

Of course, these theologians of the past had their difficulty in dealing with the worms. They could imagine devils who would oversee the torture as being made immune to pain by the chief torturer, the Almighty God. But just how to imagine the worm getting along in so great a heat and how they would in any wise increase the torture of the poor sufferers was to many a perplexity. But patient thoughtfulness along these cruel and devilish lines enabled some to formulate the theory that the worms would be fiery ones, living in fire, delighting in fire—worms that would bore through the incrustations and add still further to the horrible sufferings of the world of mankind.

Did the Great Teacher intend that such conclusions should be drawn from his language? And did he stop short of the description from reasons of sympathy or modesty or shame? Is this the general teaching of God's Word or has a great and terrible mistake been made? And have we mistaken a figure of speech and treated it as literal? We erred. We misunderstood. The Great Teacher who rebuked his disciples, James and John, when they desired to call fire from heaven upon the City of Samaria, because the people thereof refused to sell them food for the Master — the sympathetic One who said to them, "Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of; the Son of man came not to destroy men's lives, but to save them"—could that Son of man in any wise intend to tell us that our great Heavenly Father had less of the spirit of love and righteousness than the two impetuous disciples? Did he mean to intimate that while the disciples impetuously might have been willing to destroy the earthly life of the Samaritans, the Heavenly Father, of still more demoniacal disposition, would treat practically all mankind ten million times worse than that and use Divine Power to all eternity to perpetuate the sufferings of his earthly creatures which his own Word declares were born in sin, shapen in iniquity, in sin did their mothers conceive them?—earthly creatures, too, whose environment was unfavorable and whose Adversary, the devil, God neither destroyed nor bound?

Such an interpretation, my dear hearers, is not supposable. We must look for some explanation of the Master's words more consistent with his own character and with the Heavenly Father's character, and more consistent with our conception of what a Just, Loving, Wise and Powerful Creator would do. It does not answer the purpose to say, as so many do, "Bosh, do not discuss such a matter. Nobody now believes such things!" This one Scripture repudiated would shake our confidence in the whole Bible. But rightly explained and understood it would settle and increase our faith in the Scriptures as a Divine message. This, then, must be our object—not merely to cast from us the devilish interpretation of the dark ages, but to ascertain the true interpretation—to get the true lesson from the words of the Great Teacher. Thousands are drifting off into more or less open infidelity simply because of the irrational interpretation given to this text and two or three others. And these errors have become so fastened in our minds from childhood days that they have become part and parcel of our very lives, so that many of us would have been inclined at one time to dispute the very existence of a God as much as to dispute such slanderous misrepresentations of his glorious character.

Let us go back to Jesus' day and in mind place ourselves with those who heard him utter the words of our text and context. The Teacher had just said, "If thy hand offend thee, cut it off—it is better for thee to enter into life maimed, than, having two hands, to go into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched, where their worm dieth not and their fire is not quenched." He said the same in the following verses respecting the foot and the eye. Was he speaking literally or figuratively? Does any sane person suppose to-day that Jesus advised a literal cutting off of a hand or a foot or the plucking out of an eye? Assuredly not. And the person who would follow his counsel in that way would be considered unbalanced in mind. We all recognize what he did mean, namely, that if any who desired to have eternal life found that they had hindrances of appetite or pleasure or what not, as dear to them as an eye, foot, hand, these precious, but disqualifying sins or wrong-doings should be put away—no matter how precious they were—no matter how highly esteemed. By way of contrast the Master suggested that if the retaining of these things would hinder them from entering into life they could not afford to retain them, that even if they were to carry the figure further and suppose that in the future life they would be deprived to the extent of being maimed to all eternity it still would be preferable to them to practice the self-denial now and to enter into life.

Be it noted that the reward here indicated is in the entering into life, and the intimation is that those who fail will not have life at all—that they will fail to attain life; that they will have no eternal life, either in pain or in pleasure. Let us examine our text further and see this.

The word hell in our text is from the Greek word "gehenna," which, in turn, was a corruption of the Hebrew word "geh-hinnon," which signifies "valley of death." There are two other words in the New Testament Greek translated hell in our common version. One of these, "tartarus," has no reference to humanity whatever, but merely signifies our earth's atmosphere—the place where Satan and the fallen angels are restrained in chains of darkness (II. Peter ii, 4). The other Greek word rendered hell in the New Testament is hades, which corresponds exactly to the word rendered hell in the Old Testament, namely sheol. And all scholars know that both of these words signify the same thing. They are used interchangeably in the Scriptures to designate the state or condition of death—the tomb. No person, of even slight education, would for a moment attempt to claim that eternal torment is taught by sheol, hades or tartarus. The great stress of all who teach eternal torment falls, therefore, upon the word hell found in our text—in the original Greek, gehenna.

What we have to say respecting it will undoubtedly be news to but few of this congregation. But since this sermon will be reported in more than seven hundred newspapers of the land, our explanation will probably eventually reach ten million people, to whom the Truth on the subject will be new. What we have to say is not new to educated ministers, however, and why, as pastors, they have keep the sheep of their flock in the dark on the subject is for them to explain. They certainly cannot plead ignorance. At very most they can apologize that they hoped that the misunderstanding would do more good than the truth. They seem to forget entirely that this terrible misunderstanding is not only wrecking the faith of thousands, but dishonoring our Creator—blaspheming his holy name, his holy character, by misrepresenting it and the Divine Plan.

I wish that those of you who have modern Bibles with maps at the back would turn to the map of the City of Jerusalem and there notice on the southwest side of the City, just outside the wall, the Valley of Hinnom. That is the Valley that in brief was called Geh-hinnon, the Greek of which is gehenna. All of our Lord's uses of the word gehenna stand related to that Valley. For the sake of my larger congregation it will be worth while for us to take a glance backward at the history of that Valley during many centuries before Jesus' day.

The first mention of this Valley in the Bible is found in Joshua (xv, 8), where it is given as one of the boundaries of the tribe of Judah, according to the lot cast by Joshua in the division of the land that had come into possession of the Israelities. It is again mentioned similarly in Joshua xviii, 16. The next reference to this Valley is found in II. Kings xxiii, 10. There we read of how Josiah, the good King of Judah, instituted a great reform in the nation and abolished idolatry, one of the most heinous forms of the idolatry having been practiced in this Valley of Hinnom, which had gotten a new name, namely Topheth. History tells us that the Israelites built in this Topheth, the Valley of Hinnom, a great brass image to the heathen god Moloch. In various places they had groves in which a licentious form of worship was enacted and then they resorted to this Valley of Hinnom to offer sacrifice of a most revolting kind to the heathen deity. Sometimes it was a boy and sometimes it was a girl that was placed naked in the arms of the great image after it had been fired to a red heat with fuel piled underneath the image and passing through it as a flue. The cries of these infants so horribly sacrificed were drowned by the cheers of the worshipers and various musical instruments.

All of this, indeed everything akin to suffering, was strictly forbidden by the Divine Law given to Israel. And they had been specially warned against this very form of idolatry (Leviticus xviii, 21; Deuteronomy xviii, 10). It is a gross mistake and slander of the Divine character and Law to suppose that it ever sanctioned torture. And it is a still worse slander upon God to suppose that he would himself do, and that for all eternity, what he condemned in his fallen creatures.

The Lord declares all this through the Prophet Jeremiah (vii, 31-34). Here God particularly forewarned the Israelites that their wrong course would eventuate in the terrible time of trouble which came upon Jerusalem in the year A. D. 70, when it was estimated that over a million died at the siege of Jerusalem. In fulfillment of this prophecy the Jews cast the dead bodies over the wall of Jerusalem into this very Valley. Thus we read, "Behold, the day is come, saith the Lord, that it shall no more be called Topheth, nor, The Valley of the son of Hinnom, but, The Valley of Slaughter; for they shall bury in Topheth till there be no place. And the carcasses of this people shall be meat for the fowls of the heaven, and for the beasts of the earth."

After the reformation made by King Josiah the Valley of Hinnom was desecrated to the intent that it might never afterward be considered fit for any kind of religious worship, sacrifice or ceremony. It became the valley of defilement. It was used at certain times for the burning of the offal and rubbish of the city. It became the dumping place of dead cats and dogs, etc. If any of these fell upon the ledges of the rock, no one thought worth while to interfere, and the maggots and worms destroyed them. Fires also were lighted occasionally to burn the combustible rubbish, and brimstone was added so that the fumes might destroy any malarial tendency, in the interest of the health of the city.

We have before our minds now the gehenna fire which no one ever attempted to quench, but which was designed to consume utterly everything cast into it. We have in mind also the worms of which he spake—worms which were permitted to feed on the carcasses undisturbed until the carcasses were consumed and the worms themselves died. Another item here should be noticed, namely, that a saying amongst the Jews was, Whosoever commits such a misdemeanor will be in danger of going from bad to worse until he will be brought before the tribunal of the Sanhedrin, a culprit. Jesus took the same line of proverbs and declared that anyone violating the Golden Rule to the extent of calling his brother a fool would be in danger eventually of such digression from righteousness as to bring him under sentence of the greater tribunal of Messiah's Kingdom, and, "Whosoever shall say unto his brother, Thou art a fool, shall be in danger of gehenna fire" (Matthew v, 22).

What the Great Teacher meant was that the earthly Jerusalem was a picture or type of the heavenly Jerusalem, which represents the Divine Government or Kingdom—the New Jerusalem which, by and by, will come down to earth—when God's will shall be done on earth as it is done in heaven.

As gehenna lay outside of the wall of Jerusalem, so our Lord intimated there would be an antitypical gehenna outside the New Jerusalem. As the trash and offal of the typical city were consumed in the Valley of Hinnom, so the offal and trash of humanity who will refuse all of God's favors, mercies, blessings and opportunities, will be treated as disgraceful wretches and be consumed, destroyed, in the antitypical gehenna—which is the Second Death. Concerning this antitypical gehenna, the Second Death, we are definitely informed of the characters which will there be destroyed utterly, as Peter says, "as natural brute beasts."

We have a description of this symbolical New Jerusalem or Divine Kingdom (Revelation xxi), composed primarily of the Church, and secondarily of all from the world who, during Messiah's reign, will enter in through its gates and enjoy the blessings of Divine favor and life eternal. And then we read, verse 8, "But the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone, which is the Second Death." Note that this lake of fire and brimstone into which all the offscouring of humanity will be cast is a symbol, and the meaning of the symbol is plainly stated in the words, "Which is the Second Death." The first death passed upon all mankind on account of Father Adam's disobedience. Our Lord Jesus was appointed the Saviour of Adam and his race and gave his life a ransom for all, to rescue all from death, to give to each and every member of Adam's race one full, fair opportunity for a test of loyalty to God and righteousness and to secure life eternal in the New Jerusalem. Contrariwise all who will reject that full opportunity will die the Second Death, from which there will be no redemption, no resurrection, no recovery of any kind.

Thunder and Lightning.

A bishop came to visit a church where a colored minister was presiding. Loudly and with much gesticulation the preacher proclaimed salvation. When he had finished he approached the bishop and asked how he liked the sermon.

The bishop answered, "Why, pretty well, but don't you think you spoke too loud?"

"Well," said the preacher, "it's this way: What I lacks in lightning I tries to make up in thunder."—Ladies' Home Journal.

New Line to Norway.

Christiania, Aug. 29.—The Norwegian-American Steamship Line was established with a capital of $2,800,000. The directors of the new line were authorized to purchase the steamship Kaiser Friedrich of Hamburg, which will be renamed the Lief Erikson.

The proposed line will make possible travel between New York and Norway in less than nine days, instead of 11 as at present.

Runaway Boy Caught.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 29.—The police yesterday picked up Harry Reidman, a 17-year-old ward of the Children's Aid Society, who had run away from a farm near Berlin, where he was employed. He claims his employer did not treat him right.

Mayor Gaynor Goes Home.

New York, Aug. 29.—Mayor Gaynor was removed from St. Mary's Hospital in Hoboken yesterday morning to his country home at St. James, L.I. He bore the trip well, but his insistent plea to be allowed to walk unaided resulted in two distressing incidents. Once he sank to his knees as he tried to enter an automobile, and on the steps of his home, he fell on all fours from over-exertion.

Commenting upon the attempt to assassinate him, he said: "I am content. My great hope is that the event will help to make me a better man and more patient and just."

Holy Ghosters' Vessel Wrecked.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 29.—Elijah Sanford, leader of the Holy Ghosters, and a motley band of fifty followers, are huddled together in a fisherman's shack on Mud Island, a barren spot of land thirty miles off Yarmouth, on the Nova Scotia coast, while their ship, the "Kingdom," is high and dry on the dangerous ledges within gun shot away. There is a great gaping hole in the bow of the craft and she is full of water.

For months past, Sanford has been cruising along the Nova Scotia and New England coasts to escape the authorities, who have been pursuing him in an effort to take off some female passengers, who are said to be unwillingly held on board the craft. For the past few weeks the American authorities have been giving keen chase, and it was in an effort to escape that Sanford pointed his craft eastward on a cruise along the Nova Scotia coast.

During a dense fog early Friday, she struck the rocks.

The Kingdom is a vessel of four hundred and ninety-one tons net, and was built 37 years ago. She was originally a merchantman. At present she has two hundred tons ballast on board. There is no insurance on the vessel.

Gaynor For Governor.

New York, Aug. 29.—A canvass of this state by The New York Times has resulted in findings which that newspaper summarized yesterday as follows:

"So strong and so general is the Gaynor sentiment that it has caused a lull in the discussion of other names which had been mentioned for the leading place on the democratic state ticket. Both in its nature, and in the element among the voters which holds to it, the Gaynor sentiment is closely akin to the feeling for Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Governor Charles E. Hughes, when they were before the people as candidates for office or for a nomination."

Toleration is Needed.

Montreal, Aug. 29.—Mayor Guerin, in attending the laying of the cornerstone of the First Presbyterian Church of Montreal, on Saturday afternoon, gave evidence of a broad Christian spirit.

His worship, who is a Roman Catholic, pointed out the necessity in Montreal of toleration and a brotherly spirit among those professing Christian beliefs. For the eucharistic congress, he bespoke a warm welcome from all classes to the city's many visitors. The remarks of the mayor were loudly applauded.

The new church will unite the congregations of St. Gabriel's and Chalmer's Churches, the former one of the oldest Presbyterian churches in Canada.

Two Killed In Auto Wreck.

Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 29.—Mrs. Edgar A. Emens of this city, wife of Prof. Emens of Syracuse University, and Miss Martha Emens, sister of Prof. Emens, were killed yesterday afternoon, three miles south of Geneva, when a fast express crashed into the rear of the automobile while they were crossing the tracks. Prof. Emens is in a serious condition. The chauffeur was badly bruised.

Greek Not Compulsory.

Oxford, Eng., Aug. 29.—The council of Oxford University, which has been considering certain reforms suggested by Lord Curzon of Kedleston, chancellor of the university, has issued a voluminous report, which recommends that Greek cease to be a compulsory study.

Woman's Sad Death.

Wingham, Aug. 29.—The wife of J. L. Sellers, a prosperous farmer, who lives on the third line of Morris, committed suicide Saturday by hanging herself to one of the apple trees. Mrs. Sellers had been in poor health for some weeks. Her husband on awakening about 4 a.m. missed her and found her lifeless body.

Found Incriminating Letters.

Emden, Aug. 29.—The police yesterday discovered letters in the possession of Brandon and Trench, the alleged British spies, who were arrested at Borkum, Aug. 22 and 23, showing that they had planned to photograph all the fortifications of the North Sea coast. It was also learned that the two men had accomplices.

England Shy of Bacon.

Ottawa, Aug. 29.—Mr. Mussen, Canadian trade commissioner at Leeds, reports a great falling off in the supply of bacon in England. One result is that grocers are inducing people to use breakfast foods. Mr. Mussen thinks there is a good opening for the Canadians manufactures of cereals. Canadian turkeys will as usual be in demand this autumn. There will also be a demand for Canadian honey.

"Queen of the Poor."

The Lady Mayoress of London, Lady Knill, who recently gave a banquet to the archbishops and bishops, is a woman of very religious and charitable sympathies. She is one of the three women in the world who possess the Order of the Holy Sepulchre, given to her for charitable work in the Roman Catholic diocese of Southwark, where she is known as "Queen of the Poor." In connection with her charitable work Lady Knill is rather fond of telling the story of a man to whom she gave a pair of boots. Some days later she met the man again wearing his old ragged pair. "What have you done with the pair I gave you?" she asked him. "Oh," replied the old rascal, unblushingly, "I left them off. These I am wearing are worth ten shillings a day to me."

Turner's Toast.

Turner, the painter, was a ready wit. Once at a dinner of artists and literary men a minor poet, by way of being facetious, proposed as a toast "the health of the painters and glaziers of Great Britain."

The toast was drunk, and Turner, after returning thanks for it, proposed "the health of the British paper stainers."

The laugh was turned against the poet.

Good to the Poor!

A recommendation that "eight old hens be killed and given to the sick and those inmates that do not go out on treat day" has been passed by the Cuckfield (Sussex) Guardians.

HISSES FOR CRIPPEN.

Doctor Arrives at London and Gets a Demonstration.

London, Aug. 29.—Chief Inspector Dew and Sergeant Mitchell of Scotland Yard and two wardresses, with Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve, arrived at Euston Station at 7 o'clock Saturday night from Liverpool.

Three taxicabs were waiting at the station, and the party immediately was driven to the Bow street police station court, where the accused man and women were formally charged with the crime and then placed in cells.

An immense crowd at Euston hissed and booed the party when they emerged from the station, but the police prevented further hostile demonstrations.

Dr. Crippen, who was arrested at Father Point, on the charge of killing his wife, Belle Elmore, in their Hilldrop crescent, London, home, arrived in Liverpool on the Megantic at noon Saturday. Miss Ethel Leneve, who went to Canada with Crippen, and who is also held on the charge of murder, also landed from the steamer. She was in charge of two matrons, who journeyed to Quebec for her.

Crippen displayed extreme nervousness during the last stages of the voyage. Effort was made to keep the celebrated prisoners in their cabins during the day, and few of the Canadian soldiers saw them until the time for disembarkation arrived. As the steamer neared the English shore Dr. Crippen grew excited and showed evidence of fear, the first time since his arrest. Those who attended him on the voyage say that the chief concern now of Scotland Yard is that the alleged murderer may lose his reason.

The man keeps muttering to himself, and his conversation with the guards has been quite incoherent. His moustache has turned white. He has a week's crop of whiskers, which give him an uncouth appearance. He will be closely watched until his case has been disposed of by the courts, for fear that he may be given an opportunity to suicide.

Miss Leneve, on the other hand, appeared quite jaunty when she was escorted down the gangway. She is confident of acquittal. Whether she knows anything of the killing of the Elmore woman is a matter of doubt, though it is believed that if she knows anything she has confided all to Inspector Dew.

Roberts Wins Big Prize.

Ottawa, Aug. 29.—The most successful meet in the history of the D.R.A. came to a close on Saturday, with the piece de resistance, the Governor-General's match, when the 150 riflemen who had qualified in the first stage fought out for the big money. The weather was fine, but a light wind was a little tricky and was puzzling to the less experienced shots. The first honor, a particularly handsome gold medal, went to Corpl. Roberts of the 10th Regiment, this being the first big event he has won. In doing so he showed considerable nerve, as at his last shot at a thousand yards he required a bull's-eye to win, and some one unkindly reminded him of it. He was perfectly steady, however, and got the desired five points. St. Catharines, with Major McLaren, 10th Regiment, had the honor of winning second place, and Pte. W. Short, G.G.F.G., carried off third place for Ottawa. Between the Guards, 43rd and C.A.S.C. the capital city riflemen have six on the Bisley team, and carried off a lot of money.

The Grand Aggregate was won by Color-Sergt. Freeborn of the 13th with a score of 358. Staff-Sergt. P. Armstrong was second, Lieut. Morris third, Pte. Clifford fourth, and Lieut. Roberts fifth.

Strike for Closed Shop.

New York, Aug. 29.—Parades of protest broke out all over the east side Saturday afternoon, on receipt of the news that Justice Goff had ruled in the State Supreme Court that a strike to enforce the closed shop involves a conspiracy in restraint of trade.

Bands of the 60,000 cloakmakers, now on strike, marched through the streets, one of them to the City Hall, carrying banners and American flags, and shouting "Closed shop" at every step. There was no violence, but unrest and anger were everywhere visible among the strikers.

Premier at Nelson.

Nelson, B.C., Aug. 29.—Nelson received Sir Wilfrid Laurier Saturday night with enthusiastic acclaim—church bells rang, bands played whistles shrilled, torches flared, rockets shot heavenward, the streets were canopied with electric illuminations, while business houses and residences were hung with colored Chinese lanterns. A procession was formed, and the Premier, addressing the cheering crowd from a carriage at midnight, expressed appreciation of the magnificent reception accorded.

Owen Sound Progressing.

Owen Sound, Aug. 29.—With very little opposition the shipbuilding and furniture factory bylaws were carried Saturday. The first authorizes the bonusing of a million dollar project to the extent of $50,000 and the investment of a corresponding amount in stock in the concern. The undertaking is being financed otherwise in Great Britain by a prominent engineer, who has been identified with the largest shipbuilding and engineering projects on the Tyne and other marine centres.

The Quick Work Of The Fire Brigade Averted A Very Serious Conflagration

A. W. Cressman's Departmental Store Visited by a Destructive Blaze—Short Circuit Caused by Live Wire Coming in Contact with Steam Pipe—Stores to North and South affected by Smoke.

DAMAGE TO BUILDING $500

A fire which broke out at Mr. A. W. Cressman's departmental store on George street yesterday morning, without a doubt, had it had a few minutes longer to play havoc with the inflammable goods, would have done an immense amount of damage to the business section of the city. Fortunately, however, by the prompt action of the fire brigade, the building was saved from being reduced to ashes. At 9.55 an alarm was sent to the fire station from Box 23, situated at the corner of George and Hunter streets, and exactly three minutes and forty seconds after the alarm was sent in, Acting Chief Grange with thirteen men, had the hose in the building. When the chief arrived at the scene of conflagration he immediately applied his apparatus for opening the doors to give access to the interior, but while engaged in this, the plate glass in the entrance of a middle door, where the bulk of the fire was centred, overhead and in the south window, broke with the heat of the flames. Two streams of hose were ready for use, but one was all that was used to put the flames under control ,after which four chemicals were used.

The fire is supposed to have been caused by a wire, which had the insulation eaten off it, coming in contact with a steam pipe, thus resulting in a short circuit. The electric light wires run from the basement of the store to the first flat back of the front window, north of the middle entrance. Running alongside the wires is a steam pipe, which played a most important part in the destruction of a great deal of valuable goods. As soon as the fire escaped from the wires it lodged near a case of ribbons, and within a few minutes smoke was issuing freely through the windows and the fire was gaining ground, going back quarter way in the store and leaving fire stains on the ceiling. The largest window, which is below the centre entrance, was completely gutted and its drapes and window displays destroyed. The mirrors at the background are in fragments, while the frames of the small stained glass placed above the mirrors are the only things that remain to show the value of the once rich looking fixtures in the building, which is estimated at five hundred dollars. A large amount of stock has been practically ruined by the fire, little being damaged by water, as great precaution was taken by Chief Grange to save, if possible, every article. Considerable smoke easily found its way upstairs where the stock was saturated with it. The firemen on their hands and knees reached the front windows of the second store and opened them, allowing the black clouds of smoke to escape.

The smoke gained admittance to the premises of Mr. Robt. Fair, and even penetrated as far as Grafton's Considerable damage was done to goods in Mr. Fair's store. Mr. Fair was notified concerning the fire, between eleven and twelve o'clock yesterday and on paying a visit to his premises he found the smoke had made its way through the second floor and to the upper apartments. He was unable to estimate the damage caused.

Grafton's store and Schneider's jewellery store, on the north, also received some damage from smoke.

SUDDEN DEATH

"Mother Help Me" Exclaimed Woodstock Girl as she dropped dead

WOODSTOCK, AUG. 29. — Marjorie Shoebotham, aged nineteen and very popular here, walked into her mother's room between three and four o'clock this morning, and exclaiming "Mother, help me," dropped dead.

COBALT STOCKS

Attention is directed to the announcement in issue of Aug. 27, of J. M. Wallace, mining broker, 42 King Street West, Toronto. Mr. Wallace is well and favourably known as one of the leading mining stock brokers in Toronto. His experience since the opening of the Cobalt district has been very extensive, both his advice and co-operation being eagerly sought after by many of those who are interested in mining property.

Mr. Wallace in his announcement states that during the past few months he has refrained from advising his clients to purchase Cobalt stocks, not only on account of outside liquidation, but because the public were inclined to frown on any Cobalt enterprise, utterly regardless of any intrinsic value it might possess.

Mr. Wallace now believes that the time has arrived when the Cobalt stock list may be reconsidered and dealt in with considerable profit by the investor.

FOUND BODY BENEATH THE FLOOR OF A GARAGE

Pint Marion, Pa., Aug. 27.—Buried under the floor of the automobile garage of W. L. Harvey, the body of Frank Ringle, 54, a well-to-do man, who disappeared August 16, was found to-day. Ringle's head had been crushed with a blunt instrument. The authorities declare he was murdered.

Suspicions that Ringle met with foul play were raised in Harvey's mind yesterday, he says, when he found blood spots on the floor.

Harvey had occasion to go beneath the floor of the garage to-day to lay a small pipe line. He noticed that the earth had been loosened, and in brushing away the earth he came to a human hand. Harvey at once secured aid, and the body of Ringle was disinterred.

One hundred dollars Ringle was known to have had when he disappeared was missing.

Ringle was superintendent of Harvey's automobile business, and was formerly associated in business with him.

The detectives are searching for a former employe of the garage.

SHOOTS WIFE, TURNS WEAPON ON HIMSELF

"End of Thirty-seven Years of Unhappiness" Reads Note in Pocket of Murderer and Suicide---Accused Wife of Drunkenness and Other Crimes.

Special to The Examiner.

LONDON, ONT., AUG. 29.—Gustave Market, a chef, aged about 60, shot and killed his wife this morning, then turned revolver and killed himself, at the home, 10 Robert street. The police found in the pockets of the murderer and suicide a note which stated that this was the end of thirty-seven years of unhappiness. He accused his wife of drunkenness and other crimes. Two daughters survive.

LAKEFIELD PEOPLE COMPLAIN OF THEIR TRAIN SERVICE

Board of Trade Takes up the Matter at a Busy Session--- Portland Cement Company Affairs and Water-Front Improvements are also Discussed.

Special to The Examiner:

Lakefield, Aug. 29.—A well attended and very important meeting of the Lakefield Board of Trade was held in the Town Hall on Friday evening, August 26th.

The first matter to come before the Board was the G.T.R. train service. It was the unanimous opinion of the Board that the service now given, is extremely unsatisfactory to the citizens of the village and not at all such as they have the right to expect in view of the very large and profitable traffic done by the G.T.R. over this part of their system.

The secretary of the Transportation Committee was instructed to communicate with the officials of the road requesting them to give such a service as would enable a person to go from Lakefield to Toronto and return the same day. Examples were given of other places, not so important as Lakefield and at a greater distance from Toronto, whose citizens were able to make the return trip in one day. W. B. Harvey was made a member of the Transportation Committee.

The next question discussed was the closing of the Cement Works. The Lakefield Portland Cement Co., notwithstanding the fact that the village has given them a very heavy bonus and exemption from taxation, have kept their factory closed during the whole season and there is no evidence to show that they intend ever to open it again. People of Lakefield believe this is on the face of it, a very gross breach of faith on the part of the company. No one in his senses could be made to believe that the taxpayers of the village would ever have voted such an exceedingly liberal aid to the company if they had not had good reason to believe that the works were to be of a permanent character, with a view of ascertaining whether the company cannot be compelled to continue here the manufacture of cement or to return the bonus given them. The Manufacturers Committee and the village solicitor were instructed to look into the contract between the Company and the Village and take such action as they may deem expedient to remove this grievance.

Then ensued a spirited and interesting but not acrimonious debate on matters connected with the Water front of the village and some of the speeches were very good indeed. In this debate one thing came out clearly. No matter how the members of the Board or the citizens generally may differ as to the best means of obtaining their object, all are united as one man as to the value of the water front as an asset of the village. All are agreed as to the desirability, even necessity of keeping the entire front free from obstruction and of making it as beautiful as possible. It transpired in discussion that the whole front is not under the control of the village but that the part of it lying between Water street and Concession street is under the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government. It came out very clearly too that, when the government looked over this part of the street, Mr. McClellan, on their behalf agreed to keep it free from obstructions of every kind. A resolution was passed to the effect that the Board was desirous of co-operating with the village Council in taking such steps as may be found necessary to secure the carrying out of this agreement.

The Secretary stated that he had received a communication from Mr. Seiman, stating that his company intend to start building operations very shortly with a sufficient force to complete the factory in a very short time.

SCENE AT TORONTO EXHIBITION.

THE LOCAL BOY SCOUTS PATROL FOR TORONTO

Twenty-four Well Trained Youngsters Will Represent Peterborough at the Big Review

ARE ENTHUSIASTIC

Peterborough will be represented at the great gathering of Boy Scouts in Toronto, to be reviewed by General Baden Powell, the founder of the movement, by twenty-four bright athletic and well-trained youngsters, who will be a good advertisement for the city. There are two patrols of Boy Scouts in Peterborough known as the Peewits and the Beavers. They have amalgamated into one patrol for the Toronto trip and have been drilling faithfully under the direction of their instructor, Mr. D. Oscar Waring. The boys had their final drill this afternoon and showed that they had paid careful attention to their instructions. The boys are wild with delight over the visit to Toronto and if the other Scouts of Ontario are as enthusiastic, the beloved "B. P." will get a great reception. The local patrol will leave on the 5.26 C.P.R. train to-morrow morning.

STREET CAR CRASHES OVER THE PAVEMENT

Pedestrian and two Passengers Injured in Exciting Accident at Montreal.

JUMPED FROM RAILS

Special Wire to the Examiner.

Montreal, Aug. 29.—Several people had miraculous escapes, several were injured and an immense amount of excitement caused through a street car accident this morning. A car coming along at a good speed suddenly jumped the rails and ploughed across the road over the pavement and finally ended up by crashing into a store at the corner of the street. Jack Clement, who was passing at the time was struck by the car as it crossed the pavement and was slightly injured. Two passengers, N. E. Smart and Stanley Ponting were badly shaken up as a result of the shock, but got away with only slight injuries. There were several very slight escapes.

GETTING READY FOR EXTENSIVE DISPLAY

Messrs James Campbell, Reginald, and Webber Turner have been busy in Toronto for the past few days erecting tents and making ready their extensive display of camping outfits, which are widely known throughout Canada, for the exhibition.

For the past five years the J. J. Turner & Sons' factory has been most successful in the competitions, winning five first prizes. Every year Mr. Turner presents a new stock of goods at the fair, which captures a prize, and he is living in hopes of carrying off another this year. Besides the large number of tents which are erected for the purpose of show, many have been rented in the Exhibition grounds, for use there; even more than at any other fair in the history of their business, the dining tents are practically all tents from the J. J. Turner firm. The people of Peterborough, Toronto, and all the surrounding cities are cordially invited to visit their sitting tent, which will be set apart for visitors, who wish an explanation concerning the equipments. The tent will be known by a flag twenty-one feet long, which floats

PRINCIPALS IN CRIPPEN CASE ARRAIGNED TO-DAY

Appeared Before Magistrate This Morning ---It is Suggested That Miss Leneve will turn King's Evidence---Crippen's Remorse as Indicated by a Postal Card Communication.

Special Wire to the Examiner.

LONDON, ENG., AUG. 29. — Dr. Crippen and Ethel Leneve, charged with the murder of Mrs. Crippen, were arraigned before Magistrate Marsham this morning and were formally remanded till the sixth of September. Both were cheerful. There is an additional charge against the typist, or harbouring, assisting and maintaining Crippen. The suggestion here is that she will turn King's evidence. An immense crowd clamoured for admission and nearly swept away the police guard.

Crippen in Remorse.

During the preliminary examination of Inspector Dew in court this morning he produced a card on which the prisoner had written this to Miss Leneve: "I can't stand the horror through which I have gone every night any longer, and I have made up my mind to jump overboard to-night." The note fell into the hands of the police, who immediately clapped Crippen in irons, fearing his carrying out of the suicide threat. Crippen also wrote asking Miss Leneve's forgiveness for spoiling her life. They pleaded to be allowed to see each other on shipboard and Dew permitted it on the understanding that they were not to converse. On the return to jail today Miss Leneve was allowed to see her father.

Took Part In A Concert On The S. S. Laurentic

A private letter, dated Montreal, was received in the city from Mr. Geo. K. Martin, stating that Mr. Martin, Mrs. Martin, Miss Kathleen Martin and Miss Jean Jackson have returned to Canada from a tour in the Old Country. The three latter reached the city this morning and Mr. Martin will be here at the end of the week. The letter enclosed a programme of the usual concert in aid of the Seamen's charities, held on the steamer "Laurentic" on Aug. 26, at which the largest sum ever realized by one of these concerts was added to the funds. Mr. Martin was chairman, on this occasion, as well as on a similar concert on the outward trip of the Laurentic, and Miss Kathleen Martin's name appears as vocalist, on the programme, in the song "Fairies."

FLOWER SUNDAY AT THE PARK STREET CHURCH

Yesterday was Flower Sunday at the Park Street Baptist Church. It was very elaborately decorated for the occasion with cut flowers. A large cross, enveloped by beautiful flowers stood behind the minister's pulpit, while the table and all around the altar was gorgeously decorated with roses and flowers of various kinds.

Rev. Mr. Riddiford read a passage from the eighteenth chapter of St. Matthew and in a short speech, introduced Dr. Middleton, who very ably and interestingly addressed the children.

The ceremony was exclusively for the children, and they occupied the front seats of the church. The choir was also composed of children with a few of the regular members to assist them. The children took their part in the singing admirably.

Dr. Middleton, in his talk to the children, brought out many points of value, to both old and young. He talked to them of their every-day duties, their bad thoughts and good thoughts, bad actions and good actions, and many little habits and ways characteristic of small children. He pointed out the advisability of being good, of being kind, both in deed and thought, and assured them that if they would make it a point to do a kind action to some person every day they would be very happy.

By way of illustration Dr. Middleton compared the building of children's lives to the building of a house, having five blocks, representing respectively—thought, action, habit, character and destiny. He said: "If we do not build our blocks straight, our house will fall down—just the same in life. If we have bad thoughts, do bad actions, acquire bad habits, and have a bad character, then our destiny is wreck and everlasting death."

"There are numerous little habits," the speaker said, "which we acquire, which are almost sure to lead us to sin and death, such as smoking cigarettes, skipping school, telling lies, disobeying God's laws generally. Such people as do these things need have a very vague hope for the future—for the life to come."

Dr. Middleton also went on to say that it is a terrible mistake for people to think that children are too young to be Christians and live up to God's commandments. They can be Christians and go to church just as older people do.

He ended up by saying that if we all do right and live up to God's commandments, we will live a life of everlasting happiness in the life to come.

After the sermon Mrs. (Dr.) Middleton sang a solo which was enjoyed by all. The service was well attended and was enjoyed to the full by all present.

MAN'S INHUMANITY.

There would be fewer girls go wrong if they had the courage and resources of an English girl in New York, who adopted man's clothing in order to avoid the vile attentions of vile men. She possessed the fatal gift of personal attraction and being compelled to earn her own living in various capacities was naturally beset with odious attentions of men—odious to a straight-going girl, because the attentions she received were palpably sinister. It is a terrible comment on the inmate vileness of many men that they regard every unprotected girl as legitimate spoil. It is also a terrible comment on modern civilization and Christianity that girls have to hide their sex to escape the prowling of these beasts of prey. It is also a lesson to discontented girls, who wearying of the virtuous routine of quiet homes or seized with the mania for finery or "having a good time", seek satisfaction in large cities where "pleasures may be like poppies spread," but where the traps and pitfalls for the guileless are far more thickly spread. There is no shelter more secure than the home, humble as it may be. There is no place more dangerous to the young girl than unprotected residence in a great city. For one that succeeds and wins an honest way there are a thousand that fail—that succumb to the temptations besetting poverty, tread the primrose way and after a life of shame, fill a grave in the potter's field or are drawn from the slimy ooze of a "black-flowing river" to recall Hood's immortal song, "one more unfortunate." Man's inhumanity to man may be bad, but man's inhumanity to women is infinitely worse.

UNOBJECTIONABLE MILITARISM.

With the stock objections urged against militarism by the peace propogandists, most of the sensible members of society are in sympathy. It is easy to spend too much money on pretentious display that may not mean real efficiency for any serious purpose whatsoever. It is quite different with forms and practises of military discipline which cost just what is necessary to spend on them, and which are of unquestionable benefit to those who receive as the result of the outlay a good physical training along with much pleasant outdoor recreation.

No one has any better title to speak with authority on this subject than Lieutenant-Governor Gibson has, because he has devoted to it a highly trained intelligence and a long practical experience. In a recent interview he spoke highly of the value of the "cadet" movement in Canada on two grounds: That the individual cadet secures a god physical training and that he learns to shoot with a rifle at a target.

Military drill has long been regarded by experts as a useful means of straightening bent human frames, of improving the circulation of the blood, of expanding the lungs, and of bettering the digestive process. Mr. Gibson is quite right in his opinion that the training is for these purposes more effective in early life than it is in later years. Military drill is more valuable as a preventive than as a restorative.

Practice with the military rifle is one of the finest of out-door recreations. It is not necessary to subject oneself to military drill in order to enjoy it. The Department of Militia has made provision for the organization of rifle clubs, the members of which may always remain civilians. Shooting at a target with a rifle exercises the muscles, the nerves, the sight, and the whole body taken together. It is a kind of practice that may be made light or severe at the will of him who practises it. And, best of all, every member of a rifle club has it his option to be a gentleman among gentlemen. There is no inducement to practise drinking alcoholic liquors, or even to smoke tobacco, for each of these is calculated to affect injuriously the conditions of the nerves.

For purposes of military defence a country can have no better reliance than a large number of good marksmen scattered throughout the community. This was definitely proved by the South African war. The Boers, comparatively few in number, were able to prolong the war for many months just because they were expert sharp shooters and good riders. For all practical purposes they invented "mounted infantry" for themselves. In Col. Gibson's opinion, practice with a fixed target is the most effective kind. The cadet gets by it what is required in the way of physical training, and if he ever needs to be able to hit a moving target he can secure time enough to get the necessary preliminary practice.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Authorities state that the United States wheat crop of 1910 is 80 million bushels short of the yield of last year. Therefore, the people of the United States cannot consistently point to a shortage of the wheat crop in the Canadian Northwest as an indication of the undesirability of the country for settlement.

Some of our Yankee friends are busy writing Canada down; but we shan't mind that much, so long as thousands of ex-Yankee farmers are busy building Canada up. The saying that a Yankee knows a good thing when he sees it is illustrated by the friendly invasion of the Canadian West by farmers from over the border.

The Brantford Expositor remarks that—

Following the escape of Moir and Taggart from the Hamilton Asylum comes the announcement of previous attempts of like character at that institution, as well as of an escape from the London Asylum. There ought to be "something doing" among asylum officials when Mr. Hanna returns from his present trip to the West.

Hon. Mr. Hanna will perhaps not be surprised. The exploitation of a high office in the form of appointment from partizan purposes or reasons, cannot be expected to yield the best results.

By a vote of 220 to 35 the General Conference of the Methodist Church in Canada at Victoria, B.C., adopted the report of the committee recommending union of the Presbyterian, Congregational, and Methodist churches. The project of church union has been an academic question for years. Meanwhile there have been scores of industrial, financial and commercial mergers, but the church merger seems to be only in the first stage of progress towards consummation. It is a big question; a matter that must necessarily be one of experimentation; and it is no surprise that the most potent, grave, and reverend seniors of the churches lasten gently.

Local option movements would be needless if everyone understod that REGAL Lager benefits but does not intoxicate. It quenches thirst delightfully, makes the appetite healthy and aids digestion. Good at meals.

THE CONDITION OF THE CROPS IN THE PROVINCE; THE OFFICIAL REPOPT

The following statement regarding the condition of crops in the Province, based upon returns of correspondents under date of August 15th, has been issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall Wheat.

Fall wheat may be classed as a good crop, although more shrunken grain is reported than in any of the last two or three years, attributed largely to the dry weather when filling. From several localities come reports of smut in Dawson's Golden Chaff, but only a little rust is complained of. In some of the western and central counties hail storms did considerable injury to the growing crop in strips and patches, and the other crops also suffered from this cause. But despite these various drawbacks the average yield of fall wheat, as reported, will be high. The straw was of better length than in more recent years, and stood up well, there being much less lodging than in the case of the spring grains. Several correspondents state that the crop was particularly good on summer fallow. Odd mention only was made of injury from insect pests, such as Hessian fly, white grub, midge, and wire-worm. Harvesting ranged from the 8th of July to the end of the month.

Spring Wheat.

This class of wheat is steadily going out of favour in Ontario, and where grown it is confined chiefly to the "Goose" variety. The yields per acre vary much, but will give a fair average.

Barley.

This crop will be a good one, generally speaking, although conflicting reports have been received even from the same localities. The straw was clean and bright, as a rule, but it was rather short, and a considerbale portion of it was lodged owing to heavy winds and rains. While the grain is generally described as being plump and of good average yield there are some reports of discoloration; but as most of the barley is fed to live stock this is not now regarded as a serious drawback. The crop is cut comparatively early in a few cases before fall wheat.

Oats.

This crop was so badly knocked down by rain storms that a considerable portion of it could be cut only one way by the binder. Some correspondents complain of the uneven ripening of the grain, owing to the "lodging". In most localities the straw was short but clean and bright, only a little smut or rust being reported. The bulk of the returns speak of the heads as being well filled and the grain as plump, and on the whole, crop will be a satisfactory one. Insects did but little injury. Harvesting spread from the last week of July to the middle of August.

Rye.

This crop is not largely grown for grain in this Province, but where raised it has done well as a whole this season, although individual returns show a wide range of yield.

Peas.

The pea crop has been rather disappointing, although in some cases remarkably good yields have been reported. The crop did not get a good start in the spring, owing to too much rain, and the dry, hot weather at blossoming prevented satisfactory podding. While the weevil was but little complained of, the presence of a green aphis was reported in most parts of the Province, which appears to have checked the vigour of the growing vines, more especially those later sown, and as a result the straw is not so long or leafy as usual. Harvesting began early in August, but when correspondents wrote about the middle of the month considerable of the pea crop remained to be pulled.

Beans.

Beans were only in blossom, or just podding, when most of our correspondents wrote, and at that time prospects were considered fair, but later reports were to the effect that while the plants were making a large spread they were not podding very well. Rainy weather, at a critical time, was given as the chief cause of the injury to the crop. Prospective harvesting was variously placed at from the 1st to the 15th of September.

Hay and Clover.

This is relatively the best crop of the season, and it would have been even better but for close feeding on pastures last fall. In almost every instance new seeding did much better than old meadows. Most of the cut was housed in good condition. Clover was remarkably free from midge, and as the second crop was looking well when correspondents wrote the prospects for a good crop of clover seed were regarded as excellent. Most of the hay was cut in the first or second week of July, but some late fields had to stand over on account of grain harvesting. Correspondents speak of alfalfa as having made a splendid growth this season.

Corn.

The corn crop got off to a bad start, the weather turning cold and wet just after planting, rotting some of the seed. Complaints of inferior seed are also common. For these two reasons there was a great lack of germination and considerable corn land had to be more or less replanted. Crows, blackbirds, and grubs also did injury to the young corn. More recent weather, however, has favoured the crop, and it was making a rapid and promising growth when correspondents wrote.

Tobacco.

While a few promising fields of tobacco are reported, the bulk of the crop is rather backward in growth, and uneven in appearance and yield. The early part of the seasor was unfavourable to growth, and consequently much of the planting had to be done late. There are reports of damage by hail, and grubs and other insects also did injury. However, the crop was picking up with the advaneing season.

Potatoes.

Early planted potatoes suffered from drouth and will yield lightly, but those planted late will give a fair return. The Colorado potato beetle has been present in unsually large numbers in nearly every section of the Province. So far only slight mention has been made of rot.

Roots.

The weather, at sowing, was rather dry for roots, and turnips especially suffered from the poor germination of seed. A good deal of turnip land had to be resown and some was finally plowed up. The crop was not looking up to the average as to condition, as reports came in. Mangels have done much better than turnips, and are regarded as most promising. The few reports concerning sugar beets are also favourable.

Fruit.

"A poor fruit year" summarizes the general situation. It has been an off season with apples especially, more particularly in the case of desirable winter varieties, and the quality of much of the fruit now remaining on the trees is not up to the standard. Wet and cold weather when the young apples were setting is given as the chief cause of the remarkably light yield. Plums have borne unevenly—from poor to good—according to the degree of spraying practised. Pears are doing better than apples, although not giving a full yield, and grapes give fair promise. Strawberries suffered from drouth when maturing, which prevented best results. Other small fruits are yielding moderately.

Pastures and Live Stock.

Pastures have been in fair condition all season, and were very promising as correspondents reported. Live stock of all classes have been remarkably free from disease. In most of the beef raising counties there will be a shortage of steers, and dairy cows are also fewer than in more recent years. Prices for both beef and dairy products have been most encouraging to farmers. Taking the season as a whole the milk flow has been a good one, for, while it went down a little during the midsummer period it has recovered nicely, and for the time of year is considered to be excellent. The chief handicap to the comfort of cattle has been the presence in large numbers of the horn-fly. In some of the St. Lawrence counties several cheese factories are shipping cream to the state of New York and are also extracting the casein from the skim-milk. Fodder supplies promise to be abundant; and live stock owners will meet the winter with good prospects for the keep of their animals.

THE LOCAL BUSINESS MEN OFFER GOOD PRIZES

Keen Interest is Being Taken in the Penman Games---Seats are now on Sale at the Y. M. C. A.---Record Crowd will be Present.

That the interest in the Penman Athletic meet to be held Labour Day under the auspices of the local association, is increasing, is evident by the interest being taken by local merchants and business men. Lindsay have asked that a section of the grand stand be reserved for the crowd from that town, which is being done.

That local interest is being awakened is shown by the handsome donations made by the following gentlemen: Hon. J. R. Stratton has presented a handsome gold ring for the first prize in the 5 mile open event. There are four other handsome prizes in this event.

Alderman R. Hicks has kindly consented to present a handsome gold medal for the 100 yards City Championship, Mr. P. Campbell, Alderman Gillespie and Mr. W. E. Mowry have kindly donated silver medals for the different events.

With a fine grounds like we have at Riverside Park, and most of Canada's leading athletes competing, and if the weather man will give us a good day, Peterborough citizens should see one of the best athletic programmes of the year.

Tickets are now on sale, the general admission will be 25 cents, grand stand 10c. extra, and a block of seats will be reserved at 20 cents in the grand stand, so that you can get your choice of seats by consulting the plan at the Y. M. C. A. and avoid any rush on the day of the games.

WEST ENDS MEET DEFEAT AT HANDS OF LINDSAY NINE

Manilla Pitcher had too Many Benders---Found it Hard to Meet him---Infield for Local Team Played Good Ball---Pitchers Arm Gave way---Numerous Kicks Registered.

Those, who availed themselves of going to Lindsay with the West End Baseball Club on Saturday afternoon witnessed a good game of ball between the Peterborough bunch and the Lindsay nine, at the Agricultural Park, but unfortunately the big side of the score remained with Peterborough's rivals. The score, 6-5, shows that some practical ball was exhibited and out of it the West Ends had their share. The Lindsay bunch, greatly assisted by Keslick, of Manilla in the pitching box, played active ball and showed excellent form. The Manilla pitcher was there with the eye, arm and head, and during the game struck out thirteen men, among whom were some of this city's choice. In the seventh innings Rose's arm gave out and Minorgan took the box. Up to this innings Rose shot them over the pan in fine style, having the Lindsay boys at sea on some of his fine dips. The downfall of the game is attributed to several bad errors made throughout the field. For the infield of the local team, Konold, O'Brien and Minorgan couldn't be improved on and the latter especially gave forth some fine plays, pulling in risky looking grounder. Konold batted with a fine eye, obtaining three hits. Langdon for the winners sampled three hits out of four times at bat.

The "ump" Dick Buffler, might have dealt out a few better decisions than he did. Twice he allowed J. Spratt, 3b., to run in the crowd and obtain home without the infielders having a chance of seeing him.

With the exception of this mistake, which cost the West Ends runs, he was satisfactory.

The following is the game by innings:

1st Innings.

West Ends—Konold leading off, was hit and stode second. Dickie followed with a dribbler down to third. Konold was out leading off third. Dickie went to second and took the next pillow when O'Brien hit and counted the first score of the game on a passed ball. O'Brien connected with a batted ball and was out at second. One run.

Lindsay—Cain flew out to Dickie, Jack Spratt struck out, Langdon walked and Bigelow fanned.

2nd Innings.

Brydie and Hefferman failed to connect, McFadden was hit and was safe at second on a wide heave from the catcher. Minorgan missed three.

McMahon grounded out, Minorgan to O'Brien, Thompson died Giroux to first and on Pete Spratt's bounder, Minorgan got away with the first classy play when he made a left-handed stab and retired the runner at first.

3rd Innings.

Rose hit and went to second on another wide throw to Langdon. Konold sent him to third, from where he scored on a passed ball. Konold went across, when Dickie singled. O'Brien hit to short for a double.—2 runs.

Higginbotham went out by the Konold-O'Brien route, McFadden missed the third strike on Keslick, but got him on first. Minorgan fumbled Cain's grounder and the runner was safe and again at second on Doc's wide throw. J. Spratt's hit sent Cain to third, but Brydie stopped likely looking tallies by getting under Langdon's fly to right.

4th Innings.

Brydie was safe when McMahon forgot to cover the bag on the throw from Langdon and the play to second from Hefferman's grounder didn't work. McFadden added another hit and Brydie was caught at third on a quick throw from the catcher. Minorgan struck out. Rose singled over second, Hefferman counting and McFadden was safe on a mixup at the plate on a throw from first, after Konold hit. Konold was out at second.—2 runs.

Bigelow walked and was caught at the middle pillow on the play from Minorgan off McMahon's grounder, Thompson was out, pitcher to first. McMahon went to second and had a good lead on when Pete Spratt doubled. He scored and Higginbotham grounded out to Konold.—1 run.

5th Innings.

West End went out in order, Dickie and O'Brien striking out and Giroux flying to left.

Konold nailed Keslick on a pretty throw off his grounder, and Cain couldn't beat the Giroux-O'Brien combination. J. Spratt found a hole at short and went to second on a letaway by McMahon. Langdon connected safely, Spratt taking third. Bigelow was out Rose to O'Brien.

6th Innings.

Keslick now had the visitors in hand and as in the previous innings, only three faced him. They came too fast and crooked for Brydie, Hefferman and McFadden, the latter getting the only chance, when the third strike was dropped, but his time was too slow.

McMahon was an easy out, Rose to first. Thompson walked and stole second. Pete Spratt's contribution let him down to third and he scored on Higginbotham's hit. Keslick struck out.—One run.

7th Innings.

Minorgan and Rose were easy outs at first on grounders. Konold doubled and took third. Dickie was a victim at first.

Cain hit and went to second, Jack Spratt sent one to right and Guerin who had replayed Brydie, sent a wild heave to the plate to get Cain, who scored, Langdon singled and Spratt went home. The throw in got away threw to Rose and he to Konold, who got Langdon on the line. Bigelow walked and took second. McMahon and Thompson fanned.—2 runs.

8th Innings.

O'Brien and Giroux struck out. Guerin was passed and Heffernan grounded to McMahon. Heff dropped P. Spratt's high fly to centre. Higginbotham singled. Minorgan replaced Rose in the box. Keslick grounded out, Cain lifted one to Heffernan, who doubled Higginbotham.

9th Innings.

McFadden grounded out, pitcher to first. Cain dropped the third strike on the next two batters, Minorgan and Rose, but threw them out at first.

Jack Spratt was safe when Giroux got mixed up with his grounder, and he went to second and then third on Langdon's hit. Bigelow drove a hard one at Dickie, who threw to get Spratt who had cut around the line of rooters. McFadden touched the runner, but the decision of the umpide was that Spratt was safe. The score was tied, and Langdon came in with the winning run after McMahon's hit. Minorgan touched Bigelow in a moment of bewilderment, coming for home after going behind the plate for the ball and the game was called.

C.G.E. VS. ST. JAMES' CLUB—FOOTBALL MATCH

After a hard and fast game, which went the regulation ninety minutes, the C. G. E. emerged victors by the odd goal in three. St. James' won the toss and Captain Gribb set the home team to face the wind and sun. Play was even for some time and some pretty forward work was shown by the C. G. E., whose outside left was very conspicuous with several tricky runs, only to be pulled up by Gribb, who was playing a fine game. The C. G. E. kept the pressure up, but Gribb, with a splendid clearance sent the St. James' forwards going, Ralton sending in a shot, which was cleared by Carlton.

Unfortunately Ralton twisted his knee and soon after had to leave the field. The C. G. E. took advantage of this, and a partial clearance let in Evans, who beat Hull with a beautiful shot, giving the C. G. E. the lead. Midfield play followed, both sets of half-backs holding the forwards well and finally Gribb secured the ball, and made a fine run, sending the ball across to Irvin, who banged at the goal. The Edison custodian was on the alert, and fisted the ball out, but Irvin again secured, passed neatly to Elliott, who shot right through the goal, placing St. James' on level terms. Both sides were glad to hear the whistle for half-time, and the ten minutes' interval was very welcome.

On resuming, the Edison forwards got well into their stride, and time after time made tracks for the St. James' goal, severely testing "Big Bill" with long shots, which he stopped in grand style. The St. James' defence was very severely tested, but the halves were playing a great game, Gerrard, in particular, watching French, the Edison flyer, who had no chance to put in any of his runs, which were so frequently seen last season. The outside left of the C. G. E. received the ball well on the line, and flew down the field, and on being tackled by Gribb, passed to his partner, who beat "Big Bill" with a lightning shot. St. James' tried hard to equalize. Elliott worked very hard and was well backed up by Irvin, Barritt, Turner and Morgan, but the C. G. E. defence was too strong, and when the whistle blew the score was 2-1 in favour of the C. G. E.

St. James' are a new club, this being their second match, and, by giving the Edison such a close game they have proved themselves a club to be reckoned with. They have plenty of dates open and the Secretary, Mr. F. Howarth, of 37 Jackson avenue, will be glad to hear from any other clubs, who would like a game.

BASEBALL

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Your Saturday evening edition certainly gave our peerless aggregation of pill manipulators a saucy slam. Under the heading 'Are They Afraid?' you insinuated that we were affected with a comfortable strip of saffron. Now, the facts are as follows: The Indian Village team defeated the Bridgenorth team on the former's grounds, and some days later came back for a return argument. In the second game the Indians had a slight lead and when they saw Bridgenorth boys creeping up they (the Indians) quit cold. Understand, Mr. Editor, they quit, quit, quit. That word is pretty hard, but it is the only one which adequately describes the case. They quit (pardon the repetition) and took to their canoes in undue and unsportsmanlike haste, vowing they would n'er return to Bridgenorth.

Now, the Chemong Park Club had a pretty fair bunch, everything considered, and in its games with Bridgenorth demonstrated that they had at least as good a team as the latter. Fleet runners were sent to the reserve to arrange a game. In the first game we played at the village we trimmed the Indians 4-3. They came back a week later and defeated us by one run. Now, you say we were defeated twice. Somebody handed you a little hot air, Mr. Editor and I wish you would explain. I might also state that in both games with the Indians they threatened to quit. In all justice to them I must say they have made progress, but that "quit" characteristic sticks out of almost every one of their anatomies in huge bunches.

As regards the game they expected us to play them yesterday (Friday), no definite understanding was reached. When they came to the park a couple of weeks ago in response to an urgent request for a third game they were decidedly indefinite. Our ball team was simply crazy to get another crack at the Chemong Village team, but we were told by a couple of apparently responsible supporters of the Indians that their team had disbanded. Consequently, we did not go.

We will play the Indians any day next week, one or two games, as they please, or any grounds they please, and under any conditions they please for fun or for a trophy. Now, Mr. Chemong Village man, talk up and don't accuse a real ball team of quitting.

EDSON

ALBERTA

THE COMING CITY OF WESTERN CANADA

And One of the Most Important Divisional Points on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway

The Coming Railway, Manufacturing, Mining, Agricultural, Coal and Commercial Centre of Western Canada

is a very important divisional point on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. All railway lines are divided into divisions. The C. P. R. has among many others, its Central Division, Prairie Division, Mountain Division and Pacific Division, and has created such cities as Fort William, Winnipeg, Calgary, Revelstoke and Vancouver. The Prairie Division of the C. P. R. begins at Winnipeg and ends at Calgary.

The prairie division of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway begins at Winnipeg and ends at EDSON. Calgary to-day is a large and prosperous city of some forty thousand (40,000) population. Ten years ago Calgary was rarely heard of. EDSON being equally situated on the railway lines to Calgary, is destined to become as great a city as Calgary.

Unequalled Farm Lands

North of EDSON

is situated the grand "prairie country" of the PEACE RIVER, which is known far and wide as the last available stretches of unbroken prairie farm lands. The railroad will be built into this country from EDSON at an early date. This alone will necessitate EDSON becoming one of the important manufacturing and distributing points of the West and will add untold thousands of property values.

Extensive Coal Fields near EDSON

South of EDSON about 30 miles are situated very valuable and extensive coal deposits. Mining corporations are investing large sums in developing this wonderful district, and the railroad will be built from EDSON to the mines if possible this year. The Yellowhead Coal Company are investing large sums just south of the city in developing their mines and hold contracts from the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway for their general supply of coal for that district.

Wonderful Timber Belt

West and northwest of EDSON are to be found vast timber areas, and as the facilities for transportation and power are unexcelled, EDSON will become the chief lumbering city of that part of the West. A sawmill is now being built just north of the city.

EDSON Has Great Assets

which will make it one of the greatest cities in Western Canada

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway are now building round houses, shops, etc., at EDSON, and besides being a western terminus of the prairie division, it is also the eastern terminus of the mountain division, and eventually will be as great, if not a greater, divisional point than Calgary.

BUSINESS HOUSES, BANKS, MANUFACTURERS, ETC.

have locations already purchased in EDSON and considerable building is now going on. Capitalists are evincing keen interest in this new coming western city of EDSON.

EDSON'S RAPID GROWTH

We predict that EDSON with its many natural resources and advantages, will become a city of thousands within a very short time and lots bought to-day in EDSON will be selling at several times the present price in a short time. The time to buy lots in EDSON is now.

Ten years ago business and residential lots could be bought in Calgary at prices ranging from $50 to $200, and the selfsame lots have sold since for $5,000 and up to $20,000. Now, if EDSON'S location is equal to that of Calgary, what better assurance would you want for a safe investment of your money? A few years will see EDSON property values equal to those of Calgary.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN TO YOU?

It means nothing, unless you participate in the profits, and you can do this only by buying real estate in this young and vigorous western Canadian city. The time to buy is when the new city has passed through a seasoning stage, where it is in a performative period with its natural resources and strategical position assure the building up of a big city.

These few facts are sufficient to convince the most sceptical of the immense possibilities of the great future growth of EDSON and it will only be a matter of a few weeks until the choice lots and locations will be bought up by the men who not only thought but acted quickly.

DID PRAYER DO IT?

(Toronto Star)

A resident of Whitby has written a rather remarkable letter to the Star. Without pronouncing upon it one way or the other, the Star gives it to the public:

Mr. Editor,—I, as a Christian subscriber, wish you to print the following: I dug one hill, medium size, of my potatoes, and to my surprise I got 135 fine potatoes out of it. Ever since I planted the potatoes on April 4th, I have earnestly prayed the Lord to bless all my handiwork, and even perform a miracle on me if He saw fit. So it appears he has performed a miracle for me all right. I affirm the above to be the solid truth, as I dug the potatoes and counted them. Some I tell of it call me a liar because I tell the truth. God is my witness, I dare not lie.

The communication is respectfully referred to the religious and agricultural press. Most people, however, will continue to be satisfied with fewer potatoes per hill than they grow in Whitby.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron.

Supose you were about to cross a little bridge which, although you did not know it, was rotten and would have given away beneath you, and let you fall into the river and drown.

And suppose, just as you came near the bridge, you should fall and break your arm and turn back and not try to cross the bridge.

Wouldn't you have been fortunate rather than unfortunate?

What does all that mean?

It just means that I want to suggest a new point of view, that has recently come to me, upon an old matter.

And the old matter is the seeming injustice of it that for "the sin that they do by two and two" each equally to blame, and more likely the man more than the woman, the man goes apparently unpunished while the woman bears all the consequences.

Not long ago it was my duty to talk to a woman who was brought into the public interest by an unsuccessful attempt to lose in the city street the little baby that should never have come to her.

This girl absolutely refused to tell the name of the baby's father and let him suffer even the small portion of disgrace that the world's opinion allots to the man.

I went home from that talk bitter against the injustice to it all, and then I began to wonder if I and the rest of us who see things that way aren't a a bit shortsighted.

Isn't it better to break one's arm than to go on over the bridge and fall into the river?

Isn't immediate punishment oftentimes a blessing?

I know a man who can't drink a single glass of whiskey without being desperately nauseated. When he was a boy of about nineteen he drifted in with a very fast crowd. And this inability to drink without immediate suffering, which he naturally regarded as a great misfortune, was his salvation.

I know a woman who can't offend the laws of health in the slightest degree without having an intensely sick headache. The natural result is that she is very careful not to overeat or overwork or undersleep or do any of the things that bring this swift and terrible retribution.

She doesn't think so, but isn't she really more fortunate than those of us who go on offending for half a lifetime unrebuked and then are finally obliged to pay up our arrears of carelessness by months or even years of suffering and dependence?

Then, are thing so very much worse for our sex after all?

The woman learns a cruelly searing but perhaps life saving lesson.

The man sees only the attractive exterior of his offense, and not the white sepulchre for soul and body and life and ambition and happiness, that may lie beneath.

Who can dare to say that instead of being "Mary, pity women," it ought rather to be, "Mary, pity men."?

Ruth Cameron

"THE PILLAR OF LIGHT"

By Louis Tracey, (Copyrighted)

He shipped a pair of oars, and, with two vigorous sweeps, impelled the derelict away from the charnel-house atmosphere which evidently clung to it.

Then the shark engaged his attention. It was floating belly upwards, its white under-skin glistening in the sunlight. Two long gashes were revealed, one transverse, the other lengthwise, proving how coolly and scientifically Brand had done his work. An occasional spasm revealed that life was not yet extinct, but the furtive attack of a dogfish, attracted by the scent of blood, which stirs alike the denizens of air, land and ocean, was unresisted.

The rower stood up again, drove a boat-hook into the cruel jaws, and lashed the stock to a thorl-pin with a piece of cordage. This accomplished to his satisfaction, he looked towards the Gulf Rock for the first time since he drew the knife from its sheath, gave a cheery hand-wave to the shouting pair on the balcony, and settled down to pull the recovered craft close to the rock.

Jim closed the telescope with a snap.

"He heaved the dead man overboard," he announced, "so there's a live one under the sail."

"Why do you think that?" said Jones, whose nerves were badly shaken.

"Well, you saw what happened to the other poor devil. Either him or the cap'n had to go. It 'ud be the same if there was a funeral wanted aft. Them there birds— But come along, boss. Let's give him a hand."

They hurried down to the iron-barred entrance. Jones shot outward a small crane fitted with a winch, in case it might be needed, whilst the sailor climbed to the narrow platform of rock into which the base-blocks of the lighthouse were sunk and bolted.

Affording but little superficial space at low water, there was now not an inch to spare. Here, at sea-level, the Atlantic swell, even in calm weather, rendered landing or boarding a boat a matter of activity. At this stage of the tide each wave lapped some portion of the granite atones and receded quickly down the slope of the weed-covered rock.

The gulls and cormorants, filling the air with raucous cries were rustling in rapid flight in the wake of the boat, darting ever and anon at the water or making daring pecks at the floating carcass.

Soon Brand glanced over his shoulder to measure his distance. With the ease of a practised oarsman he turned his craft to bring her stern on to the landing-place.

"Lower a basket!" he cried to Jones, and, whilst the others wondered what the urgency in his voice betokened, there reached them the deep strong blast of a steam-whistle, blown four times in quick succession.

Each and all, they had forgotten the Princess Royal. She was close in, much nearer than mail steamers usually ventured.

At first they gazed at her with surprise, Brand even suspending his manoeuvres for a moment. Then Jim, knowing that a steamship trumpets the same note to express all sorts of emotion, understood that the officers had witnessed a good deal, if not all, that had taken place, and were offering their congratulations.

"Blow away, my hearties!" crowed Jim, vainly apostrophizing the vessel. "You'll have somethin' to crack about when you go ashore to-night, or I'm very much mistaken. Now, cap'n," he went on, "take the cover off. It's alive, I suppose. Is it a man or a woman?"

CHAPTER II.

A CHRISTENING.

Brand was slow to answer. For one thing he was exhausted. Refreshing as the long swim was after a night of lonely vigil, itself the culmination of two days of hard work, the fierce battle with the shark had shocked into active existence the reserve of latent energy which every healthy animal unconsciously hoards for life-and-death emergencies.

But there was another reason. He had scarce gained the comparative safety of the boat before he was, in the same instant, horrified and astounded to a degree hitherto beyond his experience. Not even the stiff pull of two hundred yards sufficed to restore his senses. So Jim's question fell on his ears with the meaningless sound of the steamer's siren.

"What is it, mate?" repeated his fellow-keeper, more insistently. "You ain't hurt anyways, are you?"

"It's a baby," said Brand, in a curiously vacant way.

"A baby!" shrieked Jones, stretched out over the crane above their heads.

"A what-a?" roared the sailor, whose crudely developed nervous system was not proof against the jar of incredulity induced by this statement. Had Brand said "a tiger," he could not have exhibited greater concern.

"Yes, a baby—and it is living. I heard it cry," murmured the other, sitting down rather suddenly.

Indeed, a faint wail, suggestive of a kitten, now came from beneath the tumbled canvas quite near to Jim. But the Royal Navy does not encourage neurosis. The lighthouse-keeper felt that a minor crisis had arrived. It must be dealt with promptly.

The evil odour which still adhered to the boat told him that Brand had exchanged one Inferno for another, when he clambered out of the reach of the blindly vengeful shark.

He looked up to Jones.

"Lower away," he said, promptly. "Swing the derrick until I grab the tackle, and then hoist me aboard."

This was done. Ungainly in his walk, owing to his wounded limb, Jim clinging to a rope, had the easy activity of a squirrel.

"Now, lower a jug with some brandy. He's bead beat," he added.

Whilst Jones hastened for the spirit, the sailor stopped and threw back the sail.

Lying in the bottom of the boat, wrapped in a blanket which unavailing struggles had rumpled into a roll beneath the arms, was an infant, whose precise age it was impossible to estimate forthwith owing to the emaciated condition of its body.

With the rocking of the boat, the foul bilge-water washed around the child's limbs and back. Instinct alone had saved it from drowning. Perhaps during the first hours of vigour after abandonment, the little one might have rolled over in infantile search for food and human tendance, but the rush of salt water into eyes and mouth must have driven the tiny sufferer to seek instantly the only position in which life was possible.

So far as the man could judge in a first hasty glance, the child's clothing was of excellent quality. Yet he gave slight heed to such considerations. Jim was the father of three lusty youngsters who were snugly in bed in Penzance, and the sight of this forlorn sea-waif made his eyes misty.

He reached down, unpinned the blanket, which was secured with a brooch, and lifted the infant out of its unpleasing environment. It was piteous to see the way in which the shrunken hands at once strove to clasp his wrists, though they were all too feeble to achieve more than a gentle clutch which relaxed almost as soon as the effort was made.

Jones, also a husband and father, bethought him when he reached the store-room. Hence, when the windlass lowered a basket, there was not only a supply of brandy within, but also a bottle of fresh milk, which reached the Gulf Rock, by arrangement with a fisherman whenever weather permitted.

Jim handed the jug to his exhausted companion.

"Here, cap'n," he said, cheerfully. "Take a couple of mouthfuls of this. It'll warm the cockles of your heart. An' the sooner you shin up the ladder and get them soaked rags off you the better. Can you manage? It's a near thing for the kid, if not too late now."

Brand needed no second bidding. He did not wish to collapse utterly, and the soft breeze, rendered chilly by his wet garments, had revived him somewhat.

The resourceful sailor did not attempt the foolish process of pouring even the smallest quantity of milk into the baby's mouth. He produced a handkerchief, steeped a twisted corner in the milk, and placed it between the parched, saltblackened lips.

This rough expedient for a feeding bottle served admirably. The child's eagerness to gulp in the life-giving fluid was only matched by the tender care of the sailor in his efforts to appease its ravenous hunger.

He was so intent on this urgent task that for a little while he paid no heed to Brand. Jones, forty feet overhead, took the keenest interest in the baby's nurture.

"Mind you don't let it suck the handkerchief into its little throat," he cried. "Not too much, Jim. It's on'y a young 'un. 'Half milk, half water, an' a lump of sugar,' my missus says. Pore little dear! However did it come to live, when that man must ha' bin dead for days? Now, Jim,, slow an' sure is the motter. S'pose you shove it into the basket an' let me hoist it up here? A warm bath an' a blanket is the next best thing to milk an' water."

"All right, skipper. Just hold on a bit. She's doin' fine."

"Is it a he or a she "

"I dunna. But I guess it's a gal by the duds."

The baby, in the sheer joy of living again, uttered a gurgling cry, a compound of milk, happiness and pain.

"There! I told you!" shouted Jones angrily. "You think every kid is a hardy young savage like your own. You're overdoin' it, I say."

"Overdoin' wot?" demanded the sailor. "You don't know who you're talkin' to. Why, when I was on the West Coast, I reared two week-old monkeys this way."

Soon these firm friends would have quarreled—so unbounded was their anxiety to rescue the fluttering existence of the tiny atom of humanity so miraculously snatched from the perils of the sea.

But Stephen Brand's dominant personality was rapidly recovering its normal state.

"Jim," he said, "Mr. Jones is right. The child must be made comfortable. Her skin is raw and her eyes sore with inflammation. The little food she has already obtained will suffice for a few minutes. Send her up."

The "Mr. Jones" was a gentle reminder of authority. No further protest was raised, save by the infant when supplies were temporarily withheld, and Jones was too pleased that his opinion should be supported by Brand to give another thought to his subord[illegible] outburst.

"N[illegible] to the rock," said Brand [illegible] dress and rejoin you quickly. [illegible] boat must be thoroughly examined and swabbed out: Jones will signal for help. Meanwhile, you might moor her tightly. When the tide falls she will be left high and dry."

The sailor's momentary annoyance fled. There was much to be done, and no time should be wasted in disputes concerning baby culture.

"Sure you won't slip?" he asked, as Stephen caught hold of the ladder.

"No, no. It was not fatigue but sickness which overcame me. The brandy has settled that."

Up he went, as though returning from his customary morning dip.

"By jingo, he's a plucked 'un," murmured Jim, admiringly. "He ought to be a skipper of a battleship, instead of housemaid of a rock-light. Dash them seacrows! I do hate 'em."

He seized an oar and lunged so hard and true at a cormorant which was investigating the shark's liver, that he knocked the bird a yard through the air. Discomfited, it retired, with a scream. Its companion darted to the vacant site and pecked industriously. The neighbourhood of the rock was now alive with seagulls. In the water many varieties of finny shapes were darting to and fro in great excitement. Jim laughed.

"They'd keep me busy," he growled. "When all's said an' done, it's their nater, an' they can't help it."

Unconscious that he had stated the primordial thesis, he left the foragers alone. Hauling the sail out of the water, he discovered that the sternboard was missing, broken off probably when the mast fell. His trained scrutiny soon solved a puzzle suggested by the state of the cordage. Under ordinary conditions, the upper part of the mast would either have carried the sail clean away with it or be found acting as a sort of sea-anchor at a short distance from the boat.

But it had gone altogether, and the strands of the sail-rope were bitten, not torn, asunder. The shark had striven to pull the boat under by tugging at the wreckage.

Having made the canvas ship-shape Jim settled the next pressing question by seizing an empty tin and sluicing the fore part. Then he passed a rope under the after thwart and reeved it through a ring-bolt in a rock placed there for mooring purposes in very calm weather like the present.

Eczema On Head and Arm

Four Doctors Failed After Fair Trial—Cure fffected by DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

The average physician is helpless in the presence of skin diseases such as eczema and salt rheum. Some make the mistake of treating eczema as a blood disease and advise internal treatment. Others think only relief is possible and recommend a lotion to afford relief from the itching.

By far the most successful treatment for eczema is the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment. You can verify this statement by enquiring of any druggist. This letter is a fair sample of what we are receiving about every day.

Mr. Geo. Peterson, South Bay, Ont., writes: "I wish to communicate to you the great benefit I received from using Dr. Chase's Ointment. For years I suffered with a skin disease on my head, a sort of eczema. I tried four doctors, giving each a fair trial, but got no better. In fact, the disease spread to my left arm.

"I saw Dr. Chase's Ointment advertised and began using it. Persistent use of this treatment has entirely cured me and I give you a statement of my case with pleasure as I hope thereby to induce some other sufferer to try the same Dr. Chase's Ointment."

There is a wonderful satisfaction in using Dr. Chase's Ointment for you can see from day to day just what results are being accomplished. 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson Bates & Co., Toronto.

EXPORT BUTTER SITUATION

From Farm and Dairy.

S. W. McLagan, Mgr. Director, Lovell & Christmas, Montreal

Chief elements of difference in the butter trade this year as compared with last year, are the increase of production and the increased demand from the North-west provinces. There is little difference in the values, prices to-day ranging from 21¼ cents to 22½ cents a lb. to the creameries. This is a quarter of a cent a lb. higher than those prevailing a year ago.

The receipts this year from April 1st have amounted to 256,236 packages, compared with about 226,707 packages for the same period last year, indicating an increase of production of 29,529 packages. This amount would have been increased by at least

The chief elements of difference in these articles were sent to C. H. 25,000 were it not for the heavy shipments of cream whch have been made throughout this season to the United States from the Townships adjacent to the Intercolonial line. These shipments last year did not commence until about the middle of August.

INCREASE DUE TO CLIMATIC CONDITIONS

The increased production this year is entirely due to climatic conditions which have permitted of the production of abundance of fodder for cattle. It cannot be attributed to an increase in the number of cows carried or to any greater energy on the part of our farming community. This year the grass and hay crop in these provinces, particularly in the province of Quebec, has been very luxuriant, much more so than for several years past.

Conditions this year prove how much our dairy products could be increased by increasing the production of cattle food through improved and more industrious farming. The greater part of the increase in production took place during May and June. There has been practically no increase during July and so far in August. This is to be attributed mainly to a tendency to increase the exportation of cream and to less favorable natural conditions for maintaining the flow of milk.

OUTLOOK FAVORABLE

The outlook for the balance of the season is very favorable for abundance of forage and for a plentiful supply of winter feed. We ought to have a large flow of milk for the balance of the season. This will not mean a seriously increased production of butter however, as the tendency is still to increase the shipment of cream to the United States, whilst the local consumption in country towns of milk and butter is also on the increase. With abundance of winter fodder however, we ought to have a large production of butter during the early winter months than we have had for the last three years.

Separate Coats

Are to be Extremely Smart This Fall

This season the stylish, serviceable Separate Coat will be strongly in favour. No Garment ever had more practical value to back up an extremely attractive appearance. New models on display at this Store are distinctly smart although mainly conservative in design. They have been developed in materials of exceptionally fine quality, showing all the latest weaves and colourings.

Expert tailoring is evidenced in the superior cut and finish of the Garments. Their lines are graceful, accentuating the slenderness of the figure which is the newest Autumn style note. Even in the most minute detail they show care and skill in construction. They were made by master craftsmen and represent thorough excellence of quality.

The Woman seeking a Stylish, satisfactory Fall Outer Garment cannot do better than to choose one of these splendid Coats.

EXPORT CREAM PROPOSITION

From Farm and Dairy.

P. E. Cogland, Huntingdon Co., Que.

The export cream phase of the dairy business has recently developed into a large trade, and up to the present time has been a great benefit to the farmers and factorymen who went into the proposition.

In the case of the factorymen, there is a saving on boxes, bandages, rennet, color, etc. He can do with less help, as all he has to do is separate his cream and cool it. It is then taken from his door by team to be hauled to some central creamery across the line and churned. In some cases the factorymen are hauling the cream themselves, and are paid so much a trip by the patrons for doing this work. This plan is mostly followed when the patron is paying so much a pound to have his butter manufactured at the central creamery.

When the cream is taken from the door of the factory by the central creamery it is either bought by the pound of fat, or by the gallon for a certain per cent. of cream; the price paid in this district for fat is about one cent under Boston or New York butter prices, the importer paying all his expenses and making his profit out of this one cent and the over-run, which they figure out at 13 per cent. They use more salt and leave more moisture in the butter than we do for the English market.

THE PATRONS PROFITS.

This figures out for the patrons about as follows: If the New York butter price is 29 cts, the price per lb. butter fat would be 28 cts. With three cents for manufacturing, this nets the patron 25 cts a lb. of fat. With milk testing 3.6 per cent., this means 90 cts. a cwt., with the skim milk back. In the case when they are buying cream by the gallon they have a flat rate for five months of $1.00 a gallon of 40 per cent. cream, which nets the patron about 90 cts. a cwt. of 3.6 per cent milk.

The cream is all skimmed to test over 40 per cent.—as near 50 per cent as possible. This helps to lower the expense of hauling; also the duty. With 50 per cent. cream, the duty only amounts to about one cent a lb. of butter.

These prices compare with the prices of our Canadian market about as follows: Butter at 23 cts. a lb. equals 26 cts. a lb. fat. Taking three cents for manufacturing this leaves 23 cts. for the patron per lb. of fat, or 82.8 cts. a cwt. of milk—a gain of over seven cents a cwt. on present prices. At present prices, cheese will not pay over 85 cts. a cwt, and one gets only whey back to feed stock.

It is safe to estimate that there is exported daily 160,000 lbs. of milk from the county of Huntingdon alone into the United States. This, at a premium of only seven cents a cwt. means $112.00 a day, or over $3,300 a month of gain to the farmers who are patronizing creameries which are shipping cream across the line.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY

KEENE, AUG. 27.—The following are the minutes of the meeting of the Otonabee Agricultural Society, held in the Council Chamber, Friday evening, Aug. 26th:

The President, Mr. Robert Humphries, occupied the chair.

The minutes of the last Directors' meeting were read by the Secretary, Mr. Andrew Shearer, and, on motion of John Lang, seconded by John Miller, the minutes, as read, were adopted.

The correspondence, re the Field Crop competition, was read by the Secretary and discussed.

The following judges and officials were appointed:

Horses—An expert judge will be furnished by the Department of Agriculture.

Cattle—M. Walsh, J. Byers, and John Telford.

Sheep anid pigs—James Wood, H. Garbutt, and T. Brackenridge.

Poultry—Robert Hope and H. J. Miller.

Grain—L. J. Squair.

Fruit and Roots—Alex. Watts, Warsaw, and Mr. Baker, Warkworth.

Bread—J. L. Squair.

Domestic Manufactures and Fine Arts: judges to be provided by Mr. J. Miller.

Ladies' Work—Mrs. Richard Birdsall, Mrs. L. J. Squair, Peterborough, and Mrs. John Smith, Peterborough.

Dairy Products—George Gillespie, Peterborough.

Ticket Office—J. R. McIntyre and J. C. Read.

Gate—R. J. Stewart.

Hall entrance—Roland Weir.

Inside Constable—H. Fletcher.

Outside Constables—James McFarlane, J. Bishop, and P. Roach.

William Drummond, John Lang and W. J. Miller were appointed to superintend the mowing of the grounds, the erection of the Judges' stand, and the laying out of the show ring.

On motion of Wm. Drummond, seconded by John Lang, it was decided to advertize for tenders for the renting of the small field in the northwest corner of the society's property, for the last four years leased by Mr. William Drummond, tenders to be put into the hands of the Secretary before October 1st. The lease will be made to run for five years and the lessee will have the option of putting up a new fence or leasing the old fence for 25 cents per annum.

It was also decided to have large cards set out with the names of the different varieties of fruit to enable the exhibitors to place the exhibits of fruit in their proper places on the fruit tables.

A meeting of the directors will be held on the fair grounds on the Monday afternoon preceding the fair to make final arrangements.

THE END OF THE SEASON IN SIGHT AT STONY LAKE

This Week Will see a big Exodus Although Many will Wait Until After Labour Day to put the Shutters on Their Summer Homes.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Stony Lake, Aug. 29.—The end of the Stony Lake season is almost at hand. Already the shutters have gone up on some of the cottages, although the majority of the summer homes will remain tenanted until after Labour Day. The necessity of having the children back for the opening of school is responsible for the exodus; otherwise a great many people would remain during September, really the nicest month of the year here. The Peterborough schools open on Tuesday, Sept. 6, which is the reason that Peterborough will be invaded during the coming week with a lot of vigorous Indian-hued boys and girls, brown as berries, who have been reluctantly compelled to exchange the joys of the simple life for a world in which school books reign supreme and boots and stockings are necessary evils. Although the season is so far advanced, Dame Nature is very carefully concealing the fact. If there were no calendars she would undoubtedly be successful for never have the islands of the shores looked so green and inviting at such a late period as they do at the present time. There has been such an unusually large amount of rain during the present month that Old Sol has been thwarted in his favourite August pastime of burning up the grass and the herbage is as green as in leafy June. The trees have not begun to turn yet; not even the Sumach always the first to surrender to the invading influences of Autumn. In a few days, however, this sensitive tree will be decked out in all its gay finery and the green of the shore line will be broken by patches of red and crimson, a little later to be mixed with yellow as other trees confess the coming of cooler weather.

The cottages have had a taste of autumn weather already. Following the intense heat of the first part of the week, came a storm on Thursday night which had a sudden and appreciable effect upon the atmosphere and Friday morning was considerably on the chilly side.

The "Stoney Lake" on the evening trip on Saturday brought the usual week end contingent, although the crowd was not as large as earlier in the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Gladman and family of Peterborough, who have been spending the summer at "Bright side" are closing their cottage to-morrow.

Miss Ella Cunningham of Toronto, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Mitchell, "Sunny Side" for a couple of weeks has returned to her home in Toronto.

Miss Ruby Sharpe of Peterborough, who has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. J. D. Craig for the past week returned home to-day.

Miss Daisy Conroy of Peterborough, is spending a week at Kawartha Park.

Mr. Rupert Donnell, of Detroit, formerly of Peterborough, is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Donnel at 'Kilkenny."

Mr. F. D. McKay, of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company was the guest of His Worship, Mayor Morrow at "Oakdene" for the week-end.

Mr. W. Logan Craig, editor of the Credit Valley Review, came up to his cottage on Saturday night.

Mr. Allan Cameron spent the week-end at "Syndicate".

Police Magistrate Dumble was at "Ballyraggit" over Sunday.

Mr. D. H. Moore was one of the Stoney Lake's passengers Saturday night. He spent Sunday at his cottage.

Mr. E. B. Clegg, of Peterborough, was a week-end visitor at the lake.

Mr. Paul Trebilcock spent Sunday at the lake, the guest of Mr. Will Cochrane, at "Crown Point".

Mr. E. T. Carr, of the Quaker Oats Company office staff was at "Crown Point" for the week-end.

Mr. B. Shortly was at his cottage over Sunday.

THE EXCURSION TO LINDSAY SATURDAY

The West End Athletic Club closed a most successful summer season in their society by running an excursion to Lindsay on Saturday last. A large number took in the outing and received a most enjoyable time, a special train being run from this city at one-thirty. The predominating feature of the day was the baseball game, which is described on the sporting page.

Those who didn't see the match put in their time surveying the many new buildings which are at present under construction. The older people of the excursion watched with interest the paving of William street, hoping to be soon able to watch the laying of one in Peterborough.

A much tired but pleased crwod returned home on the regular trains.

LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, AUG. 29.—Mr. R. A. Gray, M.A., principal of Malvern High School, Toronto, passed through the village on Thursday last on his way to visit Professor Michael and Mrs. Mackenzie at Loch End, Stony Lake.

Miss F. Roberts and Miss Phyllis Cumberland were in Fraserville on Tuesday last.

Miss Florence Atwood spent a few days last week at Gore's Landing, Rice Lake.

Professor Montgomery, of Trinity College, Toronto, who with his wife and son have been spending the past two weeks in the village, returned to Toronto on Thursday last.

Mrs. Chamberlain left last week to visit her daughter, Mrs. Dunn, at "Dunlogie," Stony Lake.

Mr. Lye of Edward Lye and Sons, Toronto, was in the village on Friday last.

Miss Landerville, who, owing to ill health, has been obliged to give up her position in R. Graham and Son's establishment, where she has been employed for the past four years, left for Toronto on Friday last.

Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, Mrs. Mackenzie and family, returned home on Saturday last after spending the past week at Stony Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Lingwood, who have been spending the summer at Lakefield and Stony Lake, left on Friday last for their home in Toronto.

Our villagers think that some measure of praise is due to Capt. Chas. Gray, of the Lintonia, for his conduct on the occasion of the drowning accident at the Wolfe street wharf last week. Capt. Gray, unreservedly and without a moment's hesitation, turned all his passengers over to a rival boat and exerted all his energies in the search of the drowned lad. The Peterborough papers gave him no ere dit whatever in the matter. As the fatality was in no way due to him, his action was all the more praiseworthy.

Mr. R. N. Stuart, Misses Dorothy and Marion, of Young's Point, were in the village on Friday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Watson and family, returned home on Wednesday last after spending six weeks at Stony Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hilliard left on Monday on a water trip to Orillia and vicinity.

Mrs. Winch and Mrs. Rush, of Peterborough, were guests of Rev. F. J. and Mrs. Sawers at the rectory on Friday last.

Miss K. S. Atwood left on Monday to spend two weeks in Toronto and Millbrook.

Mr. James Mahood, who has been attending the funeral of his nephew, Mr. Harold Fitzgerald, in Ohio, has returned home.

Mrs. H. Myton, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. E. R. Tate, left on Monday for her home at Regina, Sask.

Mr. O. A. Langley is having a verandah built which, when completed, will greatly improve the appearance of his residence.

Mr. A. W. Mackenzie and Mrs. Hewitt, were in Toronto on Monday.

FOR PRIZE WINNERS

From Farm and Dairy.

ing ground for lovers of Ayrshires.

R. H. Harding, Middlesex Co., Ont.

To be a successful feeder and fitter of prize winners at our great exhibitions and world's fairs in any line of live stock requires considerable patience and tact on the part of the stockman. Perhaps no class of stock requires more of these qualities on the part of the attendant than does the hog. And for this reason: The well fed hog is sure to get lazy and consequently will not take the exercise that is required to keep him supple and alert.

It is one thing to feed a bunch of hogs for slaughter and quite another thing to fit them for prize winners. I might go further and say it is one thing to be able to fit a herd well yet it is quite another thing to intelligently tell others how to do it, as in all work of fitting animals there is a constant watchfulness necessary that cannot well be explained.

The first thing necessary is to get the best foundation stock possible (after selecting the breed or breeds of one's choice). Breed these so as to have pigs as near the age limit at fair time as possible. Then select the straightest and smoothest pigs in the litters, keeping in view length of side specially among the thicker breeds because the ten in order to keep their feet and legs in good shape; the best of feeding is a failure if the pigs are allowed to go down on their feet. Green feed such as alfalfa or rape should also be kept regularly before the pigs. If it is not convenient to pasture them in it the green stuff should be thrown into their plot where they can get it. If plenty of shade cannot be supplied throughout the whole summer they should be kept in a shady place for a few weeks prior to the fairs, so that their skins will not be sunburned, harsh and scurfy, but on the contrary be mellow and pliable.

Last, but not least, don't get the pigs too fat. Anyone can fatten a hog, but it takes an expert to bring them out well developed, finished and smooth, without undue flabbiness.

HASTINGS ITEMS OF INTEAEST

HASTINGS, AUG. 27.—The Ladies' Aid and Sunday school of the Methodist church of this village ran an excursion to Peterborough per steamer "Rainbow" on Tuesday 23rd. A large crowd left the wharf shortl yafter 7 a. m. arriving in the city about 11.30. After spending a few pleasant hours loing up the city, the party embarked for the homeward journey. The day was quite pleasant and all on board were thorroughly delighted with the sail. Refreshments were served on board.

Rev. Gee Andrews occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church on Sunday at both services and delivered two thoughtful addresses, which were much appreciated.

Miss Mary McKee is spending a holiday in and around Chemong.

A lawn social, under the auspices of the Presbyterian church, was held on the church lawn on Monday evening. A good crowd was in attendance and a very enjoyable evening spent. The proceeds were in favour of the Ladies' Aid.

Rev. Mr. McLaren preached in the Presbyterian church here on Sunday last in the absence of the pastor, Rev. D. A. Thompson.

Mr. M. Elmhirst was in Havelock last week attending the funeral of Mr. A. Elmhirst, who wa saccidentally killed there.

The Misses. Wilson, of Edinburgh, Scotland, are visiting friends in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Collins and daughter, of Scranton, Pa., are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Collins.

Mrs. Brisboes and daughter of Peterborough, are spending a few weeks visiting friends in Hastings.

Mr. Walter Carter, of Otonabee, was in this section last week.

Miss Flo and Mr. R. Williamson, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Oakman.

Miss Libbie Steele, of Belleville, formerly of Hastings, is renewing old acquaintances here, the guest of Miss Willena Fife.

Miss Mabel Andrews, of Norwood, was in town on Sunday.

Miss Myrtle Hess has returned after a three weeks' visit with friends out of town.

Mr. Ross, of Dummer, was in town on Sunday.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Tate is confined to her home through illness.

We are pleased to say that Mrs. J. H. Hess is some what better in health.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Laing, of Norwood, and Miss Ellen Beavis, of Peterborough, were in town on Tuesday.

The steamer "Rainbow" on returning from Peterborough one evening recently, was unfortunate enough to stick fast on a rock, which had been raised in the channel through blasting. After sending her load to shore in small boats, she was pushed off and finally reached the dock in safety.

Mrs. Bingham and Mrs. Wilson took a trip to Peterborough on Tuesday.

Dr. and Mrs. Edmison were in Peterborough last week.

KEEPING FARM CLEAR OF NOXIOUS WEEDS

From Farm and Dairy.

Under the present legislation in Ontario it is impossible for good farmers to keep their land free from noxious weeds. Some weeds can be kept off the farm by proper care in the buying of seed and by proper cultivation. There are many weeds, however, over the distribution of which the farmer has little if any control. Seeds of the perennial sow thistle and of the Canada thistle are carried long distances by wind. Hence the farm of one slovenly farmer in a district may be a constant source of contamination to the farms of all his neighbors.

The best way to solve this problem is by cooperation among all the farmers in a district for the eradication of such weeds. But some farmers cannot be induced to join in such a movement. To meet this exigency legislation is necessary. It is not right that the sloth and indifference of one man should be allowed to interfere with the prosperity of his neighbors.

There is a law in Ontario which pretends to deal with these cases. But it is not satisfactory. One man in a neighborhood is appointed by his neighbors to control the spread of noxious weeds. Often he is not independent. Independent inspectors appointed by the Provincial government, inspectors who are well acquainted with all our weeds and having certain parts of the province assigned to them as in the case of our dairy inspectors, is the proper way to deal with this evil.

The rapid gains that thistles are making all through the Province indicates the necessity of some stringent system of inspection.

A ROOSTING HOUSE

From Farm and Dairy.

S. Short, Carleton Co., Ont.

Provision should be made, if possible, for the laying stock to roost out of doors during the summer by erecting a skeleton roosting house which is simply a roof of four uprights to keep off the rain. Roosting quarters of this kind are much less likely to be infested with red mites and other vermin than the closed stuffy winter houses. Where this cannot be done, the windows should be taken out and the doors taken off and wire-netting windows and doors substituted. Should the mites put in an appearance, any of the numerous insecticides for applying to the roosts will be effective. If these are not available, coal oil appied to the under sides and joints of the roosts are excellent. Another plan is to scald the roost at least once a week with boiling water.

If the fowl are confined in small yards, the males may now be dispensed with as the hatching should now be over, for late chicks are not usually a success. The removal of the male leaves that much more room and perhaps the neighbors will not be sorry to dispense with his crowing. Dust baths should be provided in every pen, or the fowl will become infested with vermin. The addition of a little ground sulphur to the dust bath will be beneficial.

BREAKING BROODY HENS.

As usual, now that the setting season is over, there is a tendency to broodiness amongst the layers, especially if they are Plymouth Rocks, Orpingtons or Wyandottes. There are numerous practices to break up broodiness advocated by thoughtless people, such as plunging the hens in cold water, and using devices to keep them standing up. These are cruel and troublesome. The simplest and most effective way is to confine the hens for two days in a coop, provide plenty of food and water, and release the hens in the morning before feeding them and after the other fowl have been fed. They will usually be so busy looking for their breakfast that they will forget about the nest. Should a hen resume her nest, confine her again for another two days and release her as before. This is usually sufficient for the worst offenders and having been fed they will lay again in four or five days.

FEED CHICKS WELL.

A careful inspection should be given the chickens to see that they are kept clean and are being fed sufficient to satisfy them. Growing chickens require increased rations every week. Everything possible should be done to keep them growing so that they will mature early and make winter layers or first-class table birds. Chickens should be allowed to forage in the garden or on the lawns for they are not old enough to do much damage by scratching, but will do a great deal of good by eating up cut worms, bugs and earthworms, thus destroying numerous enemies of the garden while getting the benefit of an excellent variety of food. When the strawberries and currants begin to ripen, the chickens will have to be removed from the garden for they soon acquire a taste for these fruits.

JUNE CHICKS.

Another word about late chicks or chickens hatched in June. The only justification for hatching in June is inability to hatch before, and June chickens will make splendid progress if there are no older ones to crowd them out. Where there are earlier chicks, it is better to give attention to them and make a success of a small number than to have the worry or the care of small chickens that are being trampled on and crowded to the wall by the larger chicks, which stunts their growth and causes numerous fatalities.

SHOULD USE A THERMOMETER

From Farm and Dairy.

W. A. Wilson, Supt. of Dairying, Sask

Every dairyman should use a thermometer because without it one must guess at the temperature of milk or cream. The practice of using one's finger to ascertain this is not modern or reliable. The cost of a thermometer is about 25 cents. Its accuracy can be determined by placing it under one's tongue for about two minutes when it should register 98 degrees. This is the approximate temperature of a person in good health. Whatever the thermometer may vary from this may be noted and subsequent readings corrected accordingly.

A factor which will assist in producing good flavored cream is to skim it rich so that it will test at least 35 per cent. Germs feed on the ingredients of the milk serum, or the substances contained in the skim milk. Butter fat so far as is known is of little value as germ food. Between a 20 per cent. and 35 per cent. cream there is in every 100 pounds of each 15 pounds more of the milk serum in the former than in the latter. In consequence of this it is possible for more germs to be in the thin cream where there is more food for them, and deterioration is more rapid. Reduce the germ and food content and the cream will keep sweet for a longer period. Besides, the farmer retains more skim milk at home for feeding purposes when a 35 per cent cream is skimmed. Space for holding cream and cost of hauling is reduced. To present a summary of advantages: The cream will keep sweet for a longer period. There is less skim milk sent away from the farm. The space for storing cream is saved. Cost of hauling is reduced.

FREQUENT DELIVERY TO CREAMERY.

Still another means which will aid in producing first-class cream and butter, is to have the cream made into butter before any strong odors develop. The common practice is semi-weekly delivery and sometimes once a week. Three deliveries is much preferable where arrangements can be made to this effect consistent with economy.

In the conduct of their work, farmers, cream haulers and creamery managers should bear in mind that "quality" is the important factor in extending and securing the markets for butter. The quality of the cream depends upon the man, the flavor and the quality of the butter depend upon the flavor of the cream, and the price depends upon the quality of the butter. There is a large market that wants good butter and is quite willing to pay for it. Our aim should be to supply the best. The whole matter of production, development, extension of markets, and, to a large extent, profits may be summed up in the one word "quality," and this in turn rests with the "man."—Extract from Bulletin No. 15.

MANGELS AT 10 CTS. BUSHEL

From Farm and Dairy.

I expect to be able to buy mangels this fall for 10c a bushel, if I care to haul them two miles in order to get them home. Would they make economical feed for dairy cows? In what quantities can they be fed to advantage with, say, clover hay and corn stover?—L. J., York Co., Ont.

Mangels at 10 cents a bushel are fairly cheap feed and lacking other succulent feed in winter, would, I should say prove very profitable indeed for milk production. As a suitable ration for this purpose I would suggest: Mangels, 25 to 30 lbs.; Corn stover, 10 to 12 lbs.; Clover Hay, 8 to 10 lbs.; meal, one lb. to each four lbs. of milk produced.

As a meal mixture I think the following would be found satisfactory: Wheat bran, 500 lbs.; crushed oats, 300 lbs.; oil cake meal, 200 lbs.; corn, 200 lbs.

Boy Soldiers.

In South American countries it is no uncommon thing to see boys of ten or twelve years of age or even younger carrying rifles and marching to battle with the armies which fight in the civil wars of those lands. These boy soldiers are usually of Indian blood, and they fight quite as well as the oldest veteran.

Norway's Coast Line.

Norway's coast line, 1,700 miles in a straight line, becomes 12,000 miles if followed round the fiords. In these fiords are over 150,000 islands.

Rice Hash.

A quick and easy way to prepare hash is to make it with rice, instead of potatoes. This is called dry, or rice, hash or mince. Rice goes well with any kind of meat. Wash as much as needed, throw into plenty of boiling water, cook twenty minutes and turn into a colander, drain and add to the chopped meat.

Perfumery.

Perfumery is generally used by Venezuelans, climatic conditions there, as in other tropical countries, being a great factor in forcing its use.

Flowers in Japan.

The Japanese see a significance in the fact that the flowers of the red camellia drop off like heads of decapitated men and bar it from certain occasions. Iris, being purple, they will not have for weddings, nor are the orchid, azalea, gentian and daphne favored for felicitous occasions.

THE ALABAMA'S PIRATE CHICK

How Crocky Dixon Hunted a Ship In a Fog.

By KINGSBURY WELCH.
[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

There were during the civil war several Confederate privateers fitted out to prey on American commerce. The most important of these were the Alabama and the Florida. The former, commanded by an ex-official of the United States navy, literally swept our merchant marine, which at that time had taken the lead in the world's carrying trade, from the seas.

Raphael H. Semmes was the captain of the vessel, which was often dubbed a pirate, and when she was sent to the bottom in Cherbourg harbor by the Kearsurge she left a successor in a real pirate, one that floated the skull and crossbones instead of the stars and bars.

The birth of this offshoot, for which Tarantula would have been an appropriate name, was in this wise: There was among the crew of the Alabama, which was made up of the most desperate men of all nations, one named Dixon. He is said to have been a mild mannered man, slender and delicate looking, but as bloodthirsty as a tiger. He was called Crocodile Dixon, the surname being abbreviated to Crocky. In 1865 the Alabama visited the Indian archipelago. Dixon deserted and set up in the business of piracy on his own account.

He succeeded in getting a small schooner, which he named the Semmes in honor, or, rather, dishonor, of his old commander, armed her, gathered a crew such as could easily be picked up in that region of pirates and proceeded to make himself master of everything that floated except men-of-war, from which he scudded away as fast as sails would carry him. Piracy has always been in vogue in that part of the world, and Malay pirates have often figured in stories of luckless travelers who have been forced to walk the plank. At any rate, Crocky Dixon concluded to make it his field.

One evening Crocky Dixon sat on the deck of the Semmes puffing a cigar and watching a big ship maneuvering to get out of the strait before the dark should come on and prevent her doing so. The pirate resembled a spider watching some clumsy insect getting itself entangled in a web. Dixon lay perfectly still, confident that the big ship, unwieldly in the narrow strait, would fall into his hands. Perhaps there were other vessels in sight whose attention he did not care to attract; perhaps he preferred the morning for the capture. At any rate, he made no move to get up his anchor and carefully avoided displaying any evidence of the character of the Semmes.

The ship he watched was the Mary Blake of Philadelphia. She had been to Japan with a cargo for that country and was making her way back with Japanese goods for America. Besides her crew were a number of passengers, including women and children. Captain Archer, a young man who had been promoted from mate, was her commander. He had recently been married, and his wife was aboard.

Now, the captain had been in these waters before and knew its dangers. As soon as he espied the low cut schooner lying at anchor so quietly he suspected her. This is why he risked getting his ship aground on the rocks before nightfall in order to make the open sea. He had a pilot, but the air was murky, and he was afraid of fog. If the schooner were really a pirate he might better sink his ship than fall a prey to her. On the other hand, if a fog came on it might conceal the ship from the pirate.

While he was debating the chances a mist settled down which soon concealed the two vessels from each other. Dixon before the Mary Blake was hidden had noted her position so that he would be able to steer for her in case the fog protected her for too long a time to accord with his interests. Captain Archer, who had anchored, seeing the necessity of changing his position, raised the anchor and permitted the tide to carry him half a mile down, when, not daring to risk striking something by going farther, he anchored again.

When darkness fell the Semmes was still in her original position, while the Mary Blake was half a mile away from where Crocky Dixon supposed she was. During the night Captain Archer thought it expedient to inform both his crew and his passengers of the danger. If the schooner he had seen was a pirate, as soon as the fog lifted he would come for them. And if it did not soon lift he might not wait for it to do so. The captain therefore directed that not a light should appear on the ship and there should be no noise aboard to indicate to the pirates that the two vessels were near each other.

Not a person aboard the Mary Blake slept that night except the children who were too young to understand the terrible danger that threatened them. The captain told them that there was little danger of being attacked at night and that they had better get what rest they could, since they might need all their fortitude in the morning.

No change in the weather came with the dawn. The fog remained, and there was no wind. Dixon ordered out a boat's crew to pull the Semmes toward where he had last seen the Mary Blake. But the ship was not where he had last seen her. Knowing that since she could not have moved up she must have moved down, he directed the oarsmen to pull downstream.

It was about 4 o'clock in the morning that officers, crew and passengers of the Mary Blake—the passengers herded together in groups on deck—caught the sound of oars working in rowlocks. Every cheek blanched. The women gathered their children in their arms as if to shield them. But no one uttered even a moan lest the sound should betray them. Captain Archer leaned over the bulwarks, listening intently. What arms there were aboard had been brought up and placed on deck, with the intention that if boarded the men would sell their lives as dearly as possible, but as to making a successful defense, it was not considered. As the sound grew more distinct, indicating that the boat was approaching, the captain turned and, facing the terror stricken people on deck, put his finger on his lips to enjoin silence.

All could hear the sound of oars working slowly, indicating to the experienced ears of Captain Archer that a boat was towing some craft larger than itself. Then there was a sound of an oar slipping from a rowlock. Some greenhorn had "caught a crab." The next instant there came over the water frightful oaths and the crack of a pistol. Crocky had first sworn at and then shot the man who had slipped his oar.

This was quite enough to indicate to those on the Mary Blake the awful fate in store for them in case they were found by the pirate. The men drew long breaths. The women put wraps about the children's heads, fearing that they might cry. Not a sound escaped, and in a few minutes it was evident that the pirates had missed them.

But it was not to be expected that the search was ended. Crocky would continue it as long as the fog lasted, and when it lifted they would be at his mercy. Many were the prayers whispered that Providence might interpose between them and the horrors awaiting them. All now hoped that the fog would continue, that the expected massacre or walking of the plank, whichever it might be, should be deferred as long as possible. Then, too, the longer the fog lasted the more hope that something might occur to change the situation.

There were no further indications of the presence of the pirate for an hour. The fog was getting thinner, and it was plain that it might at any moment be possible to distinguish through it objects at a fair distance. Then came another terror for those aboard the Mary Blake. The sound of oars was again heard, this time more rapid, indicating that they were not towing. Then through the dissipating mist was seen a boat pulled by six oarsmen. As soon as they espied the Mary Blake they set up a blood curdling shout. Resting on their oars, they began to look about them for the Semmes, which they had evidently left in the prosecution of their search.

And now with the suddenness of uplifting fogs this one vanished, giving place to bright sunshine. The rowboat was a cable's length from the Mary Blake, the Semmes was half a mile beyond the rowboat, and two miles above was a ship coming down with the tide, which had just turned. A light breeze filled her sails. But the most gladdening sight of all was the square openings along her sides for guns, indicating that she was a man-of-war, and more cheering than all was the stars and stripes streaming from the peak.

To the men in the boat the sight of this new ship was as terrifying as it was gratifying to those on the Mary Blake. They pulled frantically to the Semmes, whose crew, having seen the sight, were getting up sail. Having taken aboard the boat's crew, they slipped their cable and made off to the southward at an angle with the course of the man-of-war. By the time the latter received the signals that the flying schooner was a pirate it was too late. She had got into waters where the armed vessel could not follow her.

Then those on the Mary Blake fell on their knees and gave thanks for their escape.

Crocky Dixon met his end while pursued by a United States gunboat. When it was evident that he would be taken he fired a shot into his own brain.

Thanks to Lucy.

Mark Smith, former delegate from Arizona to congress and likely as not to be one of the new senators when the state is admitted, was born in Kentucky.

He says that in the town where he was born a new and youthful preacher was imported from New England to minister to the Presbyterian church.

On the first Sunday the senior deacon of the church took the minister aside and asked him to pray for Lucy Gray. The minister prayed fervently for Lucy, not only on that Sunday but on the two succeeding Sundays.

On the fourth Sunday the deacon came around and said, "Parson, you needn't pray for Lucy Gray any more."

"Why," asked the minister, "is she dead?"

"Dead? No," said the deacon; "she won."—Saturday Evening Post.

MEDICINE HAT'S GAS.

Discovery of Wells In the Town of Constant Gas-Light.

The discovery of natural gas in Medicine Hat is an interesting story, says W. Lacey Amy in the August Wide World Magazine. As far back as 1883 the Canadian Pacific Railway, while boring for water at Carlstadt, a point about forty miles west of the city, came across the first gas, but no practical use was made of the small supply met with, other than to light and heat the section house in the vicinity. Early in 1891 Sir William Van Horne, then president of the railway, lent to the city of Medicine Hat a drilling outfit for the purpose of ascertaining whether there was coal within reach. When the drill had reached 660 feet gas was struck, but the moisture in it necessitated more trouble in the matter of interception tanks than was profitable. In 1905, however, the city determined to dig deeper in the hope of securing a larger drier flow.

A bylaw was passed to raise the necessary money. Medicine Hat was then only a town of a couple of thousand people, and the expenditure was a terrible drain upon its finances. As the well sank deeper and deeper the fund grew smaller and smaller. The citizens and members of the council gathered by the little pipe day by day and watched, with eagerness and foreboding, the drill drop—drop—drop with the pipe. But nothing came except a few little puffs of gas that promised nothing. Lower the drill sank; fewer grew the dollars. Finally the money was all gone, and the town was face to face with bankruptcy of a serious tax rate. The councillors went home sadly, amid the mutterings of the people.

That night a special session of the city officials was convened. The treasurer held up an empty purse, and they knew well that not another cent could be drawn from the people. Into the earth had been sunk thousands of dollars that would return nothing, and the citizens threw the blame for the non-success of the venture on the officials. The well-digger begged for a few more feet. The mayor considered. Then, with the inspiration of a prophet, he turned his back on the legal technicalities and ordered the wellboring to proceed. Already it was down a thousand feet; it was a terrible risk to spend more money and illegal to boot, but he took the risk.

Next morning the miracle happened. To this day they tell of it. At nine o'clock the citizens were electrified at the sight of the mayor, coatless and hatless, rushing from his harness store up the centre of the road, vainly striving to overtake a workman in better training a hundred yards ahead. The citizens, scenting something unusual, joined in the chase. At the well everything was going up in the air. At just 1,010 feet a terrific flow of dry gas had been struck—a flow that registered when they got it under control 100 pounds pressure in eighteen seconds, 150 pounds in forty seconds, 250 pounds in one minute, and twelve seconds. Their eyes began to bulge as the register ran up 300, 400, 500, and finally stopped at 600 pounds to the square inch. The mayor is living yet; but no smiles when you ask him what would have been his chances to escape from the infuriated citizens, with one train a day out of Medicine Hat, if the gas had not come. That is merely one of the chances they take in the Canadian West.

Hambourg's Experiences In Canada.

Mark Hambourg, the Hercules of the piano, who last winter made a long tour of Canada, has been relating his experiences in M.A.P. Mark saw a great deal more of Canada than any other pianist that ever traveled here, for he played in scores of little towns on side lines, clear from Halifax to Victoria. He says:

"I have recently returned from a four months' tour through Canada, and, like all other tours, it has been productive of more than one amusing incident.

"At a certain junction where we had to wait for our train I noticed an obviously theatrical gentleman on the same platform. He was evidently not given to over-washing himself, and a shave would not have exactly spoiled his beauty; but he seemed very well pleased with himself, and noticing me, at once sauntered over to where I was standing.

"'Belong to the profession, my boy?' he queried affably. 'Come, don't be proud,' he continued, noticing that we did not regard him very favorably. 'I am on the boards myself, and my wife is a palmist. Now, what are you?' he asked once more.

"'I play the piano,' I said. And you should have seen the look of scorn.."

Trade With Australia.

Trade between Canada and Australasia has commenced to grow. Four enquiries were received by the Toronto branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association the other day regarding the possibilities of trade between Canada and Australia and New Zealand. One firm wanted to get into touch with a Canadian firm selling wood-working machinery, another wanted pulp and paper machines, another buggies and harness, and the other wants to handle general lines.

"We are doing a lot of business with the United States, but as there is a 10 per cent. preferential duty in favor of Canada and against the former country, we hope now that there is a direct steamer from Montreal to New Zealand, to be able to do some business with Canada, especially in buggies and harness," says R. R. Hunt & Co., general commission and manufacturers' agents of Auckland, N.Z., in a letter to the C.M.A.

TO SHORTEN LINE.

C. P. R. Will Make 16-Hour Trip to Halifax, Says Rumor.

Montreal, Aug. 30.—There is a strong opinion prevailing here that the Canadian Pacific, after spending large sums in the West, will now turn attention to the lower provinces, and that they have fully decided to make Halifax the winter port for mails and passengers.

That the company will bring Halifax within 16 hours of Montreal appears to have been decided upon, the only question being as to how Montreal and Halifax harbor can be hitched by such rapid train service.

The opinion prevails, however, that the C.P.R. will start from Fredericton Junction or thereabouts, and build a new line straight across New Brunswick and Nova Scotia to their proposed winter port at Halifax, and that this work will be hurriedly pushed forward in the very near future. It is said also that the proposed extension will be of the very highest quality of railway, so as to permit passenger trains being run at a very high rate of speed.

If this turns out correct, or nearly so, no doubt a new entrance will be secured into Halifax, and already there are rumors that property his changed hands there for this purpose. Extensive improvements are also contemplated on the Dominion Atlantic, as soon as the C.P.R. gets possession. Besides building a telegraph line from Truro to Yarmouth, the Canadian Pacific will spend a round million on the roadbed and bridges.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

At Flower Station, Lanark County, Emerald Cleland, aged 6, fell from a sawmill boom and was drowned.

Two negroes were killed and three others injured while John Russell, a white man, was fatally shot, at a dance at Raggio, Ark.

A new steamship service between San Francisco and New York, by way of Panama, will be inaugurated on Oct. 1, competing with the Pacific Mail Co.

Walter N. MacDonald, a street car conductor at the Soo, left his boarding-house Friday night, saying: "I won't be working to-morrow; you need not send my meals." He has not been seen since.

The Government annuities system has been in operation now for eighteen months. The total of annuities sold is $650,000. The average amount is $250. About one-third of the purchasers are women.

Fearing that international complications would ensue from the continued attacks of the populace on the Bogota City, District of Colombia, Railway Co., an American concern, the municipality of Bogota has bought the company, paying $800,000 for it.

Tapped the Till.

Guelph, Aug. 30.—While two young Italians kept him busy trying to sell them a pair of boots down at the rear end of his shoe store another succeeded in tapping the till of the store of O. H. Fry, a Wyndham street merchant, yesterday. They got $75.

Crippen In Court

Doctor, Through His Counsel, Vehemently Denies Having Any Knowledge of Crime—Inspector Dew Presents Evidences of a Pact Between Fugitives to Jump Overboard —Asked to See Miss Leneve.

London, Aug. 30.—Both Hawley H. Crippen, the American doctor, and Ethel Leneve, his typist, were accused of the murder of Belle Elmore, the former's wife, in the formal charge read to them in the Bow street Police Court yesterday. Miss Leneve was charged also with harboring and maintaining Crippen after the crime and while knowing that he committed it.

Dew swore that when he made the arrest Crippen said:

"I am not sorry. My anxiety has been too much." He told Crippen that he must put him in handcuffs, "as you have written that you intended jumping overboard." To this Crippen replied: "I will not do that. My anxiety has been too awful."

A card was found among Crippen's effects and on the back of it the following: "I cannot stand the horror I go through every night any longer, as I see nothing bright, and as my journey is coming to an end I have made up my mind to jump overboard tonight. I know I have spoiled your life, but some day you may learn to forgive me. My last words are of love."

Dew also introduced a torn piece of a card on which Crippen had written: "Shall we wait until to-night, about 10 or 11? If not, what time?"

Asking after Miss Leneve, Crippen said to the inspector: "I will do all I can for her. It is only fair to say that she knows nothing about it. I never told her anything."

Dew concluded, repeating a conversation which he had with Crippen during the return trip to Liverpool. Crippen said: "When you took me off the ship (at Quebec) I did not see Miss Leneve. I do not know how things will go. They may go all right; they may go all wrong. I may never see her again, and I want to ask you to let me see her. I won't speak to her. She has been my only comfort for the last three years." Crippen was allowed to see his companion in trouble.

Solicitor Newton stated before the court opened that Crippen told him: "I confessed nothing. I have vehemently and strenuously affirmed I know of no crime and have taken part in none. During my voyage to Canada on the Montrose I had not the slightest suspicion I was watched. The arrest came like a thunderbolt. I could not at first realize I was a prisoner."

Objected to Rizzio's Music.

Toronto, Aug. 30.—Guiseppi Rizzio, the Italian laborer, stabbed at his boarding-house by his fellow-countryman, Rocco di Sabbato Sunday night, is still in a critical condition at Grace Hospital, where it was said last night that he might possibly recover should blood poisoning not develop from the punctured intestines.

Enquiries by the police yesterday disclosed the cause of the stabbing as the victim's objection to music played upon a concertina by his assailant.

It is said by those in the room that Rocco was playing when Rizzio remonstrated. Rocco resented it, and there was a scuffle between the two. It was not until Rocco had gone and Rizzio had climbed the stairs to the bathroom that he discovered that he had been seriously stabbed.

Girls Lack Sense of Religion.

Boston, Aug. 30.—Dr. Stanley Hall, president of Clark University, Worcester, and a prominent pyschologist, in statements made recently that girls turning sixteen years of age are absolutely irreligious, has stirred up a wave of indignation among prominent society people and educators in the Bay State.

Dr. Hall said: "The budding girl is as baffling a problem as the soul of a woman, and the world now knows that instead of no soul at all, woman now has one, two, three or four more than man.

"The young girl is absolutely irreligious in her nature. She sees only the immediate present, whereas a boy looks into the future.

"Her thoughts are turned to rats, puffs, psyche knots, fudge, giggles and other ephemeral things."

Constable's Trip.

Port Arthur, Ont., Aug. 30.—T. R. Folkes, a Dominion constable, has arrived here after one of the most arduous trips ever made by an officer of the law. He came from the national transcontinental construction, north of Pigeon Lake, and for the 300 miles was in charge of Tony Canea, a raving lunatic, who repeatedly attempted suicide.

Folkes had no other companion on the lonely trip across the lakes and through the muskegs and wildernesses.

At Jackson Again.

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 30.—Heretical teachings in Methodist Colleges, or what has become known as the Jackson controversy, came up before the Methodist general conference yesterday, and after a discussion which lasted for three hours, it was decided to leave such matters to the procedure of the church. This decision was reached by a vote of 125 to 84.

The attack on Rev. Mr. Jacksonwas led by Rev. Dr. Shearer, who quoted extensively from his writings and from those of men arrayed for and against the higher criticism. He was supported by H. M. Winter. Chancellor Burwash and N. W. Rowell, K.C., replied.

Baden Powell Was Not There

When Train Pulled Into Union Depot All the Officials Were On the Platform and the Boys Were Waiting to Cheer, But the Great Man Had Got Off the Train at Parkdale—One Girl Scout.

Toronto, Aug. 30.—Because he hadn't been informed of the reception awaiting him at the Union Station and having taken the advice of a fellow passenger that Parkdale station was more convenient to his Rosedale destination which it wasn't, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Robert Baden-Powell, hero of Mafeking, unintentionally disappointed several distinguished personages, a guard of honor of 300 boy scouts, and a big representation of the general public that had gathered to greet him.

"I wanted to see the slums of the west end anyway," said the eminent soldier, "but I must say they were happy and prosperous looking slums."

"I rode part of the way and walked the rest, stopping on the road to talk to a few workmen," he replied.

The disappointed ones at the Union on the arrival of the C.P.R. train, which was nearly 2 3-4 hours late, were Mayor Geary, Ald. Maguire, chairman of the reception committee, and Ald. McCausland, representing the city; W. K. McNaught, M.P.P., and ex-Mayor Oliver, representing the Exhibition board; J. F. Mackay, president of the Canadian Club; T. C. Irving, J. Castell Hopkins and F. G. Osler, son of E. B. Osler.

Three hundred scouts were lined up from the entrance through the rotunda to the train platform in command of Scout Masters E. F. Britton, McKechnie, Assistant Commissioner H. G. Hammond, and Brigade Adjutant J. K. Stalker. However on the arrival of the train the Toronto boys escorted their touring fifteen British comrades in arms to the Exhibition grounds by way of the old fort. Squads from Haileybury, Brampton, Napanee and Whitby were also in line.

One of the most interesting figures among the boys was a young girl about 16 years of age, Miss Brightwell, who dressed in khaki short skirt and waist with hat similar to that of the boys, accompanied the Brampton detachment as a girl guide. She has only been out from England for a few months.

Major-Gen. Baden-Powell is full of the boy scout movement. He was seen by the reporters at the residence of E. B. Osler on Beau road shortly after his arrival. He was resting on the piazza and on noticing the boys approaching, stepped out to the front door and gave them a warm welcome.

"The scout movement," he said, "is making wonderful progress because the right kind of men are taking hold of it. Lieutenant-governors, ministers of education and schoolmasters are becoming interested in it, because it is an educative movement. There seems to be a general mistake that the scout movement is to secure recruits for the army, where as it is to teach better citizenship, to make the boys men of character, and to make them stronger men in every respect.

"The meaning of the 'scout' with us is frontiersmen, and the life of the pioneer is held up before them. They are taught the questions of health and how to give first aid. In that way we introduce to them the chivalry of knights and inspire them with a sense of public duty. They are taught to use their heads and hands."

According to the chief scout, the boys are given very little military training, because the purpose is not so much to make soldiers out of them as good citizens, and for this reason the scout masters are generally men of imagination, who can employ them in their spare hours at something other than drill.

Gen. Baden-Powell hopes to have some local man to donate a ship on the lake here, so that the boys can do sea scouting as well, and use the boat also as a club house. They would very soon get the call of the sea and be of use in the Canadian navy. His boys were learning seamanship all the way across, and will try an examination on the way back as to what they have learned.

Fired to Conceal Murder.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 30.—Coroner Kerr will hold an inquest into the circumstances surrounding the death of Richard Sims, a legless negro, who met death in the fire that destroyed the Whirlpool Rapids Incline Railway early yesterday morning.

A startling rumor is to the effect that Sims was stabbed in the chest and the building then set afire. It is said that there is usually considerable money kept in the place, there being a thriving souvenir stand, carrying stock valued at thousands of dollars. It is thought that an attempt was made to rob the building after Sims died.

The loss is estimated at $50,000. Woodford's grist mill also falling prey to the flames.

Reporters Barred.

Montreal, Aug. 30.—It is given out officially that Cardinal Vincent Vannutelli, the papal legate to the congress, will not be interviewed during his sojourn in the Dominion. His excellency has especially asked that no reporter be allowed to board the Lady Grey, which will bring the church dignitary up the river. Mgr. Bruchesi leaves this evening for Rimouski, where he will meet the cardinal legate.

Burned by Lightning.

Portage La Prairie, Aug. 30.—Yesterday's lightning and thunderstorm caused the Portage Industrial Society a heavy loss, when the barns at the Island Park were struck and burned. Less than a year ago the grand stand was burned.

Surrounded by Icebergs.

Philadelphia, Aug. 30.—After a run of twelve days and despite unusual perils at sea the ship William P. Frye, from the Hawaiian Islands, with 90,000 bags of raw sugar, arrived at the Spreckels sugar refinery Sunday night. Off Cape Horn the ship was surrounded by Antarctic icebergs and field ice, covering an area of 18 miles. Many of the bergs ranged from 50 to 200 feet high.

Brothers Arrest Brothers.

Hamilton, Aug. 30.—Phillip and John Wintermute, East Murray street, were arrested yesterday afternoon, charged with breaking into the store of Mrs. Kirr, North James street, and with assaulting Constable Joseph Duffy. The officer found them in the store and attempted to arrest them. He alleges that the two men attacked him. His brother John, who is also a policeman, came to his assistance, and between them the Wintermutes were taken in.

Infantile Paralysis at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—Infantile paralysis is spreading in this city, and one death, that of a four months' old child has occurred. Dr. Law, medical health officer, has located eight additional cases in the past few days, making twelve, so far. He is taking isolation steps to avert a serious epidemic.

Blind Woman's Vigil.

Guelph, Aug. 30.—Edwin Henry Hall, an old resident, lay dead in his home near Suffolk street for some time before his aged and blind wife knew that he had died. She thought he was sleeping when he did not answer her, and covering him up as well as she could, she sat beside his bed and patiently waited for him to wake up. All Saturday afternoon and night and nearly all Sunday she waited. Then some neighbors came in and told her the truth.

A Lot of Undesirables.

Toronto, Aug. 30.—There have been three hundred and fifty-seven persons deported from the province since the beginning of the year, chiefly at Niagara Falls. An unusual number have been deported during the past two or three weeks from Fort Frances and Rainy River, principally hoboes.

The Cause

of Eye Troubles is usually not disease, but defect in the structure or muscles of the Eye.

Consider the incessant work of the Eye, the instantaneous and exact adjustment demanded that sight may be always equal, single and ready to every change in position, distance and light. The nerves compel and control the mechanism in these instant adjustments. The mechanism may be defective, that is—

There may be defects in the structure, or focus of one or both Eyes;

The Muscles may be imperfectly balanced, so that both Eyes do not work in harmony;

There may be inability to focus for close work;

There may be strain through overwork, abuse, poor lights, bright reflections, etc.

An examination will tell you just what condition your Eyes are in.

FRANK WITH HER OPINION.

He Was Glad He Heard It, and All Ended Happily.

By A. S. RICHARDSON.

Suzanne's voice rose decisively above the exclamations of dismay.

"It might have been worse, and Miss Cranford can mend it."

She ran into the hall and leaned over the balustrade. A young man, good to look upon and evidently fresh from riding, was watching the florists at work.

"Frank!"

"Cousin mine?"

"Will you please go"—

"I will," responded the young man, running up the stairs—"anywhere you wish."

"Bless you, dear," said Suzanne, dragging Frank into her mother's room, where six pairs of feminine eyes rested despairingly on a hideous three cornered tear in Suzanne's wedding veil. "That must be mended, and only one woman in town can do such work—Elsa Cranford. Now, if"—

"Where does she live?" Frank picked up the cloud of lace, yellowed by time, and looked at it critically. "I suppose that if you were not marrying a lord you would wear a nice, clean, new veil that would not tear when you looked at it. This is rotten."

Mrs. Lynde was shocked.

"But this is an heirloom. It isn't every girl who can be married in the veil worn by her mother and her grandmother before her."

Frank bit his lips. He wanted to say that the average girl who married a title through the more or less flagrant mediation of a social matrimonial broker did not care to discuss her grandmother. When he had heard in Paris of his cousin's engagement to this heir of an impoverished English name he had discovered that even after two years' wandering on the face of the globe, Americanism was strong within him, and he hated to see the bulk of the Lynde fortune go to build up a decrepit English estate.

"You will find Miss Cranford at 213 Elmhurst avenue. Tell her she must do it at once and wait for it. We cannot take chances at this hour. Pay her anything—everything—but have it done. Tell Forbesno the brougham must meet the 11:20 train, and the"—

"Don't apologize, Suzanne," laughed her cousin, taking the package. "If you had a whole racing stable at your command today every horse would be out. I'll use my own mount and enjoy the ride."

And so he rode away past the stately manors of industrial magnates, past the less pretentious homes of real suburbanites, into a sleepy, country-like lane lined on either side with small cottages and gay gardens. At 213 he tied his horse to the cap of a near bronze jockey and stalked up the path. A slender, graceful young woman was training a climbing rose on the shady side of the porch. She drew off her garden gloves as Frank stated his errand and stood in the warm June sunlight studying the torn veil critically.

"It will take at least an hour," she said, turning toward the house. "Will you wait?"

"Yes, thank you."

He sat down on the step and removed his hat. Above him on one side of the table, strewn with magazines, papers and sewing materials, sat an elderly woman with carefully dressed white hair. On the opposite side of the table was a vacant chair. Miss Cranford paused before it, looked at the unconscious Mr. Lynde with a slight frown and sat down. After all, there was not such a wide breach between the status of a footman in a millionaire's household and a professional mender. Besides, under existing conditions at the Lynde residence a tired footman might be forgiven a slight breach of discipline.

She clipped her thread thoughtfully. Dame Fortune moved in a mysterious way. There was young Harry Lynde, brother of the bride, insignificant and stupid, and here was a footman molded on the lines of a Gibson model, with the easy grace which no end of dancing lessons could impart to the unfortunate Harry.

The little garden was very quiet, and Elsa's needle flew in and out of the lacy weave. Finally Mrs. Cranford's curiosity triumphed over her dignity.

"I suppose everything is ready for the wedding?"

"Everything, I believe." He frowned slightly.

"It is a great occasion, with Lord This and Lady That coming all the way from England, but every time I think of that poor child"—

"Do stop that nonsense, mother!" exclaimed Elsa sharply. "She does not deserve pity, no matter what comes to her in the future. She marries Lord Harwood with her eyes open. She knows the man's past, she knows his need of her money, and she knows"—

The "footman" crushed his riding hat in his hands.

"My dear, you are so positive."

"Well, mother, dear, we ought to know. The papers have contained no other news for weeks. And they will be full of it again when she sues for a divorce. It is all so very silly. Everything that man can give her she could buy with her own money. The one thing he cannot give her money cannot buy, yet that one thing I or any girl without a dollar to her name may have some day—the honest love of an honest man. I may be old fashioned, but I believe that with some women love still counts, and when it does it is everything—far, far above titles, coronets, castles and a corner in the queen's throne room."

Silence once more fell upon the trio. The shining needle fairly flew. The girl's bright eyes were fixed on her work. The man, gazing through the vista of prim gardens and close cropped trees, was murmuring under his breath, "The honest love of an honest man."

Miss Cranford was folding the precious veil.

"Perhaps—er—you would like to see the ceremony at the church?"

"Could you"—

"Yes; I know—er—where the cards are kept."

Mrs. Cranford protested. Her daughter smiled scornfully.

"They would not mind, mother. It's all a part of the show."

A tinge of color spread over the "footman's" face. He paused on the lower step.

"I'll send—I mean I'll bring the card over this afternoon."

* * * * * * *

Elsa Cranford in a simple dimity frock and a flower trimmed hat was caught in the crush of scintillating robes. An usher with a gardenia in his coat was just offering his arm to a stately dowager when he dropped something. He bent over, and the dowager was passed on to another usher. When the first man straightened up he extended his arm to Elsa. She gave one gasp, and all the color faded from her face; then, with head proudly uplifted, she started down the aisle at his side.

"Please don't look like that," he whispered. "It was beastly caddish of me, but I do look a bit like Harry's Englishman, and—and—well, I'm glad I heard your frank opinion on such things anyhow."

They were at the pew door. She slipped in without a word, but as she raised her eyes she caught the pleading look in his, and the rose color came back to her cheeks.

* * * * * * *

The wedding party and guests had left the church. Reporters with notebooks and sightseers crowded around the chancel. Elsa walked slowly toward the side entrance. The vestry room door opened suddenly, and Frank Lynde stepped out. He bent his head gravely, and there was no laughter in his eyes now.

"Will you tell your mother, please, that directly this infernal excitement is over I am coming to call persona propre? For I understand that she and dad were good friends in the old days, and—and I want you to think of me, an honest man."

But it was six months before she would admit the fact, and then she simply reiterated her statement that she did not envy the Countess of Harwood.

He Mentioned the Fish.

On the occasion of the opening of parliament during one of the years when Pitt was prime minister the lords and commons were greatly perplexed by a reference to the goldfish at Windsor castle, which was introduced into the king's speech and read by Pitt. It was not until after both Pitt and King George were dead that the explanation came out. The prime minister, it is related, had gone to the king at the palace with the speech from the throne fully prepared. He found the king seated at the edge of the basin of a fountain earnestly regarding his goldfish sporting about in the water. Pitt read the speech. "Does your majesty approve the discourse?" asked the minister. "I will approve it, but only on one condition," said the king, "and that is that you introduce in it some reference to these fishes." The king was obdurate and refused his authorization of the royal speech until Mr. Pitt had promised faithfully to say something in it about the royal goldfish.

Bunyan's Birthplace.

Judith, countess of Huntingdon, the niece of William the Conqueror, who founded the abbey which gave its name to the hamlet of Elstow gathered about its gates; Sir Humphrey Radcliffe, into whose hands the property passed at the dissolution of the monasteries, and the Hillesdon family, who afterward built their mansion there, would be but names on a rarely turned page of history. The church, with its separate tower and its peal of ancient bells; the old guest house on the village green, the stump of a cross recalling the fairs that were held there, would be no goal of pilgrimage but for a later name whose rank upon the roll of fame sheds backs a light of interest upon all the details of its place and circumstances. Elstow gained its patent of nobility in 1628 through the birth of John Bunyan.—Exchange.

Servian Cruelty.

The Servians have long been notorious for the cruelty exercised by them in the punishment of political prisoners. They are confined in subterranean cells, with just enough air to keep them alive. The fortress at Belgrade contains a deep well, dating back to Roman times, which is believed to contain the skeletons of many of these prisoners.

Military Education.

The education of each officer in the Russian military schools costs $1,330, compared with the German average of $875 and the Austrian average of $1,333.

The Triangle Spider.

An interesting find is that of the triangle spider, which "spins one of the most remarkable types of spider's suares as yet known." The web is triangular, and the spider holds it tightly stretched by means of a thread. When a fly gets entangled this thread is loosed and the victim is enclosed more securely.

WHY SAY MORE?

We wish to warn the public against being imposed on by unscrupulous dealers who substitute the so-called Strawberry Compounds for "Dr. Fowler's." Ask for "Dr. Fowler's" and insist on getting it, as the cheap imitations may be dangerous to your health.

The original is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. Price 35 cents.

The Maelstrom.

The greatest whirlpool is the maelstrom off the Norway coast. It is an eddy between the mainland and an island, and when the current is in one direction and wind in another no ship can withstand the fury of the waves. Whales and sharks have been cast ashore and killed. The current is estimated to run thirty miles an hour.

The Big Guns.

A 12 inch gun throws a projectile weighing 850 pounds; a 10 inch, 500 pounds; a 9 inch, 380 pounds; a 7.5 inch, 200 pounds, and a 6 inch, 100 pounds.

The Human Body.

The human body is an epitome in nature of all mechanics, all hydraulics, all architecture, all machinery of every kind. There are more than 310 mechanical movements known to mechanics today, and all these are but modifications of those found in the human body.

Flax.

Flax has been used from remote ages as a textile fabric, especially in Egypt. Mummy cloths are often found to be of exceedingly fine texture.

Fishbone Implements.

In India the jawbone of the boaler fish is employed by the natives about Ducca. The teeth, being small, recurved and closely set, act as a fine comb for carding cotton, in removing the loose and coarse fibres and all extraneous matter from the cotton wool.

The Greyhound.

A greyhound has a greater speed than a horse. A greyhound has been timed in running 125 yards in eight seconds.

Olive Culture.

There is little prospect of the olive industry in this country being overdone, for there are only three localities in this country where the olives will thrive.

ONTARIO'S GAS WELLS.

Natural Light and Heat Is a Feature of Western Peninsula.

A man driving along the shore of Lake Erie, in that somewhat inaccessible region adjacent to Selkirk, in Haldimand County, comes upon some objects set out in the lake that suggest defences against some future foreign invader. One's mind turns at once to Fenian raids and perhaps to a query whether defences of this sort are not contrary to the provisions of the Rush-Bagot treaty. The apparent defences are concrete arrangements with recesses on the land side and a circular front sloping toward the top, facing Uncle Sam's country. A series of pipes and valves adds to the mystery.

Inquiry, however, shows that the "round towers" are no more nor less than the covers of natural gas wells sunk in Lake Erie to secure the precious fuel and lighting material for large Canadian cities and towns many miles away. The fields hereabouts are studded with wells from which the farmers often reap large rentals, but the four competing companies were not content with land operations and last winter began boring under Lake Erie. They met with the same success as on land, and at a depth of about 800 feet secured a good flow, though naturally varying in different wells.

The drilling operations for the wells farthest in the lake were carried on during the winter, with the apparatus standing on the ice, for Lake Erie, being shallow, is frozen for some distance out during the cold weather. The workmen found it a cold job, for the winds that swept over the ice fields did not suggest proximity to any banana belt. Since then the operations have been extended and several lake wells are now being sunk. The gas companies believe they will find oil by drilling still deeper, and later on it is proposed to make the experiment. The proximity of the Pennsylvania oil fields just across the lake is the basis for this belief.

In the vicinity of this gas supply most of the farmhouses are lighted from the wells, though the great bulk of the gas is piped to Hamilton, Brantford, Paris and Galt. The roadsides are seamed with the pipes of the competing companies, until one would think he were in a city too young to perfect its public services. Most of the houses are old and weather-stained from a half century's storms from tumultuous Lake Erie. Gas lighting and fuel, pianos and top buggies now signal the arrival of a happier day.

The upper works of wells appear in the grain fields every few yards, and the farmer as he circles around them with his binder is only solaced by the large rental which he derives from a good producing well. One man indeed has an automobile for himself and for each of his two sons, the fruits, it is said, of the natural gas wells on his property.

Public Tramps Abroad.

This is a moving season for public men. Half a dozen Canadian dignitaries are cod-fishing at The Hague. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has another congregation touring the West to find out what the people want—and then not go it; incidentally to inquire why the postage stamp province doesn't cover the envelope. Leader Borden has been touring Ontario telling Conservatives what ails the Grits. Messrs. Bourassa and Monk have been holding open-air demonstrations against an Imperial-colonial navy. Hon. Frank Oliver is reviving his Red River cart days by roughing it over the Yukon, finding out what that part of the interior has by way of new gold fields on the Portland Canal and what it needs in administration. Finally Earl Grey is on a canoe voyage from Lake Winnipeg to Hudson Bay, coming out by way of Labrador.

Eskimo Candy.

Tallow is the Eskimo's candy. It is put up in bright red packages made out of the feet of waterfowl. The women cut off the red feet of this bird, which is called the dovekie, draw out the bones and blow up the skin so as to make pouches, which they fill with reindeer tallow for their little folk. None of the food that the Eskimos eat seems very inviting to us, but they are extremely fond of it and are very apt to overeat. It is said by explorers who have gone into Greenland that it is no uncommon sight to see an Eskimo man who has eaten an enormous meal of the raw frozen flesh of the reindeer, seal or walrus lying on his back and eating blubber until he cannot move.

MAKING DOLLARS OUT OF APPLES

HUSBANDMEN of York State Who Have Found Out That Trees Grow and Their Fruit Ripen Better When Cared For on an Intelligent, Common Sense Basis--

(Copyright, 1910, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.)

NEW YORK, Saturday.

"THIS modern wizardry, you say, and not one whit less, this taking up of old businesses—poor, neglected, starved businesses on the verge of death—and giving to them renewed life and strength.

The wizardry has been accomplished in an almost infinite variety across the land. Here a railroad, growing rusty and forlorn for lack of traffic, has been builded up into a prosperous trunk line; here a factory, its fires long since drawn, its spindles pathetically cobwebs, has been sent into cheerful socket once again; here a retail business has been fanned into prosperity, there a wholesale one has met with like fortune. These modern Aladdins of business come to the fore quickly. Their wands bring new wealth, new prosperity to every business.

You hail me.

"To every business?" you ask, with a cynical, quizzical twist to your eye. "How about the poor farmer?" you demand triumphantly.

Have no fear for the poor farmer. There are wizards coming to the fore in farming and some of them are right here in the East—the Atlantic seaboard, which has had to take some hard knocks of late years because of an oft-asserted decadence of its agricultural conditions. A little while ago the story was told of John Hale and the wonders that he was accomplishing with his peach trees in the valley of the Connecticut. Mr. Hale is but typical of a little band of other wizards of the soil. Some of them have turned their skill to a fruit even humbler than the peach—the good old fashioned apple. Their efforts are well worth examination.

Packing Apples

Grant G. Hitchings Standing in His Orchard.

The Splendid Beckwith Orchard.

Beckwith's Spraying Kitchen Where He Cooks the Lime and Sulphur Preparation.

* * * * * * *

You drive an even dozen miles south from Syracuse through the somnore majesty of the valley of the Onondagas before you come to Grant Hitchings' farm. It spreads itself over the crest of a rolling hill. From afar the neat and even pattern of the orchard rows, the green plumage of the trees waving in the summer breeze, seems to spell to the city man the fascination of the farm life.

Grant G. Hitchings is a farmer, born of generations of farmers. His farm is as much of a business to him as a factory is to its owner. Some of the more successful farms in that portion of New York are by-products of men who have achieved success in other vocations. Still other agriculturists have won by means of legacies which gave them ample working capital. Grant Hitchings has had neither of these opportunities.

Twenty years ago he found himself without working capital, and possessed of fifty-five acres of farm upon which there hung like a great millstone a mortgage of $3,000. He was twenty-seven years old. It was distressing—the farm losing a little more money every year, farming through the entire State was at low ebb. For a time Mr. Hitchings hesitated as to whether or not to throw it all over and go into Syracuse to get a job, clerking perhaps in some store. Some of the other farmers in the Onondaga Valley, entirely discouraged, were doing that very thing. They could not hold their boys upon the farm. It was a desolate outlook.

Mr. Hitchings hesitated. It takes courage to give up a farm which has come down to you through ninety-two years of successive ownership in a single family, and he took second thought before he moved down into Syracuse. He was puzzled. He was beginning to hear of the new methods, particularly the so-called "cultivation method," in improving apple growth. But these methods took capital, and he lacked capital. To plough, cultivate and recultivate an orchard took much money, and he had none. He was ready once again to give up the fight.

He Turns to Apples.

Then—he stuck. A real inspiration came to him. "Look at the forest," it said. "Look at your own wood lot back there against the crest of the hill." He looked at the wood lot, and then he caught its inspiration. Those trees required no cultivation. An orchard might be operated upon the same lines. Upon those lines Grant Hitchings won his victory. To-day seven thousand trees are bearing fruit within his orchards, another army of seven thousand gaining growth to take their place in the ranks of the income producers on that farm. Mr. Hitchings has added to his plantation until he now possesses 242 acres, 150 of them in orchard. He has bought some of his added holdings as low as $20 an acre. There is not an acre of his property to-day which is worth less than $500. There at the very beginning you have apples expressed in dollars.

Technically Mr. Hitchings' method of caring for his orchard is known as the "mulch method" of cultivation. The clover and the timothy grow high in the long avenues under the branches of the trees, and sometimes during the summer, between the middle of June and the first of August, he has it all mowed down and lets it rest upon the ground, helping to retain the valuable moisture for the trees, catching even more for their hungry roots.

When Mr. Hitchings began operating his mulch orchards on a large scale some of the big experts who have wedded themselves to cultivation methods for apple trees said he was all wrong. They said so repeatedly, but the Onondaga farmer only smiled and went ahead. Incidentally he was taking most of the blue ribbons for apples at the Syracuse State Fair each September. The experts at the State experimental station over at Geneva did not say he was wrong; the apple growers connected with the Agricultural Department down at Washington could not say he was wrong; but the apple growers connected with the Agricultural Department down at Washington could not say he was right. Mr. Hitchings was getting the results.

He commenced taking exceeding interest in his work. Mr. Hitchings began to reap record crops and still he kept on taking blue ribbons at the State Fair.

But at no time did he say that the "cultivation method" men were wrong and that his mulch method was absolutely right.

"It suits my necessities and it suits my pocketbook," he told me. "Perhaps it won't work over in the Lake Ontario orchard belt, but it seems to work here on the Onondaga hillsides. You can never tell what land is going to do until you try it. I do know, though, that this method of taking care of my orchard costs me fifty cents an acre, as against $14 by the cultivation method. That operating cost counts when you begin to figure out your profits at the end of the year."

Laying Tile Drains on Beckwith Apple Farm.

Spraying Trees.

You lift your eyebrows and look at this farmer again. Somehow you are not accustomed to hear the upland men talk about "operating costs." That has the ring of some keen city merchant or some big manufacturer.

But Grant Hitchings figures operating costs, and that is why he is to-day one of the really big husbandmen of New York State. His farm has few frills. The white house at the intersection of two straggling dusty roads is humbler than many others in that country; its barns have no especial distinction—but it is a farm that is standing vigorously on its own legs, paying its own debts and earning its own profits.

Listen once again to this Grant G. Hitchings.

"I'd have no reason or excuse for running it in any other way," he explains modestly. "We charge each crop accurately with labor, seed, packing, and the like, and with its proportionate share of the general expenses of the farm—taxes, interest, insurance, upkeep, depreciation, and the like. That's where we've branched out new. Funny that those government folks down there at Washington should be interested in this plain country plantation, but they're sending up a man next week to plat it out for me, so I can know right down to a pretty fine percentage the load each crop has got to take on its shoulders in the running of the farm.

Solves the Labor Problem.

"We're getting ready for the city folks when they begin to talk about the cost of living. We can show them on this farm, anyway, just what it costs to raise our crops—labor, machinery, interest, taxes, insurance and all. We will allow ourselves a fair profit, just as Mr. W. C. Brown's railroad figures out a decent dividend for its stockholders, and then we can add railroad haul to our cost, so New York folks can begin to figure out for themselves just who's to blame for the high prices that they are paying for their foodstuffs."

That comes straight from a man who is facing farming as a business proposition and who has developed the farm that once he came near abandoning into a better property than many and many a manufacturing concern in the busy industrial towns of interior New York. Listen to Grant Hitchings on the labor question—a question which holds many farmers perplexed. For years the farmers of up-State have accepted their boys' services as part of the due that should come for food, shelter and clothing—they were supposed to be content with a dollar now and then to go down into town to the fair and the circus. Then, when the boys went drifting out down the country road cityward, the old man shook his head and stood perplexed. He could not see why the boys lacked loyalty to the old farm—boys must be getting different in this generation.

Grant Hitchings does not think that boys are one whit different in this generation. He holds his own opinion on this question of farm labor, and here it is in his very words:—

"The boys can go down into Syracuse and get twenty cents an hour working on the trolley cars. They like to figure it out that way—so much an hour—and so we pay them twenty cents an hour. We pay them overtime, and you may never have heard of overtime on a farm before now. They earn their money and it is theirs on Saturday night at seven o'clock. They've good, steady jobs here—just as good as they'd be likely to get in the city—and I've a feeling that this farm is some day going into interested and competent hands."

Grant Hitchings has six children. He began paying them some sort of regular wages from the time that each was seven years old and not one child has ever left that comfortable and homelike Onondaga county farmhouse. By night they are planning with their father to increase the output of those wonderful orchards, and still stick to that chosen "mulch method." Twenty-five bushels—close to eight barrels—to the tree has already been reached in these orchards, and Grant Hitchings says that he has only begun on that blue ribbon stock. Last year he shipped out ten thousand barrels, and at last year's prices that would have brought him in more than $35,000—a snug income for any farm. But if the entire crop had been nipped by frost, which is always a possibility with orchards, Grant Hitchings would have been one man who was not caught.

"The apple crop is my velvet," he says to you. "The farm supports itself by the other crops—potatoes, strawberries, raspberries, and the like—so I would not be caught in the event of a total failure of my apples. All summer long my men, with their foremen, are working on my farm lands. I carry forth the general part of the farm on the best rotation methods that I know, and the orchard all but takes care of itself.

"The moving of that clover up there on the hillsides? That is the way we keep the plant humming on rainy days. When it gets drizzling wet and the skies are dumping themselves out on us so heavy that we can't get out into the fields—well, this is one farm where the playing cards are not stowed away for rainy days. We get out the mowing machines and we go up and down under those trees, and we've kept busy when some other folks off in the farm country have been loafing.

"We can't loaf here; that is, we can't loaf and make this farm a big and paying business proposition. Somehow it don't work out. It don't come in with our system."

Our system!

There, then, is the new order of farmer. These Grant Hitchingses who are springing up here and there over the wonderfully fertile valleys and hillsides of the great agricultural State of New York are the men who will bear watching.

So much for Hitchings and his "mulch method."

There are other wizards in the apple orchard industry right in New York State who are succeeding with considerably different methods, and John S. Beckwith, of Albion, is one of these.

Not Fantastic to Him.

When John S. Beckwith, of Albion, went down to Cornell a very few years ago he had planted within himself an ambition to be a mechanical engineer. Mechanical engineering has the reputation of being a pretty profitable profession for a young man. He left Cornell and turned his hand to apples. He had conceived the idea that the old fashioned trees could be made to bring him a better income than a good engineering job. That sounded fantastic, and some of the Albion folk began to shake their heads. Beckwith's only answer to them was to take off his coat and pitch into his apple proposition.

He went up to the far northwest corner of Orleans county and bought a 150 acre farm, thirty acres of it in heavy orchard. It had not been a very successful farm—it was a good year when the owner could take 1,200 barrels of apples from his trees—so Mr. Beckwith bought the property for $12,000. Within two years—he is just entering the third of his ownership of the farm—he had raised the output to three thousand barrels, and he will tell you that he is just at the beginning.

Mr. Beckwith has had no particular fads to play in the development of his farm. He has simply brought to a business proposition the well developed mind of an alert young man, and so it has come to pass that in the third year of his ownership of the Orleans county farm he has made it earn a good enough profit to enable him to buy a ninety acre orchard up in Oswego county.

"That's the trick—apples," he will tell you. "This fifteen mile belt around the south edge of Lake Ontario is ideal country for apples. The lake helps to protect us against frost, and frost is the grave enemy of the orchardman.

"When you come to the apple trick you want to put your whole attention on apples. If you've set out a patch of new trees you can carry some light crop between the rows so as to pay the carrying charges on that orchard until the trees begin to bear, but you've got to be careful not to get your garden truck so close to trees as to rob them of an ounce of vitality. They come first. We drop everything else in their favor here."

Come with Mr. Beckwith down into his orchard. Back of the house you pass his spraying kitchen, where the almost even mixture of lime and sulphur—the deadly, implacable enemy of the destructive San José scale, is boiled before being spread upon the foliage of the apple trees. You see the cumbersome spraying wagons, so that the men may get well at the top of the highest trees; then you come into the shady seclusion of his giant orchards.

Mr. Beckwith believes in the so called "cultivation method" of rearing apples. The soil of his orchard has been carefully turned and re-turned. It is soft and dry and clean of all weeds and holds the water firmly for the thirsty trees. This is the old orchard, and here and there where a tree has been suffering from neglect Mr Beckwith has gone to its aid. Pruning and grafting—the two magic arts of the tree surgeon—have been skilfully employed, and some of these old fellows are showing astonishing new vitality.

Beyond the old orchards are the new ones. Here in a fresh ploughed field are the trees he set out last year. He calls them his freshman class. Beyond are the two-year-old trees—the sophomores. In eight or ten years after setting out these trees will be bearing well. It should be a poor year when his ninety acres of orchard fail to bring him forth ten thousand barrels of apples. Figure those apples $3 a barrel as a minimum in a poor market and you will begin to see why Mr. Beckwith decided that apples could beat out mechanical engineering.

Just now he is putting in some ten miles of tile drain on the Orleans county farm, with the Oswego farm to follow. There is not a single kink that is too modern for this young man from Albion who took off his coat to show the townfolk something. When he has his giant orchard finished and his plans for gardens and buildings fully executed there will be something for them to see.

Perhaps you wish to talk in figures.

Off in a distant corner of Orleans another young man has tackled the apple as a business proposition. He, too, does not believe that the sun has set on successful agriculture in the State of New York. He bought his farm two years before Beckwith bought his; his modern and alert methods of growing have been much the same. That second young man paid less than $10,000 for his 120 acres of land—less than fifty of which were in apple orchard. He farmed with skill, with the use of the lobe of gray matter that God had placed in the back of his head, and he took more than two thousand barrels of apples from his trees. Those apples sold for $7,500, and when he had deducted the $5,000 that the year's operation of his orchard had cost him he had a neat profit of nearly $3,000. But that first year's operation was the most costly, owing to the neglect of the preceding owner.

An Apple Automobile.

In the second year he was able to reduce his operating cost to $4,000, while the bettered methods brought him a $9,000 crop of apples. In the third year he had paid the entire cost of his place. Since then he has added to his acreage, set out new trees by the thousand, and only last week he started to build a garage for the touring car that he has bought for his wife and himself. He does not feel that he has to apologise for that automobile; it represents no mortgage upon his property.

"Apples bought that car," he says with a grin. "All of the big growers are getting them."

And so they are. Apples are going to buy more than one automobile in New York State within the next ten years.

It is an industry that offers more than a fair compensation to the man who goes into it with his whole heart and his coat off. If a man can buy orchard land at $50 an acre, or even at $100 an acre, here in the East and build it up to a valuation of $500—or even more—he would seem to have a mighty good thing on the face of it. The Oregon apple lands, undeveloped, sell at about $500 an acre. Such a man must, it is almost needless to aid, have some qualifications to become a successful apple grower. He must grow good apples in the first instance—gather to himself a wealth of information about the many details of the growing—so that his crops may be abundant year in and year out, and, in the second place, he must market those crops with skill. Many and many a man is a successful orchard man only to fail lamentably when it comes to placing his product on sale.

Still, the apple remains a possibility of good profit. The trees with decent care and attention will yield fruit for many, many years. Grant Hitchings has one tree on his place known to be 112 years old, and it still leads all the others in the volume and in the quality of its output.

Then, too, new methods are constantly coming to the fore among the growers—among these most recently the methods of raising dwarf apple trees. The dwarfing is usually accomplished by grafting; a few buds of the dwarf stock are added year after year as the tree gets its growth.

George P. Powell, of Ghent, over in Columbia county, one of the best known of the Hudson River group of apple growers, has devoted himself assiduously to the development of the dwarf apple orchard. The reasons in its favor appear quickly. By use of the dwarf stocks a fourteen acre orchard may be condensed, as far as results go, into two acres. The trees are not only planted more closely together, but, being smaller, they give added convenience both in their care and for their picking.

Even though the dwarf apple tree has not yet been proven to the complete satisfaction of the majority of the big growers, it is an indication of the constant progress of a business that may as yet be hardly out of its swaddling clothes.

A NEPIGON FUNERAL

CRUDE ROMAN CATHOLIC CEREMONY MARKS LAST SCENE.

Body Is Taken by Canoe Across the Bay to the Tiny Cemetery Where the Relatives of the Deceased Follow as Best They May the Catholic Burial Service—Roof of Birch Bark Is Placed Over the Grave.

The old man was dying. The Great White Plague had him in its grasp, taking another to make up its annual toll from the rapidly-diminishing ranks of the Indian people. He lay at the far side of a bark tepee on a couch raised a foot from the ground. Under the couch were flat stones heated in the fire. Although it was July, a rabbit skin robe, the warmest of all furs, was wrapped about the emaciated figure. Over the coverlet the face showed sharply, the features bearing the unmistakable signs of death. Close to the sloping walls sat the squaws and the papooses, their heads bowed, their shawls closely drawn, silent, motionless, awaiting the end.

Near by burned the camp-fire of four white men—two of them fire rangers, the third a prospector, and the fourth a French "squaw-man." The evening meal was past; pipes were lit, and the four gazed silently down into the glowing embers—each building for himself there air castles, which rose, trembled, crumbled, and fell into the ashes. The sun had gone behind a mountain, and already long shadows danced and trembled on the bosom of the lake, where another shadow, more sinister, hovered over the bark tepee, hesitated, and descended—the Shadow of Death. A slight cry came from the direction of the tepee; then the quick patter of moccasined feet.

"Ole man, dead—is died just now!"

The next day preparations were made for the funeral. The village coffinmaker brought boards, talked and gesticulated with the men, considered apart from them, and finally manufactured a rough box. Canoes were drawn up on the beach; the dogs were silent, and whispered softly to themselves.

"Want to come to the bury?" asked Kow-tash, son of the deceased, of the white men, who accepted the invitation, because the law of the frontier gave them no option.

The corpse was borne out of the tepee by four stalwart Indians and placed gently in the canoe.

"Very big man become small—not much now, I-guess," remarked Kow-tash.

The canoe containing the coffin started from the shore, followed by a second canoe, in which were the four white men and an Indian. Together they moved toward the graveyard, a quarter of a mile distant across the bay. In a few moments the bows grated on the sandy beach, and the Indians immediately held a consultation regarding the choice of a suitable location for the grave. In the meantime the birch bark canoe containing the squaws put out from the village and followed. Finally came Chief Outwin, dexterously paddling in the stern of his canoe (in spite of his seventy years), while a small grandson, grotesque in a black fedora hat three sizes too large, paddled in the bow. An aged squaw, the wife of the deceased, knelt with bowed head by the side of the corpse, while her daughter stood telling a string of beads and softly murmuring the rosary. Chief Outwin sat smoking in the shade, brushing aside the mosquitoes and black flies with a balsam bough. Throwing down their spades, the bearers took up the coffin and lowered it into the grave. The daughter advanced and sprinkled the coffin with water, in imitation of the Roman Catholic ceremony, of which she had the crude knowledge which comes of observance.

The remaining squaws, almost picturesque in plaid shawls and colored head-clothes, showed no sign of interest or grief. The men stood leaning on their shovels; one removed his hat.

"Poor ole man have hard time, you bet," said Kow-tash, as the grave was being filled. "Plenty familee, not much fish no, winter him long, tall snow; him hunguree some time; cold all time, I guess."

On the mound of fresh earth a wooden cross was planted, bearing the name of the dead man carved in rough letters. The grave was covered with a quilt of birch bark, strips sewn together, to be replaced later by a wooden covering similar to the roof of a house. As the bark of the birch protected the dead man from "kamewun" (rain) during his life-time, the members of the tribe will not believe that it can lose its virtues after death. Formerly, in pagan times, within the grave-roofs, the Indians placed a tomahawk, bow and arrows, a hunting-knife and pipe, so that the disembodied spirit, returning from the Happy Hunting Grounds to visit its native haunts, might learn that the dead are not forgotten by the living.

The funeral over, all turned toward the canoes, except the aged squaw, who paused at the grave to wipe away furtively a few tears shed for the warrior who lay so quietly beneath the little mound of sand on the edge of the forest.—J. T. Stirrett in The Saturday Globe.

STRATHCONA AT NINETY.

The Grand Old Man of Canada Has Had a Wonderful Career.

Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, for years known throughout the British Empire as Canada's Grand Old Man, though born in Bonnie Scotland, celebrated the other day the 90th anniversary of his birth.

His career is certainly one of the most wonderful in, the annals of modern times. Born at Forres, Scotland, on Aug. 6, 1820, as the son of a saddler, he made the prediction, as plain Donald Alexander Smith, to his cousin, now Lord Mount Stephen, then a herd laddie, that as there were no lairds in Canada to lord it over man, he would leave for British North America to tempt fortune and win a competency.

Accordingly, as a raw youth of 18, he set sail for the west, years before Horace Greeley was known, and has done better on this continent than any man from the east who ever crossed the western main.

Arriving at Montreal, he at once entered the service of the Hudson Bay Co., and for years was immersed in the solitudes of Labrador. He endured terrible hardships, but finally became superintendent of that company, whose sphere of influence extended 3,000 miles.

Afterwards, in company of his cousin, now Lord Mount Stephen, he advocated, against strong opposition, the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He was told that the receipts of the road would not pay for the axle grease of the trains. He had faith in the proposition, however, and has lived to see it the greatest transportation company in the world, carrying passengers from Great Britain to Hong Kong over its own lines.

Lord Strathcona is to-day the world's oldest multi-millionaire, Canada's greatest philanthropist, optimist and financier, the British House of Lords' second oldest peer, Great Britain's most prominent railroad builder and Canada's high commissioner at the seat of empire.

Son of a U. E. Loyalist.

There are tens of thousands of Canadians who claim descent from the United Empire Loyalists, but I doubt if there are many left who can claim the distinction of being actually sons and daughters of the men and women who left the revolting colonies and came to Canada for the sake of King and Empire. Mr. John Wightman, who died at Digby, Nova Scotia, on July 2 could make that boast, and so can his sister, Mrs. George Worden, of New Brunswick, but they are the last left of the family, and they always regarded themselves as the last who could claim actual U. E. Loyalists as their parents. The late Mr. Wightman was born in St. John West, Carleton County, in 1823, and was the youngest son of the late Capt. John Wightman, who was born in Newport, Rhode Island, during the Revolutionary War, the son of Lieut.-Col. Geo. Wightman, who performed distinguished service on the Royalist side during the war, and after the acknowledgment of the independence of the United States came to Canada with his family and took up land in New Brunswick. The late Mr. Wightman spent most of his life on the old homestead near St. John, which had been granted to the family by the crown. Rev. F. A. Wightman, Methodist minister of Souris, P.E.I., is a son. The reverend gentleman is one of the best known writers of the little island province, his best known book being a volume on Canada written in a broad Canadian spirit, drawing attention to the resources of the Canadian West and urging the young men of the Maritime Provinces, if they feel that they must leave home, to turn their steps in the direction of Western Canada in preference to the manufacturing centres of the Eastern States, which have been so attractive in the past to the adventurous youth of the Maritime Provinces. The family is indirectly connected with the Prince Edward Island family of the name which gave to the Island one of its oldest legislators in the person of the late Hon. Thomas Wightman.—Chesterfield in Family Herald and Weekly Star.

COL. DENISON, IMPERIALIST.

What the Vancouver Saturday Sunset Says About Him.

Says The Saturday Sunset of Vancouver, concerning Col. Denison's recent visit to that city:

Col. George T. Denison, Canada's most advanced and comprehensive Imperialist, addressed the Canadian Club yesterday. Col. Denison is the greatest spark consumer and war smoke maker which militant imperialism has yet produced in Canada. His brand of imperialism, while it does not fit the West, will nevertheless be cheerfully received in the West, mainly because it does no one any harm and it amuses the colonel. The colonel's Imperialism includes a federation of all the British countries of the earth, a trade zollverein, a navy for each, an Imperial navy double the present size, an Imperial council, an Imperial Parliament composed of representatives of all the countries in the Empire, of which the greatest shall be Canada, and anything else that looks plausibly Imperial. There is nothing narrow or circumscribed about Col. Denison's Imperial creed. It is so big that everyone can find some phase of it that pleases him and he is a mighty particular Imperialist who cannot find something in the colonel's Imperialism that suits him.

You can't help liking the colonel in spite of his fiery enthusiasm, simply because you know he believes and feels every word he says. You know the colonel is honest, clear from his upstanding grey pompadour down to his polished brogans. Because of his obvious honesty in combination with his sizzling zeal, when Col. George drops into London the War Office looks guilty, like a line of holiday celebrationists in the Toronto police court. When Col. George's clinking spurs and clanking sword come down the corridors of the War Office all the understrappers stand at attention and the heads of departments get madly busy.

So, too, when Col. George invades Berlin there is consternation in the Reichstag and the Kaiser's upstanding monstachios droop in dismay.

It's a dollar to a doughnut that when Col. Denison crossed the prairies he made an estimate of the number of soldiers necessary to defend that grand and glorious wheat farm from the northern hordes of Eskimos, the eastern rabble of Toronto police court habitues, the southern hosts of American farmers heading for the Canadian prairies and the schools of salmon now ascending, Excelsior-like, the cool rivers of British Columbia.

We are glad to see the fighting, strenuous colonel, and we thoroughly enjoy his discourses. And while we may not agree with his idea that Canada's chief destiny is that of incubator-of-soldiers for the Empire; we nevertheless like to hear him talk.

Record Land Prices.

One of the most unimpeachable bits of testimony recently given respecting the worth of the Canadian West was that afforded by the results of the sales of school lands near Francis, Saskatchewan. Record prices were realized; and the buyers, for the most part, were the farmers of the vicinity. The speculators were outbid by the men on the spot, who are already tilling the soil, and who, from actual experience, know what it is worth to a man who combines ownership with experience and industry.

These lands are set aside as aids to local education. They are held and administered by the Federal Government as trustees for the provincial authorities; and when they are sold the sum realized is held as an endowment fund, the interest being paid to the Government of the province in which the lands are situated, to be used by it for the purposes of education.

At the Francis sale an average price of $17.17 per acre was received, the total amount of the sale being $504,000. The farmers stepped in and increased their holdings by outbidding the speculators. Although the price seemed high the farmers knew that the land was worth it. They had proved its value by the crops raised on similar land in the locality.

Rickshaws For West Coast.

The sight of business men going to and from places of business and of women making their shopping rounds in the Japanese rickshaw may not be a novel one in Vancouver if the plans of a local company for importing a number of the rickshaws for hire materialize. There are a number of trained rickshaw coolies in the local Japanese district, and it is the intention of the promoters of the company to have these men, clad in suitable uniforms, for their work.

OPENING TORONTO "EX."

Sir Robert Baden-Powell Inaugurates 28th Annual.

Toronto, Aug. 30.—When Lieut.-Gen. Sir Robert Baden-Powell presses the magic button at 2.30 p.m. to-day, and the shrill siren whistlings and rumbling of machinery tell of industrial life awakened, it will mean that the Canadian National Exhibition has entered upon the 28th year of its existence.

The inaugural ceremonies this year will take place in front of the grand stand, an innovation which will please the public, for the auditorium of the dairy is a cozy affair, giving little accommodation to the thousands who attend the official opening. Then will follow the review of the 2,500 boy scouts and the public will be free to wander over the 260-acre of grounds, from the model military camp on the west to the home of the live stock in the east.

The directors' luncheon in the administration building at 1 p.m. will have Sir Robert as its specially distinguished guest. He will be escorted to the grounds by Honorary President W. K. McNaught and Second Vice-President Oliver will perform a like duty for the British Boy Scouts. President George Gooderham, M.P.P., will be in the chair, and the gathering promises to be a notable one, but speeches will be short. They have to be. Before Baden-Powell presses the button he will speak, and before that Mr. Gooderham will read the annual address, following a hoary custom. Then the formalities will be over.

Denounces Masonry.

Montreal, Aug. 30.—Mgr. Alfred Archambault has decided that a good Catholic can make no difference between Freemasons, be they of French, English or Scotch rite.

They are, in fact, all alike in the eyes of the Bishop of Joliette, who declares that Freemasonry in general aims at the destruction of the Roman Catholic Church, or social order, or political authority and the marriage tie. His lordship also said that all members of any of these lodges would not only be refused the sacraments of the mother church at the hour of death, but will also be refused Catholic burial.

Mgr. Archambault then referred to grave charges that certain residents of Joliette were members of these forbidden lodges, and declared that if this could be proven, he would denounce such persons from the cathedral pulpit and would ask the faithful to vote against them either at municipal, provincial or any other election.

Many Still Out of Work.

Montreal, Aug. 30.—Over 100 employes of the Grand Trunk, who answered the strike call several weeks ago, are still out of positions, notwithstanding that the strike has been settled for several weeks. The majority of these are freight conductors, whose former places are still occupied by the men who took positions as strikebreakers with a three months' agreement.

The unemployed men are still receiving remuneration from the strike fund. Some of those out of positions are passenger conductors who, in the days previous to the strike, almost invariably had charge of trains carrying railway officials on inspection trips.

Tourists Couldn't Land.

Kingston, Aug. 30.—A crowd of American tourists numbering 200, arrived here Sunday from the Thousand Islands, were not allowed to land by the customs officers. They remained on board the steamer America and enjoyed a water trip, declaring they will give Kingston the cold shoulder in future.

Manchester Engineer Hits Reef.

Quebec, Aug. 30.—The steamer Manchester Engineer, while on its way to Manchester, Eng., struck the reefs at Belle Isle, and was so badly damaged that she is putting back to this port.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Another Advance in Hogs at Chicago and East Buffalo.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—London and Liverpool cables quote American cattle at 12¾c to 14¼c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef steady, at 10¾c to 11¼c per pound.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 106 car loads, comprising 2162 cattle, 30 hogs, 625 sheep and lambs, 61 calves and 45 horses.

Exporters.

E. L. Woodward bought for Swift & Co. 610 cattle as follows: For London 150 steers 1315 lbs. each, at $6.42 average, or a range of $6.25 to $6.55; 35 heifers, 1105 lbs. each, at $6.12, or a range or $6 to $6.15; for Liverpool, 325 steers, 1150 to 1250 lbs. each, at $6.75 to $6.20; also 100 heifers, 975 to 1004 lbs. each, at $5.50 to $6 per cwt.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots of butchers sold at $5.75 to $6; loads of good, $5.25 to $5.60; medium, $4.90 to $5.15; common, $4.50 to $4.80; cows, $3 to $5.25.

Stockers and Feeders.

Three loads of northwest stockers and feeders sold at the following prices: Two loads, 900 to 950 lbs. each, sold by Rice & Whaley, at $4.65, and 33 stockers sold by Coughlin & Co., at $4.25.

Milkers and Springers.

There was an active trade in milkers and springers, all offerings being quickly bought up at $40 to $70 each. The average price would be from $50 to $55 each.

Veal Calves.

The market for veal calves continues strong at $8.50 to $8.60 per cwt. Wesley Dunn quoted $7.50 as the average price per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Six hundred and twenty-five sheep and lambs were readily taken. Sheep sold from 10c to 12c per cwt. higher, while lambs were 65c per cwt. lower than on Monday last, and easy at the latter end of the week's prices at the city market. Sheep sold at $4.25 to $4.65 for light ewes, and $3.50 to $4.25 for heavy; rams and culls, $3 to $3.50; lambs, at $6 to $6.35.

Hogs

There were only 54 hogs on sale. Packers are quoting $8.35 for selects, fed and watered, and $8.50 to drovers for hogs, f.o.b., cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards, west end market, receipts last week were 2400 cattle, 2950 sheep and lambs, 3500 hogs and 925 calves, while the offerings this morning were 1200 cattle, 1000 sheep and lambs, 750 hogs and 475 calves. There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle since this day week. The supply was large, but this was offset by an extra good demand from butchers, anticipating the increased consumption of beef next week. Choice steers sold at 6¼c, good at 5¾c to 6c, fairly good at 5¼c to 5½c, fair at 4¾c to 5c, and common at 4¼ to 4½c per lb. Cows brought from 4¼c to 5c, while good bulls sold at 4c to 4½c and light ones for canning purposes at 3¼c to 3½c per lb.

The hog trade was active at $9.25 to $9.50 cwt., weighed off the cars. The trade in small meats was only fair, sheep selling at 3¾c to 4c, and lambs at 5½c to 6c per lb. Calves were scarce and dear, with prices ranging from $5 to $15 each.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Aug. 29.—Cattle—Receipts, 4200 head; heavy slow, 15c to 25c lower; others active, steady to 10c lower; prime steers, $7.40 to $7.75; shipping, $6.35 to $7.25; butchers, $6.25 to $6.75; heifers, $4.50 to $6.25; cows, $2.75 to $5.45; bulls, $3.50 to $5.25; stockers and feeders, $4.25 to $5.25; stock heifers, $3.75 to $4.25; fresh cows and springers, $2 to $3 per head lower, $29 to $65.

Veals—Receipts, 1000 head; active and steady, $8.50 to $10.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 10,500 head; active; 10c to 35c higher; heavy, $9.60 to $9.70; mixed, $9.60 to $9.70; yorkers, $9.60 to $9.70; pigs, $9.60 to $9.65; roughs, $7.85 to $8.10; stags, $6.50 to $7; dairies, $9.25 to $9.70.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 9600 head; active; ewes 10c, lambs 15c, wethers 25c higher; lambs, $4.75 to $7.15; a few, $7.25; yearlings, $5 to $5.50; wethers, $4.75 to $5; ewes, $4.25 to $4.50; sheep, mixed, $3 to $4.50.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Cattle—Receipts, 25,000; market steady; beeves, $4.90 to $8.40; Texas steers, $4.75 to $6; western steers, $4.25 to $7; stockers and feeders, $4.10 to $6.10; cows and heifers, $2.60 to $6.60; calves, $6.50 to $9.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 26,000; market active and 5c higher than opening; light, $9.55 to $9.90; mixed, $9.55 to $9.85; heavy, $9.45 to $9.85; roughs, $8.45 to $8.70; good to choice, heavy, $9.65 to $9.80; pigs, $8.85 to $9.50; bulk of sales, $9.55 to $9.65.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 20,000; market strong; native, $3.75 to $7.65; western, $2.85 to $4.65; yearlings, $4.80 to $6.40; lambs, native, $5 to $8.25; western, $5 to $6.90.

Census of Grain Areas.

The next census of agriculture will be taken under date of 1st June, 1911.

The area, product and value of field crops harvested in 1910 will be enumerated, for fall wheat, spring wheat, barley, oats, rye, corn for husking, buckwheat, beans, peas, flax, mixed grains, hay and clover, alfalfa or lucerne, corn for forage, other forage crops, turnips, mangolds, sugar beets, other field roots, tobacco and hops, and grass seed, red clover seed and alsike clover seed will be enumerated for product and value.

Salt Palace Destroyed by Fire.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 30.—Salt Palace, a structure built of salt and one of the scenic features of Salt Lake City, was destroyed by fire yesterday, entailing a loss of $25,000. Defective wiring was the cause of the blaze. Salt Palace had been used for a number of years as an amusement resort, and its bicycle saucer track was one of the finest of its kind in the world.

A Tragic Thought.

A Winnipeg mother has had more than usual trouble with a bashful son of about thirteen years of age. The boy's embarrassment on meeting a stranger was painful to behold. The other day Sir Wilfrid Laurier stopped in the corridor of the hotel to speak to the mother who was an old acquaintance and the hopeful, to the mother's dismay, made several frantic attempts to bolt in an opposite direction and thus avoid meeting the Premier. After Sir Wilfrid has passed on, the mother gave the boy a severe curtain lecture. The lad was evidently much worked up by his scolding and after a few minutes' deep thought, enquired:

"Mother, you don't think Sir Wilfrid will tell the King, do you?"

New Brunswick Repartee.

In a trial growing out of the recent water-works extension in St. John, N.B., Hon. H. A. Powell and Mr. J. B. M. Baxter were opposing counsel.

Mr. Powell was examining a witness in reference to the depth, etc., of Lake Latimer, and finally in a jocular mood he asked:

"Is the water fresh?"

"Yes," replied the witness soberly.

Mr. Baxter asked leave to put a question to the witness which was granted, whereupon he gravely asked: "Is it half as 'fresh' as Mr. Powell?"

Billiards.

The invention of billiards is generally attributed to a French artist about the year 1571. Who introduced the game into Britain is not known, but it is mentioned both by Shakespeare and Spencer, and the time of its introduction seems to have been the close of the sixteenth century.

The Oceans.

The Pacific ocean covers 68,000,000 square miles, the Atlantic 30,000,000 and the Indian, Arctic and Antarctic oceans 42,000,000.

True Love.

Said I to lovely Annabel,
"I love you more than tongue can tell!"
"Dear me!"
Said she,
"That kind of talk will never do.
Pray, can't you think of something new?"

I felt her words within me rankle
Until I glimpsed her dainty ankle.
I sighed,
Then cried,
"No 'skeeter loves a low cut shoe,
My Anna, more than I love you!"

OF DOUBLE INTEREST IS THIS LETTER

It Reports a Remarkable Cure of Kidney and Bladder Disease From Belleville, Ont.

Also Recalls Mr. D. M. Waters' First Purchase of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills and Ointment a Quarter of a Century Ago.

When you read this letter you will readily understand why it is of special interest to us, for the druggist who sold the pills in this case gave his first order in 1885.

For twenty-five years Mrs. Waters has watched the growth in popularity of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and other medicines and can now point to hundreds of cures in Belleville and vicinity resulting from his recommendations of these well-known medicines.

If you are tired of experimenting, why not use a medicine which has proven its undoubted control over diseases of the kidneys and liver? Let this letter convince you or send to us for records of hundreds of other cases.

Mr. Mark Ottrey, Bay Side, Ont., writes: "I purchased two boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills from my druggist, D. M. Waters, Belleville, Ont., and the amount of satisfaction my wife obtained from their use has led me to ask my druggist to send you this letter.

Mrs. Ottrey suffered considerably with kidney and bladder trouble, causing great pain at times. The urine was very heavy and of a bad colour. After taking a few doses of these pills she felt better and when she had used the two boxes she was entirely well."

The definite, direct and specific action of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills on the liver, kidneys, and bowels enables them to bring about cure

MACHINERY DAMAGED

Log Floated Through Gate at Auburn Power House and Played Havoc With the Apparatus There.

POWER IS LOW

A serious accident occurred at the Auburn power house yesterday, when a stick of timber floated through an opening in the grates and broke the machinery. The water gates were partly open, and the stick got between them, causing serious damage. The gearing was also damaged. The clutches on the big cog wheel were broken off on one side, and the machinery was generally deranged.

There has only been half power on since yesterday, which accounts for the fact that the street cars are running late.

A gang of men have been working steadily at the break since yesterday and it is expected that things will be in good order in a couple of days.

UNKNOWN GIRL TRIES TO KILL HERSELF IN HOTEL

Walked Into Ladies' Parlour of Astor House and Put a Bullet in Her Breast---Could Not Get Along Honourably in New York She Explained in a Note.

Special Wire to the Examiner.

..NEW YORK, AUG. 30.—"It is really deplorable that a girl cannot get along honourably in New York. I might have succeeded had I conceded to the wishes of men—men with culture and money and no morals."

Leaving this note an unknown and beautiful girl attempted to put an end to her existence in the Astor Hotel at midnight last night. Carefully guarded by police, she, apparently highly cultured and educated, lies in a precarious condition in a local private hospital with a bullet in her breast fired by herself with suicidal attempt. She was not a guest of the Astor Hotel, but calmly walked in through the crowded corridors at midnight, stepped into the ladies' parlour and did the deed. She is a blonde and aged about 25. In a letter to her mother unaddressed and signed Norah, she said she was defenceless against the insincerity, sordidity and disillusionment of life." Her chances for recovery are very slight.

At noon the hospital doctors told the girl that she had no hope of recovery. She said, "Thank God, this is one thing in which I may be successful." She steadily refuses to give any clue to her identity, though her clothing and everything about her all give evidence of high social standing. The police are endeavouring to trace her through the expensive pearl handled weapon with which she shot herself.

SHOT HIS FATHER THEN TURNED WEAPON ON SISTER

Examiner Special.

NEW YORK, AUG. 29.—Returning to the home from which he had been sent away a week before, Frank Allgier, Jr., eighteen years old, son of a hotel proprietor at No. 114 Wyckoff avenue, Ridgewood, rushed last night into the room where his family was at dinner and shot his father twice, inflicting wounds that probably will prove fatal. He fired two other shots, one bullet injuring the ankle of a little sister. The girl had attempted to keep him from using the revolver, His mother and a younger brother seized and held the youth until the police arirved.

The boy had been wayward, according to the other members of the family, and had been passing much time back of the bar, drinking and giving away drinks to his companions. Then the father decided to act. "Get out of here and stay away," Allgier said to his son. "I will have nothing more to do with you."

Nothing more was seen of the boy until last night, when he walked into the dining room. The father was unrelenting and said, "I thought I told you to stay away." Then the boy pulled from his pocket a large revolver and, standing only a few feet away, fired two shots. One bullet took effect in the father's abdomen and the other in the groin and Allgier sank from his chair to the floor.

Margaret Allgier, fourteen years old, was the first one of the family to get to the side of her father. Her brother was swaying back and forth and swinging the revolver.

"Oh, Frank, see what you have done," the girl cried, as she kneeled by the side of the wounded man. "Don't shoot again."

As she spoke the youth pulled the trigger twice, one shot going wild and the other hitting the girl. She fell on the floor by the side of her father. Then Mrs. Allgier and another son, Joseph, sixteen years old, threw themselves on the frenzied young man.

The three fought half way round the room, the mother with her arms clasped tightly around the son who was trying to release himself, while the other boy was doing all he could to make his brother surrender the weapon. The mother was so exhausted from shock and the struggle she could hardly stand when Policemen Hart and Habuenrich, of the Hamburg avenue station, who had heard the shots, broke into the room.

One of them held the shooter while the other sent a hurry call for an ambulance. When Dr. Menger, of the German Hospital arrived, he said that both wounds of Allgier were bad ones. The father and daughter were taken to the hospital in the same ambulance. At a late hour it was said there was little hope for the father, and that it might be necessary to amputate the girl's foot.

The son aws taken to the Hamburg avenue station. It was observed there that he had been drinking heavily, and he stood sullen and defiant. The only statement he would make was that his father had been nagging him.

TORONTOS SHOW "BUSH" FORM AND LOSE TO THE GREYS

TORONTO, AUG. 30.—They do say that every team must have its slump. The Leafs have not been worse than third except for a day or two, and now the alleged inevitable slump appears to have set in. The Kelleys slumped another game yesterday, dropping the first of the Providence series by 3 to 0, and making their record of consecutive losses a round quartette.

A patch-work team lined up by Jimmy Collins didn't deter the Greys from playing some very gingery baseball. Injuries and sickness have played havoc with the Clam Diggers until they hardly knew their own places yesterday. Toronto again hit into double figures, getting a fine total of eleven safeties off Barberich, while Newton held the visitors to five hits. The doctor's good behaviour in this respect was offset, however, by a wild pitch which hurt, and another which didn't, and a passed ball by Tonneman with a man on third. The Leafs gummed a couple of shining chances to score by some doing on the bases, which were very much "bush." The latter were well meant and would have looked like fine business had the gone through, but when those plays fail of consummation they go down in the boneyard column.

Central Charity Board Holds Regular Meeting

The Central Charity Board met last night, when there were present Messrs H. Rush (chairman), Joseph Batten, P. S. White, M. McIntyre and W. Kemp. The minutes of the meeting of June 27th, 1910, were read and confirmed.

A letter was read from P. Campbell, manager, saying that the balance at the credit of the board at Bank of Toronto on June 30th was $46.15.—Received.

The following statement of orders given was read:

	Since last meeting (two months)	During 1910
Groceries	$109.75	$592.70
Wood	6.05	342.25
Tickets	7.25	43.60
Sundries	166.00	990.21
Total	$289.05	$1968.76

The following accounts were presented: A. Allison $4.00; M. H. Halpin, $5.00; R. C. Braund, $6.00; John James, $2.00; Mrs. Bullied and Irwin, $2.00; J. J. Lynch, $2.00; Wm. Bunton, $2.65; A. Pearson, $6.00; Can. Pacific Ry. Co., $4.60; E. Oliver $3.00; Jos. H. Cobb $3.95; Pet. Protestant Home, $51.00; Mrs. Dunsford, $12.00; N. Routley, $9.75; Geo. Goheen, $24.00; R. J. Soden, $1.25; House of Providence, $54.00; D. Sullivan, $8.00; House of Providence $54.00; P. S. White, $18.00.

Moved by Mr. Batten, seconded by Mr. Kemp that the accounts presented be paid.—Carried.

OPENED THE FAIR

Lt.-General Sir Baden Powell Pressed the Button at the Canadian National Promptly at Three To-day.

EVERYTHING RUNNING

Special Wire to The Examiner.

TORONTO, AUG. 30.—Promptly at three o'clock to-day Lieut.-Gen. Sir R. S. S. Baden Powell, the defender of Mafeking and the founder and head of the Boy Scouts movement, pushed the button, which set the whistles tooting and wheels moving in another edition of the Canadian National Exhibition. Sir Robert received a very eulogistic address and replied modestly. The Fair is now in complete running order.

A MYSTERY HERE

Man Finds Dog's Paw and Other Things in Canned Tongue

Examiner Special.

New Orleans, Aug. 27.—Philadp Vresinski, a merchant at Jackson, La., in a letter to E. L. McGhee, chemist in charge of the Federal Government's pure food laboratory here, declares that he ordered a case of canned tongue from a New Orleans wholesale several days ago. He sold some of the tongue and opened a can himself. Here is what Vresinski found:

Front paw of dog, with claws intact. Half a handful of dog hair, colored yellow. Sixteen broom straws.

McGhee has dispatched a Government inspector to Jackson to seize the consignment and obtain an affidavit from the merchant. The name of the Chicago packing house that shipped the stuff the chemist would not reveal. He has made formal report to Washington.

93 YEARS OLD

Bread is Relic of the Famine Times of 1817

Examiner Special.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 27.—Beneath a glass case at the home of Joseph Hummel, a Muncie business man, are two small loaves of bread, each weighing an ounce and a half. They were baked ninety-three years ago and are relics of the famine that swept Germany in 1816 and 1817.

Wheat then sold for $84 a bushel. The loaves are heirlooms in the Hummel family and came into Mr. Hummel's hands when he was visiting his old home in Wurtemberg twenty years ago.

Floods and the Napoleonic war then raging virtually destroyed the wheat crop throughout Europe in those years and the few who were able to raise the cereal charged exorbitant prices for it.

PAY FOR LIGHT

The Nickel-in-Slot System Provides Illumination

Examiner Special.

Berlin, Aug. 27.—By an ingenious adaptation of the "Nickel-in-the-slot" system, the midnight revellers of a certain Silesian village are made to pay for their own special street lighting. The Zargau municipality owns the electric light plant, and the street lighting, up to ten o'clock, is paid for by local taxation. The lamps are switched off at ten o'clock, when the automatic system comes into operation. Anybody "afraid to come in the dark" may drop a penny into a box standing on an iron pillar. The lamps for nearly a mile along the road blaze forth and burn for twelve minutes, just long enough to let the wayfarer find his own door.

FATALLY INJURED BY BULLET DYING MAN HURLS A BOMB

Panic in St. Paul Railway Offices This Morning When Discharged Employee Threw a Pint Bottle of Nitro-Glycerine on the Floor---J. J. Hill, Famous Railway Magnate, Had Narrow Escape.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

ST. PAUL, MINN., AUG. 30.—One man was killed and the Great Northern Railway offices and staff were placed in jeopardy as the result of a revolver duel here this morning between Charles Welch, a discharged employee of the Great Northern and Al. G. Ray, the chief specialagent of the company. Welch was struck by a bullet from Ray's revolver, but with his last atom of strength he hurled a pint bottle of nitro-glycerine wrapped in newspaper upon the floor. For a moment there was a terrible panic, but the newspaper wrapper evidently prevented the bomb from going off; at any rate it did not explode. Welch passed away almost immediately after throwing the explosive.

The offices of J. J. Hill, the famous railway magnate and his son Lewis Hill, the president of the Great Northern, were right beneath the room in which the encounter took place. The police say that there was sufficient explosive to blow the entire building to pieces had it exploded. Ray, who shot Welch, has been placed under arrest by the police. The affair has caused a tremendous amount of excitement.

WOMEN HAD TO SEEK REFUGE UNDER SEATS

Special to The Examiner.

SODUS, Aug. 29.—Clarence Willis, James Miner and Joseph Willis of Williamson, are held here on the charge of assault, as a result of a terrible fight, on a Rochester and Sodus Bay railway car, which left Sodus Point late last night.

The men demolished the interior of the car, badly injuring Conductor Edward B. Hibbard, and one of the three men, Clarence Wills, nearly lost his life through loss of blood. The men had been spending the day at Sodus Point and the passengers in the car state that they were under the influence of liquor. They began to quarrel with Conductor Hibbard and finally knocked some change out of his hand. Then they attacked Hibbard. He was badly pounded before he could be rescued from the hands of the men. The men were in an ugly mood and the passengers were so frightened that it was impossible to control the trio. They smashed all the windows in the smoker and demolished various parts of the car.

An effort was made to keep them in the smoker, but they forced themselves into the front of the car where the women passengers screamed and crawled under the seats. All of the men were badly cut when they smashed the windows and blood was spilled from one end of the car to the other. Several dresses and suits of clothes were ruined by the blood and dirt. The car was finally stopped and the men jumped off. They started to stone the car when Conductor Hibbard gave the signal to start and the men were left behind.

The condition of Clarence Wills became so serious from loss of blood that it was feared he would die. Dr. Charles F. Hitchcock of this village was notified by telephone and he soon reached the men at Wallington, bringing them to Sodus. Wills was in bad shape to-day and Conductor Hibbard can hardly walk. The car was so badly damaged that it could not be run further than Sodus. The passengers were transferred to another car and sent on to Rochester.

The men were arrested at an early hour this morning and arrangements are being made to bring them before Justice of the Peace George F. Hendricks before the day is over. Two of the men, it is said, were in a similar car fight west of Williamson some time ago and were let off with a fine.

Has Thirteen Names And Was Married At Thirteen

Special to The Examiner.

Springfield, Mo., Aug. 27.—This city boasts of a woman with more names than any other woman in the State, and who also lays claim to having married as early, or earlier, in life than any person in Missouri.

The woman has thirteen names and was married when she was thirteen years of age, and says that she has always considered thirteen a very lucky number. She and Mr. Wilding were married on May 13, 1901.

When asked how she secured so many names, Mrs. Wilding said: "When I was born my parents had eleven sisters and all wanted me named after them. Father and mother, not being able to decide between them, gave me the name of each."

Her name is Mrs. Mary Samantha Sarah Lavinia Nancy Lucretia Henrietta Pathenia Arizona Tabitha Dollie Jones-Hall-Wilding, and she resides at No. 227 West Chase Street. Mrs. Wilding is a native of Washington County, Arkansas, and was born at Fayetteville, twenty-eight years ago. At the age of thirteen years she was married to a man by the name of Hall. After their separation she married Mr. Wilding.

Her names were discovered by E. G. White, deputy city assessor. When he asked for her full name she turned loose on him from all sides, and the deputy called more than once for her to stop, as he had no room on the blank for all of them. Deputy White says that the next person who springs so many names on him will have to pay taxes on them.

GOOD-BYE TO BEAUTY

It is good-bie to beauty when kidney derangements set in. The skin becomes hard and dry and the form wastes away and becomes emaciated. One cannot be too watchful and the safest way is to keep the kidneys, as well as the liver and bowels, healthy and active by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. This ensures pure blood and a healthy digestive system.

THE DANGER OF DIVING

Hugh Davis, of Racine, Wis., Plunged Into Water at Stony Lake and Struck a Rock, Badly Cutting His Leg

LAUNCH DISABLED

Special Staff Correspondence.

STONY LAKE, AUG. 30—Mr. Hugh Davis, of Racine, Wis., who, with his brother, has been a guest at Mount Julian, for the summer, was painfully injured on Saturday. While swimming he dived into what he thought was deep water, but struck his leg on a rock, inflicting a severe flesh wound, which Dr. Morgan, who is occupying Rev. J. R. Webb's cottage, attended, and in which he had to put four stitches.

Diving in Stony Lake in certain certain places is a dangerous amusement and bathers should take care that there are no rocks around when they dive.

"The "Islinda" towed Mr. Oxley's launch down from the east end of the lake on Saturday. It was found to be out of commission with a bent shafe. The shaft has been straightened and the boat is again in running order.

This week will leave a great many cottages vacant. Mr. Henderson and family, of Toronto, return on Wednesday; Mr. Moore of Lakefield, has closed his cottage; Mr. Piper, of Toronto, returns this week; and Mrs. J. R. Stratton will close "Strathormond-on-the-Lake" on Wednesday or Thursday.

Mr. Ben. Simpson of the Hamilton Collegiate Institute, closes up his cottage at the head of Yonge's Bay to-day.

The most of the balance of the cottagers will be closed immediately after Labour Day.

NOT CREDITED

Special Wire to the Examiner.

OTTAWA, AUG. 30.—In official circles here no credence is given to the statement that Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, intends lifting the duty on American cattle and converting Canada into the grazing field of the world.

OFF FOR TORONTO

Peterborough's boy scouts left on the early train this morning for Toronto, where they will help in the demonstration to be given before General Baden Powell at the Canadian National Exhibition to-day. Among the party were the following: Mr. D. Oscar Waring, scout master, Cecil Richardson, Kenneth McClelland, Gerald McClelland, George Babcock, Trevour Cuffe, Allan Kingscote, Lowell Clarke, John Common, Fred Walker, of the Peewit Patrol, Reginald Stratton patrol leader, Herbert McClelland, Alexander Fortye, Alfred Austin and Sam Mills.

A VANISHED SCARE.

Conservative politicians and journals of the same brand were very eloquent in respect of the German peril when they were supporting Mr. Borden's proposal last winter to substitute for a Canadian navy, built in Canada, a gift of 20 or 25 millions to be sent to Great Britain to give employment to British workmen in the building of Dreadnoughts. The Examiner and others who took pains to inform themselves argued that the German peril of invasion was a myth—the Germans were not ready, if they had the will, to attack Great Britain, and had not the resources to overtake Great Britain in the matter of shipbuilding. True, Germany has made great advance in naval construction, but she is still a long way aft, and is finding out that a stern chase is a long chase. In the matter of tonnage of battleships, over 10,000 tons, and cruisers over 5,000 tons, although Germany has increased her tonnage 541 per cent. in five years, she is 157,888 tons short of Britain's record of five years previous. In 1905 Britain's tonnage was 619,460 tons, while Germany's was 84,390; in 1910, Britain's tonnage was 1,335,870, and Germany's 465,580. In the matter of expenditure Britain has a still greater lead. Great Britain spent ten years ago on naval construction, 35 million dollars more than Germany did last year; so that, with all her feverish activity, Germany is behind where Britain was ten years ago. Emperor William will probably die of old age before Germany can think of facing Great Britain on the sea. The German scare was largely made out of whole cloth for political purposes.

ASYLUM ADMINISTRATION.

Sir James Whitney, Premier of Ontario—or, since he prefers the more mouth-filling way—Prime Minister of Ontario—is at present in England, telling the benighted Britishers how to run the Empire. But Sir James has some few things in his own bailiwick that call for adjustment. He entered office with high ideals—in words. The canker of partizanship was to be cauterized with merciless hand. The demon of partizanship in the License Department was to be exorcised with bell, book and candle. Every executive appointment was to be made on merit, without reference to the colour of the party ticket. Farmer Flavelle, who is warning the impeccable Sir James that his Minister of Agriculture doesn't understand his business, has his opinion about the elimination of partizanship from License Law administration. Sir James fulminated fiercely against the wickedness of appointing members of the Legislature to office, and behold Mr. J. P. Downey, M. P. P., has the Children Hundreds forced upon him and his feet thrust into the shoes of Dr. Beaton, superintendent of the Orillia Asylum for the Feeble-minded.

Mr. Downey was a clever newspaperman, more capable for a bishopric than for the position into which he has been tossed by the party pitchfork. The place to which he has been appointed is one requiring for its proper filling, special medical knowledge and skill and experience. Even a physician with ordinary medical knowledge would not fill the bill, as well as the late incumbent, who successfully devoted years of study of the material—with the material at hand—entering into the problem which the effective management of the Orillia Asylum for the Feeble-minded presents. Yet his resignation was forced in order to create a vacancy for a partizan favourite, whose sole qualification is his partizanship.

It is stated that Dr. Beaton was cashiered on the ground that he was too old to fill the place efficiently. This excuse becomes diaphonous to transparency, when it is recalled that years ago Rev. Dr. Chambers was appointed to the responsible and difficult position of governor of Toronto jail, when he had more years than Dr. Beaton has now, and no one will say that his years have interefered with his efficiency.

Dr. Beaton's ejectment from office for partizan reasons is, unfortunately, not a precedent; it is a sequel in the application of the spoils system, which the Whitney Government introduced into Canada—which it has practised since 1905, with more or less effrontery and with unceasing, even if silently working, persistence. Not to leave, for examples of partizanship administration, the field of administration of the interests of the most pathetic unfortunates of our population—a class whose case should appeal even to the humanity of a partizan government—the case of Dr. Russel, late superintendent of the Hamilton Asylum, may be cited. Here a man, especially well qualified, by study and experience and humane interest in his work, was retired in the full vigour of his manhood and in the very prime of his usefulness, to make room for Dr. English, whose administration of the Hamilton Asylum is the laughing stock of those who are in a position to contrast it with the administration of the previous incumbent. With such administration, and with kissing going by favour, in the way of appointments—from superintendent to scrubwoman—it is not surprising if the selection of subordinates should constitute some relation between them and the conditions that contributed to the escape of the murderers, Moir and Taggart.

The exploitation, for party ends, or from party influence, of offices, that, from the very nature of their relation to the claims of the class under their charge, should be held as, and be, a sacred trust, tends to infect and deteriorate, if not demoralize, subordinates, especially when the centre of officialdom, in Queen's Park sets the pace; where the number of regular and supernumerary officials in connection with the Provincial Secretary's Department is so notoriously excessive that they are tumbling over each other in the struggle of finding something to do besides draw their salary. Tel maitre, tel homme. Administration on partizan lines of any public interest is bound to produce unsatisfactory results; and it might not be a rash venture to assert that investigation would disclose among these results, the general fact that the cost of maintenance of the public institutions of Ontario is twenty-five per cent. in excess of what it was under a former regime—that waste and extravagance in the use and abuse of supplies are not mere rare incidents. When officials and employees in our public institutions are made to feel that efficient discharge of their duties is not to be a test of the retention of their services; and when party heelers realize that party claims supersede qualification in appointment to office, it is idle to expect the best administrative results.

STILL ANOTHER.

Another ghastly evidence of the inefficiency of Ontario's insanse asylum administration, is furnished by a terrible murder and suicide committed yesterday in Toronto. A man who was committed as a dangerously insane patient to the Queen street asylum was, according to the Toronto News, permitted by the authorities to go out and go home from time to time. The News also states that this action of the authorities put the family in constant dread of some violence like the tragic happening of yesterday. The News, though it is the party organ and official apologist of the Whitney Administration, demands a "searching investigation into the conditions that permitted an insane man to leave the grounds of the asylum and keep the family for months in a state of protracted terror." The News properly considers it reasonable "that the family should be entitled to such protection as the institution might afford." The double tragedy on Robert street, Toronto, added to the escape of two murderers from the Hamilton asylum, and the appointment of a layman to do the work which only a properly qualified physician can do, at the Orillia asylum, furnish cumulative evidence of the inefficient and perfunctory administration of our public institutions.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mayor Geary, of Toronto, is taking to heart the lesson of the evils of partizanship in the administration of our public institutions, and declares that the City Works Department must be taken out of Municipal elections.

SUMMARY OF FISHERY QUESTIONS HAGUE TRIBUNAL IS DECIDING

The Hague Tribunal has been for some time hearing the respective claims of Great Britain and Canada, and the United States in the matter of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries. Those claims have been elaborately presented in the form of agreements made by counsel representing the parties interested, some of the addresses requiring a week to deliver. It is expected that the decision will be reached in a few days. In view of this, a succinct summary of the case, furnished by P. T. McGrath to the Review of Reviews is being published, as a matter of live interest:

The questions involved are varied and important. The liberties conferred by the treaty of 1818 were ceded to the "inhabitants" of the United States. The first point to be decided is what is meant by the word "inhabitants." Can vessels flying the American flag employ fishermen not alone residing in the United States, but who may be shipped to Canadian ports or on the high seas off the Newfoundland seaboard, beyond territorial jurisdiction? Newfoundland holds that none but genuine "inhabitants" of the Republic residing in that country and shipped at an American port can be employed, while America takes the position that the flag covers all who may be on board, and that if a ship has her proper papers it is not within the competence of the British or Colonial Governments to inquire into the nationality of those who make up her crew.

The second point that arises is what is meant by the liberty to take fish "in common" with British subjects. Does it give the Americans the same rights in every respect as are enjoyed by the colonists, and if so, does it render Americans liable to the same obligations as are imposed upon British subjects by the Colonial fishery laws? In other words, are American fishing vessels and their crews, operating in Newfoundland waters, bound by the local regulations that may be made from year to year by the island Parliament? Newfoundland contends that they are so bound, but the United States maintains that any such regulations must be by joint agreement, dictated solely with the object of preserving the fisheries, as if the colony were conceded the right to make regulations of itself, it could so frame them as to destroy the value of the fishing liberties granted to American subjects by treaty.

The third question arising is as to whether inhabitants of the United States are required to report at the custom-house, pay light or other duties, or be subject to any similar regulations. Newfoundland contends that for the maintenance of her rights of sovereignty, the prevention of smuggling, and the carrying out of ordinary jurisdictional powers, she is entitled to require that vessels of every nationality entering her waters must report at customs-houses, and, as they participate in the benefits of her lighthouses and other service, should pay light and harbour and similar dues, whereas the United States maintains that American fishing vessels are under no such obligations.

The fourth question is as to where the three marine miles off the coasts bays, creeks, or harbours, mentioned in the treaty of 1818, are to be measured from. This raises once more the whole "headland" question on which there will doubtless now be a definite pronouncement. Britain, as a general thing, maintains that territorial jurisdiction extends seaward for three miles from a line drawn from the outer headlands, no matter how wide the bay that is enclosed may be, and under the exercise of this regulation in bygone days American fishing vessels were seized for fishing in the Bay of Fundy, which is sixty miles across. The United States, on the other hand, maintains that the three-mile limit should follow the sinuosities of the coast, though in actual practice American authorities did not apply this construction to Boston New York and Delaware bays, or other iwde inlets on the Atlantic coast.

The fifth question involved is whether Americans have the right to take fish in the bays, harbours and creeks of Newfoundland and the Magdalen Islands, as they admittedly have on the coast of Labrador. Newfoundland maintains that they have not, on the ground that the differing phraseology implies a difference in the liberties conceded, whereas the United States contends that the admitted practice since the treaty of 1818 was negotiated has been for Americans to fish in these inlets.

Such is the international problem that presents itself for solution at The Hague just now, and its determination will remove the last serious issue that exists between Great Britain and the United States.

Saved Life Several Times

The honest, straightforward statement of Mrs. Rhoda Pritchard of Astoria, L.I., is convincing proof of the great merit of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a family medicine. Thousands of such letters are received from grateful men and women who have derived wonderful benefits from its use.

"I don't know how to express myself in regard to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I have taken it for twenty years and it has saved my life several times when I have been given up to die by my physicians. I am now sixty-six years old and hale and hearty, thanks to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I have recommended it to many people and also to my immediate family, my children and grandchildren, and they in turn have recommended it to others. My children tell me I do not look a day older than fifty and I do not feel even as old as that.

"If there is any one who doubts this written statement and would like to hear verbal praise of your excellent Malt Whiskey I will be pleased to see them at any time." — Mrs. Rhoda Pritchard, 6th Ave., Astoria, L. I.

DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY has to its credit fifty years of success without a question as to its merits as a curative agent. During this time it has brought the blessings of health to overworked men, delicate women and sickly children, who find in it the strength-giving properties that are so necessary to them. It quickens and strengthens the heart action, aids digestion, restores health and vigour; makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous. It is prescribed by doctors and is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It is an absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold IN SEALED BOTTLES ONLY—never in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price $1.25 a large bottle. Write Medical Department, The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N.Y., for an illustrated medical booklet containing testimonials and rare common sense rules for health, and doctor's advice, both sent free.

"Do not fail to visit our booth when at the Canadian National Exhibition. All are welcome.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

There Will Be Some Surprises at Penman Games Here Labour Day

The entries for the big Labour Day meet, have started to roll in. Quite a few local entries came in yesterday. All those intending to enter in any of the events are requested to have their entry in the hands of the management not later than Wednesday, as no entries will be received after that date.

There should be a large field in the one mile handicap walk, as there are several good walkers in the city and liberal handicaps will be given. The boys' races and the 100 yards' City Championship are filling up rapidly and these sure will be some race.

The reserved seats in the grandstand are being sold rapidly and quite a few seats were marked off the plan yesterday. The plan can be seen at the Y.M.C.A. any time up till 10 p. m. Saturday.

In a letter from a Toronto friend, J. J. Thompson, who has charge of the meet, was informed that "the way the different men are performing and the form they are showing in their own 'back yards' will set the athletic world talking again. E. P. McDonald, the Toronto Central walker, is going to surprise some one, one of these fine days. The other night in a workout with Geo. Goulding, he covered the mile in 6.30, and was climbing up Goulding's heels at the finish. He goes on to say if your track is as good as you say it is, you sure will have 'some meet.'" Guess we will have the 'some meet' then.

LINDSAY PRESS COMMENTS ON SATURDAY'S GAME

(From the Lindsay Post)

Jimmie Doris, secretary of the T. A. S. nine, watched the game from the side.

Mike O'Brien, of the T.A.S., team, and the Spratt Brothers are classmates at St. Michael's College.

The runs scored by Lindsay were hard earned ones.

Heffernan, who played right field for the visitors, was the speedy junior on last year's Electric City hockey team.

The fans had a tendency to hug the diamond too closely and the umpire had his troubles keeping them back.

Manager Oldham, of the West Ends, is very popular with his team. He looks after the boys well and is an all round sport of the right brand.

Benj. Stacey and his brother from Peterborough, two heroes of a hundred baseball fights, were interested spectators at the game.

Albert Quinlan, the clever pitcher of the T. A. S. nine, took in the game from the grand stand. "Prunes" has twenty-two strike outs in a no-hit game to his credit this year as well as a victory with Eatons against the Royal Oaks at Toronto, when only two hits were secured off him.

Benj. Stacey is trying to arrange a game between Manilla and T. A. S. at Peterborough at an early date.

Quinlan, of Peterborough, pitches for Lorneville against Woodville on next Saturday. Either Kid Keslick or Lott of Uxbridge, will do the twirling for Woodville.

About two hundred accompanied the West Ends on their excursion.

Why is baseball dead in Lindsay? There is a cause and the cause should be removed.

Mr. J. J. Thompson, physical director of the Peterborough Y. M. C. A., and formerly of the Lindsay "Y" accompanied the West Ends to town. Mr. Thompson's many old friends were glad to see him again.

The West Ends are no slouches at ball playing. They stood second in the Peterborough City League, the crack T. A. S. nine having defeated them three out of four. And right here, let it be said that the team that can trim the West Ends when they are in condition, certainly possess some class. Oldham's bunch are clever fielders, the work of Konold, the Pittsburg kid at third bag; Giroux at second; Minorgan at short, being worthy of particular mention. Mike O'Brien, the heavy hitting first baseman o fthe Peterborough T.A.S., played the initial bag and save for a few errors, played stellar ball. "Doc" McFadden, the elongated catcher of the T.A.S., did the receiving for the visitors and played his position well. "Gussie" Rose, their twirler, who has been suffering from a bad arm, was not up to concert pitch, and did not prove a mystery to the locals. He was replaced by Minorgan towards the close of the game, whose benders were tapped quite freely by the locals. Rose had six strike-outs to his credit. —Lindsay Post.

(Lindsay Warder.)

By the score of 6 runs to 5 the Lindsay ball team defeated the fast West End nine of Peterborough on Saturday afternoon in the presence of a couple of hundred fans, including one hundred from the Electric City.

During the first part of the game it looked all off with the Lindsay bunch, as the Electric City boys put up a classy article of ball, and outclassed the locals. At the end of the fourth innings the score board read 5 to nothing in favour of the visitors. Up to this stage of the game Rose, the Peterborough twirler, did not allow the locals the semblance of a hit, but in the sixth innings things took a change for the better, and with a couple of charities aided by a two bagger down the third base line by Peter Spratt, McMahon scored the first run for Lindsay, and gave the fans a chance to give vent to their feelings.

In the sixth innings by good hitting and good base running, assisted by a couple of errors by the Peterborough infield, Thompson scored the second run.

In the seventh Rose, who had pitched a sterling article of ball, commenced to weaken, and the locals hit his slow delivery all over the lot, scoring two runs. He was taken out of the box and replaced by Minorgan, who had nothing but a straight ball, and he was treated to a similar pounding in the last inning, with the result that Lindsay scored two runs and won a hard uphill fight.

The credit of Lindsay's victory is no doubt due to the clever pitching of "Kid" Keslick, the 18-year-old wonder, who has only met defeat once this season. In the early stages of the game he was hit rather hard, which was due to the erratic fielding of the Lindsay infield. After the fourth innings he tightened up and had the Electric City sluggers at his mercy. He pitched as clever a game of ball as was ever presented to a Lindsay audience. He had all kinds of speed, good control, lots of curves and a deadly drop that fools the best of swatters. He fielded his position perfectly, and struck out 13 batters. The "Kid" has a bright future and is one of the best twirlers in the business. He outpitched his opponents in all stages of the game and won considerable applause from the audience.

The Ottawa Rough Riders Plans For The Season

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 27.—The first meeting of the season of the Ottawa Football Club will be held on Tuesday evening of next week, when arrangements will be made for the initial practice preparatory to the coming rugby season. Of late it has been rumored that Alf. Smith or Marty Walsh would succeed Tom Clancy as coach, Clancy having expressed a desire to drop out, but there is now a wave of feeling favorable towards Clancy, and Tom may be prevailed upon to accept office for another year. Dave. McCann definitely announces that he intends to go to New Brunswick to college, and consequently there will be one vacancy behind the line. Jack Williams, Eddie Gerrard, and Gordon Johnstone will be available. Martin Kilt states that, on account of his Henley trip, he will not run chances on the gridiron, Eddie Phillips and Jim McCuaig making like statements. However, it is felt that all three will eventually be pressed into service. There will be four vacancies nevertheless, as Kennedy, Sherriff, and Ferguson intend to retire, while Bert Stronach is on a Government job at the Pacific coast. Efforts are being made to get Jack Ryan into the game again, and he is being counted on for outside left. Disney, McGee, Church, Vaughan, and Hickey will also be available, as well as Stuart Christie, who did very good work last fall.

The Strain On The Cubs The Leaders Of The League

Chicago News: The Cubs will thank any club that defeats the world's champions at the present stage of the pennant race. Each beating handed to Pittsburg lessens the strain on Manager Chance and his men, as it increases the margin between the clubs. If there is anything ball players like to be free from, it is the nervousness that sets in during a battle for a championship such as is now under way.

The Cubs are not appealing for assistance from any of the other teams, as they think they are capable of winning the hunting on their own merits. Still they do not sit down and brood when they win and Pittsburg is defeated. It is all in the game, and they are willing to take and give their share as it happens. This they have been doing in the race for the flag, and in consequence are at the top with a lead which is deemed by nearly every loyal Cub rooter as safe. It happened also, however, that Chance's men have outplayed their opponents, which accounts for their exalted position.

Many regard the lead of eight and a half games as safe. Some even go on record as saying it cinches the pennant. But it does not. The lead looks as if it is great enough to take any pennant, but Manager Chance and his men do not think so. With the consistent manner in which the Cubs have been winning and the form they are showing on the field of battle, it seems as if there is nothing to it now. In the remaining series the Cubs have to play it is safe to say they will take a majority of the contests or get not less than an even break.

EDSON
ALBERTA
THE COMING CITY OF WESTERN CANADA

And One of the Most Important Divisional Points on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway

The Coming Railway, Manufacturing, Mining, Agricultural, Coal and Commercial Centre of Western Canada

is a very important divisional point on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. All railway lines are divided into divisions. The C. P. R. has among many others, its Central Division, Prairie Division, Mountain Division and Pacific Division, and has created such cities as Fort William, Winnipeg, Calgary, Revelstoke and Vancouver. The Prairie Division of the C. P. R. begins at Winnipeg and ends at Calgary.

The prairie division of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway begins at Winnipeg and ends at EDSON. Calgary to-day is a large and prosperous city of some forty thousand (40,000) population. Ten years ago Calgary was rarely heard of. EDSON being equally situated on the railway lines to Calgary, is destined to become as great a city as Calgary.

Unequalled Farm Lands
North of EDSON

is situated the grand "prairie country," of the PEACE RIVER, which is known far and wide as the last available stretches of unbroken prairie farm lands. The railroad will be built into this country from EDSON at an early date. This alone will necessitate EDSON becoming one of the important manufacturing and distributing points of the West and will add untold thousands of property values.

Extensive Coal Fields near EDSON

South of EDSON about 30 miles are situated very valuable and extensive coal deposits. Mining corporations are investing large sums in developing this wonderful district, and the railroad will be built from EDSON to the mines if possible this year. The Yellowhead Coal Company are investing large sums just south of the city in developing their mines and hold contracts from the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway for their general supply of coal for that district.

Wonderful Timber Belt

West and northwest of EDSON are to be found vast timber areas, and as the facilities for transportation and power are unexcelled, EDSON will become the chief lumbering city of that part of the West. A sawmill is now being built just north of the city.

EDSON Has Great Assets
which will make it one of the greatest cities in Western Canada

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway are now building round houses, shops, etc., at EDSON, and besides being a western terminus of the prairie division, it is also the eastern terminus of the mountain division, and eventually will be as great, if not a greater, divisional point than Calgary.

BUSINESS HOUSES, BANKS, MANUFACTURERS, ETC.
have locations already purchased in EDSON and considerable building is now going on. Capitalists are evincing keen interest in this new coming western city of EDSON.

EDSON'S RAPID GROWTH

We predict that EDSON with its many natural resources and advantages, will become a city of thousands within a very short time and lots bought to-day in EDSON will be selling at several times the present price in a short time. The time to buy lots in EDSON is now.

Ten years ago business and residential lots could be bought in Calgary at prices ranging from $50 to $200, and the selfsame lots have sold since for $5,000 and up to $20,000. Now, if EDSON'S location is equal to that of Calgary, what better assurance would you want for a safe investment of your money? A few years will see EDSON property values equal to those of Calgary.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN TO YOU?

It means nothing, unless you participate in the profits, and you can do this only by buying real estate in this young and vigorous western Canadian city. The time to buy is when the new city has passed through a seasoning stage, where it is in a performative period with its natural resources and strategical position assure the building up of a big city.

These few facts are sufficient to convince the most sceptical of the immense possibilities of the great future growth of EDSON and it will only be a matter of a few weeks until the choice lots and locations will be bought up by the men who not only thought but acted quickly.

HOCKEY

Manager Oldham, of the Peterborough West End ball nine, informed the Post on Saturday that he would place a team in the junior O.H.A. series this year. Some were inclined to knock the proposition, but he declared he would be on hand with the goods when the snow begins to fly.—Lindsay Post.

$12,000 PRICE PAID FOR JOE PATCHEN, NUMBER 2

What was probably the greatest amount ever paid in Canada for a harness horse was handed over Saturday when Mr. W. J. Cowan, of Cannington, purchased the pacing stallion Joe Patchen II. from Mr. Thos. Hodgson, of Orillia. It is reported that the sale price was $12,000, but it is likely that $10,000 would be nearer the mark. Joe Patchen III. is a five-year-old bay stallion, full 16 hands, by Joe Patchen, 2.01¼, out of Bessie Bonehill, 2.05¾.

Mr. Hodgson purchased the horse three years ago from H. S. Osborn, of Pittsfield, Mass., and he has been in the hands of Jos. Powell, of Orillia, ever since. Last winter Joe Patchen II. earned his spurs at Ottawa and Peterboro, winning on the ice in 2.17¼ and 2.17¾. At Duffer in Park a week ago he won the 2.30 pace and took a record of 2.17¼. His impressive showing pleased Mr. Cowan so greatly that he at once entered into negotiations for his purchase, and after a trial on Saturday at the Exhibition, when he paced a mile in 2.10¼ easily, the ¼ in .32, ½ in 1.05½, ¾ in 1.38½, he closed the deal. The horse will not likely be raced by the new owner until next year.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

The cultivation of a good memory — everyone knows that's an advantage.

The very suggestion of it is a bromide.

And yet I wonder if it is really any more advantageous than something else that is seldom advised, the cultivation of the opposite quality —a good "forgettery."

Have you a good "forgettery?"

Can you put out of your mind the silly parody on some solemn ceremony, the wicked suggestion of some sensual book, the muddy allusion of some ribald rhyme, or must they always come back to you whenever something happens to call them to mind?

Nor are evil things the only ones for which we need a "good forgettery." It would also be good to be able to forget some of the useless and unimportant things that take up our brain room.

Conan Doyle makes his world famous hero, Sherlock Holmes, say that the reason he is able to remember so marvelously the many things important in his profession, is that he at once expels from his mind all information that is useless to him. For instance, he can instantly recognize the ashes from almost any brand of cigar, but the fact that the earth goes around the sun, instead of vice versa was not necessary to him and, therefore, he forgot it as soon as he had learned it.

I certainly do not think such complete ignorance of everything outside one's particular sphere very desirable, but I do think the ability to unload one's mind so completely of all unnecessary memories would be very fine to possess, and I wish Sherlock Holmes had explained just how he did it as glibly as he explains his other sleight-of-mind feats.

Probably he did it by cramming his mind full of the things he did want to remember.

I guess that's the only principle on which a good "forgettery" can be cultivated—the exclusion of the bad and useless by the free and full admission of the good and useful.

In an article on "Mental Chemistry" Orison Swetet Marden, the new thought writer, says

"That man is truly great who can rule his mental kingdom, who at will can master his moods; who knows enough of mental chemistry to neutralize a fit of the blues, to antidote any evil, poisonous thought with the opposite thought just as a chemist neutralizes an acid which is eating into the flesh, by applying an alkaline antidote."

And then he makes the optimistic prophecy—

"The time will come when we shall find that it is just as easy to counteract an unfriendly, disagreeable, vicious thought by turning on the counter thought as it is to rob the hot water of its burning power by turning on the cold water faucet. We shall be able to regulate the temperature of our thought as the temperature of water. If the water is too hot we simply turn on the cold water faucet. If we feel our brain heating up with hot temper we shall simply turn on the love thought, the peace thought, and the anger heat will be instantly counteracted."

In the same way I suppose an evil remembrance could be counteracted by a pleasant one.

I hope his prophecy is a true one.

Why not try to make it so?

Bitten By Rattlesnake Chased By A Mad Bull

Seventeen-Year-Old Girl Has a Terrifying Experience While Picking Wild Flowers.

SEEMS UNLUCKY

Special to The Examiner.

Galeton, Aug. 29.—To have been bitten by a rattlesnake and then chased by an infuriated bull was an experience of seventeen-year-old Sarah Brandt, daughter of a farmer three miles south of this place. Miss Brandt had been on a visit to a girl friend over toward the Kettle Creek region, several miles from her home, and was accompanied by a fox terrier. Returning, her attention was attracted by a clump of wild roses, from which she was minded to pluck a bouquet to carry home.

The flowers grew on an embankment almost as high as the girl's head and it was with considerable difficulty that she gained a position from which she was able to reach the coveted posies. She was compelled to cling to an alder bush with her left hand as she reached to pluck the blossoms with her right.

The little dog ran up toward the rose clump, gave a queer little bark and scampered back into the road. The girl thought nothing of the dog's unusual action, however, until an instant later, when without warning a big rattlesnake sprang from its position near the wild rose bush and sank its fangs into her bare arm an inch or two above the wrist.

The girl was fully a mile from the nearest house, and started on a run to reach help before the poison became scattered through her system. A few rods farther on she came to a meadow of a neighbor, and by crossing this field she could shorten the distance almost a quarter of a mile. She scaled the fence and had gained a portion of the distance across when she heard the bellow of a bull and to her terror, found that she was being pursued by the angry animal. Her little terrier, however, saved the day for her, as she ran toward the advancing bull and put up such a lively bluff that the attention of the big animal was temporarily diverted from the girl in an attack upon the dog. By this time the screams of Miss Brandt had been heard at the farmhouse and several members of the household ran to the girl's rescue, just as the bull left off his unsuccessful attempt to impale the frisky little dog on his horns and had returned to the pursuit of the girl.

Fortunately for Miss Brandt, the household in which she had sought refuge was provided with a preparation to overcome the effects of a snake's bite, and the administration of this saved her life, but she was dreadfully sick for forty-eight hours.

Miss Brandt is peculiarly unfortunate. She was with her brother on a deer hunt last fall when at a point in the woods where he had stationed her on a "runaway" a good sized black bear suddenly emerged from a thicket. She became alarmed at the bear, fearing to shoot lest she should but aggravate it and it should attack her. In scampering from the stump upon which she was standing watch she fell and sustained a broken wrist, her rifle having fallen upon it with violent force as she pitched headlong to the ground. In the meantime the bear had been hiking away through the thicket as fast as his legs could carry him, and, though crippled, Miss Brandt succeeded in firing the gun the given number of times for the prearranged signal of distress and her brother, who was scarcely a quarter of a mile below her on another bench of the ridge, started to find her. He came face to face with Mr. Bear as the latter was streaking for the tall timber, and one shot from his rifle sent bruin to the dust.

OPENS THURSDAY

Peterborough Conservatory of Music Ready For the Season

The Peterborough Conservatory of Music classes will open for the fall term on Thursday of this week, Sept. 1. Most of the staff will be the same as last year. There is a change in the Kindergarten Department, which this year will be in charge of Miss Hazel Dean. Miss Estelle Foy, the former head of this department, has gone to her home in Toronto. Mr. Henry J. Lautz, vocal teacher, who was with the Conservatory staff two years ago, and who was studying in Germany last year, will be associated with the Conservatory again during the coming season.

"THE PILLAR OF LIGHT"

By Louis Tracey, (Copyrighted)

When the Trinity tender paid her monthly visit to the lighthouse she was moored to a buoy three cables' lengths away to the northwest. If there was the least suspicion of a sea over the reef it was indeed a ticklish task landing or embarking stores and men.

Close-hauled, the boat would fill forward as the tide dropped. This was matterless. By that time all her movable contents—she appeared to have plenty of tinned meat and biscuits aboard, but no water—would be removed to the store-room.

The sailor was sorting the packages—wondering what queer story of the deep would be forthcoming when the recent history of the rescued child was ascertained — when Brand hailed him.

"Look out there, Jim. I am lowering an axe."

The weapon was duly delivered.

"What's the axe for, cap'n" was the natural query.

"I want to chop out that shark's teeth. They will serve as mementoes for the girl, if she grows up, which is likely, judging by the way she is yelling at Jones."

"Wot's he a-doin of?" came the sharp demand.

"Giving her a bath, and excellently well, too. He is evidently quite domesticated."

"If that means 'under Mrs. J.'s thumb,' you're right, cap'n. They tell me that when he's ashore—"

"Jim, the first time I met you you were wheeling a perambulator. Now load the ship and I will haul in."

They worked in silence a few minutes. Brand descended, and a few well-placed cuts relieved the man eater of the serrated rows used to such serious purpose in life that he had attained a length of nearly twelve feet. Set double in the lower jaw and single in the upper, they were of a size and shape ominously suggestive of the creature's voracity.

"It is a good thing," said Brand, calmly hewing at the huge jaws, "that nature did not build the Carcharodon galeidæ on the same lines as an alligator. If this big fellow's sharp embroidery were not situated so close to his stomach he would have made a meal of me, Jim, unless I carried a torpedo."

"He's a blue shark," commented the other, ignoring for the nonce what he termed "some of the cap'n's jaw-breakers."

"Yes. It is the only dangerous species found so far north."

"His teeth are like so many fixed bayonets. Of course, you would like to keep 'em, but he would look fine in the museum. Plenty of folk in Penzance, especially visitors, would pay a bob a head to see him."

Brand paused in his labour.

"Listen, Jim," he said earnestly. "I want both you and Jones to oblige me by saying nothing about the shark Please do not mention my connection with the affair in any way. The story will get in the newspapers as it is. The additional sensation of the fight would send reporters here by the score. I don't wish that to occur."

"Do you mean to say—"

"Mr. Jones will report the picking up of the boat, and the finding of the baby, together with the necessary burial of a man unknown."

"What sort of a chap was he?" interrupted Jim.

"I—I don't know—a sailor—that is all I can tell you. He must have been dead several days."

"Then how in the world did that baby keep alive?"

"I have been thinking over that problem. I imagine that, in the first place, there was a survivor, who disappeared since the death of the poor devil out there—" he pointed to the sea. "This person, whether man or woman, looked after the child until madness came, caused by drinking salt water. The next step is suicide. The little one, left living, fell into the bilge created by the shipping of a sea, and adopted, by the mercy of Providence, a method of avoiding death from thirst which ought to be more widely appreciated than it is. She absorbed water through the pores of the skin, which rejected the salty elements and took in only those parts of the compound needed by the blood. You follow me?"

"Quite. It's a slap-up idea."

"It's not new. It occurred to a ship's captain who was compelled to navigate his passengers and crew a thousand miles in open boats across the Indian Ocean, as the result of a fire at sea. Well, the child was well nourished, in all likelihood, before the accident happened which set her adrift on the Atlantic. She may have lost twenty or thirty pounds in weight but starvation is a slow affair, and her plumpness saved her life in that respect. Most certainly she would have died to-day, and even yet she is in great danger. Her pulse is very weak, and care must be taken not to stimulate the action of the heart too rapidly."

When Brand spoke in this way, Jim Spence was far too wary to ask personal questions. Sometimes, in the early days of their acquaintance, he had sought to pin his friend with clumsy logic to some admission as to his past life. The only result he achieved was to seal the other man's lips for days so far as reminiscences were concerned.

Not only Jones and Spence, but Thompson, the third assistant, who was taking his month ashore, together with the supernumeraries who helped to preserve the rotation of two months rock duty and one ashore, soon realized that Brand—whom they liked and looked up to—had locked the record of his earlier years and refused to open the diary for anyone.

Yet so helpful was he—so entertaining with his scraps of scientific knowledge and more ample general reading—that those whose turn on the rock was co-incident with his relief hailed his reappearance with joy. During the preceding winter he actually entertained them with a free translation of the twenty-four books of the "Iliad," and great was the delight of Jim Spence when he was able to connect the exploits of some Greek or Trojan hero with the identity of one of her Majesty's ships.

In private, they discussed him often, and a common agreement was made that his wish to remain incognito should be respected. Their nickname, "the cap'n," was a tacit admission of his higher social rank. They feared lest inquisitiveness should drive him from their midst, and one supernumary, who heard from the cook of the Trinity tender that Brand was the nephew of a baronet, was roughly bidden to "close his rat-trap, or he might catch something he couldn't eat."

So Jim now contented himself by remarking dolefully that had his advice been taken "the bloomin' kid would be well on her way back to the Scilly Isles."

"You must not say that," was the grave response. "These things are determined by a higher power than man's intelligence. Think how the seeming accident of a fallen sail saved the child from the cormorants and other birds—how a chance sea fell into the boat and kept her alive—how mere idle curiosity on my part impelled me to swim out and investigate matters."

"That's your way of puttin' it," Jim was forced to say. "You knew quite well that there might be a shark in her wake, or you wouldn't have taken the knife. An' now you won't have a word said about it. At the bombardment of Alexandria, a messmate of mine got the V. C. for less."

"The real point is, Jim, that we have not yet discovered what ship this boat belongs to."

"No, an' what's more, we won't find out in a hurry. Her name's gone, fore and aft."

"Is there nothing left to help us?"

"Only this."

The sailor produced the brooch from his waistcoat pocket. It was of the safety-pin order, but made of gold and ornamented with small emeralds, set as a four-leafed shamrock.

"Is the maker's name on the sail?"

"No. I fancy that this craft was rigged on board ship for harbour cruisin'."

Brand passed a hand wearily across his forehead.

"I wish I had not been so precipitate," he murmured. "That man had papers on him, in all likelihood."

"You couldn't have stood it, mate. It was bad enough for me. It must ah' bin hell for you!"

"Perhaps the baby's clothes are marked."

"That's a chance. She was well rigged out."

Brand cast the shark loose. The monster slid off into the green depths. A noiseless procession of dim forms rushed after the carcass. The birds, shrill with disappointment, darted off to scour the neighbouring sea.

Beyond the damaged boat, bumping against the rock, and the huge jaws with their rows of wedge-shaped

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE VISITING BRITISH BOWLERS

Toronto Star Deals With the Skips and Players From Across The Seas---Johnny Pillans Gets a Whole Paragraph to Himself.

Local bowlers and citizens who attended the game between the British bowlers and Peterboro last week will appreciate the following description of the visitors taken from the Toronto Star of Saturday:

The visiting British bowlers had a glorious afternoon at the beautiful Royal Canadian Yacht Club lawns at the Island yesterday. It was bright and cool, and incidentally the Britishers won their first game in Toronto. It was a clean-cut victory, too, for they were up on every green, and had 28 points to the good on the total.

Those who gathered to witness the game had an enjoyable afternoon. Johnny Pillans — the irrepressible noisy Johnny—kept the gallery at the McColl-Copping game chuckling all afternoon, but by the same token there was many a quiet jest sprung on the other three rinks, where the players sent the bowls down with more dignity and less noise. In fact, the vast difference in the methods of J. T. Morrison, skip of the rink which met Dr. Snelgrove, and Pillans', caused many a smile. They played side by side.

Here was Morrison, tall and broad, wearing a grey coat, buttoned tightly, flannel trousers, and a brown banded straw hat set exactly straight upon his head, sending down his bowls without scarcely bending to the green. He moved like a prime minister, and his only gesture was the placing of his hand to his chin while his bowl meandered down the green. Anything he said was drawled in a conversational tone.

PILLANS ON THE MOVE

But Pillans—Oh, my, the difference. A battered old brown hat was pulled down over his eyes, and his coat was discarded and his sleeves rolled up. He ran and he shouted and he talked to his bowls like a mother does to her child. He pleaded with Skip McColl to let him send down a cannon ball and smash things to smithereens. His broad Scotch had everybody smiling like patrons of the latest comedy.

WANTED A RUN

Oh, mon! Will ye no let me try a rin?" he beseeched Skip McColl, when Copping's rink lay in a four cluster around the kitty. "I dinna think I kin draw in ta the kitty, but I dinna ken how I could miss a runner. Mon, will ye na let me busk?"

Johnny had his way, and the bowls flew as if some one had laid a charge of dynamite among them.

McColl sent down a lazy ball, which set Pillans shouting, "Rin up and chase that yin." McColl did, and the lethargic bowl fell into the kitty. It's a graun' yun, mon," he added.

A moment later an opponent sent down a bowl that looked likely. This set Pillans to mourning. "Oh!" he exclaimed, plaintively "I no like that one," and he turned away like a man from a friend's bier.

"Draw?" he exclaimed once. "Why, that yin draws like a double-barrelled shot gun."

SOME QUIET ONES.

J. S. Fleming, who leads for Kirkland's rink, is a very quiet fellow, but he gets intensely interested, and stalks his bowl like an Indian on an enemy's trail. He treads lightly after it, as if he were afraid of startling it, and comes to a dead stop and sways his body when his bowl draws in.

Rev. Wyndham Earee, a smooth-shaven little fellow, tanned as brown as a berry, is a great poser. He halts fully a second on his heel before he delivers his bowl, and after it is gone remains several seconds on his heels, then springs up, and, taking a step or two, stands on tip toe to see the result. If it is a good bowl he smiles, if it is a poor one he puffs hard at his cigarette. The silent rink of the party is the Fleming-Matheson-Wilson-Kirkland quartet. They wouldn't shout if they laid down an eight and won out the final end.

Gave Liquor to Man Addicted to Excessive Drinking

This morning, at the police court, a local man was asked to pay within ten days fifty dollars and costs, amounting to fifty-three dollars and forty cents, or spend thirty days in the jail, for giving liquor to a man on the prohibited list.

The accused, with his friend, the blacklister was walking dwn George street on July 31st, when they were met by a third party. The three partook of a substance which the third member had on his "hip." In the case to-day the blacklister said that he was not sure which man gave him the liquor, but that his friend often gave him a handout with a bottle of "booze."

His Worship, after hearing evidence at a great length, imposed the above mentioned fine on the defendant. The case against the man with the "hip" invention was dismissed.

The steamer "Stoney Lake" of the Stoney Lake Navigation Co., will be away from her dock at Young's Point all this week, when she will be engaged in excursion work along the Kawartha chain. To-day she has an excursion out of Bridgenorth and the remainder of the week will be taken up with Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls excursions, including a moonlight. As the Empress will be down in Peterborough on Friday to take an excursion of the Canadian Club to Idyl Wyld, there will be no boat leaving Lakefield on the arrival of the noon train that day. The noon boat will be taken off for good after Saturday and next week there will be only two boats a day up the lakes, one in the morning and the other on the arrival of the evening train.

RESERVED

Judgment In the Case of Harry Dobbin, Who Used Obnoxious Language

H. Dobbin is a young Englishman who was given a position in the employment of Mr. J. J. Turner and Son's factory, merely as an act of kindness and to give him a good start in this country. Instead of appreciating the offer which had involved considerable work on the part of a citizen, he abused the trust and went on a "spree." Not only did he injure himself, but he had the nerve to place himself in the lobby of the Grand Opera House, where women and children pass to and fro, and there he gave forth abusive language. This act not being sufficient to gratify his passion, he proceeded up George street and on passing the posts where Mr. Turner's advertisements were on, he tore them off. Two policemen who were previously phoned for, appeared on the scene and arrested the accused.

His worship reserved judgment in the case which is made up of two charges, that of disfiguring bills and the other of indulging in abusive language.

A TITIAN-HAIRED BEAUTY REVEALS BIG SECRETS

Remarkable Woman Said to Have Been Employed by the Standard Oil Company to Wreck Millionaires.

LAWSON'S STORY

Boston, Aug. 29.—A ravishing markable woman in America"—used Titian haired beauty—"the most reas a tool by the Standard Oil Company, has wrecked millionaires, upset the stock market, made United States Senators, and played a leading part in international politics, according to Thomas W. Lawson.

HIS SECRETS BETRAYED

Mr. Lawson revealed the alleged story of this remarkable woman today, in commenting on the charge made in New York by Mrs. Lillian Hobart French that F. Augustus Heinze's secrets were betrayed to 26 Broadway by a woman whose blandishments won them from him. The woman, according to Mr. Lawson, has played a leading role in more than one financial crisis, and her career has been more remarkable than that of many of the heroines of history who figure in the games of diplomats.

"I am astounded that her personality has never before been brought into print," he says.

CRUSHED MANY RIVALS.

"She not only crushed Heinze," says Mr. Lawson, "but another rival fully as powerful and delivered him over to Standard Oil with all his carefully planned secrets, so that it was child's play to outwit him. She made a Unted States Senator. Just how and where I don't care to say, but it was one of the most notable things she was able to do. The Senator was of the Standard Oil making and naturally was an aid to the trust.

"Again, in an international complication involving the sale of foreign-owned territory to the United States in which a large profit was nvolved and in which an international scandal had started which threatened to involve a number of United States Senators, this woman's remarkable ability, some might call it blandishments, smoothed the troubled waters.

THE MOVING SPIRIT

"Time after time she has been the moving spirit beneath many a Standard Oil coup and only those who had babbled their stories to her knew how the magnates at 26 Broadway were able to circumvent their carefully laid plans.

"I have not heard anything about this woman for some time. I do not know where she is now or anything about her. In fact, I do not know her myself, but I know enough about her to have caused me many times to wonder how she possibly evaded the lime-light of print so long. I am no friend of the Standard Oil, but I don't care to tell what her name is or much about her.

ABLE TO LAND MEN

"This woman has been a power for Standard Oil. She has been able to land men who were enemies of the trust when it seemed as though money and prominence could do nothing to induce them to give over warring against 26 Broadway. And through it all she has kept out of the public press in a remarkable manner.

"I don't know this Mrs. Lillian Hobart French. I never heard of her before the sudden developments of the last few days, and all that I know about her I have read in the newspapers. But as far as the events of the copper war between Heinze and the Standard Oil people go, she certainly has been right in all that she has said.

A MEMORABLE CONFERENCE

"I remember the conference Mrs. French tells about, between Heinze, Rogers, myself and others at the Waldorf-Astoria. It was in 1902, before I had broken with the system. Heinze was holding up the whole copper situation and was doing a great deal of damage. He controlled the whole State of Montana. They had a peculiar mining law. A man could claim a vein wherever it appeared.

"He also owned a section of mining property adjoining the Amalgamated Mines. Under this law as the vein appeared it was on his property he claimed all of this valuable copper mine property and began extensive litigation to secure it. He even secured an over-night injunction to take control of the Amalgamated property. This situation forced us to make terms with him."

KANSAS FARMERS HEAR SERMONS OVER 'PHONE

Olathe, Kan., Aug. 27.—Gradually the rural telephone has grown from a fence-post affair to a thing of daily convenience. And now in Kansas it is entering a field that is unusual and yet useful, for it is becoming the disseminator of the Sunday sermon. No more the farmer's wife who lives three miles from a church needs to worry as to whether the weather will be too bad for the long drive; no longer need the hitching up of the horses, for that trip to church, be a matter of absolute necessity, for the telephone has stepped in and brought the church to the home.

It is in Olathe that the experiment of the telephoned sermon is being tried, and so far it has been a success that is growing. Illness and weather cannot interfere with the Sunday worship, for the sermons and every other church service, for that matter, are transmitted directly to the home, and all one needs to do to hear is to place a telephone transmitter to the ear. The telephone company, through a connection with the pulpit of the churches, does the rest.

Three Olathe churches, the Presbyterian, the Reformed Presbyterian, and the United Presbyterian, are using the service now. In the first two it is used only for the old and ill. But in the other the service is general. Each of the churches is fitted with a transmitter, containing an extremely sensitive microphone arrangement and provided with special batteries and coils. The transmitter is no larger than the ordinary one used to telephone exchanges and hangs suspended from a rod in front of the pulpit without obscuring the congregation's view of the minister. As the sermon is delivered the transmitter takes in the tones and carries them over the wires to the various listeners.

Recently an interested person sat in an easy chair in a hotel three blocks away from the church and, with an ordinary telephone receiver to his ear, heard every word of the service—the reading of the Scriptures, the prayer, the singing of the Psalms, the announcements, the sermon and the benediction.

Sometimes the receiver had to be held away from the ear on account of the loudness with which the sermon was transmitted. The manager of the telephone company says that a constantly growing number of the company's patrons use the service on Sundays, and this raises the question as to what will be the effect on the churches should the "electrophone" come into general use.

75,000 Bees Working On A Map Of Missouri

Special to The Examiner:

Moberly, Mo., Aug. 27.—M. E. Darby, State apiary inspector, has started 75,000 bees to work on a Missouri map which is to be constructed of honey in time for the exhibition in Moberly, September 7, 8, and 9. The map of honey is to be about two feet each way and will contain about 30 pounds of honey. The hive which has been constructed by the bee inspector is made in accordance with a map of the State and will show the principal cities, Missouri River and other features.

Two colonies of bees have been united and with a single queen are working on the unique Missouri map. It is estimated by Mr. Darby that a month will be consumed by the "workers" in preparing the exhibit. The word "Missouri" will be worked into the map by the bees in some color which will be selected by the "workers" themselves.

After the hive has been filled with honey, the inspector will remove the bees and uncap a sufficient number of cells to spell across the State the word "Missouri." Colored honey will then be offered to the bees and they will be invited to recap the dismantled cells.

Bees are very capricious, according to the inspector, and may not be suited with the first colored honey offered them. If the bees refuse to work with that they will be offered honey of other colors until they have chosen one which will suit them.

With the map complete it will be taken from the case and placed in a special glass case, shaped in accordance with the outline of the State.

G. T. R. EXPRESS HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Toronto Telegram: You cannot convince a railroad man that it is superstition to say that if one accident occurs, two others will follow. One of them approached the Telegram this morning after an accident in the G.T.R. yards and said: "What did I tell you yesterday? We had one at Durand, one near Kingston, and now one in the yards here."

True, this was not a very serious affair, but it might have been if a crowd had been standing around. The accident in the yards occurred about 10.30 while the G.T.R. express from Peterborough was pulling into the lower train shed.

The train had just passed cabin 'B' and in taking the switch point at the east end of the shed the baggage car left the rails and bumped along the ties about 100 feet, when the train stopped.

The passengers were given a scare but no one was injured, but nearly all of them rushed for the doors and felt more satisfied when they found themselves on the platform.

The track was immediately examined and found in first-class shape. Such was not the case with the car. It was found that the wheels on the front truck had worked loose. If the accident had occurred while the train was running about 40 miles an hour, the result would have been very serious.

GIRL WAS SAVED

Parents Thought She Had Perished in Durand Wreck

Examiner Special.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—There is joy in the home of George Jagemann, where gloom reigned a few hours ago, for Miss Lena Jagemann, the daughter who had been mourned as one of the victims of the Grand Trunk wreck near Durand, Mich., is on her way to Chicago to assure her parents that she is alive.

So impossible did it seem that the young woman was still alive after her father had gone to Durand and identified the body of one of the dead as that of his daughter, that the first telegram from Toronto in which Miss Jagemann said she had escaped injury did not reassure the parents, and yesterday two more messages came from her in reply to anxious inquiries, and the last one announced that she would follow immediately herself.

Miss Jagemann comes to Toronto to demonstrate at the Exhibition. Her escape leaves the number of known dead in the Durand wreck at eight.

THRILLING EXPERIENCE

Luray, Va., Aug. 27.—C. B. Dyche, a rural letter carrier from Luray, had a thrilling experience while on his route in the foothills of the Blue Ridge. His route loops and interlaces in a mountainous section in Luray district, noted as the abode of many species of venomous rattlesnakes and mocassins. Late in the afternoon Dyche reached the serpent-infused territory and noticed a large mocassin basking in the sunshine. He determined to put into execution a mental threat he had often made before to, as far as possible, exterminate the coiling denizens of the infested place.

Dismounting from his vehicle, Mr. Dyche selected a big mocassin for the initial battle. Seeing the approach of an enemy, the reptile made a dart for a crevice in the rocks, but the artful mail carrier was too quick, and caught the reptile midway of its body, cutting it in twain. To his horror reptiles began to pour from the separated parts of the snake, in all twenty-four.

HONOUR EXHIBITION

British Artists Send Some of Their Best Work to Toronto

The importance of the Canadian National Exhibition in the eyes of the world is shown by the fact that a large number of the most eminent British artists have decided to send celebrated pictures to Toronto for sale. Their exhibit will be distinct from the loan pictures of the various art galleries of Great Britain and of the Government of France. Practically every picture that is sent to the annual exhibition of the Royal Academy or the Paris Salon is sent for sale. That the art display of the Canadian National Exhibition is considered to be worthy t orank in prestige with these, demonstrates the growing esteem in which Canada is held abroad. The men who are sending pictures with the commercial end in view do not represent the strugglers, but the most eminent men of the day. They include the brilliant painter John Lavery, J. Young Hunter, C. W. Furse, and many others whose newest offerings are sought eagerly by the spectator on vanishing day at the Royal Academy. Among the famous British artists whose pictures are being loaned by the great galleries of England are W. Q. Orchardson, Luke Fildes, J. M. S. Swan, Frank Holl, and Lord Leighton. The French representation will be finer than any sent from that country to the Exhibition in several years. Rochegrosse, Bouguereau, Dagnan-Bouveret, Gerome, Monet, and Gaston la Touche will be among the many famous men represented. The display will indeed be one to command the attention of the most cosmopolitan assemblage.

FIRST MESSAGE

Canadian Operates Wireless Instrument on a Bi-plane

New York, Aug. 29.—A wireless message was sent from an aeroplane by J. D. A. McCurdy, a pupil of Glenn Curtiss, to Harry M. Horton, formerly a sergeant in the Spanish-American war, who was operating on the roof of the grand stand at Sheepshead Bay racetrack. The message, which is the first of its kind on record, read: "Horton: Another chapter in aerial achievement is recorded in the sending of a wireless message from an aeroplane.—McCurdy."

The aviator was a mile away and 500 feet up, a mere speck against the sky. McCurdy had the wireless key attached to his steering wheel and the antennae of the sending apparatus hanging below the aeroplane. He is not an expert sender, but Horton said he heard the message distinctly as soon as it was put into the air.

J. D. A. McCurdy, the first to send a wireless from an airship, is a Canadian.

Conference Negatives Proposal to Admit Them to Courts.

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 31.—The Methodist General Conference yesterday morning discussed for ten minutes a proposal to admit women into the church courts. The motion was then put and defeated by a vote of 65 to 34.

Ministerial reserve delegates to the Ecumenical Conference are: W. H. Emsly, Dr. W. Sparling, G. W. Kerby and Dr. A. Stewart.

A department of finance, with T. R. Parker of Toronto as general secretary, is one of the new ventures of the conference.

The steady conservatism of the delegates was plainly manifest when a number of recommendations to change the wording of the discipline was voted down and one recommendation especially carried to have churches built so that people could kneel at prayer, in accordance with the instructions of the discipline.

Justice Maclaren thought it was a constitutional question and might prejudice the union negotiations. The vote stood 24 in favor and 64 against.

The recommendation for quarterly boards to make regular provision for an annual vacation for the pastor carried enthusiastically. The number of circuit stewards may be increased in churches having over 400 members, one steward additional to every extra hundred members. Quarterly boards may elect alternate delegates to the annual district meeting.

Provision is made for holding a regular annual congregational meeting.

Laurier's Hope.

Cranbrook, B.C., Aug. 31.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier and party continued their progress through southern British Columbia, leaving Vernon early and entering at Kootenay Landing for the Crow's Nest Pass route.

No decision was made concerning land conditions in Lushwa Valley, where homesteaders receive only 40 acres and claim a quarter section, as land is not fruit bearing. At Cranbrook, an hour and a half stop was made and Sir Wilfrid addressed a crowd of 1,500. He remarked that the conduct of the last election in British Columbia was not such as to reflect credit on them. The policy of the Government had been to preserve British Columbia for the white people, and to exclude the yellow races. He hoped that at the next election the province would reverse its verdict.

An informal reception was tendered the party on the arrival in the evening at Fernie.

Earthquake in Calabria.

Exhibition Is Opened

Khaki-Clad Lads Muster 2,100 Strong and Parade For Their Leader—B.-P. Continues to Talk to Scouts and Evade the Committees—The Exhibition Is on a Bigger Scale Than Ever—One Girl Scout.

Toronto, Aug. 31.—"Boy scouts and Baden-Powell" was the keynote of the opening of the Canadian National Exhibition, great in design, greater in execution, greatest in spirit.

There is nationality, patriotism, cosmopolitan vitality about the big Toronto fair. No country in the world could present more varied products from more inexhaustible resources. No people in the world have such a heritage from the Lord. There is much of the spirit of the feast of tabernacles in the gorgeous ingatherings of the fruits of the land and the harvests of handicraft and the work of the deft artificer which year by year draw the multitudes to Toronto from the new world's Dan and Bersheba. The tremendous undercurrent of the national life throbs through the whole organization.

It was an inspiring sight to see those 2,100 boys with their good clean marching step moving along the big track, and many a father and mother's heart swelled with the thought that "the boy" was shouldering his pole and keeping time in the tawny ranks.

"If I'd had a chance like that I'd have been twice the man I am," was father's frequent reflection as he rejoiced for his son.

There was fine applause for the English contingent and the Buffalo boys had a cordial greeting. The little khaki vivandiere from Brampton was accorded a hearty recognition. Then the line swung to the south side of the track where all could see, and the smart pacing of the lads elicited a burst of applause.

"B.-P." was not very ceremonious with the officials, and continued to prove himself elusive and to disregard the program. He spent most of an hour with Frank Ritchie of the Dominion Y.M.C.A. Boys' Work Department, who is keenly interested in the scout movement, and with W. B. Wakefield, an English gentleman of means, who has devoted his entire time to the work. Mr. Wakefield had just returned from Silver Bay camp on Lake George, N.Y., and gave complimentary reports of the Toronto boys there.

No more impressive background to the grand stand performances than the glorious sweep of British waters represented on the canvas, the historic channels of Spithead and the Solent. The weather was excellent and the east wind did not chill, though it threatened rain which did not come till after the show was over. The grounds are more beautiful than ever and the removal of the buildings near the entrance gives a noble approach to the permanent architecture.

The directors' luncheon constituted the formal opening of the Exhibition. The address to Sir Robert had been set down for presentation at the grand stand, but Mr. Gooderham, who presided, read it after his introductory remarks.

The Lord Bishop of Toronto offered prayer. The National Anthem was sung after the royal toast, and the subsequent "Hip, hip, hip," scored its usual triumph.

The Exhibition had been honored many times by representatives of his gracious Majesty, said Mr. Gooderham.

They had had the Governor-General on several occasions. He was glad to welcome his honor the Lieutenant-Governor, whose health he then proposed. Mr. Gibson acknowledged the compliments he had received, partly for his position, and he hoped he was vain enough to think, to a slight extent on personal grounds. (Applause.)

Mr. Gooderham agreed that they needed no introduction to Gen. Baden-Powell. The movement he was associated with was one which every man in the world, when he understood it, would support. Its object was the making of better citizens, and was in no sense of the word a military movement. The address was then read.

"B.-P." has no love for newspaper notoriety, and made this point clear several times during the day. At the luncheon he said he had been in Canada before, since the war, and he had been glad to see the country without the intervention of newspaper men.

He thought he had the elements of a mongrel, as he did not know of what nationality he was. He was born in England of Welsh parentage, he had spent a great part of his life in South Africa, but his heart was Canadian. (Applause.) He quoted Sir Wilfrid Laurier with approval and referred to the exhibitions he had seen at Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver. There was local rivalry, but great unity of purpose in what was done. The Toronto Exhibition went beyond local aims and was of world interest. It united them with their neighbors and cousins in the United States. It was a great thing to bring them into friendly rivalry and in participation of industry.

He May Be Middleton

Man Held In Toronto on a Charge of Passing a $2,000 Check Is Positively Identified as Lancelot W. Middleton, Who Was Sentenced to Seven Years In Woodstock for Attempting a Big Swindle.

Toronto, Aug. 31.—Is John Bagley, or as the police believe him to be, Charles V. Knightley, arrested Thursday night, charged with uttering a forged $2,000 check upon the College and Yonge street branch of the Bank of Commerce, really Lancelot Willoughby Middleton, bigamist and swindler, who was sent to the penitentiary for seven years from Woodstock, in 1898?

His picture has been seen by one of Middleton's victims before his committal to Kingston, and she positively declares that Knightley is none other than her former husband.

Inspector William Greer of the provincial detective department, who arrested Middleton, last night, after comparing police photographs of Knightley with one of Middleton which he had preserved in his records pointed out a number of points of surprising likeness, and, indeed, when the ageing influence of a seven-year term in prison and the passage of 12 years in all are taken into account, the pictures bear great resemblance.

Inspector Greer has a wonderfully clear recollection of the Middleton case. Middleton, then a man in his thirties, set out to let contracts for a supposed C.P.R. line from Woodstock to Brantford. He used C.P.R. letter paper for all his correspondence, and this is a point of resemblance to the methods of Knightley.

The line was surveyed and Middleton started to sub-let the contracts for clearing the line, and work was begun. He asked for deposits as guarantees upon the contracts let, and would have received a number of these had he not been exposed just a little too soon.

He was arrested by Inspector Greer at Kanesville, near Brantford. The arrest was made upon a charge of false pretences or fraud, which was later dropped, when Middleton was sentenced at Woodstock to a term of seven years in Kingston for bigamy. He had married two estimable women, one of Woodstock and one of Sarnia. He was defended by present Crown Attorney Ball.

Inspector Greer says that he remembers hearing that Middleton met with an accident while in Kingston, which would account for the present lameness of Knightley, should the two prove to be identical. He also remembers hearing that Middleton turned very religious while in the penitentiary, but that he also tried to escape, which lost him any good conduct time. The inspector says that Middleton is at present wanted in New York, and remembers having heard that he had swindled one of the women of the Gould family out of a considerable sum.

A photograph of Middleton was sent to England to identify the man as an English crook, and was returned, first to Deputy Chief of Police W. Stark and then to himself. The fact that Middleton was an Englishman is another point in the identification, as Knightley is apparently an Englishman, though claiming to be an American.

Angus Morrison Dead.

London, Ont., Aug. 31.—Angus Morrison, one of the best known oil operators in America, died here very suddenly from a hemorrhage of the throat. For many years he lived in Toronto, later going to Hamilton as manager of the Imperial Oil Co. Forty years ago he founded the Morrison Oil Co., London. He was 69 years old.

To Meet Cardinal

Correspondent of The Ottawa Citizen Wants to Know Why Vannutelli Gets a Public Ovation When Bishop of London Went Unnoticed—Reception Will Be Held at the Hotel Frontenac, Quebec.

Quebec, Aug. 31.—Accompanying Cardinal Vannutelli, papal legate to the Eucharistic Congress, now en route here on the Empress of Ireland, is Cardinal Logue, primate of all Ireland, and other dignitaries of the church.

The legate and his party will land here, and a welcome will be tendered to them by Archbishop Begin and the Lieutenant-Governor on the terrace of the Hotel Frontenac. Subsequently the legate and party will proceed on the Government steamer Lady Grey, via Three Rivers and Sorel to Montreal. The party are expected to reach Montreal on the afternoon of Sept. 2. The flotilla that will escort the Lady Grey to Montreal will meet her in the neighborhood of Point aux Trembles. It has been preparing for the function, and the effect is certain to be impressive. The yachts will fly the papal flag at the bow, and the Canadian or British flag at the stern. They will line up in two rows on each side of the Lady Grey and will steam up the river at a uniform speed. It is expected that over a hundred yachts, coming from all parts of the province, and also from Plattsburg, N.Y., will take part in the demonstration.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—A leading Anglican of the Archdiocese of Ottawa made vigorous protest in The Citizen yesterday against the manner in which the whole machinery of the Federal Government is being used to boom the eucharistic congress at Montreal. He says:

"Two ecclesiastical dignitaries, representatives of two great divisions of the Christian church, are visiting Canada. One is the Bishop of London, a subject of King George and a representative of the state Church of England; the other is Cardinal Vannutelli, a subject of the King of Italy and a representative of the Church of Rome.

"The Bishop of London, on his arrival in this country, met with a fitting reception from the Anglican body, but, very properly, received no official recognition from the Canadian Government.

"With Cardinal Vannutelli a different course is pursued. The Government, representing all Canadians without regard to sectarian differences, has delegated one or two of its members to welcome the Italian on behalf of the people of Canada, the troops maintained by the taxation of Catholics and Protestants alike, are ordered out to serve as his bodyguard, and the Government steamer Lady Grey is placed at his disposal. What is the cardinal to Canada, or Canada to him, that he should be singled out for such honors?"

General Dispensation Granted.

Montreal, Aug. 31.—The Pope cabled yesterday a general dispensation in Montreal on congress Friday, Sept. 9, owing to the difficulty of crowds of visitors of getting proper Catholic food.

Pugsley Back In Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Hon. William Pugsley returned yesterday after an absence of several weeks spent on the great lakes and Canadian railways inspecting the shipping facilities of the various ports.

Dr. Pugsley says that only in cases of extreme urgency will dredging or other public work be allowed to be continued after the Parliamentary appropriation has been exhausted.

To-morrow Dr. Pugsley leaves for St. John to meet Sir Robert Perks.

Victim of Pellagra.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Pellagra claimed its first victim in this city yesterday in the person of Mrs. A. Salie Graham, 55 years old, of Warrenton, Va.

The Cause
of Eye Troubles is usually not disease, but defect in the structure or muscles of the Eye.
Consider the incessant work of the Eye, the instantaneous and exact adjustment demanded that sight may be always equal, single and ready to every change in position, distance and light. The nerves compel and control the mechanism in these instant adjustments. The mechanism may be defective, that is—
There may be defects in the structure, or focus of one or both Eyes;
The Muscles may be imperfectly balanced, so that both Eyes do not work in harmony;
There may be inability to focus for close work;
There may be strain through overwork, abuse, poor lights, bright reflections, etc.
An examination will tell you just what condition your Eyes are in.

THE NEW CONSERVATIVE WHIP.

Mr. George Perley Is an American Brought Up In Canada.

When the Conservative members of the House of Commons gather themselves together at the opening of Parliament in November next it will be different. Some of the hands who have been guiding that party for a quarter of a century have finished their political tasks, because their owners have earned superannuation. As an example of the changes which are occurring, the veteran Conservative Whip, Mr. George Taylor, member for the County of Leeds since 1882, will be succeeded by a man who came into the House twenty years later. Mr. George H. Perley, though a member for Argenteuil, a county on the north shore of the Ottawa River, is a resident of Canada's capital city. He once attempted to represent the County of Russell, but Mr., now Senator, W. C. Edwards got more votes than he did. On the death of Dr. Christie in 1902 he made another attempt in Argenteuil, but again found himself somewhat short of ballots. In 1904 he had better luck, and since then he has come to be a force in the House.

A Whip's business is to be a manager of men and to be industrious. Mr. Perley being in the lumber business knows how to manage men. Everybody in the lumber business does. His industry seems to have come to him by inheritance, since his father was a great lumberman, and himself member of Parliament for the City of Ottawa.

Mr. Perley shares with Sir William Van Horne, Mr. Castell Hopkins and others, the honor of being an American by birth, a Canadian by training, and a Britisher by predilection. He was born in Lebanon, New Hampshire, but educated at the Ottawa Grammar School. Later he went to Harvard University, and this fact may have helped him in his political career, as it is said to have helped the Minister of Labor. He is a director of the Bank of Ottawa, a past president of the Rideau Club, a prominent member of the Golf Club, and takes an interest in all social and charitable work.

Arthur E. McFarlane.

Arthur E. McFarlane is a Canadian; just as much as that other Arthur, crony of his yclept Stringer, with whom he fried pancakes in New York many a month; yes, with Canadian Harvey O'Higgins, too. They were a jolly, brainy but impecunious three; said of them that once in those batching years one of them at last sold a story. The three adjourned to a gilded restaurant, took a table at the rear end and looked critically over the bill of fare, as if any one of them could have bought out the entire menu.

"What are you going to have?" said each to each.

Impossible to decide.

"Oh—guess we'll take fried eggs," said one of the Arthurs.

That was long before either Arthur E. McFarlane or Arthur Stringer became a top-liner in the United States periodicals. A census of the really big stories and articles in the leading United States magazines would show a large percentage due to the Canadian colony in New York of whom McFarlane is one of the brightest. He was born near Stratford, Ont.; has traveled a good bit; written a great variety of good things; is an omnivorous worker; lives most of his time at Birch Cliff, near Toronto. Just at present he is on a shoepack jaunt to the Peace River, incidentally picking up some good things and at bunk-times when the rest of the gang is asleep pegging away at a novel he must deliver in the early fall.—Canadian Courier.

The Attorney-General and the Boy.

Hon. J. J. Foy is telling a good story on himself. The other week, on one of the torrid days, he was walking to the Niagara boat, and feeling the oppressive heat, looked around for a boy to carry his valise. Seeing a newsy close at hand, he offered five cents to be relieved of his baggage. Being a director of the Niagara Company, Mr. Foy has access to all the private entrances on the Yonge street wharf, Toronto, and started through that of the Canadian Customs, when the boy stopped him with a warning that anyone who went through that door would likely be arrested. "Oh, never mind," said Mr. Foy in a jocular manner. "I own this wharf."

"What?" answered the newsy. "Why, this wharf is worth a million dollars!"

"Well, even at that, couldn't I own it?" asked the Attorney-General.

"Well, if you did," added the boy, shaking his head mournfully, "you wouldn't offer a guy a nickle for carrin' this here valise."

Cured of Resigning.

D. McNicholl, vice-president of the C.P.R., once had an irrascible, though very capable G.P.A. at an important point on the system. Whenever the G.P.A. ran a tilt with the vice-president, which was not infrequent, he would write his resignation to the vice-president. Mr. McNicholl, with true Scotch imperturbability, stowed the resignation away in his desk and in course of time had quite a collection of them.

By and bye the G.P.A. got cross with some other official and fired in a resignation to that gentleman. It took considerable diplomacy on Mr. McNicholl's part to get the matter into his hands for adjustment, but he finally succeeded. Then he wrote the G.P.A. and asked him in future to send his resignations direct to the vice-president where they would be properly dealt with. It is said that broke the G.P.A. of the resignation habit. Anyway he is still in the company's service.

Natural Gas Near Cooksville.

While drilling for water on the farm of Harrison Hisy, two miles north of Cooksville, recently, natural gas was struck at a depth of 248 feet. That night the well was lighted and burned from 8 to 10 feet above the pipe. The light was visible for miles around. It is the intention to drill further, with the intention of supplying the whole countryside with fuel.

Lightning.

The string of beads of light sometimes seen for several seconds after a flash of lightning is due to the incandescence of the air.

Canada's Mountain Grandeur.

We have in Canada one of the grandest mountain ranges on the face of the earth; one of which we may feel tremendously proud when we hear it spoken of; one replete with the most varied and attractive gems of alpine scenery. In these mystic regions wide snowfields of dazzling whiteness undulate through miles of space; black cloud shadows chase one another across the shining surface; the ribs of rock stand out sharp like the frame of a mighty skeleton. Here ice-rivers drain lakes of snow up in the clouds and tumble in a wild confusion of seracs over rocky beds walled in by mountain sides; waterfalls leap down rock precipices; cascades thunder from the heights; rock falls cut wide gashes in the virgin forest; shining, jewel-like lakes of exquisite shades of blue and green reflect their surroundings so perfectly that it is difficult to know where land ends and water begins. In the primeval forests of mighty conifers there are spreading boughs, festooned with beards of moss, and the foliage is so dense that it creates a dim religious shade illuminated only by the slants of sunlight that find a way through the openings. These forests are filled with wonderful things; prickly shrubs six feet high, that wound the flesh with sharp spines; rare flowering plants that delight the eye with beautiful blossoms, and bushes loaded with luscious huckleberries and full ripe raspberries. In sequestered nooks there are beds of rare orchids and other handsome flowers. Half hidden by the foliage, great blocks of rock, as big as houses, have fallen from the surrounding heights; their sides are seared with age and covered with lichens, and on their crests are colonies of baby spruce trees that have settled there and thrive on the moss-grown surface.—Arthur O. Wheeler, in The Canadian Magazine.

A Crushing Retort.

In a certain New Brunswick county, where the councillors served without any sessional indemnity whatever, Councillor C. was defeated in a contest in the parish of X., and at the next session to which he was elected the councillors voted themselves $5 per day.

Councillor C. supported the resolution. He believed, he said, that his services were worth $5 per day to the electors of the parish of X. and that if he had not thought so he would not have offered his services.

"Mr. Warden," said a member who was opposing the increase, "there is nothing in that. Three years ago Councillor C. offered his services to the electors of a cer morning, and they rejected him."

Wiser After All.

The late John R. Cameron, of The Hamilton Spectator, was an adept in the use of the English language for pun and punmaking. He accused another newspaper of pirating it's leading articles, and thereupon called for "three shears for our esteemed contemporary." Once The Buffalo Courier said that "Canada did not know enough to come in out of the reign-Britannia." Cameron's rejoinder was that "Canada, at any rate, knew enough to keep out of the hail—Columbia."

Persian Caravans.

When a Persian camel caravan is on the march the very young camels are often tied to the backs of the mother animals, since they cannot endure the fatigue of a long march. Valuable dogs also ride in the same way.

Chinese Words.

Without exception every word in Chinese when uttered is accompanied by its own peculiar intonation, without which the word would be unintelligible. The same monosyllable is often intoned in eight different ways.

Reporter Was Late.

If you know of an item or piece of news, tell us about it. That's just what we want. But a newspaper man sometimes experiences more difficulty in gathering news than one would imagine. This was the case with a reporter in a neighboring town who a few days ago was sent to write up a fire in a residence. Going to the door he enquired for the lady of the house. The maid said she was out. "Are any of the family at home?" inquired the scribe. "No, they are all out," was the reply.

"Well, wasn't there a fire here last evening?" "Yes," said the young lady, "but that's out too."—Caledonia Banner.

Beeton Boy's Success.

Shelburne amateur gardeners are getting out after records. H. S. Fenton's garden yielded a good mess of green peas on July 7. This seems like "a little bit of all right" for early.—Shelburne Economist. Mr. Fenton was an old Beeton boy. Beeton boys lead wherever they go.—Beeton World.

Hume, the Historian.

Hume, the historian, was said to be the ugliest man of his time. His face was fat, coarse and vulgar, with no striking or pleasing features.

Famous Lovers of Cats.

A few people of considerable mind have always known how to treat the cat with honor. It is perhaps hardly necessary to repeat the ancient story of Mohammed—how, rising from his seat and fearful of awakening the cat that was sleeping on his sleeve, he cut off that part of his garment and left her undisturbed. Richelieu also found pleasure and relief in the society of cats, yet he can be regarded as only incompletely a cat lover. As kittens they appealed to him, and as kittens only. He loved to keep a family of them in his study until they arrived at a certain age, but when they were three months old he had them taken away and replaced by others that were younger. Moncrieff also loved cats and wrote about them, as did Baudelaire and Hoffmann and Gautier and Edgar Allan Poe.—Century.

Ole Roemer.

Ole Roemer, who first calculated the velocity of light, was born in Aarhuus, Jutland, in 1644, and died at Copenhagen in 1710. THE NEXT CENSUS.

The Counting of 1911 Will Cover a Wide Field.

The next census of Canada will be taken under date of June 1, 1911, and will embrace the subjects of population, mortality, agriculture, manufactures, minerals, fisheries and dairy products.

Population will be recorded under the heads of residence and personal description, citizenship, nationality and religion; profession, occupation and trade or means of living; wage-earnings and insurance; education and language spoken, and infirmities.

Every person living on 1st June will be entered on the schedule of population by name, as member of a family, institution or household, together with place of habitation, sex, relationship to head of family or household, and whether single, married, widowed, divorced or legally separated. The month of birth, year of birth and age at last birthday will also be recorded.

Entries will be made for each person to show the country or place of birth, year of immigration to Canada, if born elsewhere, year of naturalization if formerly an alien, and also racial or tribal origin, nationality and religion. Every person of alien birth who has become a naturalized citizen is a Canadian by nationality; and every British subject with residence in Canada, as well as every native of Canada who has acquired citizenship by birth or naturalization, is also a Canadian by nationality. But there is no Canadian by racial or tribal origin, unless the Indians are so counted.

Every person having an occupation or trade will be entered for it, but if employed in the census year at some other occupation for part or whole time he will be so recorded also. If the person is working on own account, the entry will be so made. An entry is also required to be made showing where the person is employed, as farm, in woolen mill, at foundry shop, in drug store, etc.

Wage earners are entered to show the number of weeks employed in 1910 at chief occupation or trade; at other than chief occupation if any; the hours of working time per week at chief occupation, or at other occupation, if any; the total earnings in 1910 at chief occupation; the total earnings at other than chief occupation; and the rate per hour when employed by the hour.

Entries are required to be made for each person showing the amount of insurance held at date of the census upon life, as well as against accident or sickness, together with the cost of such insurance in the census year.

Under the heading of education and language, records will be taken for every person of five years of age and over showing the number of months at school in 1910, and if the person can read and write, and the language commonly spoken by each person. The cost of education in 1910 for persons over 16 years of age at college, convent or university is also called for.

The last question on the schedule of population relates to infirmities. It calls for a record of each person having an infirmity. If blind, deaf and dumb, crazy or lunatic, idiotic or silly, a record thereof will be made in the proper column, and the age at which the infirmity appeared is required to be specified.

Hays' Lesson In Diligence.

The anecdote anent C. M. Hays, president of the G.T.R., which is given below, is going the rounds of the Canadian press, and is used quite properly as a counsel to diligence in young men.

Charles Melville Hays was in the passenger department of the Atlantic and Pacific Railway at St. Louis when he was not much over 17. One day Mr. Talmage, vice-president and general manager of the Gould roads, entered the room. It was a little before lunch hour, and half the clerks were putting on their coats. Others were looking at their watches and leaving for the wash-room. In the general commotion of breaking up there were a few who were still busy, and among them was young Hays. Talmage approached him and asked the time of day. The young man did not hear, and Talmage put a hand on his desk, repeating the question. Hays looked up, surprised to see the chief at his elbow.

"I beg your pardon, were you speaking to me?" he asked.

"Merely asked the time—that was all," said Talmage.

Hays glanced about the room until his eyes rested on the office clock and said:

"It's eleven fifty."

"Thank you," said the general manager, strolling out.

It was directly after that conversation that Talmage picked Hays out as his private secretary and confidential clerk. The fact that Hays was thinking more about his work than about breaking away had impressed the general manager in a most favorable way.

Art Treasures In Fredericton.

That very keen gentleman, J. Purves Carter, English artist, has sprung another sensation. Last autumn, it will be remembered, he rummaged through an old lumber room at Laval University, and told the academicians that their storehouse was the greatest art gallery in Canada, alleging that it contained, for instance, Rubeu's Fruit Garland, also a Gainsborough, a Salvator Rosa, and a Poussin. While a great many people agreed with Mr. Carter, some thought that clever copies had bamfoozled him. In fact, the Laval Collection is a mystery yet; no one has been able to quite decide as to the individual merits of the two million dollars' worth of art treasures in the quaint Quebec College. Mr. Purves Carter has given it up, though not his hobby of digging up rare pictures. He has migrated elsewhere, lately to New Brunswick. The other day he journeyed to Fredericton. In the Council Chamber of the Government building, four courtly figures have for years looked down benignly from their gilt frames. Who they are every high-school boy can tell: King George of Tea Party fame, Queen Charlotte, Glenig, Scottish earl, and His Excellency, the Earl of Sheffield. As to who painted these pictures, well, no one in Fredericton has been able to recollect.

Connoisseur Purves Carter has come out with his explanation. Arriving from Boston in St. John the other night, he said that the paintings of King George III. and Queen Charlotte were no less than the work of Sir Joshua Reynolds; that the Glenig one was done by Graham, famous Scottish artist, and that John Hoppner, R.A., was responsible for the portrait of the Earl of Sheffield.

Took the Wrong Cue.

When anyone shakes hands with the Premier, says The Toronto Mail and Empire correspondent who has accompanied Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the West, he at once enquires the name and then makes some remark or comment designed to please the voter or his wife. If the name is Mrs. Jones, he insists that it must be Miss Jones, and if the nationality of the speaker is betrayed by the name that fact is seized upon to advantage, but now and then the most wily politician makes a mistake. At Selkirk the other afternoon the Premier was in fine fettle and had ag lad hand and a winning smile for everybody. As he was driving off some voter grasped his hand enthusiastically.

"What is the name?"

"Sullivan."

"Oh, yes, Mr. Sutherland. I have not forgotten your name. It is a fine old Scotch name."

"To hell with the Scotch," responded the voter.

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

FOILING SIR WILLIAM.

His Natural Finish Parlor Is Buried Under White Lead and Turps.

A new and amusing story of Sir William Van Horne is told by Norman Rankin in the July issue of Canada Monthly. It seems that when Sir William was constructing the Cuba Railroad he decided to install a typical railroad hotel in Camaguey, midway of the island, and with his keen eye for detail he had an idea as to its decoration.

"Why not fit up one of the parlors," said he, "with panellings of the beautiful native woods of the island? It seems to me that such a room would interest visitors greatly, and give a handsome effect."

"Fine," said everybody, and his suggestion was carried out to the letter.

Next time he arrived in Camaguey, the hotel was practically complete, and Sir William recollected his hardwood room.

"Yes, it was there," said everybody, but with a singular lack of enthusiasm.

"I should like to see it," suggested Sir William mildly.

"Certainly, oh certainly," said everybody, and hastily changed the subject.

Sir William was deaf, dumb and blind to the beauty of the weather, the excellence of the service, and the sudden death of everybody's grandmother. He wanted to see that hardwood room, and with drooping ears everybody, checkmated, led him to it.

It had been panelled in all the different varieties of beautiful native hardwoods, according to schedule, from ceiling to floor. It had given a beautiful effect, as Sir William had foreseen. And then a gang of painters, putting finishing touches on halls and corridors, had wandered in, observed its paintlessness, and given it two heavy coats of ivory white.

Like the black on the darky, it wouldn't wash off, and ivory-white that parlor is to this day.

Radcliffe Still an Active Man.

Those who have read the accounts of the numerous hangings in the Province of Ontario at the hands of one Arthur Ellis have wondered perhaps what had become of John Radcliffe. Radcliffe, most skillful of executioners, is in the West and his abilities are by no means rusting for lack of use. An interview with him in The Daily Columbian of New Westminster, B.C., records a visit to that city. He said that he felt more at home in New Westminster than in any other city in Canada with the exception of Toronto. Mr. Radcliffe is not inactive, for at this city of his choice he hanged a Japanese murderer and in the same week put an end to two Indians who were lying under sentence of death at Kamloops. "The work is telling on me a good deal now," said the famous hangman, and added that continuous travel was impossible at his time of life. "As a matter of fact," he added, "there is too much work for a man of my profession in this country and I am glad to see that some provinces are engaging executioners of their own." He gave as an instance of the necessity for assistance that hangings were booked for the same day at Edmonton and in Ontario. Radcliffe incidentally mentioned his interest in the game of lacrosse and regretted that he could not entertain himself by visiting a match which seemed to be the most important event of the day in New Westminster. The reader can only express the hope that his interest in lacrosse was not professional.

A Toronto Grace Darling.

William Bateman, Toronto Island constable, and his wife figured in a scene of splendid heroism recently. The yacht Nelda, with seven people on board, was overtaken and capsized by a gale of southwest wind, when just east of the eastern entrance of Toronto harbor and about a mile off shore in the lake.

Two of the people on the Nelda were drowned, being imprisoned in the cabin by the waves. The other five owe their lives to the efforts of Constable Bateman and his wife, who without a moment's hesitation, put off in a small boat and effected a rescue at the risk of their own lives.

The storm came suddenly as a lightning flash, the wind rising immediately to a velocity of fifty miles per hour, and the riot of waves also made the surface of the lake one smother of foam. After forty minutes' hard battling with wind and wave, Constable Bateman and his wife got the survivors on board their small boat and landed them safely on the island.

It is only four or five years since Mr. Bateman was appointed constable at the island, and yet in that time he and his no less heroic wife have rescued close on half a hundred people from the waters of the harbor and the lake. Mrs. Bateman has acted the "Grace Darling" on more than one occasion, having rescued over a score of persons from watery graves. She holds the medal of the Royal Humane Society for life-saving.

For example, let us take the OVEN.

The oven bottom of all sizes is 20 inches deep. This is the actual depth of the oven floor, the part of the oven that is of the most value to you. We do not include an inch or two in the bottom of the oven door.

Measure the oven bottom of other ranges—especially those with swing doors—and see if the ovens come up to this specification

"Peerless Peninsular" is a big, honestly built range—full size—with all the new conveniences of the most expensive steel ranges—and with the durability of cast-iron which is superior to steel in lasting qualities.

"HARMONY", "CONSTANT" and "ADANAC" have the same quality, workmanship and construction as the "Peerless", the difference is only in the outer appearance.

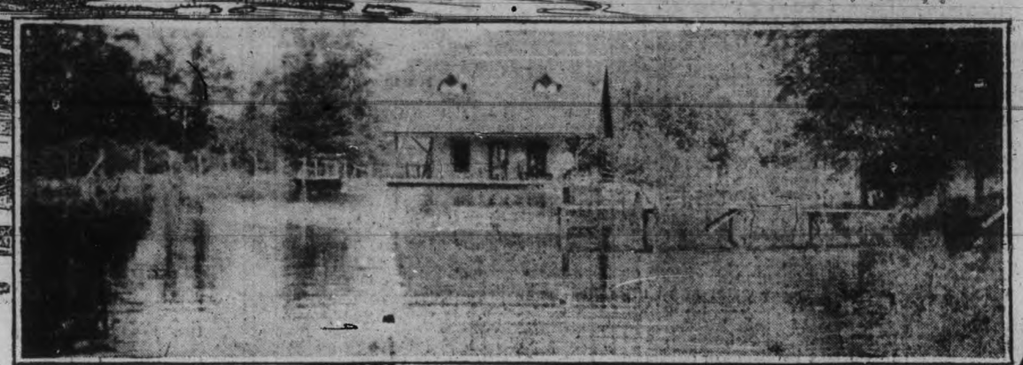
FISH Farming in the Great Marshes of New York State Is Described by the Men Who Are Making Their Fortunes Out of the Finny Creatures.



Feeding Fish.

BY EDWARD HUNGERFORD.

(Copyright, 1910, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.)

IN this day and generation a deal is being said as to the renaissance of the farmer, particularly the Eastern farmer. Attention is being given to an increase of education and scientific training—that magic phrase "intensive farming" is being spoken from many lips. A hundred hands are reached down to help the farmer stand squarely upon his feet once again. Still, the fact remains that all attention is being given to land farming—to the pasture, the orchard, the meadow—even to the long neglected wood lot, for the wood lot is soon to play its own rôle in the national problem of forest conservation.

But how about water farming? It is a poor farm in the dimpled East that does not have some little brook or kill trickling down across it—does not at least possess a bit of a pond within its boundaries. The farmer's boys generally know those brooks and those ponds. The old man knows them—as a nuisance. He tries his level best to drain them dry, and all the time they are assets—unappreciated assets, to be sure—but assets for all that.

For the humblest pond can—and some day will—bring forth part of the farmer's food supply. It will become an economic part of his land holding, doing its part toward the success of that land holding, just as much as its most productive acre of soil. Mountain streams may bring forth trout, and brook trout commands a high price in every city market, but the humble pond will house and develop catfish, and catfish as food deserves no sneers.

To make the farmer see that pond as an asset and not as a nuisance is to-day one of the gravest problems of Dean L. H. Bailey, of the Country Life Commission, and the other men who are giving their time and study toward bringing agriculture into its own once again. A little later and we shall see what Dean Bailey's great school at Ithaca has accomplished along this very line. For the moment let us turn our attention to a fish farm, where raising trout for the market has become a matter of practical industry.

James Cruickshank's trout farm lies in a deep hollow of the Catskills, on the rough, high road that leads from Big Indian to Oliverea. There are more than five thousand acres of wild mountain forest in the Cruickshank preserve, and in the beginning it was established merely as the summer home of a man who had retired from a manufacturing career. But Mr. Cruickshank was not long satisfied with a mere show place among the Catskills. He began to turn his active attention to some practical development for his great preserve. He had decided that its many acres must yield something for their keep. Farming such as had been known upon the land was out of the question. Then he hit upon fish farming.

It is more than a dozen years since the first of the tiny trout were planted there at Oliverea. To-day there are more than a million of the speckled beauties living in the crisp, cold waters of the big hatchery, while Edward Townsend, its superintendent, promises twice that number within the next few years. Mr. Cruickshank thinks nothing of sending from 75,000 to 90,000 trout to market during the open season—from June 15 to Septe ber 15. Those are the trout that are sent ready to eat. All the year 'round the hatchery is busy sending out tiny fry or "fingerlings" to other pools, to the preserves of fishing clubs or to other fish farms, for the raising of brook trout as an industry is already beginning to grow.

The Hatchery Itself.

"It is simple work and easy work, but work requiring exceeding care," said Mr. Townsend the other day. "We have the natural equipment right in this little valley for it. There are from a dozen to twenty fine natural springs on the place, although as yet the water supply from two of them has been sufficient for the needs of the hatchery."

The hatchery itself consists of a long, low wooden building and a great number of surrounding pools and ponds. In the building the actual hatching takes place. The eggs—the average female trout should yield from five hundred to eight hundred eggs—are placed on long screens, about one foot by five feet in dimensions. Each screen holds about thirty thousand eggs. They are constantly washed by the cold spring water, carefully filtered and refiltered, while heavy leaden tops shut out the light from above.

"We started to hatch our eggs on November 9 last," Mr. Townsend tells you. "We can count on ninety days for the process of hatching and so on February 9 and 10 of this year every single egg was hatched."

In those ninety days there was no loafing in the hatchery. It is tedious work, constantly going over those hatching screens in the dim light, but upon the faithful and constant turning of those tiny eggs the success of the hatch is going to depend. Townsend hatched about ninety per cent of his eggs this year. He will expect more than seventy-five per cent of them to give him marketable fish. Record so much for care in the hatchery house.

When the tiny fry are all successfully hatched they are still kept under cover. The strong light of the sun is not to glare down on their delicate eyes for another five or six months. Bigger tanks there in the hatchery house are given them and there they are swimming in great hosts—five thousand to a tank no larger than the bathtub in your apartment and not anywhere near as deep.

"How about their food?" you ask Townsend.

He is kind and does not smile upon your ignorance. "Hogs' livers," he says quickly.

You wonder if you have understood him correctly. Somehow you have never thought a delicate brook trout quite as carnivorous an animal as that.

"Hogs' livers," he repeats. "We have found that the most practical food for trout, and other hatcheries all use them, too. We get 1,200 pounds of them a week from a packing house in Chicago, and up there next to the engine house we have chopping machines to cut them up for the trout."

Then he goes forward telling you of his troubles when once in a great while the refrigerator car with the hogs' livers fails to get through to Big Indian It needs all the resources of West Washington Market, down in New York, to fill their needs. But you are still thinking of hogs' livers, thinking of them until Townsend's assistant comes down the steep path from the engine house with a great pail of the chopped raw meat.

Hatching House.

You follow the hatchery men to the edge of their biggest pond, where five thousand "two-year-olds" are luxuriant in a deep natural pool of the cold spring water. They kneel upon the edges of the pond and the fine chopped meat goes into the water in handfuls. There is mighty splashing—the usually placid surface of that big pond seems to be stirred by a hundred tiny geysers. Then the men move to another corner of the pool—and the tiny geysers show themselves there. So it goes, all the way around the edge, and—lest some of those splashing fellows be forgotten—finally the hatchery men step into a little punt and scatter the remainder of the day's meal into the very centre of the pond.

All They Can Eat.

"How do you know when they get enough?" you ask.

"We keep giving them all they will eat," Townsend tells you. "If too great a quantity comes to the surface after the meal, we know that we are overfeeding them. You see, it's all in the 'know how.'"

All in the "know how." You come away down through the lovely trout pools there in the guardianship of the high hills realizing that there must be a deal of "know how" in the rearing of a million brook trout. It takes some little skill to market them at seventy-five cents a pound—three of the delicate fish averaging a pound in weight—but the skill comes in that two years of careful nurturing between hatching and the hour that they go to the city market.

Still, as you slip out from the forest vistas of Mr. Cruickshank's great trout farm and down the hill toward the railroad station at Big Indian, that problem of hogs' livers worries you. It does not seem quite practical to have to send all the way to a Chicago packing house for the food for these finny folk of the wild mountain streams.

Down in Cayuga Lake marshes, at Ithaca, Dr. J. G. Needham is working out some of the most practical problems that to-day confront fish farming. He is working toward the end that every farmer in the great agricultural State of New York may have his own fish pond or brook at least as a source of food supply if not as a matter of revenue. Last week Dr. Needham gave the outside world the first intimation of what several years of patient labor and scientific study have brought to light in the solution of this very practical problem, and this newspaper to-day prints these for the first time.

His laboratory, which is closely affiliated with the intensely practical Cornell University College of Agriculture, is situated about a mile out of Ithaca in a dense fresh water marsh, close to the head of Cayuga Lake. Long years ago Ithaca had one of the earliest of American railroads and dreamed of herself as a most important port in the coal carrying trade through the interior. Those dreams have been dissipated these many years, but the ancient docks and inlets that are rotting into decay in this piping year of grace 1910 still show the grandeur of that dream. Along one of those inlets the bungalow-like wooden laboratory raises itself on stilts, high enough to be fairly clear of the mosquitoes which infest that morass by the millions.

When you finally reach that fish laboratory—and it is no easy task—you will find Dr. Needham hard at work about it, his coat off, his sleeves rolled up. He looks like the sort of man who tackles a proposition with coat off and sleeves rolled up. He has the lively enthusiasm of youth and the hard energy and hard common sense of the older man. He begins by telling you that this is no fish hatchery. There are other problems of fish culture. You interrupt. You think you know.

"Hogs' livers?" you blurt out.

For this one time you are precisely right. Dr. Needham smiles at you encouragingly.

"Doesn't it seem absurd," he asks you, "that the water should have to beg food from the dry land?"

That, then, is the problem of this little green laboratory in the density of that Ithaca marsh. You can devote much science to the breeding of cows or of hogs, but you are a poor stock raiser if you pay no attention to their forage. The fish hatchers have done their best—with hogs' livers—but it has not been better because there has been no one to lead the way. The hatching of the fish has become a fine art; the equally vital problem of finding their best food has been wofully neglected. Dr. Needham has started out to find it. He has examined the stomachs of thousands of the fish of our inland water and as a result of these examinations he has found that their favorite food is the larvae of May flies, of caddis flies and of midges. Fresh water shrimps are also a favorite delicacy of trout and some other fish.

Hatchery in Winter.

So the problem of the fish forage became compounded. It was next necessary to find the best foods for these three flies. On land live vegetable growths of every sort form the favorite forage for animals of every sort. The creatures of the water almost invariably wait for the vegetation to die, rarely attacking the stems or leaves of growing seed plants. Algae, the delicate masses of soft green weeds of most minute size that grow in profusion along the shores of still water, form part of the food for the tiniest of these forage animals.

Solving the Problem.

Dr. Needham takes you down a long incline from his stilt high laboratory and you are on a narrow walk between two pools. There are fish of every sort within those pools, and here and there he has thrust a mat of rough straw, dried from marsh grass, just beneath the surface of the water.

"That is the best breeding place for the valuable May flies," he tells you. "There where they have both food and rest and shade. The midge fly is valuable," he insists, "for think of how these native fish thrive upon him. These May flies, no matter how sparingly they are distributed in the water, under the right care and conditions will develop rapidly; we can expect a generation in five weeks in midsummer. Moreover, these generations overlap one another, and then you have their splendid reproductive capacity, a female laying about one thousand eggs. At that rate in four generations you have increased your family only about one hundred and twenty-five billions."

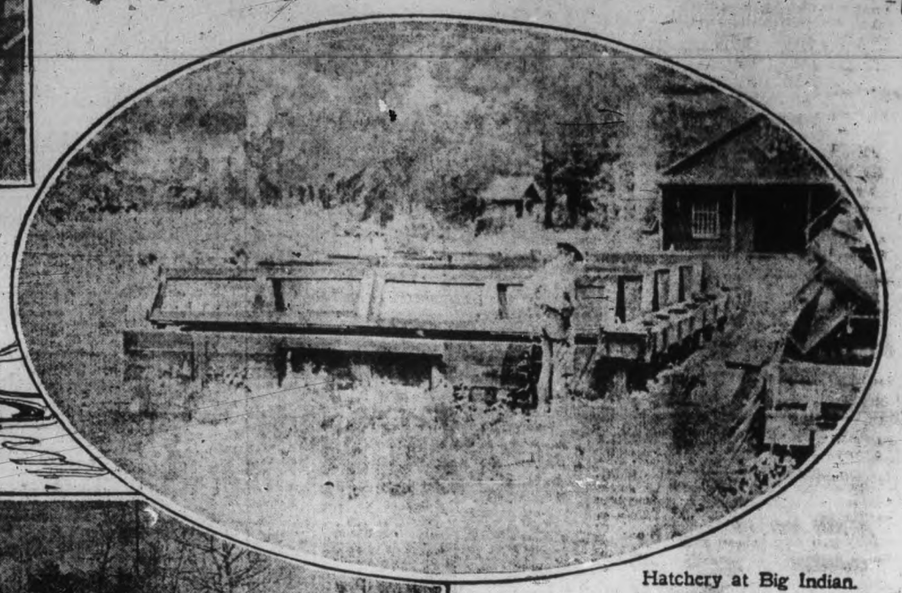
You have almost ceased to wonder about the problem of the hogs' livers and how the practical fish farmer of to-morrow will be able to run his pond independent of the Chicago packing house.

"The old way was like turning a hog loose in a cornfield and calling it a practical method of forage," Dr. Needham tells you. "I can remember in the old days when I was out in Illinois they used to turn the hogs out into the woods and called that agriculture. Now they tightly limit the consumption single hog and there is where you get your farming. We are going to have intensive fish too."

Then this man, this very practical man of practical science, begins to tell you more of the possibilities for the farmer and his fish pond.

He Sees Visions.

"Do you remember the razor back hog of other years?" he asks you bluntly, and then, not waiting for an answer, starts briskly forth. "We raise a better looking hog nowadays, a more profitable hog to put upon the market. You do not think very much of the bullhead to-day—he is too much head and fins. Well, the bullhead of to-day presents the same possibilities that the razor back hog of yesterday presented. He can be improved by scientific breeding and brought to an economical and a practical food. Take the catfish. The catfish, as to quarters, is not over particular. He will be glad to live in any mill pond where his food supply is maintained. A catfish will run from a pound in weight up to those 150 pound 'eats' that they take out of the Mississippi. A good commercial catfish, out of the farmer's own private pond, should run from one to three pounds in weight and provide mighty good eating."



Hatchery at Big Indian.

Dr. Needham's enthusiasm fairly runs riot over that farmer's fishpond of the days that are to come.

"It will be a mighty poor farm that does not have one," he tells you. "Every successful farm, no matter how small it is, that has available water supply will have a fishpond. The farmer will lay it out, round and shady, and around its periphery there will be a circle of small pools for the development of the fish foods, just as farmers to-day put their pigsty in the edge of a cornfield. We are going to try and make that thing possible."

Then he goes into more detailed explanation of the future hopes of that Cornell fish laboratory. It started its work on an acre of land given by Jared T. Newman, one of the trustees of the university. Dean Bailey and the College of Agriculture combined to put up the simple little green wooden building with the boathouse and workrooms below and the light and airy laboratory above. But Dr. Needham insists that he has only made a beginning. He is anxious to expand his work so that his unique institution can solve other problems of practical fish farming in the East.

"There have been too many mistakes made here," he tells you. "Take this matter of fresh water shrimps, that ideal trout food, for instance. There are four varieties of those crustaceans here available for trout forage, and those four require at least a decent care in their rearing."

He gives a particular instance of a lack of care in this very thing:—

"Caledonia Creek, up in Monroe county, has always been famous for its trout," he tells you. "There is a very successful hatchery at work there. Well, a long time ago they discovered those fresh water shrimps in that creek, and some one had the ordinary horse sense to know that they formed the real reason for the trout. So after a while they decided to plant a lot of those shrimps down in a creek south of Ithaca here. They were going to help out the trout fishing. The experiment was a failure. The shrimps died, and so, of course, the trout failed to flourish upon them. There was where ordinary horse sense needed a little practical science just back of it. Practical science would have taught that those fresh water shrimps could not live in a creek where the water ever rose above a temperature of sixty degrees. That was why the shrimps thrived in Caledonia Creek and died down south of here. To transplant them without knowing the difference between the brooks was like sowing fine wheat in a forest.

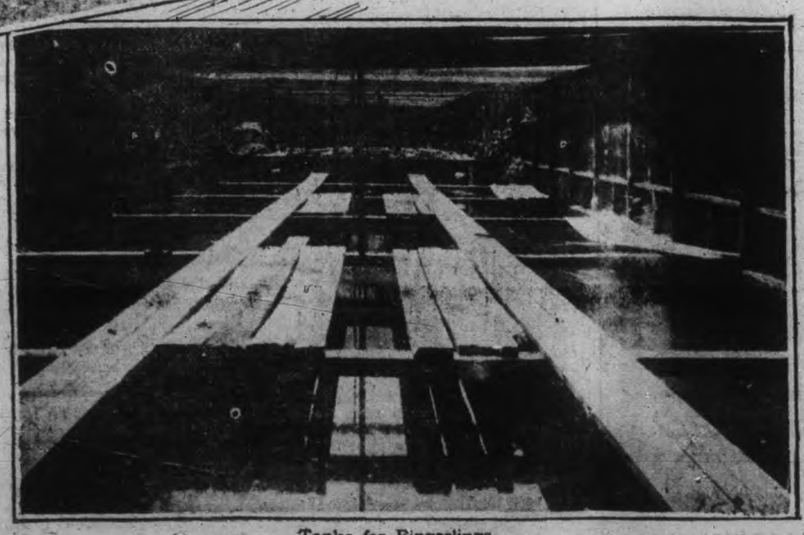
"Another mistake of a somewhat similar sort was made at Freeville, where a brook was stocked with newly planted fingerlings, young trout. Those fingerlings enjoyed no isolation, they had no protected enclosure, and the larger fish crept in and destroyed them. You must have what we call 'pure cultures' in such a case, and in every case you must have some system of management. It seems that the modern methods of general agriculture are going to be applicable to fish farming."

For the last time hog's liver comes to your mind. Dr. Needham laughs.

"The water will not be begging of the land much longer," he says. "In England they have been rather successful in raising a certain species of small red worm as trout food, but that is not necessary; the flies and the shrimps, each in turn carefully nurtured and protected, are going to make the trout happy all his life. The water is enormously productive as compared with the land; it can take care of its own."

Then as you turn to leave that fascinating laboratory there in the marsh grass he stops for a final word. That word, like all that have gone before, is intensely practical.

"There are 100,000,000 acres of this sort of marsh in the United States," he says, "considered all but worthless. New York State is the fourth or fifth in the land in its area of marshes, and yet the day may come when every acre of its marshes will be turned into fish farming, into a practical asset. There are great marshes to the north of here, lying right along the main line of the New York Central at Montezuma, vast areas within an hour's ride of New York city. Every one of those acres can be turned to profit in the production of a food supply for the hungry mouths of our great city."



Tanks for Fingerlings.

THE SAFETY OF "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

May Be Taken For Years

The Ideal Remedy For Young and Old

Nature's gifts do us good, if used judiciously. We eat bread from babyhood to old age without ever tiring of it. We drink water, year in and year out, with the greatest benefit to our health. So too, we eat fruit in season and are better for the change of diet. This is true, because such things are the natural foods and drink of mankind. It is for this reason that "Fruit-a-tives" may be used for years in correcting some ill of the body. As is well known, "Fruit-a-tives" is made of the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes.

Just as fresh fruit may be eaten at every meal, so "Fruit-a-tives" may be taken every night for 20 years or more with the greatest benefit.

The absolute safety of "Fruit-a-tives" has been a great factor in its success. Those who suffered with chronic troubles such as Constipation, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, etc., naturally took a number of boxes of "Fruit-a-tives".

As they became better, they found that instead of being compelled to increase the dose as in most medicines, they were decreasing it, and gradually taking fewer doses.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. At dealers, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Misses Ida and Florence Howe have returned after a two weeks' vacation with friends at Detroit and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. George Backus and baby of West Toronto, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Backus of town.

The Masons' excursion on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week to Lindsay, was fairly well attended. But not so largely as in former years, due no doubt to it being so late in the season. But those who did take advantage of the trip were greatly pleased with the two days' outing. The weather was favourable both days, although at times rain did look threatening. The train left here Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock, leaving Peterborough at 8 o'clock, arriving at Lindsay at 9 o'clock, p.m., where they remained over night; left Lindsay Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, arriving at Peterborough in time to take the local train to Havelock. The trip was, indeed, interesting. The boat stopped at many of the pretty summer resorts along the lake, giving the passengers ten minutes at each place in which to view the pretty scenery.

Music was supplied by pianist and violinist both days and dancing indulged in.

Mr. T. P. Lancaster and Miss Lancaster have returned from a week's outing at Kosk Lake.

Master Charlie Thompson has returned from visiting friends at Morewood.

Misses Liza and Lillian Wright returned home on Friday last, after an extended vacation with friends at Smith's Falls and Almonte.

The local C.P.R. auxilliary was called to Tweed on Thursday evening last where an engine had left the track.

Mr. Fred Squires has put in a set of weigh scales on Quebec street.

Two gentlemen, one a coloured man from the Sunny South and a man by the name of Mullans were brought before Magistrate Matheson last week on a charge of trespassing on the C.P.R. property. Both were sentenced to the Peterborough jail for a time.

Miss Annie Crocker returned to her home at Peterborough on Saturday after a two weeks' vacation in town, the guest of Miss Anna Bryans.

Miss Gray, who has been the guest of Mrs. Jack Beaver for the past two weeks, returned to her home in Toronto on Saturday.

Mr. Gordon Thompson, of Athens, is in town, the guest of his brother, Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P.

Mrs. Dan Higley is visiting with friends in Toronto.

Word was received here on Friday last of the death of Mr. Finch Caghill at his home in Stratford. Deceased formerly resided in Havelock, having been junior clerk in the Bank of Toronto, but owing to ill health last spring was advised by his physician to return to his home. During his stay in town he made many friends who were deeply grieved on hearing of his sudden death.

Mrs. Brennan and son have returned to their home at Muskoka, after a few days in town, the guest of her son, Mr. Reginald Brennan.

Mr. S. J. Crossett, agent for Cudahy's Icing Co., of Buffalo, was in town the week end inspecting the work done here.

Messrs. McKee and Soanes, of Peterborough spent Sunday with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chiles returned to Peterborough Saturday after enjoying two weeks' outing with their daughter, Mrs. J. V. A. Coon at their summer cottage, Round Lake.

The Cold Wave

The following from the Toronto News might apply to conditions at Stony Lake a couple of days last week:

THE NORTHWEST WIND skips over the blue,
And tips the waves with white.
There's never a cloud in the azure dome;
The air is serenely bright.
But oh, the tang of the roaring gale,
As over the foam it blows,
Reminds us all of the frozen North
Where "Le Capitaine" Bernier goes.

The Summer Inn by the water's brink
Is shivering in the gale.
Goose pimples come on the window sills,
The paint is extra pale.
And Miss Evangeline Hazeltine,
A girl of the favored few,
Is looking out on the bounding lake
With her lips a sorry blue.

She thinks of the box of winter clothes
In her beautiful house in town.
She vows that never again will she Depend on a muslin gown.
She has a beautiful sweater coat,
But still she is cold and pale
—One cannot put out a forest fire
With a bottle of ginger ale.

It's oh for a monster stove or two,
Set up in the big hotel,
With a maple knot or a log of beech
A-burning bright and well.
But never a flame of any kind
Gleams out like a cheering star
Save the feeble coal on the fluffy end
Of the Clerk's five-cent cigar.

She wanders over the yellow strand,
She runs, she stamps her feet,
But still she shivers incessantly;
Good land, how she longs for heat!
The kitchen! Ah, such a splendid thought!
But isn't it "dreadful mean"
To find that the Cooks at this hotel
Use nothing but gasoline!

MODEST CY YOUNG

Many good stories have been told of Cy Young, the veteran pitcher of the Cleveland Americans, but the following is about the best. It was told by a prominent member of the Naps recently. The Cleveland team were in Boston a few days after Old Cy had set all the world to talking about his no-man-reach-first game against Connie Mack's team some years ago. He came down to the old Quincy House to see the boys.

"Tell us about the game," said Larry Lajoie as the Naps gathered around the G. O. M. of the game.

"Oh," remarked Cy in that native, natural dialect that six years' residence in Boston did not change, "there an't nothing to tell. Nothing much at anyrate. They just hit 'em right at somebody all the time, that was all. Two or three of the drives would have been good, long hits if Buck and Chick hadn't been laying for 'em. I didn't know nobody had reached first until we were going to the clubhouse. Then Jim told me.

"'First time in twenty-four years,' said Collins.

"'What is?' says I.

"'Nobody sees first,' says he.

"'Didn't they?' says I.

"'Nobody,' he says. Then I knew what all them 20,000 people were yelling about."

COMPLICATED DOUBLE PLAY

What is conceded to be the most complicated double play in the history of baseball was made in Brooklyn recently in a game between two semi-professional teams, the Manhattans and the Marquettes. The play involved every player on the Marquette team save the right fielder, and it was so peculiar as to attract widespread attention.

Marquette had runners on first and third with one out when the signal came for a double steal. The pitcher, suspecting, turned a new trick. Instead of pitching to the plate he whipped the ball to third, drawing the runner off first. The man on third dived back to the bag, and the baseman threw to second, stopping the man approaching, who turned back to first and beat the throw.

As the second sacker threw to first the man on third streaked for home, but was turned back by the first baseman's throw to the catcher. As he was being run down by the catcher, third baseman and left fielder, the man on first continued around the paths. The left fielder finally touched out the runner between third and home, and turned to get the man between second and third. The ball was thrown back and forth several times, the putout finally going to the centre fielder, who had hurried in to join the play.

In all the ball was thrown eighteen times, every man but the right fielder had assists, and two outfielders were credited with putouts on an infield play.

FOUR ASSISTS

Manager Clarke, of Pittsburg, Makes Major League Record

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 27.—In a game between Pittsburg and Philadelphia, Manager Fred Clarke, of the Pittsburgs, made a new record for major league outfielders on assists, making a total of four. All of the assists were on hard chances, but were handled perfectly by the head of the World's Champions. In the second inning, with Titus on third, Knabe hit a long fly to left, which Clarke got, and by a beautiful throw home caught Titus by a foot as he tried to score on the out.

In the fourth, with Bransfield on first, Doolan singled to left a hard bounder, which Clarke got in one hand on the third bounce, and by a long accurate pass caught Bransfield as he slid into third. In the sixth, Magee hit what looked good for two bases to left, but Clarke got the bounder on the dead run and got it to second just in time to get Magee. This throw was the most beautiful of the whole game, coming low and to the proper side into Miller's sglove.

In the seventh, with Doolan on second, Moran almost got the ball over Clarke's head, but the manager went into the air and caught it. Doolan, thinking the ball safe for sure, had turned third. Wagner had run far into the field for Clarke's throw, which came like a bullet, and the ball lost not a whit of speed or accuracy in passing to Miller from Wagner. Doolan was some yards from the base when the ball landed.

CHAMPION SACRIFICER

On Saturday at Washington, Killifer, of the Senators, made a world's record for sacrifice hitting.

He went to the plate four times in the first game and sacrificed every time. A sacrifice on every chance in a full nine inning game was enough of a record, but his first trip to the plate in the second game he sacrificed along Milan, who had walked, and made it five sacrifices in a row. A couple of months ago Killifer made three sacrifices in one game here, and that was considered about as good a performance as American League records could boast, but now he is in a class by himself. The last three of his suicides were made with malice and the whole Detroit team laying for him, yet not once was he in danger of forcing a runner at second or otherwise of failing to accomplish his purpose. Moriarity and Jones played all the way into the plate in a savage determination to end Killifer's mad career, but without effect.

Dr. Gordon C. Hewitt, Dominion Entomologist, says, referring to the infantile death rate from intestinal diseases and diarrhœa spread by the house fly, he believes that the so-called harmless fly is yearly causing the death of thousands of infants, as well as spreading the germs of typhoid fever.

WILSON'S FLY PADS

are the only thing that will rid your house of these dangerous pests.

Each grate bar has three sides—long wear

When only one side of a grate bar is continually next to the fire all the wear is concentrated on that one side. The life of the grate bar is thus naturally just one-third as long as when the wear is distributed on three sides.

That explains why Sunshine grates have three lives. Each of the four grate bars has three sides. Each time the ashes are "rocked down" (no shaking with Sunshine) the side next to the fire can be changed. Thus the life of the grates is greatly prolonged.

When desired, the heavy bull dog teeth on the grates will seize hold of clinkers, grind them up, and drop the particles into the ash-pan.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

James Blackburn, aged 65, was killed in a Mount Forest factory by a blow from a board.

Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, the evangelist, was married to Miss M. C. Moulton of Providence.

A man stowaway, nearly starved to death, was taken from the hold of the steamer Mount Temple at Montreal.

Fire last night destroyed a barn on Glengarry avenue, Windsor, cremating the race horse "Cumberland." Chas. Chandler, the owner, was kicked and seriously hurt.

An effort is on foot to send the 24th Regiment Band of Windsor to the coronation of King George. The band is one of the crack military musical organizations of Canada.

The Canadian Northern Railway crop report for the week ending Aug. 27, indicate that thrashing is general this week. The reports from most points are very optimistic.

Hon. C. S. Hyman's auto collided with a street car last night at London. Mr. Hyman was thrown forward, had his face cut and several teeth damaged and may be internally injured.

A young woman who shot herself in the Hotel Astor, New York, was identified as Vera Fitch of Oakland, California. The girl, according to hospital authorities, was dejected over her literary failure.

Lord Esher, heretofore a consistent supporter of the volunteer system, says that he feels that the days of the volunteer are numbered and that the time may come for compulsory service in the British army.

Emperor Nicholas and Empress Alexandra of Russia arrived at Friedburg, Germany, safely at 3.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Their Majesties were accompanied into German territory by a suite of fifty persons.

May Conquer Leprosy.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Leprosy, the unconquered scourge of the ages, is making what is believed to be its last stand against science.

From Molokai, the Coral Isle and prison for the plague-stricken in the Hawaiian group, a few words have been flashed to Washington, telling of an achievement accounted second only to the discovery of the lepra bacillus by Hansen in 1878.

Three surgeons of the United States public health and marine hospital service, have grown lepra bacilli in pure culture outside the human body, and in tiny thin glass tubes in the laboratory the loathsome germs are now growing in their third generation.

This achievement is the first step in the production of a vaccine or a serum for the cure or prevention of leprosy. Precisely the same ground has been covered by the men who evolved the diphtheria anti-toxine and the serum for tetanus.

Millionaire a Suicide.

New York, Aug. 31.—Solomon J. Hirsch, a millionaire clothing manufacturer of Chicago, committed suicide in the Hotel Knickerbocker yesterday by cutting his throat with a razor while sitting at a desk where he had written several letters.

Continued ill-health was the cause of his act. For several weeks Mr. Hirsch had been in Europe in quest of health, and returned to this country a little over a week ago.

Troops Guard Jail.

Huntingdon, West Virginia, Aug. 31.—With three companies of state militia under personal command of Adjutant-General Elliott, on guard and a machine gun in front of the county jail, no further rioting is anticipated to-day by the mobs which, for two successive nights stormed the jail in an effort to lynch the negroes, John Wayne and Charles Clyburn, alleged murderers.

Will Sue For Damages.

London, Aug. 31.—Suit for unstated damages has been commenced by relatives of Anson Wallace, who died as the result of being run down recently by an automobile owned by M. C. Rose. Rose admitted that he became confused and did not try to stop as he thought Wallace would try to get out of the way.

Goes Down for Nine Months.

St. Catharines, Aug. 31.—Frank Philbin, the absconding Thorold mail clerk and express messenger, who made away with $100 that he was to have delivered at the St. Catharines' office of the Dominion Express Co. and was arrested at Cornwall on Saturday, was sentenced to nine months in the Central.

Sneaking In Via Canada.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 31.—Secret agents of the U.S. customs service are watching the Canadian gateways of transatlantic travel for smugglers who have been frightened away from the port of New York by the rigid customs inspection and the notable seizures of the last few days.

Cholera In Germany.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—Fourteen cases of cholera or suspected cholera have been discovered in Berlin and the suburbs of Spandau.

Would Use the Rod.

London, Aug. 31.—Crown Attorney McKillop yesterday advocated most emphatically the introduction of the lash for juveniles in order to stop the epidemic of juvenile crime that has broken out here.

And Still They Come.

Montreal, Aug. 31.—No fewer than 6,171 new settlers, mostly bound for western provinces, will arrive at the port of Montreal this week, on ten steamships. The great majority of them hail from England and Scotland.

C.O.R. at Aldershot

London, Aug. 31.—The Queen's Own got soaked Monday while drilling. Col. Pellett has ordered a short route march to harden the feet of the company and battalion drills will be the program for the week. Gen. Smith-Dorrien inspects the regiment to-day.

Girl Throws Acid.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 31.—Thomas Price and John Urgamis, youths of Plymouth, Pa., near here, were badly burned on the face, neck and arms yesterday when Miss Barbara Walton, aged 20 years, threw carbolic acid over them.

Kingston Wants Railways.

Kingston, Aug. 31.—The City Council has turned down a proposition for paved street in the business section. Council will ask the C.P.R. and G.T.R. and Canadian Northern to run main lines through Kingston, and will consider a scheme for a public bathing house and play grounds.

The Catholic orphanage at St. Mary's-on-the-Lake will be opened with an orphans' dinner to-day. The building is of stone, four storeys high.

The Kaiser Misunderstood.

Danzig, Aug. 31.—Emperor William, at a dinner Monday night in the castle at Marienburg, the old seat of the Knights of Malta, given in his honor by the dignitaries of the Province of West Prussia, made a speech which was a counterpart of that delivered last week at Koenigsberg.

Taking the Koenigsberg speech which His Majesty evidently regarded as having been misunderstood by the press, he said:

"When I represented myself, like my sainted grandfather, as being under the protection of the highest and as working under the highest commission of our Lord and God, I assumed that every honest Christian, whoever he might be, did the same."

A Scottish Mystery.

Glasgow, Aug. 31.—Scotland is thrown into a fever of curiosity over the death of Lady Marjorie Erskine, second daughter of the Earl of Buchan. The supposition held by some is that she died of exposure, while others entertain the theory that foul play has taken place. Away on the ledge of a rock in a secluded part of the moor, near Aviemore, a man found the body.

Epidemic In Russia.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—Eight new cases developed at Odessa during Sunday and Monday. Prof. Rein, head of the special sanitary commission, which is fighting the pestilence in South Russia, reported yesterday from the Province of Yekaterinoslav that the railways of the southeast had registered 2,319 cases among their passengers and employes.

Merger at St. John.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 31.—Another big business deal is reported, the merger of the Gibson lumber interests at Gibson, N.B., the Partington Pulp & Paper Mill, and the Cushing Lumber Mill here.

It is reported that the C.P.R. has an option on the cold storage plant.

Saved From Fearful Death.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 31.—At the Red Jacket shaft of the Calumet and Hecla mine, Mike E. Sunrich, a tinberman, fell into the shaft. He fell 150 feet before he grasped the rope, saving himself from a fall of a mile to the bottom of the shaft. His hands were badly burned, but he was dangling from the cable when rescued.

Yankee Girl Will Wed a Jap.

New York, Aug. 31.—With the approval of her parents, Miss Ethel Maria Bagg, a graduate of Horace Mann School, is to marry Kintaro Morikubo, a Japanese, son of a member of the Japanese Parliament and Tokio City Council, next month. Following the marriage the couple will go to Japan to live.

SLEEP WAS IMPOSSIBLE

ALMOST DRIVEN TO DESPAIR UNTIL CURED WITH USE OF

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

No symptom of nervous prostration is more to be dreaded than the inability to sleep. Man can exist for considerable time without food, but without sleep, and the restoration which it brings, he soon becomes a mental and physical wreck.

When you cannot sleep and rest look to the nervous system and remember that lasting cure can only be obtained from such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which naturally and gradually restores the exhausted nerves to health and vigour.

Mr. Wm. Graham, Atwood, Ont., writes:. "My wife had been ill for some time with nervous prostration and we had two of the best doctors we could get, but neither of them did her any good. She gradually became worse and worse, could not sleep and lost energy and interest in life. She was almost giving up in despair when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"From the first box my wife used we noticed an improvement and after using six boxes she is completely cured and as well as she ever was, eats well, sleeps well and feels fully restored. I cannot say too much in praise of this valuable medicine for I believe my wife owes her life to its use."

Every dose of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food goes to the formation of so much rich, red blood and is therefore certain to do you good.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

PETERBOROUGH WEDNESDAY AUGUST 31 1910

DID THE SPECIAL TRAIN AT BELLEVILLE RUN PAST SIGNAL?

Significant Statement Made by Engineer to Brakeman---Inquest is to be Continued To-night.

MANY WITNESSES

Examiner Special.

BELLEVILLE, AUG. 30.—The adjourned inquest in the case of Peter Young, engineer, and Edward Brewer, cartapper, killed in the collision in the Grand Trunk yards here on Saturday, was resumed to-night before Dr. Yeomans, Coroner. Mr. Anderson, County Crown Attorney, represented the Crown, and Mr. Thomas McRae appeared for the company. Mr. Porter represented the interests of the Brewer family. The court room was crowded.

Herbert L. Pearsoll, despatcher, gave orders to Engineer Weir and Conductor Thompson of No. 3 to run the special from Brockville to Belleville. No time was set for the run. Young's engine had the right to be where it was. The conductor of No. 3 reported it at 5.57 a.m. It was the switchman's duty to signal the trains. The special was reported at Napanee, 22 miles distant, at 5.33.

Dr. Gibson gave medical testimony.

Gordon Fletcher, a switchman, deposed that the semaphore at the east was always set at danger when trains entered the yard. The semaphore at the east end of the yard was out of order. He had reported it. The wire was broken, and the semaphore remained set at danger. Trains would after slowing, pass by hand signal. He gave the engineer a special signal that the track was clear. The engine whistled for the crossing, and slowed to nine or ten miles.

A. E. Woolf, brakeman, who acted as switchman at the centre switch, where the crossover is, turned the switch for Young's engine, the tender of which was nearly across the westbound line on the crossover when it was struck. He did not hear the special because of 1,022 blowing off. The semaphore was set at the danger against the special. He could not say whether steam hid the semaphore from the engineer of the special. He talked about 11 o'clock with Engineer Weir after the accident. He did not speak of the signal, but said: "That was a very serious thing. It means the pentitentiary for me." The tender of Young's engine was on the crossover when it was struck.

Harry Bronson, fireman on Young's engine, said he set the switch for the crossover and gave the signal to back up. The engine was nearly over the westbound track when struck. The semaphore was set at danger against the westbound trains. He did not see Brewer.

As many other witnesses are to be heard. The inquest was adjourned till to-morrow night.

ELECTIONS IN SPAIN

Special Wire to The Examiner.

MADRID, SPAIN, AUG. 31.—The complete results of the election, where soldiers permitted them to be held, returned ninety Ministerialists and fifty-four of the Opposition.

TO SWIM CHANNEL

Special to The Examiner.

DOVER, ENG., AUG. 31.—Edward Meyer, a Hollander, started this morning to swim across the English Channel, a distance of twenty-three miles. Captain Webb is the only other man who ever did it. He accomplished the feat in 1883.

WANTS TO DIE

Vera Fitch, Girl Who Shot Herself in Astor Hotel, is Despondent

POTATOES OF CLASS

Mr. Mark Spencely, corner of Smith and Dowrie street, has discovered, or, more correctly, uncovered some noteworthy potatoes in his garden. While digging last night Mr. Spencely came across six monster potatoes that tipped the scales at four pounds, six ounces. One of the collection weighed exactly a pound, and another only an ounce less. Potatoes of a pound weight are somewhat of a novelty in August, and if the tubers keep on growing there will be some good material for the fall fairs.

DIED FROM SMALLPOX

Listowel Doctor Contracted Dread Disease on North Shore on Vacation Trip

Examiner Special.

LISTOWEL, ONT., AUG. 31.—Isolated in a temporary hospital, hastily erected for him, Dr. Sawdon of this town died yesterday from smallpox, after a brave fight of ten days' duration. The Doctor contracted the disease while attending a sick lumberman on the north shore during a vacation trip. The disease did not develop on him until after he returned to practise and was being shaved by a local barber. He was a graduate of Toronto University and passed with honours. His home was at Uxbridge and he was to have been married this year. There is intense sorrow here.

AWFUL JUMP

Unknown Man Hurls Himself From Roof of Twenty-six Story Building

Examiner Special.

NEW YORK, N.Y., AUG. 31.—An unknown man hurled himself from the top of a twenty-six storey Park Row building and was dashed to pieces on the roof of a neighbouring structure in sight of crowds below, this morning.

AERIAL NAVY

French War Department Orders Fifty Aeroplanes.

Examiner Special.

PARIS, FRANCE, AUG. 31.—The French War Department has ordered fifty aeroplanes, mostly biplane type, and will establish an aerial navy immediately.

PAID COSTS

Complainant Withdrew His Charge $1.65 Settled All

A case which, if permitted to enter the court, would have caused considerable notoriety to the parties concerned, was settled by the defendant paying one dollar and sixty-five cents cost, the charge being withdrawn by the informant. The case was one of assault, when a young man allowed his fistic powers to get the best of him, and, as a result, the complainant had one "lamp" put out of commission.

LAWN SOCIAL

Will be Held by St. Martin's T. A. S. on Labour Day

On Monday afternoon (Labour Day) September 5th, a lawn social will be held on the Presbytery grounds, St. Martin's, Ennismore, under the auspices of St. Martin's Total Abstinence Society. Dinner will be served at 5 p.m., and a programme of sports will be run off during the afternoon. The hall will be available for dancing—to first-class music. An invitation and a welcome for everybody.

AT THE ROYAL

The enterprizing proprietor of the Royal Theatre, Mr. M. Pappas, has secured another big amusement attraction for the balance of the week that will eclipse all others. This attraction for the balance of the week will be Fuller's Minstrels, comprising six people, all artists in vaudeville. Mr. Pappas is to be commended for his enterprise in trying to give the amusement-loving people the best value for their money.

EVERYTHING IS PROMISING FOR THE BIG PETERBOROUGH INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION

While the Canadian National Exhibition is occupying the centre of the stages just now, the directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition are exhausting every effort to make the local big fair the most successful in the history of the Association.

A new mark, in point of attendance and success was set last year, and with this to aim at the management expect to establish a still greater triumph. The amusement features will, be prominent in the programme. While the object of the Exhibition is primarily to educate, a secondary motive that is almost as important is to amuse and people will find plenty of entertainment in store for them. The list of special attractions in front of the grandstand, is sufficient to provide a solid three hours' entertainment, in which there will not be a dull moment. Naturally, with the fastest high mile track in Ontario available, horse racing will be a big feature and there is every reason to expect that the classiest bunch of horses that have ever appeared before a Peterborough public will be on hand when the bell sounds for the first heat on Friday, Sept. 16.

Among the special attractions that have been secured is a troupe of Japanese acrobats, who will give a platform performance of startling and novel feats of a nature never before seen here.

At the night performance on Friday September 16, the big event will be a grand display of fire works, under the direction of Prof. Hand of Hamilton. This wil include no less than thirty-seven different displays and will undoubtedly be well worth seeing.

The full band of the 57th Regiment will be on hand throughout the fair, and Mr. Gliddon is arranging special programmes for the occasion.

Reduced rates have been secured on all railroads and steamship lines, and there will be a record attendance.

KILLS ONE, WOUNDS ANOTHER---SUICIDES

Rev. S. C. Brown, Former Canadian Preacher, Puts an End to a Varied Career at Kansas City.

WAS IN BOER WAR

Special to The Examiner.

KANSAS CITY, AUG. 31.—In killing one woman, seriously injuring another and then committing suicide by shooting himself, with a bullet from the same revolver, Rev. S. C. Brown, until recently a minister in the Christian church in Missouri, ended a very varied career here yesterday afternoon. He was born somewhere in Canada, and served in the Boer war. Afterwards he became a clergyman; but was arrested and convicted on a charge of theft and was expelled. He was then forgiven, but finished as stated.

HERO OF CINDER PATH TO DON THE MOLE SKIN

HAMILTON, AUG. 30.—(Special.)—It is stated that "Bobby" Kerr will turn out to practice with the Tigers and try to catch a place on the senior team. He has done considerable practising and proved that he is a good catch and a fair punt, and with his great speed would be a strong man behind the line. He can have a place if he wants it.

Already there is talk of this season's team, and it seems likely that the greater part of the old team will don the yellow and black again. Art Moore is likely to be in the game "just for one more season," and Don Lyon is expected to show up again on the wing line. Marriott and Wigle may drop out, but "Punk" Thompson, Glassford and Gatenby are available and will make good material. "Kid" Smith, George Smith and "Dutch" Burton are spoken of along with Art Moore as backs, and Ben Simpson could be counted on if needed.

HYMAN'S CONDITION

Hurt in Collision But is Better To-day.

Examiner Special.

LONDON, ONT., AUG. 31.—Hon. Charles S. Hyman, who was badly hurt when a street car ran into his auto, spent a restless night, but is reported quieter this morning.

COMPLAINT MADE

Against United States Immigration Officer.

Examiner Special.

KINGSTON, AUG. 31.—The United States Consul here has forwarded to Washington a complaint against the United States immigration officer, Capt. Vincent, who has been in the habit of unnecessarily holding up passengers to Eastern Ontario, and others who want to go that way.

THE PEOPLES' SHIELD

TORONTO, AUG. 30.—The teams entered in the People's Shield tournament to be played off at Scarboro Beach next week are busy making preparations to make the trip to Toronto.

Peterborough will arrive in town Saturday morning at 11 o'clock and mean to win.

The miners from the Silver City will hit the town Sunday morning, and will stay at Flanagan's Hotel.

The Calgary team have engaged a special on the C. P. R. at enormous expense. They are due to arrive Sunday night at 7 o'clock. The trip will cost the team over $2,000.

Regina will probably come down along with the Calgary boys, and are in fine form. They defeated the champion Broadview team at Qu'Appelle on Saturday 3 to 0, in the semi-final for Saskatchewan Shield.

RECEPTION FOR PETERBOROUGH BOY SCOUTS THIS EVENING

Peterborough's Boy Scouts will return from Toronto on the 7.33 C.P.R. train to-night, crowned with glory as the result of their splendid showing at the review given before General Sir Baden Powell, at the Toronto Exhibition yesterday afternoon. The local scouts received special mention from the founder of the movement and were complimented upon their soldierly bearing and excellent command of drill. The boys will receive a reception at the station to-night, and all members of the 57th Bugle Band are requested to meet at the armouries at 7 o'clock to-night for the purpose of meeting the Peterborough patrol and playing them up street upon their arrival. The boys have shown their merit among over 200 scouts and are deserving of a rousing welcome. A large number of citizens will undoubtedly be on hand when the train pulls in to-night.

Ladies' Bible Class Of Knox Church Held Social Event Last Evening

A much enjoyed social evening was extended by the organized Ladies' Bible class of Knox church, to the congregation and in particular to the pastor, Rev. H. J. Keith, who has returned after his summer vacation It is customary for the congregation to give an informal reception on such an occasion, which acts as a re-union of the people and gives new members an opportunity to become acquainted.

Rev. Mr. Keith gave a short address, in which he thanked the congregation for their kind welcome and encouraged them to continue their excellent church work.

Mr. Mackenzie, chairman of the building committee, spoke on the progress of the new church, which is fast nearing completion. The brick work on the structure will be finished this week, while the lathing, plumbing and wiring will be completed in the course of a few weeks. The slate which is being used for the roof, is expected to arrive any day.

The teacher of the ladies' Bible class, Mr. J. F. Morrison, extended a hearty welcome to the audience. Among other things mentioned, Mr. Morrison referred to the grand work of the ladies' class, that of paying for the corner stone of the new church. He claimed that by the zealous work of the ladies this had been accomplished.

The following informal programme was given:

Address—Rev. H. J. Keith.

Instrumental solo—Miss Childs, organist.

Vocal duet — Misses Bartlett and Miller.

Speech—Mr. Mackenzie.

Speech—Mr. F. J. Morrison.

Piano duet—Misses Robson and Miss Fair.

Speech—Mr. R. Clifford, Sunday school superintendent.

After the programme the representative gathering of the church sat down to a sumptuous supper, prepared by the ladies. Each of the numerous tables possessed a vase of handsome cut flowers.

Much thanks is due Misses S. Lambe and K. Hamilton, the president and secretary of the Ladies' Bible Class for their fine work among the ladies.

Lindsay May Play Here On Labour Day Morning

Peterborough fans may get an opportunity of seeing the renowned Kid Keslick, of Manilla, in action. Arrangements are under way, and will likely be carried out for a game between Lindsay and the West Ends here on Labour Day morning, in which case Keslick will do the twirling for the nine from Scugogville. Such a game would attract a big crowd. The West Ends are burning for a chance to get back at Lindsay and Keslick, while on the other hand, the Murders are anxious to demonstrate that their win was not an accident by repeating the dose. Further particulars will be given later.

Rich Girl Elopes With Her Mother's Chauffeur

Special to The Examiner:

WILLIMANTIC, Conn, Aug. 30.—The pretty little town of Mansfield, on the outskirts of Norwich, has a brand new romance. It is an elopement, and the parties are Miss Lillian Havens, the pretty and accomplished daughter of Mrs. Carrie E. Havens, of Idyl Manse. The young man is Edward Kelcher, who until recently was employed by Mrs. Havens as chauffeur.

The marriage ceremony was performed at Rockville last Monday, by the Rev. R. S. Moore, pastor of the Methodist Church, although Kelcher is a Catholic and the bride a member of the Congregational Church. Both have just celebrated their twenty-second birthdays.

The young couple are spending their honeymoon in or near Hartford, from where Kelcher comes. Mrs. Havens is said to have forgiven them when she learned that they were very much in love with each other.

Mrs. Havens is the widow of a wealthy manufacturer of Weathersfield and Hartford. The daughter received her principal schooling in Germany.

When Miss Havens, who is tall and blonde and an only child, came home from finishing school her mother entertained lavishly for her, and there was much gaiety in the house, which stands in a small park, generally known as the "Garden of Eden." The wealthy daughter of the house proved to be a democratic girl, unspoiled by wealth; and became an assistant in the Haile Club, an organization for working girls established in Norwich by wealthy Mrs. William Camp Lanman.

Last May Mrs. Havens made a change in her chauffeur, and Kelcher got the job. He was good looking and agreeable, and while the mother entertained guests on the rear seat of the big touring car Miss Lillian sat ahead with the chauffeur, Cupid squeezing in without any special invitation. The true state of affairs was not suspected until quite recently.

Last Monday, accompanied by Town Clerk Bradley Sears of Mansfield, a relative of the Havens family, Kelcher and Miss Lillian went in the Havens auto to Rockville and obtained a license, and were married. Mr. Sears has acted as peacemaker between mother and daughter.

Broken down systems, shattered nerves and emanciated forms are rapidly restored by Miller's Compound Iron Pills. Wm. Madill, druggist.

THE ASYLUM ATTENDANTS WERE COMMITTED FOR TRIAL TO-DAY

McCullough Tells How the Escape Was Engineered—He is Not Allowed to Change His Plea.

THE INVESTIGATION

Examiner Special.

HAMILTON, AUG. 31.—Monteith Trapnell, chief attendant at the Hamilton Asylum, was to-day committed for trial, and McCullough, who has pleaded guilty, was remanded for 8 days for sentence, after an investigation by Magistrate Jelf to-day into charges against them of aiding and abetting in the escape of the insane murderers, Moir and Taggart. McCullough was not permitted to change his plea from guilty to not guilty. In the witness box he said Trapnell handed him his keys and some money and told him to get duplicates made. Trapnell said Moir was a young man and it was a shame to see him locked up, and when the keys were made McCullough handed them to Moir. Supt. English said he had warned Trapnell that Moir was a scheming, dangerous man.

LOCAL SCOUTS COMPLIMENTED

TORONTO, AUG. 30—The Peterborough Boy Scouts, under D. O. Waring, scout master, were highly complimented upon their splendid appearance and perfect drill by General Sir Baden Powell, at the Exhibition this afternoon. Afterwards they were taken on a tour of the grounds by the E.M.F. Automobile Company and later were photographed for the "Exhibition Illustrated."

DIVIDED THE BOARD

Regular Sale of Peterborough Cheese Board Was Held This Morning—10 7-8c the Highest 3948 boxes of cheese were boarded at the regular sale of the Peterborough Cheese Board this morning and all were sold. The best price paid was 10 7-8c., a falling off of one eighth since last sale. Messrs. Cook and Morton divided the board between them.

The factories boarded as follows:

Mr. Cook at 10 7-8c. took Central Smith, Warsaw and Maple Leaf.

The same buyer at 10 13-16c. bought Villiers, Westwood, Oakdale, Daisy D., Myrtle, East Emily, Killarney, Norwood,

Mr. Morton at the same price obtained Keene, Warminster, Selwyn, Lakefield, Pine Grove, King Edward, Young's Point, Lang, Fraserville, Indian River, North Dummer, Trewern, Bensfort, Cedardale, Stony Lake, Cavanville and Fleetwood.

The Board adjourned for three weeks.

PASTOR DRANK

Congregation is Shocked When They Heard of His Efforts to Get Evidence

BREMERTON, Wash, Aug. 30.—The Rev. F. S. A. Jensen, pastor of the Baptist Church of Charleston, assumed a disguise Saturday night and in company with Deputy Sheriff Howard Shattuck obtained information on which to convict Jeannette Frink on a charge of selling liquor without a license. Pastor Jensen is a strenuous enemy of the liquor traffic, and has been especially active in ridding Charleston of "blind pigs."

On the testimony of Pastor Jensen Jeannette Frink, who conducts a restaurant, was fined $50 and costs by a jury in Justice of the Peace Frank W. Coder's court. Pastor Jensen freely admits that he tasted some of the illicit beer, and as a result some of the members of his congregation are shocked.

TECHNICAL TRAINING

Value of It Will be Shown at Canadian National

Technical education has become a subject of daily discussion in the press and among all educational bodies. That the advocates of such training in the public schools have accomplished something is shown by the yearly demonstrations by little lads at the Canadian National Exhibition. The boys who give these demonstrations are ordinary youngsters chosen from the various schools of the city of Toronto and yet the work they turn out is that of expert cabinet makers. The aim of technical education is not of course to turn every boy into a trained carpenter or cabinet maker but to render him resourceful and useful in any emergency. The work the Toronto school boys do is one of the innumerable minor features of the Canadian National Exhibition, an event of infinite variety and inexhaustible interest.

HAD GOOD LUNGS

Champion Horn Player Blows Toad 30 Feet

LIMEKILN, Pa., Aug. 27.—When the Liberty Cornet Band organized here several years ago the manager sought the best lunged musician to play the monster bass horn. Edwin Ohlinger, a six-footer, weighing 175 pounds and twenty-three years old, was rightly chosen. His bass horn is one of the largest used by any band in the county, and on a recent test Ohlinger was heard by fellow bandmasters five miles from the spot where he blew.

The other day, however, Ohlinger's lung power was tested to the very limit. The band, while playing at a Sunday school celebration, took a rest, and the instruments were laid under a tree. In the meantime a toad evidently decided that Ohlinger's horn was a fine abiding place and crawled in.

When finally located and identified the live obstruction could not by any ordinary means be removed. But Ohlinger rested until his companions had played another selection, when he went at the job for the second time. One master blow sent the toad flying from the horn thirty feet, and a minute later the echo from Ohlinger's instrument was again heard over the distant hills.

A FELINE HOBO

Cat Steals Ride on Trucks of Pullman From Cincinnati to Chicago

NEWCASTLE, Ind., Aug. 30.—AMaltese cat made the trip, hobo fashion, from Cincinnati to this city, a distance of 100 miles, on the trucks of the Pennsylvania's fast Cincinnati-Chicago train, known as the "Red Hummer," yesterday afternoon.

When the train reached this city the conductor went to the rear and looked underneath the Pullman car. Then he motioned to bystanders and showed them the pussy snugly curled up on the trucks under the car. The cat was there when the train left Cincinnati and was evidently well pleased with its ride. Pussy was still on the trucks when the train left this city.

FOLLOWS THE BIBLE

Farmer Keeps the Sabbath as Did the Ancient Hebrews

BRIGHTON, Col., Aug. 31.—William Lansdown, a well-to-do farmer, living three miles northeast of Fort Lupton, is said to have the somewhat unique distinction of living daily in strict accord with Biblical teachings.

All affairs of business and home life, all questions of importance are regulated and disposed of only after a careful study of the family Bible.

The Sabbath is kept holy even to the strictness of the old Hebrew customs. No work is done on that day. Food is prepared on Saturday, while feed for the stock on the farm is given in double portions on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lansdown, though old people, are still active in the conduct of affairs, and are assisted by a son and daughter, Anna and William.

ECZEMA NOT A SKIN DISEASE

Eczema is a disease of the skin and not of the blood. For this reason internal medicines have never been a success in curing Eczema. Whatever the cause local application is necessary to heal the sores and restore the skin to a healthful, natural condition. For this reason Dr. Chase's Ointment has a world wide reputation as being without a rival as a cure for Eczema.

Prevent and Relieve Headache

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to refer to Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills as the best remedy we have yet had in our house for the prevention and cure of headache. My wife who has been a constant sufferer for a number of years with above complaint joins me in the hope that they may fall into the hands of all sufferers."

JOHN BUSH,
Watervleit, Me.

Used Them Four Years.

"Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are the best I ever tried for the relief of headache. I have used them for nearly four years and they never fail to give me relief. I have tried many other remedies, but have never found any better."

JOSEPH FRANKOWICK,
854 Trombly Av., Detroit, Mich.

There is no remedy that will more quickly relieve any form of headache than

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

The best feature of this remarkable remedy is the fact that it does not derange the stomach or leave any disagreeable after-effects.

WITNESS SEMI-CENTENARY.

Half a century of eminent usefulness, of moral leading and uplift, of wholesome influence, in national life, of fearless advocacy of right and reprobation of wrong, mark the journalistic life of the Montreal Witness, which has achieved its fiftieth year and is very wararntably celebrating the occasion. Its honesty, independence and its championship of right have placed the Witness upon a high plane of popularity, of a creditable kind. While meeting all the requirements of a high class and sane newspaper it has exercised a clean, wholesome influence in morals, politics and the national life; it has stood and stands for high ideals and its management shows the business enterprise and adaptability to conditions that make the Witness an influence that gains the approval of the good and compels the respect even of the indifferent to the higher things of life. Though it has turned the mid-century mark, the Witness shows the alertness, vigour and enterprise of youth. It marks its half century by a thorough re-organization of its premises, plant and staff and general improvement in equipment that will make it even more worthy than it has been in the past of public confidence and patronage.

FLYING FOREIGN FLAGS.

The Star does not agree with a correspondent who advocates a more liberal display of American flags during Exhibition week. A Canadian does not expect to see British flags when he visits Buffalo, and he would be unreasonable if he entertained any such expectation. Courtesy and hospitality do not demand the flying of foreign flags. The object of foreign travel is to study the customs, sentiments, and institutions of foreign peoples. When an American traveller comes to Canada, if he is an intelligent man, he will not look for American things, but for things that are distinctively British and Canadian. It is in this way that the stock of human experience is enlarged and the mind broadened.

Of course we ought to give the strangers a courteous and hearty welcome; but it ought to be a Canadian welcome, not an attempt to make the city look as if it were not quite sure of its nationality. The courteous host does not turn his house upside down, rearrange the books on the shelves and the pictures on the walls, in order to please his guests. If he did so his action would be attributed to servility rather than to kindness—Toronto Star.

There is sense in the Star's comment. Everybody despises toadyism and unreasonable, and unreasoning deference to our guests from other countries. United States visitors come to Canada because it is Canada—come for a change and to escape the monotony of existence and conditions at home that make a change desirable. They, if they are sensible, no not expect to be reminded that they are foreigners; we can treat them hospitably and give them a hearty welcome without surrendering our self respect, and incurring their contempt by exaggerated complaisance. Flying the United States flag in Canada except upon special occasions, is what Canadians are not expected to do or our visitors to have done for them. At an international gathering, when people from the United States may be the guests of honour it is a fitting courtesy to have played some air or hymn which our United States cousins have done us the compliment to adopt as their own. The action of the 57th Band in having United States national airs — and "rag-time" at that—upon every Victoria Park programme seems carrying things a little too far for a British regimental band. We welcome our United States cousins to our pure air, our cooling lakes and streams, our fishing and the protection of our laws. Hospitality does not demand that we should crawl or cringe in our attitude towards them. The tourist interests of Canada are great, not only from a pleasure and social point of view, but from a monetary view-point. Tourists, wherever they go, spend money freely and get value for it; but because a tourist from another country buys a lift lock picture postal card, is no reason why his national airs should be thrust night after night into the ears of a crowded parkful, overwhelmingly composed of Canadians and citizens who contribute to the support of the band morally and financially the whole year round, and are in mass, what makes Canada Canada.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"Sir James Whitney, says the Brockville Times, has just told a London newspaper with characteristic bluntness that Great Britain must quickly consider and decide what it is going to to do about fiscal reform and an imperial preferential policy, or risk most disastrous results in the way of loosening of the imperial bonds. A few plain truths of this sort ought to carry considerable weight with British statesmen."

Only those who have a political axe to grind, or a theory to air, see any weakening in the imperial tie. The tendency is all the other way.

SIR ORACLE ON THE EMPIRE.

(Toronto Globe.)

Let us all get nervous. The doom of the British Empire is sealed. Its downfall is at hand. The secret is out. The prophet-eye of the Premier of Ontario saw it writ large in letters of flame on the reddened west as he stood long and silently at the deck of the Royal Edward. He saw things in the sky and in the sea. In the silent watches he heard the deep premonitions of destiny. As with a fire shut up in his bones he kept silence. But when once he stood in the midst of "mighty London's roar" the prophet-message surged into irrepressible speech. Then there fell a silence which even the policemen at the street-crossing heard, and out of that silence the chronicler heard these freezing, burning, doom-telling words:

"We want something done; something has got to be done or the Empire will be but a recollection. If nothing is done during the next ten years something serious will happen. The United States came to Ottawa and requested reciprocity. We make our own treaties, so can you ask what will happen?"

No! Please don't ask. Happen? Why anything might happen if Canada is allowed to make her own trade treaties. Away with it! Downing Street should rule. But "do something." What? Oh, anything! Make a fuss of some kind. "If nothing is done something serious will happen!" Ugh! Think of it! "Something serious will happen!" The goblins will get you if you don't watch out.

"We want a remedy," cries Sir Oracle in a fine frenzy. "If protection is the remedy, then let us have it," he says. But what if protection is not the remedy? On that the prophet-vision is dark and dumb. Then he breaks out again: "We do not care what we have so long as we are fairly treated."

Then a voice came out of the deep heart of John Bull: "My man, aren't you fairly treated now? All the markets of Britain are open to what you have to sell, while your Canadian markets are barricaded high against what we have to sell. What more do you want? Do you ask that we tax ourselves a little more for our food and pay you higher prices for your wheat? Surely not!"

Sir Oracle had not thought of that. His mutings by the deck-rail had not covered that point. He muttered to himself: "Something must be done or something will happen."

Sardinian, Old Curiosity Shop Of The Allan Line

Delve deep into the possessions of the Allan liner Sardinian, and you will be excused if you ask the ship, as Shylock did in days gone by, "How much older art thou than thy looks?"

Although one of the oldest, if not the oldest ship in the Allan Line on the St. Lawrence service, the Sardinian holds her years with such good will that many a maiden, marching on to "uncertain years" might well feel jealous of her.

Built about a generation ago, the Sardinian, though not so speedy as some of the other ships of the line, is quite as seaworthy as any boat of more modern construction. And she is possessed of that most modern advantage, antiquity.

The Sardinian might be called the "Old Curiosity Shop" of the Allan Line. Perhaps nowhere, aboard any Canadian ship, can be found such a collection of old ware. There on the table sits the silverware of ships and lines, the history of which has long ago been forgotten by almost all, and in the drawers of the big old-fashioned sideboard are the knives and forks and spoons of ships which were to the present day Allan Line what the cruiser Canada and the coming Niobe are to the Canadian navy of 100 years from now.

Amongst the relics of that day on which the sun has set none is more interesting than a big leather bound Bible, presented by the Brooklyn City Bible Society to the "Alabama." That the Bible, printed in the late fifties or early sixties of the last century, is from the ship which will go down through history as the most costly craft which Great Britain ever had to deal with there is little doubt. That the Alabama is the self same ship which during the civil war in the United States made the raids for which Great Britain paid, seems certain, and just how it should drift from the war vessel of nearly fifty years ago to the passenger craft of a decade later, none can tell. The only doubt which crosses the minds of those who try to solve the problem is, can the book be from the Confederate raider, for is it likely that they would have had the good book aboard their ship? A prayer book, too, of ancient make, though dated ten years later, bears the name Circassian, but, though the book is still in occasional use, the old Circassian has gone to its reward and now is numbered with the ships of the past which have gone to build up the Allan Line.

OLD CANDLE STICKS

Old candle sticks of a type more familiar to our fathers and grandfathers than to the present generation are mounted about the saloon. They are of silver, and the way in which they have weathered the rough treatment of hundreds of stewards speaks volumes for the silversmiths of first half of the past century. The candle sticks all bear the crest of the "State Line," a line which years ago lost its identity when the Allans absorbed it and changed its ships from "white elephants" to money makers. The State Line boats have, too, all disappeared. The last of them, the State of California, was sold nearly a score of years ago to an American company, and passed from beneath the Union Jack and the tri-color of the Allans to the Stars and Stripes. The State of California, one of the half dozen ships that ran between the New England States and Great Britain, and bore the names of different states of the union, was wrecked on the Maine coast and according to an old law in the country of "Uncle Sam," the ship was registered in an American port. This law provides that when one-third of the value of a ship has been spent upon her in repairs while that ship is in American waters, the ship may be registered as an American bottom and in the case of the State of California this law was brought into force.

Like the candle sticks, a soup tureen and two big water pitchers, which greet the eye as one enters the saloon of the Sardinian, belonged at one time to the old State Line. The tureen, to a lover of antiquities, would be a treasure. It is the size of a full grown pot and it may have been constructed as a substitute for a platter when a good sized turkey had to be laid away. But the size is not all. Its design speaks of years long gone by, and it, too, looks quite as good as new.

The stewards on the Sardinian prize all these old relics of former days. They are given a care and attention such as is not afforded to much of the newer and more intrinsically worthy silverware aboard the ship. If one travels as an honored passenger he may have many of all these souvenirs shown him and their story told. If he asks to see these articles he is sure to learn their history.

Back about the middle of the past century, when the Allans first broke into the shipping affairs of this port, they called their line the Montreal and Ocean Steamship Line, and today two big water jugs, heavily plated with silver and bearing this title are to be found amongst the collection on the good old ship Sardinian. Probably they travelled the ocean for many years before steam came into general use, for in those days even the sailing ships must have been proud of their bit of plate.

The smaller wares contain many remnants of ships long since forgotten. Amongst the knives and forks and spoons in use aboard the ship's goods may be seen marked "P" and other articles bear the initials "M." While "St. A." figures on still more of the cutlery and tableware. The "Royal Exchange" line is represented in this motley agthering of old goods. The line is not known now and few can remember its history, but a visit to the saloon of the Sardinian will serve to convince anyone that in its day it used the best of silverware for nowhere has the plating rubbed from the goods still under the keeping of Chief Steward Kilpatrick, of the Sardinian.

Another combination of letters which can be found on the goods of the saloon is "G. B." This some of the old employees of the line think was part of the outfit of an old and long defunct ship, the Great Britain, but, like that of the other boats, in the rush of new things, to most the story of this old craft has been forgotten.

So long as the present steward is at the head of affairs on the Sardinian and while he has with him his present staff, the connecting links between the past and the present now in the possession of the ship, will never suffer. The men prize these old memories too highly to let harm come to them, and woe betide the man or woman who, souvenir hunting, is found to take from the ship a bit of this old stock of silver.

IT IS NOT IN THE BLOOD

Medicine Taken Internally Cannot Cure Eczema. It is Caused by Germs.

Eczema cannot be overcome by ordinary treatment and the old-fashioned way of dosing the system with drugs. Eczema is caused by a parasitic germ that bores into the skin. It is generally a contagious disease. Until the parasite is completely destroyed and removed eczema cannot be cured. Fully one-third of skin diseases are in the form of eczema.

We so thoroughly believe that Rexall Eczema Ointment will overcome eczema and allied skin ailments, that we unhesitatingly promise to promptly return the money paid us for it should it in any way be unsatisfactory to the user.

Because of its remarkable cleansing antiseptic, germicidal, soothing and healing influence, Rexall Eczema Ointment has a very pronounced value in the treatment of skin diseases, especially where the form of ailments is of the chronic, aggravating sort. We highly recommend it for the dry scalp scaly form or the weeping type, where there is a constant flow of ill-smelling excretion.

Rexall Eczema Ointment is very prompt in relieving pimples, blotches, skin discolorations, ringworm, acne, nettle rash, tetter, hives, ulcers, insect bites, and for healing sores and wounds. It is a pleasant smelling, grayish-white ointment, and is very cleanly for use. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Sold only at our store,—The Rexall Store, McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte Streets.

EXHIBITION NUMBER

New Ontario has been given much attention in the extra large magazine issue of Farm and Dairy that has been issued for the fall exhibitions. Several pages of high class reproductions in the illustrated section, along with matter descriptive, which is featured in the regular reading pages, convey a very fair conception of our vast Northern heritage. Farm and Dairy throughout the summer has had a special representative in the Temiskaming district taking photographs, securing interviews with settlers and generally furthering the interests of Farm and Dairy in that section of the country. Accordingly first hand information has been secured. It is re produced in the Exhibition Number in a way that is most pleasing.

There are other features in the Exhibition number of Farm and Dairy that are of special interest and which will be read with profit by any farmer. A description of the first prize dairy farm of Ontario, written by one of the judges, Mr. W. F. Stephen, is placed on the introductory page. A story of the famous Ayrshire herd, which has been built up by Robt. Hunter & Sons, of Maxville, and an article descriptive of the Lakeview Stock Farm owned by E. F. Osler, Bronte, Ont., are of particular value to any breeder of pure bred stock, or to those who are contemplating the establishment of pure bred herds. All departments of the paper are full of timely, interesting and most helpful material that any farmer may profit from greatly, through reading.

Although the Exhibition Number of Farm and Dairy is much larger than any number yet published, and it contains an illustrated section, it goes to its subscribers at no extra cost. Single copies sell for 15 cents. Subscriptions may be started with this issue in which case it may be included with a year's subscription for only $1.00. Intending subscribers should forward their subscriptions through this office. Enquire for our clubbing rates with this great agricultural weekly, which is published in Peterborough.

Though there is practically no such thing as really pure water, the adults of the family need not do without a beverage that benefits. Regal Lager's absolute purity is its maker's pride; and this delicious brew is also a health-helper.

MADE GOOD IN WEST

Mr. Jos. W. Leahy, of Salmo, B.C., is home on a visit to his mother, Mrs. Wm. Leahy, of Douro, whose illness has brought her son back from the west, after an absence of twelve years. Mr. Leahy is an enthusiastic westerner and thinks that there is no place like British Columbia. This is natural as he has been very successful in Salmo, where he is the proprietor of a livery and draying business. He expects to return to the coast the latter end of next week.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

BURNS AND LANGFORD MAY MEET IN LONDON

Hugh McIntosh, the Australian fight promoter, is making plans to bring about a meeting between Sam Langford and Tommy Burns. The Australian, if successful in his efforts to get the men to sign articles will hold the fight in London some time in December. He is at present negotiating with both Langford and Burns.

McIntosh is authority for the statement that he practically has closed the deal whereby Langford and Burns will agree to meet in England. The promoter from the Antipodes believes that the pair will draw a big gate in London and that the winner will have a better chance of securing a match with Johnson than any other in the long list of titular aspirants.

But for all that McIntosh says Johnson has agreed to give Burns first chance at the title. "Johnson promised Burns and myself at Reno," says McIntosh, "that he would give Tommy another chance. He says that he wants to rest a while but that later he will meet Burns again."

Langford still is clamoring for a match with Johnson. The "Boston Tar Baby" makes no secret of his belief that he can beat Johnson. And Johnson on the other hand expresses great contempt for the ability of Langford. Many experts say that if the Langford-Burns match materializes and Langford should defeat Burns, the champion may be forced to recognize the claims of the lusky Bostonian.

The Big League Race Depends Upon Pitchers

Never before, probably, in the history of baseball has the value of good pitching to a team been demonstrated as thoroughly as in the two major league races this season. Good batters, fielders and base runners are essential assets of a successful team, but let the pitching be inferior and the good work of the others will likely go for naught.

One of the best examples of what a good pitching corps means to a team is furnished with the Cardinals. Manager Bresnahan is the owner of one of the best scoring machines in the country. It's seldom that the team is held to a shutout or one or two runs. The average is more nearly in the neighbourhood of three, four and five.

Still, the team hasn't been winning nearly a majority of its games. Simply because the pitchers have been unable to hold down the opposition. If Bresnahan were fortunate enough to have three fairly good boxmen as members of his team, it wouldn't seem unreasonable to claim a first-division berth for the Cardinals.

But there isn't a single member of his twirling corps that can be ranked with the stars of the twirling world. He has been especially unfortunate in having every member of his twirling staff collapse at the same time.

But the St. Louis club is not the only one that is suffering from lack of good pitching. Take the Detroit Tigers, for instance. Before the season opened, and for a while after the race had started, Jennings's Bengal tribe was picked to win its fourth successive pennant. The claim was made on the belief that Hughey's slabmen would perform up to their 1909 standard. The Tigers are the same old runmakers, but the pitchers have failed and from present indications it seems that the Detroit crowd will be lucky to finish two-three.

The Detroit team never really boasted of a high-class set of slabmen. Bill Donovan and George Mullin have been mainly responsible for the three Tiger victories in a pitching way. Donovan was the big noise the first year the team landed on top.

He backed up in 1908, but Jennings was unfortunate in having Mullin round to form, after several years of just fair success. Mullin was also the main reason the Tigers won their third pennant a year ago. With just a fair twirling corps the Tiger batters saw to it that the runs made by the opposition were usually overcome.

The Passing Of Cy Seymour

The passing of Cy Seymour is an epoch in baseball history. It is another case of the dimming of a stellar luminary who had shone for years as one of the brightest lights in the big leagues, and we are sorry to see the old boy pass out of the fast company, writes P. T. Knox in the New York "Evening Mail."

But in baseball less than in any other walk of life does sentiment figure. A man's usefulness is his sole asset, and when he no longer can stand the pace of the big show he must needs be cast back upon the minors from whence he probably came, many years before, to make room for the younger and speedier generation.

Even since Fred Snodgrass showed that he was a hitsmith of the first calibre, it was felt that Cy's days with the New York club at least, were numbered, and we realized with regret that this was his last season in the National League. He has lots of baseball in him yet, and the pastmaster will undoubtedly set the Eastern league afire with his batting and will prove a most valuable acquisition to the Baltimore club.

Seymour's career in big league ball has been a long and successful one. It was back in 1898 that he joined the Giants' as a pitcher and he was a good southpaw too, but the smallness of his hands made him erratic.

When the war between the American and National League was in its zenith in 1900, Cy jumped from the National league to the Baltimore club of the American league and signed under Manager McGraw who was then leading that club. Later Ban Johnson, of the American league, and McGraw failed to agree and the former threatened to suspend Mac and disfranchise the Baltimore club. It was then that President Brush and Andrew Freedman, of the Giants, pulled a master stroke and signed the majority of the Baltimore team to play ball in New York.

Joined the Reds.

Practically all of the Orioles, with the exception of Cy Seymour and Joe Kelley, cast their lot with the Giants. Kelley and Seymour went to Cincinnati. While with Baltimore, Seymour showed marked batting ability and McGraw decided to make an outfielder out of him. In the gardens Cy showed ground, had a good arm and he inspeed. He could cover a deal of proved continually with the stick.

While with the Cincinnati club Seymour led the National league in hitting, but Seymour tired of his best with the Reds and, when in 1907 the Giants were sorely in need of some hitsmiths, McGraw learned that by paying $10,000 in cash to Cincinnati he could secure Seymour, and he did. At the same time, Mac purchased Spike Shannon and one other player from St. Louis for a similar amount.

Ever since that time Cy has worn a Giant uniform and he has been a big help to the lowlanders with his mighty war club. Since he has played in Baltimore before, although a number of years ago, he will no doubt prove a drawing card. The exact amount for which he was sold cannot be learned, but it is said that the price paid did not exceed $750.

When it was first rumoured that Cy was to be sold to a minor league club it was thought that some other big league organization might grab him for the rest of the season at any rate, but Seymour is said to have drawn an annual stipend from the New York club of $4,000 and the managers in the big show probably figured that if he had showed up too much to be of service to McGraw he wasn't a $4,000 chance to them.

Of the famous Giant team of years ago, McGraw has just two players now left. — Arthur Devlin and Christy Mathewson.

Davis Best Of Old Guard

PHILADELPHIA, AUG. 30.—Harry Davis, captain of the Athletics, is the only surviving American league championship infielder—that is, the only survivor of the championship clubs prior to 1909—who is still playing his regular position in the infield of the team with which he played when the pennant was won.

Naturally, all the Chicago champions of the first two years of the league have passed out of sight. The Athletics won in 1902 with an infield composed of Davis, Murphy, Monte Cross and Lave Cross.

Davis is the only one left. Boston won the next two years with LaChance, Ferris, Parent and Collins in the infield. LaChance is but a memory, while Parent is with Chicago and Ferris and Collins are minor leaguers. In 1905 the Athletics won again with the same infield as 1902.

Then came the Chicago White Sox, with an infield composed of Donohue, Isbell, Davis, Tannehill and Rohe, Tannehill is still with the club, but is only a substitute. Taking the place of the famous heroes of 1906 we find Gandil, Zeider, Blackburne and Purtell, not one of whom was a professional player four years ago.

Detroit's pennant winning infield for 1907 and 1908 was composed of Rossman, Schaefer, O'Leary, and Coughlin. All but O'Leary are gone and O'Leary is a bench warmer. Tom Jones has supplanted Rossman, Jim Delehanty has replaced Schaefer, while Coughlin has given way to Moriarity, Bush crowding O'Leary out of the regular line-up at short.

Axis of Athletics.

Davis is considered the champion home-run hitter of the American league, and he is chief aid to Connie Mack, the wise one. Davis is the axis on which the Athletics revolve. On the field he is supreme. Every spring the report is shipped north that Davis is "all in" but when the season opens Davis is always found guarding the first sack, and guarding it well. But playing first base is only a habit with Harry. It is in pelting the ball that he has always delivered the merchandise.

Of course, Davis isn't banging the ball to all corners of the parks, as he did some time back, his eye isn't as clear as it once was, but at the same time he places the willow against the leather in a very healthy manner every now and then, and usually he breaks up the game. Davis didn't head the list of home run hitters last year but the year before, but in nine years he has made a total of sixty-seven home run drives, which is somewhat more than any other player in the league can show in the records. In addition to the home run swats Davis is credited with 292 two-base hits and seventy-six triples.

Buck Freeman had the call for long distance hitting in the early days of the league, with Lajoie, Seybold and Hickman as his rivals. Three of these players have passed to the minors, leaving Lajoie and Davis of the old guard. Lajoie led in home runs the first year of the American league with 13; Freeman 8 credited with 12. Seybold reached top water mark in the second year with 16. Freeman was second with 11. The next season Freeman pushed out 14 homers, leading the league, while Hickman was second with 12.

Then Davis came to the front. He topped the list for four consecutive years. He made 10 homers in 1904, eight in 1905, 12 in 1906 and eight in 1907. "Wahoo Sam" Crawford made his bow about this time in the ranks of the home run clubbers, replacing Davis as the leader in 1908 with seven four-base smashes. Davis had five. Last year Cobb led the league with nine. Davis having four. But the record made by Davis in his nine years of play in the American league will stand a lot of hammering before being replaced.

One by one the old time stars of the American are giving way to the rising generation and Davis himself is grooming a very clever young man for his place. Ben Houser is the name of the young man. With Davis it is the team first, player afterward. When he is ready to quit he wants to have Houser ready to take his place and not until Davis gives the word will Mack take him off the bag.

EDDIE COLLINS IS AFTER TY COBB'S LAURELS

Eddie Collins, the Speed Boy of the coming champion Athletics, is very ambitious to lead the base runners of the big leagues this season in stolen bases. Last season he was second to Ty Cobb, who had seventy-six steals to his credit while Collins had sixty-seven.

So far this season Collins has stolen 62 bases in 118 games, an average of .525 per cent. Cobb has stolen 59 bases in 113 games, an average of .522 per cent.

"My ambition," says Collins, "is to hang up a record of eighty stolen bases and I feel confident I can do so. I find Ed Walsh, the pitcher of the White Sox, is the hardest pitcher to steal a base on. So I say, base stealers of the American League beware of Ed. Walsh. This bit of advice, it offered for the old-timers of the American League, is certain to fall on deaf ears. But the youngsters making their first appearance against the White Sox star can well afford to take a tip. I have made a close study of the pitchers and catchers of all the clubs in our circuit, and to my way of thinking Walsh is the king of them all when it comes to freezing an opponent to first base.

"Too many baseball fans have the idea that the catcher is the mainspring of the battery—the player supposed to nip off all aspiring stealers. This is true only in part. With Walsh it's a case of perfected near balk, and this motion keeps the opposing player always within a few feet of the sack.

"Take the case of some of our great catchers—men who are noted for their pegging abilities. With these artists backing up a crafty pitcher, equally versed in the art of bluffing a would-be stealer, we seldom hear of many thefts.

"Many baserunners, taking advantage of the weakness of an opposing pitcher, have travelled midway to second, or further, only to find the second baseman or shortstop waiting there with the ball after spearing a perfect throw from the catcher. Johnny Archer's method of pegging, while in a squatting position makes the Cubs' catcher a formidable opponent for stealers. From this attitude Archer is enabled to throw without wasting a second's time.

"The great danger in stealing is the finish. Many players have wrecked their whole careers by sliding wrong and breaking a leg or an ankle. Still the spikes always at fault, must remain, for without these 'razors' the player would have a hard time getting up speed."

BACK TO FARM FOR JOHN L.

Milwaukee, Aug. 27.—John L. Sullivan, acknowledged champion of the world for many years, who was never defeated under London prize ring rules, has decided to retire from public life for good and settle down on a small farm near Boston, there to enjoy life with his family. John L. has been touring the country under the management of Frank Hall the past few years, doing a vaudeville stunt, and in that time has accumulated a fortune. It is just six years since Mr. Hall took hold of Sullivan, and July 1, 1911, they will separate as business partners probably for all time, as Mr. Hall intends to settle down in Chicago, while John L. will go back East. It is the intention of the ex-champion to conduct a physical culture place on his farm similar to the one established by William Muldoon near New York city.

John L. has ideas of his own regarding the development of athletes and the rebuilding of a business man, and he intends to follow them when he establishes his place near Boston.

John L. has had a varied career since he became American champion, back in 1882. But there is one thing that can be said for him, and that is he was always on the square, and for that reason the public supported him in every way possible. During the last few years John L. stopped drinking entirely, and during the Jeffries-Johnson contest at Reno, Nev., a reconciliation was brought about between the big fellow and Bat Masterton, also Jim Corbett, with whom he had been at outs for many years.

At the present time John L. is touring the far West, and he will gradually work East again. The fans will be sorry to see him disappear from public life, but they will wish him every success in his new venture, and wish him long life.

"THE PILLAR OF LIGHT"

By Louis Tracey, (Copyrighted)

teeth, naught remained to testify to the drama of the hour save the helpless baby on which the head-keeper was waiting so sedulously.

Already the signal "Doctor wanted" was fluttering from the lighthouse It would be noted at the Land's End and telegraphed to Penzance. The morning would be well advanced before help could reach the Gulf Rock from ashore.

"She's asleep," he said, jerking his head towards a bunk. "I gev' her a pint of mixture. She cried a bit when there was no more to be had, but a warm bath with some boric acid in it made her sleepy. An' there she is, snug as a cat."

The domesticated Jones was up to his elbows in a lather of soap.

"Have you noticed any laundry marks or initials on her clothing" asked Brand.

"Yes. Here you are."

He fished out of the bubbles a little vest, on which were worked the letters E. T.—in white silk.

"Ah! That is very important. We can establish her identity, especially if the laundry mark is there also."

"I'm feared there's nothing else," said Jones. "I've not looked very carefully, as it'll take me all my time to get everything dry afore the tug comes. As for ironin', it can't be done. But my missus 'll see after her until somebody turns up to claim her."

"That may be never."

"Surely we will get some news of the ship which was lost?"

"Yes. That is little enough to expect. Yet it is more than probable that her parents are dead. A baby would be separated from her mother only by the mother's death. There is a very real chance that poor 'E. T.' will be left for years on the hands of those who take charge of her now. The only alternative is the workhouse."

"That's so, cap'n," put in Jim. "You always dig to the heart of a subjec', even if it's a shark."

"In a word, Jones, you can hardly be asked to assume such a responsibility. Now it happens that I can afford to adopt the child, if she lives, and is not claimed by relatives. It is almost a duty imposed on me by events. When the doctor comes, therefore I purpose asking him to see that she is handed over to Mrs. Sheppard, the nurse who looks after my own little girl. I will write to her. My turn ashore comes next week. Then I can devote some time to the necessary inquiries."

Jones made no protest. He knew that Brand's suggestion was a good one. And he promised silence with regard to the fight with the shark. Men in the lighthouse service are quick to grasp the motives which cause others to avoid publicity. They live sedate, lonely lives. The noise, the rush, the purposeless activities of existence ashore weary them. They have been known to petition the Trinity Brethren to send them back to isolated stations when promoted to localities where the pleasures and excitements of a town were available.

Having determined the immediate future of little "E. T.", whose shrunken features were now placid in sleep, they quietly separated. Brand flung himself wearily into a bunk to obtain a much-needed rest, and the others hurried to overtake the many duties awaiting them.

Weather reports and daily journals demanded instant attention. The oil expenditure, the breakage of glass chimneys, the consumption of stores, the meteorological records—all must be noted. An efficient lookout must be maintained, signals answered or hoisted, everything kept spotlessly clean, and meals cooked. Until noon each day a rock lighthouse is the scene of unremitting diligence, and the loss of nearly an hour and a half of Spence's watch, added to the presence of the baby and the constant care which one or other of the two men bestowed on her, made the remaining time doubly precious.

About nine o'clock Brand was awakened from a heavy slumber by Jim's hearty voice:

"Breakfast ready, cap'n. Corfee, eggs' an 'haddick—fit for the Queen, God bless her! An' baby's had another pint of Jones' brew—Lord love her little eyes, though I haven't seen 'em yet. A minnit ago Jones sung down to me that the Lancelot has just cleared Carn du."

The concluding statement brought Brand to his feet. The doctor would be on the rock by the time breakfast was ended and the letter to Mrs. Sheppard written.

When the doctor did arrive he shook his head dubiously at first sight of the child.

"I don't know how she lived. She is a mere skeleton," he said.

Brand explained matters, and hinted at his theory.

"Oh, the ways of nature are wonderful," admitted the doctor. "Sometimes a man will die from an absurdly trivial thing, like the sting of a wasp or the cutting of a finger. At others, you can fling him headlong from the Alps and he will merely suffer a bruise or two. Of course, this infant has an exceptionally strong constitution or she would have died days ago. However, you have done right so far. I will see to her proper nourishment during the next few days. It is a most extraordinary case."

Jones had managed so well that the child's garments were dry and well aired. Wrapped in a clean blanket, she was lowered into the steamer's boat, but the doctor, preferring to jump, was soaked to the waist owing to a slip on the weed-covered rock.

The crew of the tugboat baled out the dinghy and towed her to Penzance.

That evening a fisherman brought a note from Mrs. Sheppard. Among other things she wrote that the baby's clothes were beautifully made and of a very expensive type. She was feverish, the doctor said, but the condition of her eyes and lips would account for this, apart from the effects of prolonged exposure.

Brand read the letter to his mates when the trio were enjoying an evening pipe on the "promenade," the outer balcony under the lantern.

"S'pose her people don't show up," observed Jim, "what are you goin' to call her?"

"Trevillion," said Brand.

The others gaped at him with surprise. The prompt announcement was unexpected.

"I have told you about the fabled land of Lyonesse lying there beneath the sea," he went on, pointing to the dark blue expanse on whose distant confines the Scilly Isles were silhouetted by the last saw of the vanished sun. "Well, the name of the only person who escaped from that minor deluge was Trevillion. It is suitable and it accords with the initial of her probable surname."

"Oh, I see," piped Jones. His voice—always high-pitched—became squeaky when his brain was stirred.

"That's O.K. for the 'T,'" remarked Jim, "but what about the 'E'?"

Elizabeth is a nice name when you make it into Bessie."

"I think we should keep up the idea of the Arthurian legend. There are two that come to my mind, Elaine and Enid. Elaine died young, the victim of an unhappy love. Enid became the wife of a gallant knight, Owain, who was "——ever foremost in the chase,

And victor at the tilt and tournament,
They called him the great Prince and man of men.
But Enid, whom her ladies loved to call
Enid the Fair, a grateful people named
Enid the Good."

"That settles it," cried Jim, brandishing his pipe towards Penzance, "I hope as how Miss Enid Trevillion is asleep an' doin' well, an' that she will grow up to be both fair an' good. If she does, she'll be better'n most women."

Brand made no reply. He went within to attend to the lantern. In five minutes the great eyes of the Lizard, the Longships and the Seven Stones Lightship were solemnly staring at their fellow-warden of the Gulf Rock, whilst, in the far west, so clear was the night, the single flash of St. Agnes and the double flash of the Bishop illuminated the sky.

CHAPTER III.

THE SIGNAL.

At the foot of a long flight of steps leading from the boat quay to the placid waters of Penzance harbour a stoutly built craft was moored. It had two occupants this bright January morning, and they were sufficiently diverse in appearance to attract the attention of the local squad of that great army of loungers, which seems to thrive in tobacco-blessed content at all places where men go down to the sea in ships.

The pair consisted of a weather-beaten fisherman and a girl.

The man was scarred and blistered by wind and wave until he had attained much outward semblance to his craft. Nevertheless, man and boat looked reliable. They were sturdy and strong; antiquated, perhaps, and greatly in want of a new coat; but shaped on lines to resist the elements together for years to come. Ben Pollard and his pilchard-driver, Daisy, were Cornish celebrities of note. Not once, but many times, had they been made immortal—with the uncertain immortality of art—by painters of the Newlyn school.

The girl, an animated cameo, to which the shabby picturesqueness of Old Ben in his patched garments and old Daisy in her unkempt solidity supplied a fitting background, merited the tacit approval she received from the pipe-smokers.

Flaxen-haired, blue-eyed, with a face of delicate, flower-like beauty, which added to its mobile charm by the healthy glow of a skin brightened and deepened in tone by an abiding love of the open air, she suggested, by her attire, an artistic study of the colour effects derivable from the daringly trustful little plant which gave the boat its name. She wore a coat and skirt of green cloth, lightly hemmed and cuffed with dark red braid. Her large white hat was trimmed with velvet of a tone to match her braid, and her neatly fitting brown boots and gloves were of the right shade. Beneath her coat there was a glimpse of a knitted jersey of soft white wool, this being a tribute to the season, though a winter in Lyonnesse can usually shrug its comfortable shoulders at the deceitful vagaries of the Riviera.

That she was a young person of some maritime experience was visible to the connoisseurs above at a glance. She was busily engaged in packing the spacious lockers of the Daisy with certain stores of apples, oranges and vegetables—ranging from the lordly new potato (an aristocrat at that time of the year) to the plebeian cabbage—and her lithe, active figure moved with an ease born of confidence in her erratic principles of gravitation as codified and arranged by a rocking boat.

Pollard, too, was overhauling his gear, seeing that the mast was securely stepped and the tackle ran free. Whilst they worked they talked, and, of course, the critics listened.

"Do you think the weather will hold, Ben?" asked the girl over her shoulder, stooping to arrange some clusters of daffodils and narcissus so that they should not suffer by the lurch of some heavy package when the boat heeled over.

"The glass be a-fallin', sure, missy" said the old fellow; cheerily, "but

Man Falls And Breaks His Neck While Doctors Are Dressing His Foot

Special to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—John Roache, sixty-nine years, came by his death in a remarkable way at the Metropolitan Hospital, Blackwell's Island, yesterday morning. While doctors and nurses were beside him he tumbled from an operating table and broke his neck.

A homeless wanderer, Roache was sent to the hospital June 21. An old shoe he had begged was too small for him and had caused gangrene of the big toe. Aug. 11 the toe and its neighbor were removed from his right foot. There was danger he might lose his leg.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning Roache was placed on the table to have his foot dressed. Suddenly he rose to a sitting position, lost his balance and fell. He struck the floor on the side of his head and turned a somersault.

It all happened so quickly that neither doctor nor nurse was able to put out a hand to save him. When they stooped to pick him up the man was dead. Dr. William Stone White, the superintendent, found that Roache's neck was broken in the fall.

An inquiry is to be held.

CHILD SHOT ON STREET TWO MEN ARE ARRESTED

Special to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Molly Grahl, six years old, No. 647 East Eleventh Street, was playing yesterday afternoon in front of No. 530 East Fourteenth Street when she was struck in the left thigh by a bullet from a 38-calibre revolver. She was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where Dr. Jones said last night the bullet had not been located and that her condition was serious.

Following an investigation Detective Lennon arrested Salvatore Cengliaro, nineteen years old, a barber, No. 528 East Fourteenth Street, and Frank Mangano, thirty-four, a barger, No. 515 East Fourteenth Street. Cengliaro was locked up at Police Headquarters charged with being a suspicious person and Mangano with carrying a concealed weapon. On Mangano was found a 38-calibre revolver with one exploded shell. Both denied knowledge of the shooting.

George Miller, thirteen, No. 532 East Fourteenth Street, told Detective Lennon that he saw Cengliaro fire a shot at another man, after which the girl dropped to the ground. According to Frank Mangano, thirteen, son of one of the prisoners, a man met his father on the street and fired a shot at him. The elder Mangano, his son said, wrested the revolver from the assailant and shot at him. Lennon found the elder Mangano on the roof of No. 530 East Fourteenth Street.

Fall Suits Have Their Initial Showing

An Impressive Display of Smart New Models for Women and Misses Now Featured

They are fresh from the workrooms of high-grade manufacturers---a beautiful and impressive showing. Many new style features are represented. Narrow skirts and short jackets are the latest note. Some have the skirts banded---an extremely modish effect.

Materials comprise rough textures that are serviceable and effective, as well as fine cloths in exquisite draping qualities. Colourings are deep and rich, quite different from the gayer and less becoming tones of last season. In the more dressy models trimmings are elaborate and beautiful.

These suits are going to take with women who like stylish clothing. Women who understand quality will appreciate the fineness of materials and trimmings. We have been most exacting in our requirements with manufacturers this season. The result is finer suits for our customers. Every little detail measures up to the most exacting standard.

Yet they are not expensive—quite the contrary. They range from $15.00 to $40.00

and all are exceptionally fine values at the prices.

THE "AL FRESCO" SOCIAL WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Most Enjoyable Under the Auspices of Helping Hand Bible Class of Park Street Baptist Church---Speeches, Song, Football Game, Boiled Corn and Other Attractions.

A very enjoyable evening was experienced last night by a large number of people on the lawn of Mr. Kidd's residence on the east bank of the river at McMartinville. The outing was under the auspices of the Helping Hand Bible Class of the Park street Baptist church. The pastor, Rev. W. C. Riddiford, expressed his approval of the excellent way in which all the arrangements had been carried out. The only detail which failed, was that of transporting the people across the river. This, it is well to explain, was no fault of the committee. The river was to blame. The water was not high enough to allow the launches to land on the east side, as the weeds got around the propeller. However, the water had risen somewhat during the time the entertainment was going on and a launch was in waiting for the people on the homeward trip. A number, however, came across in the punts, preferably to waiting their turn to go in the launch.

The sports of the evening were opened by a game of football, which was warmly contested between the Coldsprings and the Park street Athletic Club teams. The result was a tie, 1-1. The line-up was as follows:

Coldsprings.

Backs—Messrs. Bishop and Rew.
Half Backs—E. Mahood, McMartin and Mahood.
Forwards—Williams, Stinson, Spears Wilson and Kidd.

Park Street.

Goal—Kitney.
Right Back—Gribbs.
Left Back—Brown.
Centre—Elliott.
Inside Right—G. Biddle.
Outside Right—Follis.
Inside Left—Peters.
Outside Left—Barrett.
Left Full Back—Braun.
Forward—Frank Kitney.

The game came off about 6.30 and was watched by those present, with considerable interest, however, the greater part of the crowd did not arrive until between seven and seven-thirty.

The events of the evening consisted of speeches, delivered by Rev. Mr. Riddiford, acting chairman, Hon. J. R. Stratton and others.

A sacred song, entitled, "Steal Away to Jesus," and another to the tune of "Annie Laurie," was rendered by a quintette, consisting of the following: Messrs. Miller, Moore, Green, Kennedy and Trenter. The singing was one of the principal features and was greatly enjoyed by all.

Hon. Mr. Stratton addressed the gathering, devoting his remarks principally to his early life, recalling the days when he lived on the farm, and especially when he lived in Ashburnham. He dwelt at some length on his political career and recalled many events which occurred therein. He said that in political life, the people must stick together, there must be unity to make things progress as they should. It was just the same in a church, if the congregation would stick together and work in unity, they would progress, and if they failed to do this, they would not prosper.

Mr. Stratton remarked that he always liked to have the ladies on his side. He said that he felt sure of winning when the ladies favoured him, but when they were against him, he felt he had a small chance of success.

He expressed his pleasure at the opportunity of being present and joining with them in their entertainment. He congratulated them on the success of the evening and wished them all possible success.

Rev. Mr. Riddiford, Mr. H. H. Goodwin, president of the Bible Class, Messrs. Kempt and Chas. Green made short speeches referring to the success of the evening.

Ice cream, chocolates and other refreshments were served. The corn was not roasted but boiled in a way that proved palatable to all.

Last, but not least of the many pleasant events of the evening was a gramaphone selection, which was enjoyed by all. The lawn, around which seats were placed, was lighted by Chinese lanterns, the effect of which was most pleasing.

On the whole, the event was one of the most enjoyable of its kind that has been held this season and the efforts of the pastor and committee of the Park street church, who deserve great credit, were crowned with complete success.

WAS CALLED TO DOOR THEN SHOT TO DEATH

Bartender Killed in Saloon and Man He Recently Wounded is Arrested---Police Declare Alleged Slayer Made Threats That He'd Be Avenged.

Special to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, AUG. 30.—William Lennon fell dead with two bullets in his heart yesterday, and his life is said by the police to have been the price set by his alleged assailant for a shooting last May, as a result of which George Gallagher, alias "Red," lay close to death for several weeks in Roosevelt Hospital.

Gallagher, who is twenty-nine years old and lives at No. 428 West Thirty-seventh street, is a prisoner in the Tombs, held without bail, and with him is Martin Brown, of No. 508 West Thirty-ninth street, held similarly.

The arrest of the prisoners was due to information furnished to the police by Mrs. Mary Hanlon, of No. 549 West Forty-fifth street, who said she was looking out of her window at the time of the shooting and saw a man she recognized as Gallagher, with another man run out of the place where the shooting occurred, with a revolver in his hand.

Lennon was a barkeeper for Patrick Gilmartin in the saloon at No. 551 West Forty-fifth street. He was on duty there early yesterday morning, when there was a rap on the side door entrance; in the vestibule of the building. The door was fastened with a chain, which permitted of it being opened about three inches. In an upper panel of the door was a peep hole, not much larger around than a silver dollar; covered by a swinging disk of wood on the inside.

Lennon, according to witnesses, swung the disk aside and was about to drop the chain fastening when two shots rang out in quick succession, and he fell to the floor. Both bullets had pierced his heart, it was announced by Dr. Wereheim, of Flower Hospital, who responded to the call for an ambulance.

Mrs. Hanlon was sitting at the window of her home, a few doors away, when she heard the shots and looked out. She saw two men run down the street and declared one of them was Gallagher. She yelled "Police" and Policeman Glynn, of the West Forty-seventh street station, responded. When he entered the place he found Lennon lying on the floor with three men around him. They said they were Daniel Smith of No. 551 West Forty-fourth street; Simon Fitzsimmons, of 881 Tenth avenue, and Thomas Gilmartin, of No. 602 Eleventh avenue, a brother of the proprietor of the saloon. They were sent to the House of Detention as material witnesses in default of $1,000 bail each.

They said all they knew about the affair was that they heard Lennon's name called out from the vestibule, saw him go to open the door and saw him fall after the two shots had been fired.

Policeman Carette, McHale and Murphy were assigned to the case, and half an hour later found Gallagher and Brown at Thirty-fourth street and Tenth avenue. Gallagher denied all knowledge of the shooting.

"I didn't shoot him, but he shot me in the stomach last May," said Gallagher, refering to Lennon.

The police say they have witnesses who will testify that Gallagher boasted recently that he would end Lennon's life within a month. Lennon was thirty-two years old, and lived at No. 552 West Twenty-sixth street.

Coroner Hellenstein viewed the body and ordered its removal to the morgue.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

I wonder if most men realize that the girl they see and the girl that girl's feminine friends see is almost always an entirely different person.

I often think of that when I see a group of girls transformed by the coming of a man among them.

It needn't be a man they care about particularly or even a young man—just a man.

Of course I realize that this isn't any more a conscious and premeditated change than the sunflowers turning toward the sun is conscious or premeditated.

But it's just as inevitable.

Some of the girls change for the better and some for the worse.

I know one girl whom masculine society changes something as the sun's coming out of the clouds changes the aspect of the ocean. That is, it brightens her up, makes her more delightful, makes her sparkle.

I know another who is a nice charming girl among girls, but who becomes so painfully affected the moment a man heaves in sight that you would scarcely know her for the same person.

And I know a third—one of the very nicest of all the women I know, by the way—who fancies men do not like her and who consequently makes it unlikely that they will, by being stiff and prickly and absolutely different from her nice, jolly, friendly, normal self, whenever a man appears.

Oftentimes I wish with all my heart that some man could see the girl he is inclined to be interested in, as she is with other girls—sometimes as a warning, sometimes as an incentive.

If it were possible for lovers to borrow the invisible mantle of the old fairy tales and go into their beloved's homes and see them as they are with their families and as they are with their girl friends there would be more happy marriages.

Of course this is a confession, and of course many of my sex will deny it indignantly—at least in so far as they personally are concerned.

But don't believe them—you masculine readers—because it's almost invariably true.

And it is not meant as an accusation against or an aspersion upon my sex either—merely as a statement of a fact, a voicing of a law of nature which I thought some men, and even some women might not realize.

By the way, can it be there is a companion law?

Are you men also entirely different creatures among yourselves?

I wonder.

"DONT SCREAM" SAID BURGLAR TO WOMAN

She Quietly Watched the Impudent Intruder as He Stole All Her Jewellery.

GOT CLEAR AWAY

Special to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—If you dream there is a burglar in the house and wake up and find him approaching your bed, don't scream.

This is the advice of Mrs. Frank Nepert of No. 968 Simpson Street, the Bronx. She has had this experience and is sure it is best to remain quiet.

A robber took a gold watch and two diamond pins from her bureau drawer early yesterday morning, right before her eyes, but he cautioned her not to yell, so she sat up in bed and watched him steal her jewellery.

"If you move or make any outcry I will kill you," warned the burglar.

"And what do you expect me to do?" inquired Mrs. Nepert. "Am I to watch you rob me?"

"Hush; remember the warning," advised the man.

Mrs. Nepert remained quiet.

Then while the burglar worked Mrs. Nepert calmly waited his departure. When he was gone she decided it was time to scream, and she screamed at the top of her voice.

There are two detectives living in the house, but neither of them heard her once. John J. Fitzpatrick's dog "Bob" was asleep in the hall. He heard her and barked. His master rushed into the hall, where he found Mrs. Nepert trembling from fright.

When it was daylight she appeared at the Bronx Detective Bureau and told her story. Detectives Buddemeyer and Quick were assigned to the case.

Mrs. Nepert's house was dark last night. Neighbors said she was stopping with friends. Her husband, who is a clerk in a seaside hotel, has not been home for several days. Mrs. Nepert declares that she, too, will remain away until he again takes up his abode in Simpson Street.

BORN A THIEF GIRL CANNOT HELP STEALING

Hypnotic Suggestion Has Failed to Eradicate Taint From the Mind of Sixteen-Year-Old Girl---People Have Vainly Sought Her Reform.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Almost baby-like in placidity of face, her eyes beaming with a convincing appearance of innocence, sixteen-year-old Mary O'Brien calmly admitted in the Morrisania Court yesterday that as far back as she could remember she had been a thief by instinct. Her mother said Mary had been stealing since she was seven years old.

For several months this year her case puzzled physicians who tried to cure her of kleptomania under hypnotic treatment. Several years of discipline in the Catholic Protectory had come to naught and two wealthy women paid for the treatment in the Vanderbilt Clinic. But hypnotic suggestion proved impotent to check the girl's seemingly incurable mania. Now, just past the age at which she could be returned to the reformatory, she faces the prospect of the harsher life of a woman's prison.

NO MINE AND THINE SENSE

"I simply can't help stealing," she said yesterday. "I never can get it into my head that it is wrong." All who know her agree that she is correct—self-diagnosis of her mental state.

The girl was arrested Friday night after three attempts had been made to set fire to the house of Thomas McQuaid, probation officer of the Morrisania Court, in the last of many futile efforts to reform her. The girl was doing housework for Miss McQuaid and her brother's family. Though suspected of the attempted arson, she was discharged only with being incorrigible, as Miss McQuaid still pitied her. Magistrate Krotel held Mary until to-morrow for examination.

Mrs. Philip Schuyler, widow of Gen. Schuyler, was one of the two women who took an interest in the girl. The other was Miss M. E. Bell. Both live in Ardsley, N.Y.

Mary's mother, Mrs. Esther Hession, of No. 2,768 Third Avenue, said yesterday that Mrs. Schuyler was the only employer who hadn't discharged Mary for pilfering.

HOPE OF REFORM VAIN

"When those wealthy women took an interest in my daughter's strange case I thought that something perhaps would be done to save her and me from more disgrace, but the hypnotic treatment the doctors gave her failed," said the mother sadly. "For a while they thought they were curing her. Three doctors treated Mary. One of them told me her sense of right and wrong about property had never developed. She was just a baby in that way, he said.

"Miss Bell used to take Mary to New York from Ardsley. I was never there when she got the hypnotic treatment, but she told me they'd hold what she called a 'magic ball' in front of her eyes until she fell asleep. She'd stay asleep a long time—hours, she thought. When she woke up she'd feel the thought they gave her when she was in the trance and she could see it was wrong to steal.

"She might have been cured if the treatment had been kept up a while longer, but a short while ago I had to leave my husband, Mary's stepfather, who is gardener for Miss Helen Gould, and I moved back to my old home in Fordham. I brought Mary with me, and though the good people who had tried to save her were willing to keep on paying for the treatment, the parish priest here and a charity society persuaded me that hypnotism could do Mary no good.

"There was only one place that Mary worked where she did not get discharged for stealing. That was at Mrs. Schuyler's.

"Mary has stolen ever since she was seven years old. She used to steal from other little girls at school, and was often in trouble with her teachers. Except for that she was like any other girl. Her mania for stealing grew worse as she grew older. She was continually getting into trouble for taking things from the neighbors, so I put her into a home.

"I first had her sent to St. Agatha's Home at Nemuet, N.Y., but she had been there only a week or two before she stole enough money to pay her fare back to this city. She didn't come home, but went to some friends of mine. We decided to let her live with them, but she began to steal from them at once. The sisters refused to take her back to St. Agatha's, and I went to Magistrate Wyatt in May, 1905, when she was eleven years old, and had her committed to the Catholic Protectory.

"After she'd been there a year I got her out on parole. I soon found out she'd not been cured. She stole money from me and gave me the old reason—she could not help it. I had her sent back to the Protectory, this time for three years. She was paroled the last time Aug. 16, 1909.

"I believed she was cured for good and felt more certain of it when she worked for Mrs. Schuyler awhile without stealing anything. Then I got her a place as nurse maid with Mrs. William Stockwell in Irvington. She had not been working there long before Mrs. Stockwell began to miss change from her purse. She had to discharge Mary. Then my girl went to work for a Mrs. Hayden in Marion Street, Fordham, but she stayed there only a week or two. It was the same story. She was a good worker and kind to the children, but she would steal.

"Two weeks ago she had got so disobedient and was stealing so frequently from me that I went to court. The Magistrate put her in charge of Miss McQuaid, who took her to her home to work for $8 a month. Then this arrest came. I can't help her. I've done everything I can."

Miss McQuaid said in court that several times she had caught Mary taking money from the pockets of members of the family, but it was not until after the attempts to set fire to the house on Friday night that she determined to have the girl arrested.

A WOMAN MADE HAPPY

"I could scarcely get about the house to attend to my work and felt miserable nearly all the time," writes Mrs. Alex. Buchanan, Island Brook, Que. "After using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food my system is wonderfully built up. There is no further trouble from dizzy spells and stomach weakness; and with health and strength restored life has a new pleasure for me."

TORONTO'S RUNAWAY GAME WITH GREYS

TORONTO, AUG. 31.—One can't expect a squirrel to stay on the ground. Just because Providence took the first game in a shut-out argument there was no reason to suppose that they would take them all. The merciless lambasting to which three of the Grey pitchers were subjected yesterday is proof.

Jimmy Collins doubtless figured that after Baberich, turned back by the Boston Americans, had beaten the Leafs with eleven hits, which, however, did not yield a run, Sline would be the proper card yesterday. Sline appears to be a stretch runner. He has been pitching excellent ball of late and there was not any too much confidence in the stand and on the bench when it was announced that he would be the opposing figure. He was punched for six hits and seven runs in two rounds, when it was decided that he had had enough. Two recruit pitchers, Foley and Dickenshead, tried to stop the racket, but the Leafs kept right on slamming them as they did Sline. Fifteen hits, including triples and doubles, were the portion of the Kelley Krew.

It was fitting that the engaging-mannered Mr. Rudolph should be selected to work in the presence of the fair fanettes, it being ladies' day. The opinion was very generally expressed that it was "just too mean for anything" that Dick should have been hit in the pitching arm in the eighth innings and compelled to retire. There was no dearth of high-pitched feminine rooters when those fifteen Toronto runs were galloping around the beaten path. Rudolph hit a batter in the second inning and Peterson hit an easy fly ball which Shaw lost in the sun. Al. turned his back on it and it went for a two-base hit, scoring the first Grey run. A double and three singles got another pair in the third inning, the only one in which Dick was hit at all effectively. Vaughn put in a boot in the eighth and it was followed by a double for the fourth run. McGinley twirled the last round and merely lobbed the ball up to the batters, for the score was 15 to 4 when he went in. The Greys got two runs off Jim's delivery.

WEDDING BELLS

M'ARTHUR—BENNETT.

(Ottawa Citizen)

One of the prettiest of home weddings of the season took place Wednesday noon at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Henry Bennett, Daly avenue, formerly of Peterborough, when her youngest daughter, Vivian Rose, became the bride of James Mitchell MacArthur, of Winnipeg, Man.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thos. Garratt, B.A., in the absence of Rev. A. W. MacKay, and took place in the drawing room, which was prettily decorated with pink and white asters.

Mr. and Mrs. MacArthur left on a honeymoon trip of two weeks and will later reside in Winnipeg. The popular little bride has many friends in the city who will wish her much happiness in her new life.

KING—McGUIRE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, this morning at 9.30, when Miss Bridget McGuire, a popular school teacher, of Harvey, and Mr. Irwin E. King, of Peterborough, were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick.

The bride was handsomely attired in a net covered costume of white silk, and wore a bridal veil trimmed with orange blossoms and carried a beautiful bouquet of carnations and lilies. She entered the church to the strains of the wedding march, assisted by the bridesmaid, Miss Elizabeth M'Guire, who looked charming in a costume of the same color and material as that of the bride.

The groom was attended by Mr. Henry Clark, of Ennismore.

The young couple were made the recipients of many handsome and costly presents, showing the high esteem in which they were held. One present, in particular, was from the children of the school of which Miss McGuire was teacher, and showed how she was esteemed by them.

After the ceremony the happy young couple drove to Peterborough, where they left by the 5.30 G.T.R. train for Midland and points on the Georgian Bay, the bride being attired in an appropriate travelling suit of green broadcloth with hat to match.

Upon their return they will reside in this city.

They were characterized as especially troublesome and while progressive their methods were regrettable.

NEPHEW OF LOCAL MAN KILLED WHILE DIVING

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I noticed in your issue of Tuesday, Aug. 30th, an item regarding the dangers of diving. Now, I have spent several years in training and practising diving in all its branches, until I mastered it, my highest dive being from a height of 63 feet into 9 ft. 3 in. of water. Quite simple, when you know how to do it. In diving, one should curve the body and slightly raise the head the moment one touches the water, in order to bring one to the surface quickly. Last week I received a letter from my sister in the Old Country, informing me of the sad and sudden death of my nephew, whilst diving. The enclosed cutting is from the London Daily News, and I trust it may be a warning to swimmers and bathers, to be doubly careful when diving. Thanking you for space, I am, sir,

Yours obediently,
ERNEST THOMPSON,
153 Westcott street, Aug. 31.

The clipping is as follows:

"A distressing fatality occurred at the open-air baths at Newington Hill, yesterday morning. Amongst the bathers was Mr. Sydney Cooper Thompson, a well-known tradesman, with a friend named Turner. He was diving with his hands pressed to his legs, from a platform five feet high into four feet, nine inches of water, and following one such dive he rose to the surface and then sank. He was gotten out dead. Medical examination showed that he had dislocated his neck, having, presumably, struck the bottom with his head."

Do You Realize the Advantages of Concrete?
This Book Tells How Concrete Aids Farmers.
THE rising price of lumber has compelled the farmer to look for a suitable substitute.
Concrete, because of its cheapness, durability and the readiness with which it can be used for every farm purpose, has proven itself to be cheaper than lumber and far more durable. Our Free Book—
"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete" shows the farmer how he can do his own work without the aid of skilled mechanics. It demonstrates the economy of Concrete construction as compared with lumber, brick or stone.
It shows how Concrete can be used to advantage on the farm in the construction of almost every practical utility.
Send for this book to-day. You'll find it intensely interesting, even if you don't intend to build for a while. It contains much useful information that will put you in the way of saving money. Among the subjects treated are: Barns, Dairies, Fence Posts, Feeding Floors, Hitching Posts, Root Cellars, Silos, Stables, Stairs, Stalls, Troughs, Walks, Well Curbs, and so forth.
REMEMBER.—This book is yours—a postal will bring it promptly. Write now.
